The Dover Road by A. A. Milne, was the presentation on Wednesday evening in the Westerly Public library. It was the monthly offering of the program committee, with Miss Adele Martin as chairman.

The members and friends present found great pleasure in the reading of this cleverly written and subtle Milne play.

A summarization of the first and third acts was read appreciatively by Miss Katherine Foster, with impersonations of the second act being given by the following club members: Latimer, Archie Bamford; Anne, Miss Ruth Wilcox; Leonard, Joel Sherman; Eustasia, Mrs. Isaac Smith; Nicholas, Louise Coy; Dominick, Miles Brennan.

The next meeting of the players will be on Wednesday, Dec. 7, and will be in charge of Miss Jennie R. Stanton, chairman of the reading and study of plays committee.

Philip Leibovits left Westerly Thursday morning for a business visit in Boston.

Dr. F. L. Blair returned to Providence from a Westerly visit Thursday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. Job Thorp return to their Westerly home this week end from an extended visit with Mr. Thorp's daughter in Palmira, N. Y.

At the Dardone block, corner of Canal and High streets, the granite sills have been set and window frames are in place for the second story.

Numerous parties from Westerly and vicinity journey nightly to the beaches in search of whiting which come up on the beach with frosty weather at this time of the year.

Westerly fishermen, Dr. T. J. Connors, and William W. Pike, visited Wequetequock waters early Thursday morning to "bob" for smelt.

Rev. Clayton A. Burdick, D. D., pastor of the Pawcatuck Seventh-day Baptist church will deliver the Thanksgiving sermon at the Baptist church in North Stonington on Sunday morning, at the joint meeting of the Baptist and Congregational churches.

When Fathers Wore Whiskers and Mothers Had Long Curls

One fine day, nearly ninety years ago, a great thing happened in Norwich. A man decided to establish a business where quality and honesty of product reigned supreme. That was long before present day advertising was thought of and this man had to let his products advertise for him. But what an ideal way to inspire confidence.

Perhaps in the beginning the Good Will toward The Edward Chappell Co. was inspired mainly by sentiment for a man who stood out for quality.

But nearly 90 years have passed, and each passing year has raised this company higher and higher with those who appreciate quality, even in such products as coal, lumber and building supplies.

People deal with us today as they did in 1837—without any highpowered salesmanship — without any extra inducements. Quality of product, the best that can be obtained is the lure. When sterling value is at stake, you will inevitably follow as the crowd has for nearly a century.

THE EDWARD·CHAPPELL·CO.
ESTABLISHED 1837
NORWICH, CONN. Telephone 34

WHAT WE SELL

COAL—Wholesale and retail. In stock—all sizes anthracite coal in hard and medium burning. Genuine Blacksmith Coal. Pennsylvania and New River Bituminous Coal. Wholesale shipments on any of the above.

LUMBER—Wholesale and retail. A complete line of lumber and building materials. Framing, Boarding, Shingles and Siding, Oak, Maple, Yellow Pine and Spruce Flooring, Windows, Doors, and Stone Trim. Brick, Lime, Cement and Mason's Supplies, Nails, Upson Board, Celotex, Roofing Paper.

NOANK

A farewell party was given Howard Brown by the Durham club Wednesday evening. He is to leave soon for California by working his way by boat or the highway, any way to reach the golden state. Mr. Brown was in the great hurricane in the south and lost all his mason's tools; so the club president, Edgar Ashby in behalf of the members presented him a traveling bag. He thanked them for the gift and told them he would send a post card from each place. If he cannot find any work he will try the movies and become an actor. He has appeared in different plays about here and has had the crowd laughing all the time. Jake's orchestra played for dancing and the refreshments served included punch.

Mrs. John Robertson is visiting relatives in Newark, N. J., for a week.

Walter McDonald is employed as molder at the Sea Sled Co. in West Mystic.

Schooner William Morse, Capt. Henry Langworthy, came into Fulton market, N. Y., from the gulf stream after two weeks' fishing trip, with a catch of 30,000 pounds of tile fish. The weather was bad and they could not fish for four days. In order to get the tile fish they trawl for them and one fish weighed from 20 to 30 pounds. Capt. Langworthy is a Noank man and has followed the water since a boy. He has a crew of 13 men. The schooner was re-built at the local shipyard a year ago.

Mrs. Hope Peterson of this village sent to her mother-in-law in Norway a Norwich Bulletin that is 3,500 miles from New York, making from Noank to that country nearly 3,700 miles, quite a way to send a newspaper. A story about her son, Thomas Peterson, was in that paper, which she wanted to keep; it had the sad news about his death.

Mason Langworthy spent a day in Voluntown this week, hunting.

George McDonald has returned from a visit in Montville.

A Noank boy, Wilfred Ellis, aged 13, son of William Ellis, made his first public appearance in Odd Fellows' hall, Mystic, Thursday evening, when a piano recital was given by the pupils of Mrs. Mildred Chapman Kelgwin. Miss Edna Rose, well known violinist, was the soloist. Wilfred Ellis who has been taking lessons about eight months played a waltz. Many of his friends went to Mystic to hear him.

Mrs. Arthur Bouchard and daughter, Jane, have gone to Boston to spend several months.

Noank Crushers football team is practicing hard for the game with Jewett City in that borough Sunday. Wednesday night, under an arc light, Coach Bennett had them out for over an hour. One new man, an ex-college player, from St. Luke's college, in St. Louis, will be seen at right guard. He is a fast runner and sure can hold on the line and Big Mike Fassi is going to be on the line half of the game so the Jewett City boys will have their hands full for this game. The Crushers' new star quarterback, Ralph McDonald, will be there, after being laid up with a bad leg for a few weeks.

Selectman Whaley, Latham and Kretzer of the town at Groton took in Noank Wednesday.

The Reliance, Capt. Grover Eldredge came in from Nantucket fishing ground Monday with a poor catch, only getting some cod. Capt. Eldredge said it was the worst trip he has had in a long while; he thinks the fish have gone on a strike near Nantucket shore, or gone to parts unknown. The boat put aboard supplies and ice and will leave for George Banks to be gone two weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. Orrin Oles have returned from Hartford.

Esther McCaw is in Ashaway for a few days' visit with relatives.

John Lowggins is working at the shipyard as painter.

No modern way until now has matched the result of the flavor producing earthen oven called the "bean hole," an old fashioned custom of baking beans out-of-doors in the Maine woods. Sealed tightly in a big iron bean pot, buried under a heaping pile of dying embers, baked slowly for 12 hours—this method, still followed in northwood's logging camps, develops the finest bean flavor known.

THE EVENTIDE

The dawn I do not like so well because the dawn is cold,
There are no calls along the street, no little hands to hold,
No children digging holes in yards or weaving clover chains,
Nor romping in red bathing suits behind the flashing rains;
No babies plucking roses, lifting them and calling "'ook!"
Not one sprawled on a gallery deep in a picture book;
So, while the dawn is beautiful, it is not quite complete;
I like the sunset better with the children in the street.

I like the sunset better, like the pattering of feet;
I love to lift a baby in my arms and call it sweet;
I love the dawn-wet roses, but the children are more fair
As they run down the street, the sunset glowing on their hair,
Their eyes like morning glories; and their hailing calls to me
Hold something I have never found in costly minstrelsy.
The dawn is very beautiful, it cannot be denied,
But childish calls and baby hands make sweet the eventide.

—Judd Mortimer Lewis, in Houston Post-Dispatch.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Broadway Theater

A rope in the hands of Frank Shields is a living thing. He is an expert with the lariat and, as the opening Keith-Albee stage offering at the Broadway theater yesterday, was a hit. His chats are very humorous.

The lovers of splendid singing would be giving themselves a treat to hear the Neapolitan Duo in Italian opera and popular songs. Splendid voices and appealing manner are blended perfectly.

Walter Baldwin and Geraldine Blair assisted by Don Harrington have a real comedy offering in Hay! Hay! It is bright, breezy and witty all at the same time.

Immigrant Sandy and Joe Kirk in Wearing Off the Green are of course comedians first and last and succeed in retaining that title.

The Cycling Brunettes close the fine stage bill with their latest novelty sensation Defying Gravity.

The current screen attraction is a smashing melodrama of railroad life, is The Midnight Flyer and lovers of action pictures, with a vivid background can ill afford to miss it. This latest F. B. O. attraction is based on two stories by Arthur Guy Empey, and the material which was given to J. Grubb Alexander in these tales was evidently rich in incident and drama, to judge from the completed product. It surges across the screen with startling speed, gathering momentum as it goes until it winds up in a climax that fairly whistles with thrills. The leap from the freight engine to the cab of the runaway special, the fight in the lurching locomotive, and a head on collision are a few of the incidents that make The Midnight Flyer stand out above any other railroad drama.

Palace Theater

Examine screen players like to act a vampire role. For one thing it gives them a chance to display, in minutes, the inhibited side of their nature. And then vampire roles are always "showy." They are usually easier to act than a straight" role because the effects are aimed through broader strokes. Such, at least, is the opinion Mabel Julienne Scott, the fascinating, dark eyed Vixen of the S[illegible] production, A Woman's Heart, which is the current attraction at the Palace theater. It was directed by Phil Rosen. Other members of the cast are Enid Bennett, Grace Whitman, Edward E[illegible], Lois Boyd, and Louis Payne.

"W[illegible] are strangely inhibited creatures, the most part, keeping careful[illegible] the more unpleasant aspects [illegible]ir nature. Playing a vampire [illegible]ves them an opportunity to [illegible] hidden qualities an airing. [illegible] likes to feel that she could be quite devilish, if she wanted to, just as does the average man. She does not often dare to try to prove it in real life, but if the screen role calls for such an exhibition of her elemental nature she is inclined to revel in it. I have actually thoroughly enjoyed acting the part of Vixen in A Woman's Heart. There are such women, and scraps of her nature may be found in all women."

Palace Theater

When one is half French, half German, and lives within the German lines on soil that was taken from the French in 1871, which side should one take in time of war? This is one of the many emotional problems that confront Jetta Goudal as the heroine in her first starring vehicle, Her Man o' War.

The fact that the picture is freely spiced with comedy, some of which is supplied by the star herself, only enhances the powerful drama of the suspenseful scenes, the poignancy of the emotional storms the little heroine goes through.

This trait is capitalized in Her Man o' War, which was adapted by Jeanie MacPherson and Garret Fort from a story by Fred Jackson. The heroine is not only torn between love of Germany, for which her father sacrificed his life, and her mother's native France, but an American doughboy, portrayed by William Boyd, steals her heart. Through scenes of comedy and thrills the picture rises steadily to a smashing crescendo and a happy conclusion.

Other players in the supporting cast are Grace Darmond, Robert Ereson Frank Reicher, Jimmie Adams, Kay Deslys and Junior Coghlan. Frank Urson directed.

Breed Theater

The Waltz Dream, the UFA special production, has repeated its success in Paris, London, Berlin and other continental capitals, and which has charmed New York with the delightful entertaining qualities of the production, comes to the Breed Sunday. The story and music are drawn from Oscar Strauss' famous operetta of the same name, and the very lightness and essence of musical comedy have been recaptured for the screen.

Ludwig Berger directed The Waltz Dream, and the leading players, Mady Christians, Willy Fritsch and Xenia Desni, play the leading roles.

Complete official motion pictures of the Armistice day parade will be shown all next week, commencing Sunday.

"Men of Purpose"

How soon memories grow dim and faint! There was a World war. That we remember. But on the eve of the seventh anniversary of the war's conclusion how much do we remember of the terrible hardships it laid upon soldiers in the field and the burdens of sorrow it made women carry?

Like a slap in the face, "Men of Purpose" awakens the memory of he who sees it and brings back with shocking force recollections of a struggle which cost 9,000,000 human lives and untold treasure.

The Veterans of Foreign Wars of Norwich are showing "Men of Purpose" at the Breed theatre this week. "Men of Purpose" is a review of the war on all fronts and in all theatres made from official film taken not only by the allies but by the Germans as well.

The amazing thing about the picture is the fact that it does give a very fair idea of the progress of the war from the shooting of Archduke Ferdinand, June 28, 1914 to its close with the signing of the armistice. It claims only one "made up" scene, that of the assassination of the archduke. The rest is battle film, shifting from a review of the goose-stepping German troops before the kaiser, to Allenby at Palestine, England's 100,000 "contemptibles" taking their place on the western front, the Italians crossing the Alps on skis and the arrival of the Yanks.

The pictures weaves the war into a connected story and as such should have a real educational value, illustrating what can be taught in books.

Mrs. Stanhope—Harry runs our car almost day and night.

Mrs. Cassingham—O, I wouldn't think of letting our Clifford run the car. He might get a flat tire and his lungs are so weak I'm afraid he'd never get it blown up again.—American Legion Monthly.

Robert was sitting listlessly in class, chewing gum. He was reclining on the back of his spine, and as he sat in the front seat, his feet reached out almost to the teacher's desk. Suddenly the teacher exclaimed angrily: "Robert! Take that gum out of your mouth and put your feet in-"—Washington Star.

Paying the highest price in the world for matches, Peruvians are making possible the irrigation work that will transform the barren pampas near Pimentel into one of the most fruitful regions of agricultural land in the world. Irrigation works have been under construction for two years and Americans who are supervising them expect that the whole project will be finished in three years more. The 85,000 hectares of most valuable land, with roads that will allow easy transportation to markets, will be available to most Peruvians and foreigners. The government obtains the necessary funds by a monopoly on matches.

While the main purpose of a vacation is to allow an employe a period of rest as preparation for more strenuous months to follow, many firms seek to make the vacation an incentive for staying on the job, says a writer in Dry Goods Economist. There is considerable variation in vacation systems. In a survey it was found that 16 concerns give two weeks' vacation with pay to workers with a minimum service of from six months to a year. Other concerns extend graduated vacations according to length of service. One large company in Detroit follows a unique policy that gives an employe of six months' service one week with pay; an employe of one to four years' service two weeks with pay; five consecutive years, three weeks with pay, and ten years or more, four weeks with pay. In case an employe has 35 years' service, in addition to his four weeks, he gets a bonus of $50 and with 20 years' service a bonus of $100.

The EDITOR of a Food Journal writes for herself and her staff

"NO suggestion of unpleasant commercial qualities," says the editor of a nationally known food magazine after testing White Rose Bread.

"Compares more favorably with homemade than any other bread we know," declare scores of other teachers and students of cooking who recently made similar tests of this new loaf.

No wonder women everywhere are turning to White Rose Bread. They are delighting in its richer bread flavor, in its deep, flaky, delicious crust (the result of "slow-baking"), in its smooth, even grain. They are finding, too, that this loaf stays fresh longer—yet has a complete absence of "sogginess."

White Rose Bread was perfected with the help of leading food experts—authorities on cooking, on diet and nutrition. They have given their time and experience in order that you might have as fine a loaf of bread as it is possible to make.

Try White Rose Bread today. Notice the difference yourself! White Rose Bread is baked twice each day and rushed to your grocer—always fresh whenever you buy!

STONE WRAPPED IN HANDKERCHIEF FOR ATTEMPTED BREAK AT NEW LONDON

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Nov. 16.—Another bold break was perpetrated early this morning when a jewelry thief attempted to make a big haul at the jewelry store of Morris Mallove at 111 Bank street, the thief smashing a plate glass window, but the hole that was made was not sufficiently large to permit the thief obtaining the loot he had anticipated. The only plunder obtained was an Illinois 17-jewel gold watch, valued at $35. The break it is believed, occurred between 12.30 and 1.30 o'clock. Patrolman William Riordan was making his rounds on the west side of the street at 1.45 o'clock, when he noticed one of the windows at the store entrance smashed and a stone lying beneath the window. Officer Riordan communicated his find at police headquarters and accompanied by Acting Lieutnant James D. Gaffney and Sergeant Patrick Murphy, an investigation was made, but no clues were obtained. The stone used to smash the window had been wrapped with a handkerchief or similar linen so that when forced against the heavy glass that the least possible noise would result and it is also believed that the work of breaking the window was performed while a freight train was passing through the city and but a short distance from the store location, which fact would also prevent the hearing of the breaking of the glass. At the hour it is believed the break occurred, two or more officers were standing on the corner of State and Bank streets, less than two blocks from the location of the robbery. Mr. Mallove was notified of the break, so came to the store and it was after he had inspected the window that it was determined that the watch was the only loot taken. About two months ago a sailor from the United States Coast Guard smashed the window of the pawn shop of Wolf and Lambert, also Bank street and but a short distance from the Mallove store, the sailor grabbing a quantity of cheap jewelry, but was caught almost in his tracks. He is in jail now awaiting presentation in the superior court next January.

FORMER NORWICH MAN HAS VIOLATED PAROLE

(Special to The Bulletin).

NEW LONDON, Nov. 16.—Daniel J. Donovan, formerly of Norwich Town and latterly of Groton, was arrested today by Sergeant Clifford Gorgas, of Groton state police, charged with violation of parole. He is locked up and will be presented in the police court tomorrow morning. Donovan was arrested last February when he negotiated a fraudulent check, passing the worthless paper on the Union Bank and Trust company. He was locked up and when presented in the police court was fined $100 and sentenced to 60 days in jail, but execution of sentence was suspended 60 days. Since that time Donovan, it is claimed, has frequently violated his parole, with the result that he was arrested this morning. Donovan, it is claimed, has served eight years in jails in Rhode Island. He is married and has several children. He has been employed as a laborer's cook.

Donovan is implicated in the robbery of the cigar store of Stephen J. McMullen, 35 Main street, which was broken into Tuesday night and a large quantity of cigarettes and pipes stolen. Implicated with Donovan is John Borkoralsky, 185 North Bank street, who was arrested this afternoon. Confronted with evidences of their guilt, Donovan and Borkoralsky broke down and confessed, even to relating where the hiding place of the major portion of the loot was. Sergeants Nelson Smith and John Cavanaugh went to the Borkoralsky house, where Donovan had been staying at intervals of late and there recovered cartons of cigarettes and pipes.

WARRANT ISSUED THURSDAY FOR SOLDIERS' ARREST

(Special to the Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Nov. 16—Prosecuting Attorney Perry J. Hollandersky this afternoon issued a warrant for the arrest of William Radcliffe and Louis Ouillette, Fort Wright soldiers, who were arrested in Providence yesterday, charged with the theft of an automobile owned by Philip Gottesfeld, 15 Pearl street, Norwich. The men who were returned to Norwich and presented in the city court there this morning are being held for trial in the superior court in bail of $1500 each. Radcliffe and Ouillette are wanted by the New London police for the theft of an automobile in this city, Tuesday night, the car being owned by Russell J. Turner; this they drove to Norwich, where they abandoned it, when the auto became disabled and then stole the Gottesfeld auto. Whether Radcliffe and Ouillette will be tried for both thefts of cars at the next term of the criminal superior court is not known, but such seems probable.

There is a chance for the New London police to do a little detective work in the cruel act of parties who destroyed the life of a white and brown collie and then placed the body of the dog, which was still warm when found, on the door steps at the home of Mrs. Bernard Weiner in Rowe street. Mr. Weiner was an employe at a Bank street garment factory when a strike was attempted there last summer, and he then incurred the ill will of the agitators who came here to promote the strike. He was told at the time that he "ought to die like a dog" as he is of the opinion that the two incidents may be connected. Mr. Weiner did not know the owner of the dog, nor does he realize why the carcass should have been placed at his door. Mrs. Weiner was at home alone last night about 10.30 when the door bell sounded. She responded but found no one at the door. Later the bell again sounded and when Mrs. Weiner responded to it she found the dog's body. Two men were on the sidewalk at that time, but they went away and Mrs. Weiner does not know who they are. She called the police to fathom the mystery.

The dog wore a leather collar, attached to which was a dog license issued at Pawtucket, this year. The dog was sent to Mrs. George Lavoie, who is a sister of the owner. The facts in the hands of the police may lead to the identity of the brutes who killed the dog and may establish whether the strike has any connection with the offense.

An automobile in the Monte Cristo garage became afire, about 5 o'clock this morning. The blazing car was noticed by the watchman of the mill of Palmer Brothers, Washington street. Instead of ringing in an alarm from Box 31, directly in front of the garage and mill, the watchman ran two blocks to Union street pulled the alarm from Box 32, which caused confusion to the firemen. The fire was subdued with chemicals, but not until the automobile had been badly damaged.

It is doubtful whether better police work has ever been done in New London than that being credited to the force at present. There are a few crimes yet to be traced to the persons who committed them, and it is believed this will be accomplished. The relations between the police of this city and Norwich as well as between the members of the state police were never more cordial, something that abolishes jealousies and leads to team work that has accomplished results.

The Bulletin some days ago pointed out that there were some dozen small stores for sale in this city. Today it was disclosed that there is one less business place in the list. The store of A. Watchinsky in Howard street has been attached for about $1,600, and that sum does not represent all that is owed on the place. Mr. Watchinsky was not found by the sheriff who made the attachments, but it is said that he disposed of real estate in this city last week for some $4,500. Whether the two transactions are related no one would venture an opinion, but there are many who have their notions about it. The failure is apt to bring about a new system of credits in New London, in the belief of some who keep track of such matters.

Annie M. Hislop has sold a house and lot, corner of Ledard avenue and Norwood avenue extension, to Florence D. Leatherbee.

Andrew C. Miller has sold to James F. and Margaret Donnelly a house and lot on Briggs street.

Getting Skinnier Every Day

Hollows in Cheeks and Neck Growing Deeper Every Week

Something Must Be Done and Done Right Now — Quick

Tens of thousands of thin, run-down men—yes, and women too—are getting discouraged—are giving up all hope of ever being able to take on flesh and look healthy and strong.

All such people can stop worrying and start to smile and enjoy life right now for McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets which any druggist will tell you all about, is putting flesh on hosts of skinny folks every day.

One woman, tired, weak and discouraged, put on 15 pounds in five weeks and now feels fine.

We all know that Cod Liver Oil is full of vitalizing, flesh producing vitamines, but many people can't take it because of its horrible smell and fishy taste and because it often upsets the stomach.

McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets are so easy to take as candy and if any thin person don't gain at least 5 pounds in 30 days your druggist is authorized give your your money back—and only 60 cents for 60 tablets. Ask Lee & Osgood Co., or any druggist.

Insist on McCoy's, the original and genuine, and bear in mind that for thin, sickly kids they are wonderful—a very sickly child—age 9—gained 12 pounds in 7 months.

Ex-Governor Cox of Ohio Says—

"I make bold to say the legalized loan business is more of a necessity in an industrial community than perhaps a bank, for this reason; it is the poor man, who when he needs money, needs it worst."

In these few words the former Govrenor of Ohio emphasizes the importance of the Industrial Lender to the community. The Loan Companies in your city are rendering an important service by accommodating the man who suddenly needs money and must borrow to meet the emergency. They are conducting a business on business principles, and will gladly explain their methods of lending money.

This is Number Three of a series of messages telling you all about the operation and control of the Loan Business.

ENGINEER A. W. BRICKLEY DIES AT WEST MYSTIC

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, Nov. 16—Albert W. Brickley, 69, locomotive engineer in the employ of the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad, formerly residing at 887 Bank street, died this morning at the residence of his daughter, Mrs. William E. Burrows, Noank road, West Mystic. Besides Mrs. Burrows, Mr. Brickley is survived by a daughter, Mrs. John C. Lapointe of this city. He was a member of Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers and Union lodge, A. F. & A. M. Mr. Brickley had been ill about six months and at the beginning of his illness he was retired by the railroad. Mr. Brickley had been at the home of his daughter about two months and because of his condition he was forced to remain in West Mystic. Mr. Brickley entered the employ of the railroad when he was but 15, being employed as a water boy. He duly became an engineer and has been at the throttle of both passenger and freight trains. His last assignment was as engineer of the "pusher," an immense freight train locomotive that assisted east-bound trains over the Thames river bridge.

Arthur Falcone and Miss Grace Marie Farina were married at 9 o'clock this morning at St. Mary's Star of the Sea church by Rev. William J. Fox, pastor of Sacred Heart church, Groton. Vincent Farina and Miss Augustina Farina, brother and sister of the bride, respectively, were the attendants. After a wedding trip, Mr. and Mrs. Falcone will reside at 46 Frost street.

Mrs. William Thompson and infant son, of 151 Main street and Miss Gertrude Perry, 15 Starr street, patients at Lawrence Memorial Associated hospital, were dismissed today.

Members of Seaside council, No. 17, Knights of Columbus, were hosts at a bridge party at the club house in Huntington street last night. There were 40 tables in play, prizes being won by Harry M. Kennedy and Mrs. John N. Leverone. A social session followed the play. Frank Le Blanc was chairman of the committee in charge. The entertainment committee of Seaside council has completed plans to entertain their young women friends at the club house Nov. 23.

Mrs. J. P. T. Armstrong, who has been ill at her home in Hillside road for many weeks, is recovering.

Farming tools and live stock at

AUCTION

Monday, November 29, at 9:30 o'clock a. m., sharp at the residence and farm of D. N. Medbury, located in the Gary district, so called, in the Town of Pomfret, Conn., just a few rods north of the district schoolhouse, described as follows:

Horses, cattle, vehicles, etc.—10 head of valuable dairy cows in the various stages of milk, fancy Hereford bull nearly two years old, 1 pair of the best team horses in the county, weight 2700 lbs., 1 single horse, weight 1200 lbs., 4 fat pigs, 1 two-horse ice cart with new gear, suitable for a team wagon, 1 one-horse ice cart, 1 first class two-horse express wagon, 1 one-horse express wagon, 1 Democrat wagon, 1 Concord buggy, 1 Fuat buggy, 2 2-horse farm wagons, 2 lip carts with forward wheels, 1 wheel drag, 2 bob sleds, 2 straight side sleds, 1 bob express sleigh, 1 ordinary express sleigh, 1 pleasure sleigh, 1 riding saddle, several sets of double team harnesses, several single work harnesses, several sets of light double driving harnesses, 1 pair of new $24 street blankets, collars, etc.

Farm implements and ice tools—1 new two-horse mower, 1 other mower, 1 hay ladder, 1 steel horse rake, 1 ensilage cutter and carrier, 1 manure spreader, 1 corn harvester and binder, 1 rake grain reaper, 1 Hoover potato digger, 1 sulky plow, 1 new sulky plow, several used plows, 2 new cultivators, 1 right hand Eddy plow, 1 smoothing harrow, 1 new smoothing harrow, 1 new corn planter, 1 Acme harrow, 1 steel land roller, 1 disc harrow, fertiliser drill, 1 barrel spray pump, 1 complete portable sawing rig, 1 corn sheller, 2 Engate seeders, 1 garden seeder, 1 fanning mill, 2 root cutter, ice plow and necessary tools for harvesting ice, also many small tools all useful.

Crops and household goods—400 bus Rhode Island flint corn, 150 bus. of oats, 30 bus. buckwheat, 50 tons of new hay, three acres of corn fodder, etc. Household goods of all kinds including roll top office desk, electric washer, and other attractive articles.

Auctioneers' Notice—Mr. Medbury is one of the pioneer farmers of New England, one of those thrifty, progressive tillers of the soil, having operated the Medbury Homestead since 1880, the recent sale of which has necessitated the dispersal of the above described lot of farming equipment which we consider one of the finest in the New England states. There is positively no apology to be made for any article or items offered in this sale. The condition of each and every one is the very best, in fact many are new.

Terms of sale cash on day of sale. A fine lunch will be served. If stormy next fair day. Sale by order of D. N. Medbury, Pomfret, Conn.

William V. King, chairman of the Columbia Trust company, life member of the Columbia university board of trustees, and president of the Columbia university alumni fund, plans a "Columbia Legion" of alumni to leave one tenth of their fortunes to the university in their wills.

PLAINFIELD

The Lincoln club met in the vestry of the Congregational church on Monday evening. The men of the club were served an excellent chowder supper by Elmer Phillips and his committee, young men of the club waiting on tables. At the meeting, President Cecil L. Butler presided. In the absence of the secretary, Fred Jeffries, Ralph Hopkins acted as secretary pro tem. Following the business session the club enjoyed a musical program consisted of cornet solos by Henry Leach, Robert Bethel of Wauregan at the piano, vocal selections by Mrs. Clifford Struthers.

The speaker of the evening was the Rev. William Williams of Wauregan who gave a very interesting address on his early experiences in the coal mines of Wales. In the address, Mr. Williams gave first hand knowledge of the life and dangers of the miner, giving suggestions helpful in a better understanding and appreciation of the coal industry. He closed his address with a thrilling experience of entombed miners and their rescue. I. Ray Libby of Wauregan, guest of the evening and vice president of the new Men's club of the Wauregan Congregational church from which he brought greetings. James Royle spoke referring to his early experiences in the coal mines in England. William Hall, vice president of the Lincoln club reported on his recent trip to the National grange meeting in Portland, Maine and Rev. George H. Rees of Central Village made a few apt remarks. This was the last regular meeting of the year and recognized as one of the best. The next meeting of the club will be the annual election of officers.

In the recent church bazaar the Lincoln club conducted the country store booth, realizing about $100. The club also put on the last supper netting a good amount for the bazaar.

The Women's club held a meeting in their rooms at the Community house Thursday afternoon. A tasty lunch was served by the hostesses, Mrs. Irving Smith and Mrs. Lotta Dodge.

The Boy Scouts met at the Congregational parsonage Thursday evening.

The guild of the Congregational church will meet with Mrs. George Babcock this (Friday) afternoon.

Mrs. Charles Barber has recovered from the grip.

The M. M. club met with Miss Mary Baldwin Wednesday evening. Whist playing was enjoyed. The first prize was awarded Mrs. Henry Fountaine; second to Mrs. Carl N. Mathewson and consolation to Mrs. Irving Flagg. A tasty lunch was served by the hostess.

Mr. and Mrs. William P. Barstow expect to leave for Mass. soon. They will remain there for the winter.

Frederick S Camp, supt. of elementary education of the state board gave a very helpful address on the teaching of social studies, history and citizenship to the teachers of the towns of Canterbury, Sterling, Lisbon and Voluntown in the Plainfield high school auditorium recently. The number of teachers present by towns follows: Plainfield, 32; Canterbury, 9; Sterling, 8; Lisbon, 3; Voluntown, 4; total, 61.

Cut Foot With Axe.

Arnold Adams of Plainfield who cut his foot with an axe last week is now able to be about with the aid of crutches. Six stitches were taken in the wound.

COLCHESTER

The services of Calvary Episcopal church will be held in the Baptist church Sunday morning at 9 o'clock. The Lord's supper will be commemorated. Rev. T. D. Martin, the rector will officiate.

Charles F. Brown was in Norwich Wednesday.

Henry B. Parks and George F. Brown are in Norwich attending court as jurors.

Dr. A. L. Stebbins has been appointed a deacon of the First Congregational church to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Edwin B. Gillette.

A few from town were in North Westchester Tuesday to attend the funeral of Mrs. Sarah Beers. Mrs. Beers was a former resident of this place. The burial was in Ponemah cemetery, North Westchester.

Charles T. Wilson of Worcester was here Thursday.

Mrs. Charles L. Sharter of North Westchester was calling on friends here Wednesday.

Mrs. Nora Healey of Boston is visiting her sister, Mrs. Charles F. Brown, on Norwich avenue.

William Hyman of Norwich was a caller here Wednesday.

Frederick Rogers of New London was in town Wednesday.

Harry Levine is in New York for a few days in the interests of the Levine & Levine Cloak factory.

Prof. Atwood and several of the high school boys have taken the job of raking off the leaves on the park.

Timothy O'Connell of East Haddam was in town Thursday.

ROCKVILLE

The racoon and chicken supper served by the Loyal Workers Saturday evening in the parish house was attended by a large crowd. Besides those from this vicinity and the neighboring village of Hope Valley people were present from Ashaway, Westerly, Wakefield and Providence, R. I. and New Haven, Conn.

Miss Lucetta Crandall, who fell and injured her hip two weeks ago, is in a critical condition.

Arthur Burdick of New London called on relatives and friends here recently.

Mr. and Mrs. George H. Maxson are staying with J. P. Greene this winter.

Mrs. Annie B. Kenyon and son, Leslie B. Kenyon were recent callers at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George L. Barber.

Mrs. B. L. Kenyon, who has been confined to her home for some time by a cold, is somewhat improved.

A gang of 12 men arrived here Monday from Mass., and have taken up their abode on the second floor of the boarding house for a week or so, while they are digging rhododendrons for nurseries in Massachusetts.

Mrs. Charles P. Palmer of Westerly visited her sister Mrs. B. L. Kenyon, Monday.

THE WEATHER
Conditions

A disturbance that developed over the southern Appalachian region during Wednesday night has moved northeastward to the middle Atlantic states with slowly increasing intensity. High pressure prevails from Quebec southward to Bermuda with centers over northern Saskatchewan, Louisiana and the gulf of Saint Lawrence. The temperature is now much below normal almost generally between the Rocky and the Appalachian mountains.

The indications are for rain in New England Friday. Otherwise generally fair weather will prevail Friday and Saturday east of the Mississippi river. The temperature will be lower on Friday in the north Atlantic states.

Storm warnings are displayed on the Atlantic coast north of New York city to Boston, Mass.

Winds

North of Sandy Hook: Fresh to strong east and southeast shifting to westerly over west portion and overcast weather with rain Friday.

Sandy Hook to Hatteras: Fresh westerly and generally fair weather Friday.

Forecast

Southern New England: Cloudy and colder Friday, probably rain Friday morning, Saturday partly cloudy, colder in east portion.

Observations

The Bulletin's observations show the following changes in temperature and barometric changes Thursday:

	Ther.	Bar.
8 a. m.	36	30.40
12 m.	50	30.30
6 p. m.	50	30.30

Highest 56, lowest 36.

Comparisons

Predictions for Thursday: Increasing cloudiness, somewhat warmer, followed by rain.

Thursday's weather: Cloudy, rain in evening, not much change in temperature.

ROBERT P. LEWIS MADE VISIT TO OLD NORWICH

Robert P. Lewis, a native of this city, has written from London, England, to friends in this city of a recent two-day visit he made to Norwich, England, where he was royally entertained, meeting the lord mayor, town clerk and the curator of the Norwich castle museum. Mr. Lewis has been going to Europe for 30 years but this is the first time he has visited the English city from which the American city of his birth took its name.

Mr. Lewis is a nephew of the late Frank A. Robinson, whose home was on Sachem street, and is a brother of Frederick Lewis of New York and Elijah Lewis of New Haven. As a boy, about 45 years ago, he was employed in the press room of The Bulletin.

Russell Waldo, teacher of agriculture at Lyman Memorial High school, Lebanon has opened an evening school which young farmers are attending. A similar evening class was conducted last winter. The class meets every Tuesday evening in the high school auditorium.

DISTRICT VISITORS REPORT ON CONTRIBUTIONS FOR UNITED WORKERS

Reports from six sections of the city where district visitors of the United Workers have been making their customary annual calls show that $560.80 has been contributed and there are other districts to be heard from later.

Every autumn a large group of women the title of district visitors go out to visit the homes of Norwich in the name of the United Workers. These visitors explain the work of the different departments, answer any questions, or see if the help of any one of the departments is needed in that particular home and ask for contributions toward the support of the United Workers, which organization includes the family welfare department, public health nursing with its free clinics, the club work, the Sheltering Arms, the neuro-psychiatric clinic, and the Rock Nook children's home.

Owing to the interest and generosity of members of Norwich people who have passed on, money has been left this organization from time to time, only the income from which can be used for the work. As the departments grow it is absolutely necessary that the people now living in Norwich should join together in their support. At present the sum contributed by all the people of the town to the whole work annually is little more than it takes to run the smallest of the six departments for that period. Annual reports are easily procured when wanted at 9 Washington street and a study of one of these reports will show there is no room for growth with the present income of the organization.

Fifty-four visitors have been busy in the following six districts and there are two more districts to be heard from later. It is with deep appreciation of the visitors' work and grateful thanks to the many contributors that the organization publishes the following figures:

	Contributors	Amounts
East Side	56	$ 25.10
Laurel Hill	133	52.78
Thamesville	162	75.25
West Side	165	77.32
Greeneville	178	101.06
Central District, No. 1	204	199.41
Total		$560.99

Forty-three other people on the East Side gave jellies or clothing to the visitors for use in the family welfare department and several people in each of the other districts did the same or sent vegetables. These are all very welcome and can be used where they will give comfort and happiness.

DENIES EXPUNGE MOTION AND SUSTAINS DEMURRER

The appellant's motion to expunge in the appeal from probate by Audrey A. Palmer of New York in the case of the estate of Louisa T. Palmer, late of New London, is denied by Judge Allyn L. Brown of the superior court.

Judge Brown has sustained the appellant's demurrer in the same case upon all the grounds set forth therein.

The reasons of appeal by Audrey A. Palmer in the suit are given as follows:

"Her failure to present her claim as creditor within the time limited and allowed by the probate court for the district of New London, to wit, within six months from May 6, 1925 was due to ignorance as to her legal rights as a creditor of said estate.

"She was at the time of making of said original order of limitation on May 8, 1925 a non-resident of the state of Connecticut, and so continued to be a non-resident until after the expiration of said time limited, and for many months thereafter.

"Her application for a limitation of a further time to present her said claim was made before the expiration of one year from the beginning of the period originally limited, and said application was heard on April 19, 1925, nineteen days prior to the expiration of one year from the date of the original limitation.

"She is a bona fide creditor of the estate of said Louisa T. Palmer in a substantial amount, and there are ample assets of said estate not required to pay other creditors, out of which her claim may be paid.

"She had no knowledge of the making of said order of limitation dated May 6, 1925 until after the time limited thereby had expired."

INCIDENTS IN SOCIETY

Mr. and Mrs. Otto E. Wulf have come from Putnam to Norwich and have taken an apartment on Church street.

Miss Maud Carew Buckingham has returned from Brooklyn, N. Y., where she was the guest of her cousins, Miss Russell and Miss Sarah Buckingham Russell.

The Thursday Evening two-table bridge club met with Mr. and Mrs. Albert J. Bailey, at their home in Yantic.

Mr. and Mrs. Francis Gilman, of Lowthorpe, have as their guest the latter's sister, Mrs. Alice Bastine, of New York.

The meeting of Norwich Delphian chapter, Thursday afternoon at the home of the president, Mrs. Alfred N. H. Vaughn, of Rockwell Terrace was a review of the poets already studied. There were readings by Mrs. Channing M. Huntington, Mrs. George A. Ashbey and Mrs. Vaughn, after which Mrs. James A. Bidwell, Mrs. Gardiner Greene, Miss Margarete Suck and Mrs. William F. Bailey gave songs from the poets which have been set to music.

MISS KEMPTON DEVELOPS NEW TYPE OF BATIK

Miss Elizabeth A. Kempton, daughter of William Kempton of Yantic, is hailed as the developer of a new type of batik work in Buffalo, N. Y., where her work has been on exhibition.

Of the exhibition the Buffalo Courier-Express says:

No one has ever done it, but it is possible. Why doesn't someone do it? said Professor Charles Peiew, now the Earl of Exeter, to his class at Columbia university some seven or eight years ago. And so the color of pioneer accomplishment is lent to the new type of batik work done by Miss Elizabeth A. Kempton, her associate, Miss Grace Lattimer Wright, and Miss Wright's pupil, Miss Josephine Folkes, which is on exhibition at the Grosvenor library until Nov. 20. The process, which is producing color by chemical, rather than by dye, as a homely craft was known to our grandmothers who dipped their carpet rags in soda solution or iron rust water to color them, but its development as an art is due entirely to the years devoted to experiment by Miss Kempton and Miss Wright. With them expert chemists work continually, their object to perfect the texture effect of batik. They are gradually finding out the formulas by which an ordinary material colored by this process may take on the aspect of suede, of deep velvet, of frescoing and even the irregular lustre of stained glass.

Miss Kempton Guest at Tea

Miss Kempton, who is in town, the guest of Miss Claire Shuttleworth, president of the Guild of Allied Arts, was the guest of honor at a tea given yesterday afternoon by the Guild at the Grosvenor library. The exhibit there includes some interesting examples of Miss Kempton's work in batik, exquisite in design and perfect in execution. Four of the pieces which she has done have been exhibited at the Architectural league exhibitions in New York city, a distinct mark of honor. Miss Kempton is, further, art supervisor of the Gunnery school and the Wykeman Rise school, both at Washington, Ct., which is Miss Kempton's home. Among her pupils is John Fulton Folinsbee, the well known young artist.

Miss Kempton Speaks of Work

Enthusiastically Miss Kempton spoke of her work. We are interested in everything to do with color and design, she said. I do dyeing with vat dyes and aniline dyes and painting as well. But Miss Kempton feels that there is a field as yet only at the beginning of its development in the use of batiks for decoration especially for the new sand and grey walls so popular in present day interiors.

Included also in the exhibit are some purses and scarves, some in batik and some dyed with aniline dyes. The lampshades, one of which belongs to Otto Gaul of this city, are mostly the work of Miss Grace Lattimer Wright. Miss Wright is a cousin of Anna Katherine Green, the well known writer of popular fiction, and claims a further tie in the coincidence that her first play produced on Broadway, Blind Alleys, had for its heroine, Miss Katherine Cornell. Miss Wright has also started a school at Provincetown on Cape Cod where she is carrying on her work.

DANIELSON GIRL WINNER OF CHRISTMAS CLUB PRIZE

Miss Beatrice Alma Pellett of Danielson, was awarded the fourth prize of $100 in a national contest among Christmas club members of the fourth motion picture synopsis showing how the Christmas club has helped permanent thrift. The prizes were offered by Herbert P. Rawll, president and founder of the Christmas club, a corporation of New York.

The Christmas club, a corporation, is paying $2,500 in cash prizes to winners of their 1926 contest. All members of the club were entitled to compete and 93 prizes varying in amount from $1,000 to $5 were given. The first prize of $1,000 went to Miss Carrie Bridgens of Lock Haven, Penna., the second prize of $500 to R. C. Porter of Ironton, Ohio, and the third prize of $250 to Mrs. Harvey E. Sheesley of Lykens, Penna.

About $400,000,000—to be exact, $398,269,000 will be distributed to 7,000,000 members of the Christmas club in the United States during the next few weeks. This figure represents an increase in Christmas club savings over 1925 of about $35,000,000 or 37 per cent, while the increase in the number of members over 1924 is 11 1-2 per cent.

The average distribution per member amounts to $51.32. This is an increase of about 11 per cent over 1925 when per member distribution was $44.88.

In addition to being a record distribution for the Christmas club to a record membership, more banks participated in the movement during 1926 than ever before.

On the basis of calculations made by Mr. Rawll, something like $179,481,380 will be placed immediately into the stores of the country in the rush of Christmas buying; $110,146,400 will be deposited in permanent savings and thrift accounts; $47,186,352 will go for insurance premiums and mortgage interests; $42,761,190 will go for taxes and $18,752,648 will go to fixed charges maturing in the holiday season.

In the five liberty loan campaigns over $700,000,000 in liberty and victory bonds were sold to 20 million investors on partial payments through the Christmas club plan, which Mr. Rawll, at that time, adapted to the installment purchase of government securities.

The distribution in New England states of Christmas club money, year of 1926, prepared by H. F. Rawll, is as follows: Maine $1,794,800, New Hampshire $581,570, Vermont $441,000, Massachusetts $42,073,000, Rhode Island $786,400, Connecticut $8,316,600; total $54,014,370.

SOLDIERS IN JAIL TO AWAIT SUPERIOR COURT

Charged with theft of an automobile in this city, Louis Ouillette, 23, of Lewiston, Me., and William Radcliffe, 21, of Fall River, Mass., both soldiers, were bound over to the next criminal term of the superior court under bonds of $1,500 each when their cases came up in the city court Thursday morning. They were taken to jail. They were arrested in East Providence and were brought back to this city Wednesday evening by Officer Charles Smith. The machine they took here, a Buick roadster, is owned by Philip Gotsefeld of No. 15 Pearl street, who went to Providence with the police and recovered his car.

According to the mens story they left Fort Wright Tuesday morning and went to New London. After spending the day in New London they found they had missed the boat back to the fort. They took a Studebaker roadster from Main street, New London, and drove to Norwich in it. In this city a tire blew out and as the spare tire was no good, the soldiers abandoned the machine on Water street and then took Mr. Gottesfeld's machine from Church street. They claimed they intended to return to New London but got on the wrong road and landed in Providence.

The coming Sunday the Rosary society of St. Patrick's parish is to receive holy communion in a body, at the first mass.

CHARLES ELMER HOLMES, N. F. A. MADE A NOTABLE RECORD

The Yale Alumni Weekly of recent date has the following tribute to a native of North Stonington, born in 1863, who was graduated from Norwich Free academy in 1880. Mr. Holmes caught for the Academy and Yale varsity teams; was a room mate at Yale of Wallace S. Allis of Broadway and is remembered as active along many lines while a student; danced at a charity entertainment in Breed hall, etc.

His charming poems breathe of the western plains and are interspersed with sentiments of the Latin and Greek classics.

"I should be happy should a friend remark

"He sings a little like the meadow lark."

His "Birds of the West" shows where he found inspiration.

The Yale Weekly says:

'84—Charles Elmer Holmes died in Hartford, Conn., on Oct. 28th. He was engaged in cattle ranching in Nebraska with his classmate, Frederick W. Doring, for a short time after leaving Yale; later he was principal of Ainsworth, Neb., high school, and of Rushville, Neb., high school. He was admitted to the bar in '89 and practiced law in Harrison, Neb., for a year. He then gave up law and for three years served as vice president of the State Bank of Harrison, which he had organized. Since 1906 he had been connected with Mutual Life Ins. Co. of New York, as a district manager in Sioux Falls, S. D., Providence, R. I., Columbus, Ohio, and New London and Hartford, Conn., and as supervising agent in Hartford during the last year.

He had served as chairman of the republican central committee of Minnehaha county, S. D., and as chairman of the state central committee of the progressive party in Rhode Island. He made a study of fossil deposits in Nebraska and South Dakota, discovering one of the giant fossils and in 1889-90 he conducted two geological expeditions into that region in the interests of Vassar college. He was a political speaker and lecturer on natural science and the author of three books. He married, in 1903, Josephine Collier Etter.

NORWICH TOWN CHURCH HAS NEW TOWER CLOCK

During this week a new Seth Thomas clock has been installed in the tower of the First Congregational church, much to the pleasure and convenience of the public in this and other communities. The work which was commenced Tuesday was completed on Thursday and the clock began striking for the first time that day. The room in the tower has been enlarged and fitted up differently to accommodate it. The entire arrangement is new except for the face of the clock, and this is to receive a fresh coat of paint soon. The work was done by a representative from the Seth Thomas factory under the general supervision of John A. Ferguson a local jeweler.

For the past two or three years the old clock has been out of commission, having completely worn out and was beyond repair.

The new clock was made possible through the co-operation and generosity of the Norwich Rural [illegible] tion, which assumed the larger responsibility as to funds, volunteering in the beginning to provide $375. The original cost of the clock, installed, was $675, thus leaving less than half for the church to raise. This was done by solicitation, mainly as the result of letters in circulation the past few weeks, which were signed by the church trustees, Frederick G. Ross, Lucius Fenton and John L. Browning, also by the church pastor, Rev. Gurdon F. Bailey.

RESERVOIRS MADE GAIN FROM RECENT RAIN

The heavy wind and rain storm of Tuesday night gave a rainfall of .40 of an inch, according to the measurement taken at the water department office. The total for the month so far is 2.06 inches.

Fairview reservoir now stands at five feet below full pond and Stony Brook reservoir is 18 feet down from the old full pond measurement. From the effect of the rain of an inch and a half a week ago, Fairview gained five inches and Stony Brook gained eight inches.

The secret of popularity is always to remember what to forget.

NEW ENGLAND CONQUERING THE TEXTILE INDUSTRY

At New England Conference, in Hartford, William B. Maccoll, President of the Association of Cotton Manufacturers, Told How New England Mills Were Forced to Meet Changed Conditions—The Industry Has Gone From Cotton, to Silk and Rayon, Following the Trend of the Times From Black and a Few Plain Colors to Almost Every Shade of the Rainbow.

HARTFORD, Conn., Nov. 19—(AP)—New England is not only being criticised, but is receiving pity from other parts of the country, and it is New England's own fault, delegates to the second New England conference were told today by Colonel Frank Knox, Manchester, N. H., newspaper publisher.

Reporting for the New England council's committee on public relations, Col. Knox charged that pessimistic reports are being broadcast by New Englanders themselves and that these are being enlarged upon by other sections of the country.

Thirteen new members will join the council during the coming year state delegation elections being held today. Fifty-nine members who served during the past year will continue to work for the good of New England as members of the council during the next twelve months. Each state elected twelve members, six to serve for two years and the others for one year.

The conference program came to a close this afternoon with a series of ten minute talks on various activities of the northeast states.

New England's attitude of mind has cost the section enormous sums in lost business, Col. Knox said. "Talk back" to those who persist in spreading unfavorable reports about conditions not in accord with facts, was his recommendation.

E. M. Statler, Statler Hotels, Inc., of New York, warned that "individual attempts to make things hum in one's own back yard are bound to be failures nowadays." Praising the New England council, he said that "the New England conference seems to me a great power dam which gathers together the otherwise feeble streams of individual effort, and gives them the force to keep wheels turning and men at work."

Declaring that nothing can alter the textile industry's position as basic, Edwin Farnham Greene of Boston, said that "it is needless to worry about whether the textile industry has a future," pointing out that "it has existed for ages past and it will be here for ages to come." Research and science, he said, are doing much for the industry.

In connection with the possible future of the textile industry, William B. MacColl, of Pawtucket, R. I., president of the National Association of Cotton Manufacturers, gave figures on what research committee on cotton dress goods had found in its investigation.

His report pointed out that more than $60,000,000 yards of piece goods were sold last year throughout the country and pattern companies sold 125,000,000 dress patterns.

No branch of the textile business has undergone more changes during the past ten years than the hosiery business, according to Ernest V. Alley, of Barrows, Richardson and Alley, New York.

The industry has gone from cotton to silk to rayon, he pointed out, and has followed the trend of the times from black and a few plain colors to almost every shade of the rainbow.

"We have followed the feminine skirt on its climb from the street level to the knee." Mr. Alley continued, "advancing the silk along the increasingly exposed feminine stocking."

Describing how New England mills were forced to meet these changed conditions, he declared that the problems were met and conquered "in the same way New Englanders have been meeting difficult situations since the first New England pioneer cleared away a few feet of brush for a cabin in the New England forest."

CONNECTICUT PLEDGED $20,000 IN THE N. E. BUDGET

HARTFORD, Conn., Nov. 19—(AP)—New England's determination to expand was expressed in dollars today when the six state delegations at the closing session of the second New England conference for the ensuing year pledged a budget twice that of 1926 for the New England council to carry on its work of "selling New England."

The budget for 1927 will be $16,000. Massachusetts pledged $40,000 of that amount; Connecticut $20,000; Rhode Island and Maine, $13,000 each; Vermont $6,000 and New Hampshire $5,000, a total of $97,000. Mr. Lawrence said that he would personally raise the remaining $3,000. With the exception of New Hampshire which last year raised $4,000, the state pledges of 1926 were doubled for 1927.

Connecticut led the states in the number of delegates sent to the conference, having registered 320. The total number of paid registration was 881. More than 1,200, however, sat at the dinner given last night for the delegates and guests by Governor Trumbull of Connecticut. Incidentally, the governor's check for the affair will be between $6,000 and $7,000, according to his brother, Henry, chairman of the committee, which handled it. "But, it was worth it" the later declared.

Massachusetts sent 250 delegates to the conference; New Hampshire, 83; Rhode Island 69; Vermont, 55, and Maine 45. Forty-two women who registered brought the total to 861. A year ago at the first conference in Worcester, Mass., there were 59 delegates.

Four cities made bids for the third annual conference. They are Manchester, New Hampshire, Portland, Me., and Cambridge and Springfield, Mass.

NAT'L. CONVENTION OF INSURANCE COMMISSIONERS

LOS ANGELES, ov. 19—(AP)—Judge Harry L. Conn, of Columbus, Ohio, was re-elected president of the National Association of Insurance Commissioners at the closing session of their convention here today.

The next convention will be held in September, 1927, in some Ohio city. Delegates said the choice probably would be Columbus.

A minority group of delegates from New England and Virginia failed in an attempt to put through a revised men's mortality table. The resolution was defeated, 28 to 4. The new table was projected by William M. Corcoran, actuary of the insurance department of Connecticut.

The convention adopted a resolution by Colonel Joseph Button, national secretary of the association, providing that no official action be taken on the matter on compulsory liability insurance for motor vehicles until the effect of the compulsory insurance acts on Massachusetts and Connecticut is further investigated.

BRITISH UNABLE TO COPE WITH AMERICAN MOVIES

LONDON, Nov. 19.—(AP)—After studying the problem of formulating a common film policy for the British Empire with a view to replacing American moving pictures with British made films, the Imperial conference found it was impossible to reach an agreement. This was because the views of the various dominions were so conflicting and their film needs so widely divergent.

An official report issued tonight contains a resolution recognizing that it is of great importance that the larger proportion of films exhibited throughout the empire should be of empire production and urging the dominions to deal with the problem.

American movies at the present time constitute from 90 to 95 per cent. of all films shown in the British Empire.

DAMAGE BY RAINFALL THROUGHOUT MAINE

PORTLAND, Me., Nov. 19.—(AP)—A 12 hour rainfall, reaching five inches at some points, caused thousands of dollars damage throughout Maine today. The Androscoggin and Kennebec valleys being the hardest hit. At least one bridge was undermined, streets and cellars were flooded, and numerous washouts were reported.

OBITUARY.

Julius Rabardy.

MANCHESTER, Mass., Nov. 19.—(AP)—Julius Rabardy, Manchester's oldest resident and a former postmaster, appointed by President Lincoln in 1865, died here today. He was 93 years old.

He was a native of France and came to this country after running away from home at the age of 13.

He was a member of the 12th Massachusetts volunteers in the Civil war and lost a leg in the Battle of Antietam. He is survived by a great-great-grandchild, 15 great-grandchildren, 6 grandchildren, a daughter and a stepson.

ELECTRIC POWER FROM BOSTON TO CHICAGO

BOSTON, Nov. 19.—(AP)—Electric power was interchanged between Boston and Chicago today, the first time a test of the kind had been made over so great a distance. The experiment, which linked up the power systems of the entire northeastern quarter of the country was designed, officials said, to demonstrate the feasibility of power interchange between companies.

In addition to tying together for demonstration purposes the largest area ever covered by a working power unit, the test, it was said, was an omen of greater "super-power" developments still to come. Robert E. Dillon, head of the regenerating department of the Boston Edison company, described it as a step in the development of the "buss," a single huge power line running from coast to coast.

Electric lamps in the Back Bay district of Boston were lighted for a time by power from Chicago.

The line of power & communication ran through the states of Illinois, Indiana, down the Ohio valley into Pennsylvania, thence up to the Adirondacks and eastward through Vermont and New Hampshire down into western Massachusetts, connecting with the New England power and Boston Edison circuits at Sudbury.

GIRL TO TELL HAPPENINGS IN THE HOUSE OF DAVID

BENTON HARBOR, Mich., Nov. 19.—(AP)—When Bessie Woodworth takes the stand in court at the trial of King Benjamin Purnell, her story of what happened to young girls in the House of David colony here will "rock the country," Prosecutor George H. Bookwalter said tonight.

Marshaling of the combined legal forces of state and county already has begun, Bookwalter said he will insist that the trial of the "king" be held during the February term of circuit court, which is the earliest possible time. Bookwalter added that he would "fights to the last ditch" ad effort by House of David counsel to save Benjamin from trial because of the state of his health.

"Benjamin, in my opinion, is posing," said the prosecutor. "He is a consumate actor, and he isn't half as sick as the colony leaders make out."

EXERCISES HELD ON GETTYSBURG BATTLE FIELD

GETTYSBURG, Pa., Nov. 19—(AP)—Sixty-three years ago today newspaper correspondents here wrote about the simple address of President Lincoln in connection with the dedication of the national cemetery.

Today honor was paid to the memory of the Civil war president at exercises commemorating the anniversary of the dedication of the national burying ground and the unveiling of a tablet on the Wills house where Lincoln spent the night of Nov. 18, 1863, and where, according to some historian, he wrote his memorable address.

Several persons who heard the now famous speech from the lips of the martyred president participated in today's exercises.

Mexicans Resentful Toward U. S. Action

Over What They Consider Outside Interference in Nicaraguan Affairs.

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 19.—(AP)—Mexicans generally and the newspapers continue to voice resentment over the announcement from Washington that the United States was concerned over outside interference in Nicaraguan affairs, and that the new Nicaraguan president had made the direct charge that Mexico was involved in the revolutionary movement against the government.

Among those who take exception to the attitude of the United States is former President Obregon. "It is astounding," he said today, "to attempt to condemn Mexico for alleged interference in the domestic affairs of Nicaragua and to ask the United States to aid in preventing such shameful interference when the United States is openly violating the sovereignty and dignity of Nicaragua."

Nicaraguans exiled in Mexico City, under the name of the Nicaraguan revolutionary committee, have communicated to the United States a request that it "cease obstructing the expression of popular will in Nicaragua."

These Nicaraguans who opposed former President Chamorro and are not in sympathy with the new regime under President Diaz, appeal to the United States not to permit its good name to be stained through complicity with a "band of mercenary politicians controlling the power in Nicaragua."

Severely criticising the United States for its attitude with regard to Mexican-Nicaraguan relations, Excelsior declares that the real peril to Nicaragua is not the United States' and Mexico's alleged interference in its politics and revolutions, but "the danger of enslavement of Nicaraguans by the Yankees and the perpetual establishment of the Stars and Stripes over Nicaragua."

The newspaper repeats the denials of the Foreign office that the Mexican government interfered in Nicaraguan politics and revolutions but, it adds, "the United States has done this."

TO CLOSE WILLIMANTIC SOUTH COVENTRY TROLLEY

HARTFORD, Nov. 19—(AP)—Trolley service between Willimantic and South Coventry will be discontinued within a few days and motor bus service substituted in its place as a result of the approval of the public utilities commission of the petition of the Connecticut company for permission to cease operation of cars. A hearing on the petition was held in Willimantic, October 28 and the decision was announced today.

The bus schedule will be substantially the same as that of the trolleys. The route, which goes from the New Haven tracks in Willimantic to a terminus in South Coventry, is 6.83 miles long.

Trolley service will be discontinued either Sunday or Monday, it was said tonight by R. J. Bennett, of New Haven, an official of the Connecticut company. The work of taking up the trolley tracks will be started immediately in order that the tracks may not interfere with the construction of a new road over part of the distance.

TO FLOAT $20,000,000 LOAN FOR CITY OF YOKOHAMA

NEW YORK, Nov. 19.—(AP)—A $200,000,000 loan for the city of Yokohama has been arranged by American bankers and will probably be placed on the market next week, J. P. Morgan and Co., are expected to head the offering syndicate.

The sale of the bonds will provide funds for reconstruction purposes, which were authorized soon after the 1923 earthquake. A $150,000,000 Japanese government reconstruction loan, however, made unnecessary any borrowing by individual cities until this time.

Patrolman Killed by Gunmen in Brooklyn

Another Patrolman Wounded in Running Gun Battle With Alleged Auto Thieves.

NEW YORK, Nov. 19.— (AP) —One patrolman was killed and another seriously wounded in a running gun battle with four alleged automobile thieves in Brooklyn late this afternoon.

The wounded officer, Frank A. Daxkiewics, captured one of the four men after a chase and clung to him until help came. Then he dropped unconscious.

Attempting to question the four men in the automobile, Patrolman Edward P. Byrne was met with a rain of bullets and instantly killed. The men jumped out of the automobile and fled but Daxkiewics continued the chase, despite his own wounds and continued firing. Three of the men escaped.

The prisoner gave the name of Joseph Lacurto. Records showed the license on the alleged thieves' car had been issued to a Brooklyn garage. Lacurto told police he was the driver of the car but denied firing any of the shots.

DEATH OF CREATOR OF OUTDOOR ADVERTISING

CHICAGO, Nov. 19.— (AP) —Thomas Cusack, Irish immigrant, who built up here one of the largest outdoor advertising businesses in the United States, died today of pneumonia at the age of 61.

Death followed a short illness at his Oak park home, where he had spent most of his time since retirement, three years ago, from the company which he founded.

Active in his prime as a civic and political figure, Cusack was best known for his cordial relations with his employes. It was his pride he never was confronted by a strike of his workmen.

"When I was a lad," he remarked once, "everybody wanted to pay everybody else too little."

In his life time, he asserted the wages of sign painters increased by more than a thousand per cent.

"When I started as a sign painter," he recalled, "we got $3 a week. Now I pay my men $10 to $15 a day."

Always a picturesque figure, he was found a few years ago after the wreck of a train on which he was a passenger, wielding an axe and freeing passengers imprisoned in the crash.

Newspapermen pressed him for the details of his heroism, related by others aboard the train. He referred them to a Pullman porter and said: "Here was the real hero. Have him tell you what he did and forget about me."

LIQUOR LAW GIVES FOREIGN SHIPS GREAT ADVANTAGE

NEW YORK, Nov. 19.—(AP)—Foreign ships dispensing liquor within certain limits enjoy a competitive advantage over the American merchant marine, John F. Milliken, representing the Neptune association, told the United States shipping board today.

Milliken also contended that sale of liquor on foreign ships is a factor in their patronage by American organizations "out for a good time." He referred to the American Legion's plans for its 1927 convention in Paris and to the Elks, who, he said, were advertising a Christmas outing on a foreign line.

A merchant marine, privately owned if possible, but a merchant marine anyhow is the paramount need of the United States shipping board he told shipping men today.

"Prices obtained for the government's ships," he added, "don't matter. The problem is to get assurance of continued operation."

$200 HOLD-UP IN MEAT MARKET IN FORESTVILLE

BRISTOL, Nov. 19.—(AP)—Backing Anthony P. T. Assynski, proprietor of the Eagle meat market in Forestville, and his clerk, Stephen Egler, into an ice box, three young men with bandkerchiefs over the lower parts of their faces locked them in and rifled the cash register of $200 early this evening.

For 15 minutes Assynski and Egler beat upon the walls of their cool retreat in an effort to attract the attention of passersby. Failing, they broke their way through a side of the refrigerator and notified police. No trace of the three men could be found.

AN OLD SAYBROOK MAN RUN DOWN BY AUTO

MIDDLETOWN, Nov. 19.—(AP)—Henry J. Salarc, 57, of Old Saybrook, is on the danger list at the local hospital as the result of being run down by an unknown automobilist last night. Salarc told Coroner L. A. Smith today that the driver of the car which struck him stopped, came back and looked him over, and went away saying that he would hurry after a doctor, but that he did not return or send a doctor. He could give no description of the man Salarc was badly crushed.

SUBURBAN DAY TODAY

Once more the merchants of Norwich are today offering an exceptional trading opportunity for the buyers who can get to this city.

It has been arranged with the same thoughtful consideration of the patrons and provides a chance for making the dollar go farther. First class, up to date and attractive goods are presented for a discriminating public and it should mean a day of big business and large purchases.

Suburban day is one of those trading events that is always looked forward to. It is a time for filling that long list of wants and it is a day when the wise and thrifty purchaser is on hand to benefit from the special inducements. It is not an event for the few but for the many.

Stores open this morning at 8:30 o'clock.

RING HAS BEEN SMUGGLING ALIENS THROUGH CANADA

Under the Name of the Quebec Land and Improvement Company at Montreal a Smuggling Ring Has Been Working With Paid Agents in Several Countries—Immigration Inspector Asserts That as Many as 1,000 Aliens Have Been Successfully Smuggled Across the American Border the Past Summer.

RUTLAND, Vt., Nov. 19.—(AP)—Capture of two aliens here on Wednesday has uncovered a smuggling ring with paid agents in several countries operating under the name of the Quebec Land and Improvement company at Montreal, officers from immigration officials at Newport received here today stated.

STORY TOLD BY CHIEF IMMIGRANT INSPECTOR

NEWPORT, Vt., Nov. 19.—(AP)—As many as 1,000 aliens have been successfully smuggled across the Canadian border this summer by a Montreal ring, Chief Immigration Inspector James Ford said here tonight.

John Adab, one of two men captured in an automobile near Rutland on Wednesday when another automobile escaped, was an employe of this ring, which operates under the name of the Quebec Land and Improvement company, Inspector Ford stated. Adab, with a man giving the name of Sada, was held here tonight for arraignment before the United States commissioner tomorrow.

Inspector Ford declared that the Montreal company advertised abroad the possibilities of America and told its prospective clients that an unguarded 3,000 mile boundary separated Canada from the United States.

Adab confessed, according to the inspector, that he was paid $175 for each alien whom he delivered safely at Boston. Ford said that 17 men were now in custody here awaiting trial on similar charges.

Customs officials on Wednesday asked the Rutland police to watch for two automobiles containing aliens who had eluded them at the line in the early morning. The Rutland officers intercepted the cars at Pittsford, a little way north. They forced Adab to turn his machine into the ditch where it struck an electric light pole. Adab and Sada were captured, but three others escaped. The other car sped past the officers.

MANY DEATHS IN EXPLOSION ON NORWEGIAN TANKER

BALTIMORE, Nov. 19.—(AP)—A blast of fire which cut asunder the Norwegian tanker Mantilla exacted an undetermined toll of lives as the vessel lay in dry dock at the Sparrows Point plant of the Bethlehem Shipbuilding corporation today. Scores of workmen were caught in a flaming rain of death as an amidship oil tank exploded with a deafening report, to spew burning oil and twisted steel over the decks and surrounding scaffolding.

Official estimates of the dead ranged from 8 to 20. So great was the havoc wrought that even the number of bodies recovered was subject to estimate. At least eight bodies had been assembled in a morgue at the plant tonight. Some investigators reported that the shattered remains which rescue workers had gathered from the smoking bulk would represent more than eight individuals. No definite count of the injured had been possible. The more seriously hurt had been taken to every available hospital. Scores were treated at the plant first aid station.

Piercing screams from the ship's decks and the interior only partly prepared volunteer rescue workers for the spectacle which greeted them when they rushed upon the reeling vessel a few minutes after the blast.

QUEEN MARIE'S TRAIN SPEEDING TO NEW YORK

QUEEN MARIE'S TRAIN, En Route to New York, Parkersburg, W. Va., Nov. 19.—(AP)—Queen Marie sped toward New York today anxiously awaiting word from Bucharest concerning the condition of her husband, King Ferdinand, whose illness caused her to abandon her American tour at Louisville last night.

With Princess Ileana, she will reach Jersey City at 4.30 p. m. tomorrow and will motor at once to Tuxedo, New York, to rest in seclusion at the home of Charles E. Mitchell, president of the National City Bank of New York. She will remain there until she can board a steamer for Paris, possibly the Berengeria on November 24.

At Tuxedo, the queen and princess will be joined on Sunday by Prince Nicholas who left the train at North Bend, Ohio, early this morning for brief visits to Detroit and Cleveland.

The only long stop now scheduled for the queen is at Martinsburg, West Virginia, where the party will take motors tomorrow morning to Harpers Ferry by way of Winchester in order to inspect Civil war battle sites. From Harpers Ferry, the special train will turn toward New York.

BRITISH MINERS VOTE AGAINST PEACE PROPOSALS

LONDON, Nov. 19.—(AP)—More than half the membership of the miners' federation having voted against the government's peace proposals, at least a fortnight must elapse before anything definite can be accomplished in the way of a settlement of the protracted coal strike.

The miners' delegate conference after a heated argument today, voted by nearly 2 to 1 a resolution submitted by South Wales, that all the districts be asked to negotiate with the coal owners with a view to arriving at agreements, that the executive committee be asked to consider the general principles which should guide the district negotiations, and that no district shall enter into a final settlement until after a further national conference is held to receive reports. Tomorrow the delegates will meet again to consider what the "general principles" should be.

GRANGERS ARE TO WORK FOR LEGISLATIVE RELIEF

PORTLAND, Me., Nov. 19.—(AP)—Farm organization throughout the country will be asked to support the farm relief program and other agricultural policies which the National grange adopted at its 60th annual meeting here. This was announced today by Louis J. Taber of Ohio, national master of the grange, following a meeting of the executive committee.

"We are planning to meet in Washington early in January," Mr. Taber said, "to go over the legislative program and call a conference of the executive officers of all farm organizations. The grange feels that it has a constructive program, and it is going to ask the cooperation and seek to unify all rural forces."

The grange planned to "put the greatest legislative pressure" on its resolutions asking congress to enact legislation providing an export debenture system to aid the farmers, favoring the lease of Muscle Shoals for manufacture of fertilizer and recommending the designation of a national "Farmers' Day" to call attention to agriculture.

JUSTICE AGENT TESTIFIES IN COAST GUARD RUM CASE

BOSTON, Nov. 19.—(AP)—A department of justice agent who collected evidence against four members of the coast guard service who are on trial by court martial here charged with trafficking with bootleggers was described by defense counsel today as "a white rat with a black heart."

Presenting his closing argument on behalf of Boatswain Marcus Haley, former commander of the patrol boat 242, Attorney William H. Lewis declared Haley was the victim of a "frame-up." The attorney said no evidence had been adduced that the boatswain accepted money from rum-runners or paid money to members of his crew, used the patrol boat to deliver rum cargoes, or consorted with officers of rum ships.

In his address, Attorney Lewis directed his attention to a mysterious "Wilson" named by several witnesses as having passed money in connection with liquor operations at which, it was testified, the patrol boat crew had winked. Haley, who took the stand yesterday in his own defense, said he had been told that "Wilson" was a department of justice agent. He denied having received money from him at any time.

Boatswain C. G. Halwartz, executive officer of the South Boston coast guard base, testified today to general orders forbidding undue familiarity between coast guardsmen and rum runners. Haley had admitted that on one occasion he took on board his vessel the skipper and radio man of the British schooner I'm Alone, known as a rum runner.

"ALIBI" TO BE DEFENSE IN HALL-MILLS MURDER CASE

SOMERVILLE, N. J., Nov. 19.—(AP)—Announcement that the three defendants will testify and that their attorneys expect to establish an alibi for each, was made in the opening of the case for the defense in the Hall-Mills trial here today. The announcement followed the closing of the state's case, at the afternoon session of the court, after seven witnesses during the day had increased the total for the state to 84.

Henry Stevens, who with his brother, Willie Stevens and his sister, Mrs. Frances Noel Stevens Hall, is charged with the murder of Mrs. Eleanor R. Mills, will be the first witness tomorrow. He will say that he was at his home at Lavallette, N. J., when his brother-in-law, the Rev. Edward Wheeler Hall and Mrs. Mills were slain on the night of Sept. 14, 1922.

The defense expectations were outlined by Clarence E. Case this afternoon in a 45-minute presentation to the jury. He illustrated his address by reference to a large map of De Russey's lane and vicinity.

"We will show you what is known as an "alibi," for each of the defendants," declared Case in his opening address. "We will prove, and we believe to your satisfaction, that each defendant was elsewhere at the time this crime was committed."

SUIT BY STOCKHOLDERS OF THE GOODYEAR CO.

AKRON, Ohio, Nov. 19.—(AP)—Acting on behalf of nine Goodyear Tire and Rubber company stockholders, Attorney N. O. Mather late today filed a petition in common pleas court asking that Clarence Dillon, New York, and John Sherwin, Cleveland, bankers, be removed from power in the Goodyear.

He also asked that Dillon, Sherwin and Dillon, Read and company, New York, be excluded from any right in the management stock, that they be required to make an accounting to the stockholders and that judgment be rendered against them for all amounts found due the Goodyear.

Profits wrongfully made by two individuals and the company and damages sustained by the Goodyear for which judgment is asked amount to at least $15,000,000, it is charged in the petition.

Citing alleged breaches of trust the plaintiffs complain that they believe Dillon, Sherwin and the Dillon, Read company, have also been guilty of other breaches of trust.

PRESIDENT OPPOSED TO PERMANENT TAX REVISION

WASHINGTON, Nov. 19.—(AP)—The white house today put a damper on talk of a difference of opinion between President Coolidge and Secretary Mellon over tax reduction.

The official spokesman declares the chief executive and the treasury secretary not only were one in their advocacy of a refund on income taxes and in their opposition to a permanent tax revision, but that the subject had been discussed between them before Mr. Coolidge surprised the country by announcing his position two weeks ago.

LECLAIR GIVEN FINES IN THE SUPERIOR COURT

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Nov. 19.—A Windham county superior court short calendar session and assignment of cases was held in this city this forenoon with Judge Alfred C. Baldwin on the bench. Two previous assignments of cases to be held following the short calendar went over. In the case of Amelia A. Weick vs. Florence B. Sherman, the defense was not ready for trial. The case of Dr. Samuel J. Turcotte vs. the state department of health et al, was declared off the list for the term.

But one of the three cases assigned last week for the jury next week was claimed, it being that of Alfred Rooney vs. Charles Robitaille, an action for damages resulting from an automobile accident. Voicing his dislike to summon the jury for but one case, Judge Baldwin, however stated that he would call the veniremen to hear the Rooney-Robitaille case next Tuesday morning. The two other cases on the jury list were those of Vera Zvalekowsky by Joseph Zvalekowsky vs. Gordon H. Seymour et al and Anna T. McCarthy vs. the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad. Of five cases on the list assigned for court, none were claimed for next week.

Short calendar matters were then taken up in order as follows: The case of Max Finkelstein vs. Rose Needles et als, a foreclosure suit, on limitation of time for redemption, judgment was given for $1,980. The date of limitation was set as the first Monday in December, 1926 and the day following for the L. A. W. Acceptance corporation, one of the defendants.

The case of Isaah C. Keach, Angeline Keach, assignee, vs. Ellen S. Anderson, a foreclosure suit and limitation of time for redemption, judgment for $6,819.80 was rendered and the period of limitation for redemption set for the first Monday in February 1927.

In the case of the L. A. W. Acceptance corporation vs. Emily Skilovsky et als, a request for three months statutory continuance was granted.

On request of Attorney Torry for the defense a continuance for one week was granted in the case of Joseph Connor & Sons vs. The Brooklyn Grocery company.

Attorney Torry argued that the defendant had not received notice to appear in court in the case of Dora Collins vs. Peter W. Collins, a hearing on motion to hold defendant in contempt of court. The case was put over to next week.

With temporary adjournment of court, the criminal session was opened and the case of Norbert Leclair of Plainfield, charged with violation of the liquor law was heard. Through his attorney, Leclair changed his plea of not guilty made in the lower court to one of guilty. On recommendation of State's Attorney Howard C. Bradford who stated that two counts were preferred against the accused, Judge Baldwin imposed a fine of $50 and a suspended jail sentence of five days on each count. Leclair was found guilty in the Plainfield town court last September and fined $100 from which he took an appeal.

The civil session was then resumed with matters on the short calendar being taken up. In the cases of Grace Moran and John J. Moran of Dayville vs. Joseph Polomski of Jewett City, a hearing in default and judgment, Attorney Bradford presented the evidence for the plaintiffs. Judge Baldwin found in favor of the plaintiffs awarding damages of over $800 in the first case and $278 in the second. The case was one for damages for injuries received by the plaintiffs and damages to their automobile in a collision with the defendant's machine in Jewett City on Oct. 3 of this year.

A degree on the grounds of desertion was granted in the uncontested divorce of Jacob Kirikovian vs. Margaret Kirikovian. The plaintiff testified that he married Margaret Chapman May 14, 1922 and that on July 27 of the same year she deserted him without reason. The woman is now living in Roseland, British Columbia. Witnesses testified for the plaintiff.

Court adjourned at 11:45 o'clock until next Tuesday morning at 10:15 o'clock.

WILLIMANTIC IS HAVING TROUBLE WITH "PEEPERS"

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Nov. 19.—A local young man was brought on the police carpet today and admitted that he had been playing a peek-a-boo game about town during the past week. It was possibly on the strength that he is married and father of a small family that the man was released on his promise that he would not again seek unwelcome glimpses into the homes of local young women. He was not given his freedom without a severe reprimand. The "Jack the Peeper" had chosen the Jackson street section of residences for his activities and taking advantage of a partly uplifted curtain he sought to get an intimate view of a young woman when the girl suddenly saw his face against the window. With a scream she brought other members of the household into the room. The man disappeared but the young woman retained a clear impression of his description, and the cap which he wore. The police were notified an equipped only with these slim clues they rounded up the culprit within a few days. Neither the young woman nor her family cared to press the charges because of the notoriety involved and in sympathy for the man's family.

Night rovers are also reported from Windham road where a stone was hurled through a window Thursday night and a man seen to run from the home of a city official as members of his family were returning home. Those interested are at a loss to explain the nature of this act which has placed all Windham road residents on their guard against a "Jack the Peeper" or possibly a burglar. The police are conducting an exhaustive investigation of this act of depredation.

RHEUMATISM

If So Crippled You Can't Use Arms or Legs Rheuma Will Bring Quick Relief or Nothing to Pay

If you suffer from torturing rheumatic pains, swollen, twisted joints and suffer intensely because your system is full of the dangerous poison that makes thousands helpless and kills thousands years before their time, then you need Rheuma, and need it now

Rheuma acts with speed; it often brings in just a few days the relief you have prayed for. It helps antagonize and drive from the system the deadly poisons that cause Rheumatic agony, twisted swollen, unsightly joints and sore muscles. Rheuma is harmless — quick acting and one discovery that has forced Rheumatism to yield and disappear.

Don't continue to suffer Rheumatic torture—get a bottle of Rheuma from Lee & Osgood Co., or any druggist today. It must rid you of your Rheumatic pain or

The body of Ernest Lyman Noble, 53, a former resident of Willimantic, was recovered from the Seekonk river in Providence, R. I., Thursday afternoon, it became known here Friday. Mr. Noble had been a patient in the Butler hospital, a private institution, for mental ailments. He left the place Nov. 5 without knowledge of the authorities and later that day his clothing was found near the river bank. A thorough search of the river proved fruitless at that time. Death was pronounced due to suicide presumably because of despondency over illness.

Ernest Lyman Noble was born in Mansfield, Nov. 28, 1873, a son of Henry H. and Hannah S. Grant Noble. He was employed at the Windham Silk company plant in this city at one time. Surviving him is one sister, Mrs. Ella S. Loomis of South Coventry; two brothers, Ernest H. Noble of South Bend, Ind. He was a member of the Odd Fellows and Masonic organizations.

Lieutenant James J. Lee has been appointed roll call chairman for the annual Red Cross roll call which was officially announced Friday. The roll call period extends to Thanksgiving and later if necessary, and its purpose is to increase the resources of the Red Cross which have been badly drained through the disasters of the past year. Captain Frank P. Fenton is chairman of the local chapter. Booths are to be erected within a few days.

Over $300 in cash and a large quantity of foods and household needs were received at the annual Donation day for the Card Home for the Aged on Pleasant street Thursday. Mrs. Jennie Bradshaw received the many visitors. Members of the home had a table of fancy work which was well patronized. During the afternoon Trusting circle of the King's Daughters served punch. Members of the serving committee were: Mrs. Leon Larned and Mrs. Edgar E. Bass on donation table, Mrs. Charles Lamb and Mrs. Clifford E. Williams on the fancy work table and Mrs. J. H. Bentley and Mrs. Vantine Anderson on the punch table. Mrs. Robert C. Fletcher, as leader of the circle was chairman of the arrangements committee.

The funeral of Jean Zurowski was held Friday morning with a prayer at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Zurowski at 41 Brick Row followed by a mass of the angels in St. Joseph's church at 9 o'clock. Rev. Paul J. Barfiewski officiated at the services and was celebrant of the mass. There was a large attendance. Miss L. Monica McKeon was soloist. Burial was in St. Joseph's cemetery where a committal prayer was read. Killourey Brothers were in charge of the arrangements.

Miss Mildred Pickett and Miss Mildred Moulton were elected as delegates of the Windham Girls' club to attend the annual state meeting in Waterbury, November 27 and 28, at the meeting Thursday night. Miss Jane F. Ashton was chosen chariman of a Christmas present sale. President Miss Ethel Connor placed the meeting in charge of Miss Mildred Moulton who was assisted by Mrs. Lucille Dinneen and Miss Alice Peterson. An excellent supper was enjoyed.

Automobile drivers were getting acquainted with the new triple light traffic signals set up at the corners of Church and Valley and Walnut and Valley streets Friday. Police officers on duty to help drivers get acquainted with the system were not given much time to rest. Many got onto the intersection without having seen the signal insomuch as they did not happen to be looking into the heavens at that time. Pedestrians were also given a few lessons in waiting for the signal "Go" and when the trick is down pat it is indicative that a constand danger will be eliminated.

Miss Marie Rose Cloutier, who will be married Thanksgiving day to Michael Morley of Hartford, was tendered a miscellaneous shower at her home, 73 Spring street Thursday night. The bride-elect received a large number of beautiful gifts from her host of friends and a purse of money from her parents. Attending the affair were: Mrs. Albert Cloutier, Mrs Napoleon Brindamour, Mrs. Arthur Roy, Mrs. Joseph Demers, Mrs. Ralph Doiron, Mrs Theodore Morrisette, Mrs. Henry Desormier, Mrs. Regina Girard, Mrs. Joseph Marrotte, Mrs. Eugene Cloutier, Mrs. Ralph J. Lussier, Mrs. Levi Goss, Mrs. Becker, Mrs. Raymond James, Mrs. Alvin Nelson, Mrs Charles Cook, Mrs. Leo Demers and the Misses Hilda Benard, Helen Loiselle, Alice Liberty, Leona Brindamour, Anna Brindamour, Eva Gergeron, Florence Ryan, Isabel Moran, Leda Caisse, Loretta Moran, Louise Coutu, Arlene Bachand, Rose Cloutier, Lena Cloutier, Lillian Cloutier, Eva Arbour, Leona Normandin, Aldea Coutu, Mary Hennessey, Rhode Barnes, Dora Beaulieu and Nellie McCarthy, from this city. Hartford guests included Mrs. Edward McCarthy, Mrs Arthur Ryan, Miss Doolina Normandin, Miss Minnie Ryan and the Misses Odina and Florence Cloutier.

The remains of Mrs. Anna Snow Fitts arrived here from State college, Pa., Thursday morning. Burial was in the Storrs cemetery where Rev. Morris E. Ailing conducted a committal service. Mrs. Fitts was born in Storrs, March 5, 1874, a daughter of David H. and Mary Collins Snow. She was a graduate of the Connecticut Agricultural college, Storrs. Her husband, was Professor Edward B. Fitts of the dairy husbandry department at Pennsylvania college and a graduate of C. A. C., where he has previously been an instructor. Surviving is one daughter, Miss Grace Fitts of State college, Pa.; two sisters, Mrs. J. B. Palmer of Norwich and Mrs. Young of Laughlin, S. D.; and two brother, Walter G. of Mansfield Depot and Charles Snow of South Manchester.

Funeral services for Mrs. Alice Williams were held at the late home, 157 Mountain street at two o'clock Friday afternoon with Rev. A. Stanley Muirhead of the Methodist church officiating. Burial was in the new Willimantic cemetery. The bearers were, Charles A Gates, J. Raymond Smith, William Bowman and Maurice King. In addition to the list previously published of surviving relatives the deceased leaves her mother, Mrs. Candace Snow Maine.

The annual Policemen's dance was held at the Al-Pierre Tabarin Friday night and declared a huge success from a social and financial standpoint. The Peerless orchestra played for a large gathering of dancers and music lovers. Excellent entertainment features came as part of the program. The committee of arrangements comprised Officers F. Rudolph Laramee, Arthur M. Hurley and Roderick Larrivieve. Honors for the largest sale of tickets were awarded to Motorcycle Officer Grant Bombria.

Forty-seven prisoners, a greater number than the average since the Volstead act dried up the country, are now at Brooklyn jail. Eight of the number are bound overs.

Funeral services for Richard Arthur Tallman were held at the home of his parents, Ray B. Tallman of 321 Valley street Thursday morning at ten o'clock. Rev. A. Stanley Muirhead officiated. Burial was in the Union cemetery, Portsmouth, R. I.

Social and Personal

Mary Elizabeth Harrington, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Homer M. Harrington returned to her home from a hospital Friday morning after undergoing a slight operation.

Miss Gertrude H. Turner has returned from a visit with Mr. and Mrs. D. G. Baker of Holyoke, Mass., and Miss H. C. Barlow in Hartford.

Mrs. George E. Whitford, Mrs. William E. Shippee and Mrs. George C. Livezly entertained a whist club of members of Radiant chapter, No. 17, O. E. S., at the Woman's club rooms Thursday afternoon. Thirteen tables were in play.

Homer M. Harrington returned Friday from a stay in New York city.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert T. Clark were guests at dinner at the Nathan Hale hotel Thursday of Mr. and Mrs. Minor Martin of Hartford and Miami, Fla., and Mr. and Mrs. Scoville of Hartford.

Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Sharpe, Samuel Rich, Frank Rich, Mrs. James Tatem and Miss Bernice Williams of Putnam attended the funeral of Edward F Whitmore here Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. William Barber of Newport, R. I., were visitors here Friday.

MYSTIC

At the regular meeting of Mystic Grange Thursday evening, John Jones, chairman of the fair held in October reported the total amount cleared $397.74. Mrs. Margaret Morgan gave notice that the second and last lesson in dressmaking would be held in the hall Tuesday, November 30th. The lecturer, Miss Schroder, read an invitation from Stonington grange to attend neighbors' night, December 1. It was voted to accept the invitation. Applications were received for membership by about 15. At the close of the meeting the first and second degrees were conferred on a class of 15 candidates. After the degree work the lecturer, Miss Schroder, asked some of the 14 members who attended the National Grange meeting at Portland, Me., to give reports. Worthy Master L. O. Allen, Mrs. Abbie Phillips, Mrs. Inez Stedman and the lecturer gave lengthy reports. Amos Gallup, W. C. Morgan adding a few words of interest. All agreed the degree work was beautiful and impressive and returned home with the desire to help the grange in every possible way. The state grange is to meet in Brodgeport January 11-13, and Worthy Master and Mrs. L. O. Allen will represent the local grange.

Mrs. Eva Burdick and daughter, Miss Ethel Burdick, have returned from a visit in New York and Philadelphia. They attended the sesquicentennial and visited Valley Forge.

Miss Ada Wheeler has resigned in New London and is in the office of J. W. Lathrop company, Mystic.

Miss Maud D. Congdon, teacher of French, in Yonkers high school came home Friday evening and will return to Yonkers Sunday evening.

Dr. Charles F. Congdon has been confined to his home by illness since September 10.

STAFFORD SPRINGS

Stafford Springs state police barracks was inspected by members of the state police commission Wednesday morning. This barracks is in charge of Sergeant Harmon and the appearance, efficiency and good standing of the officers was commended by the visitors.

The registrars of voters of the borough of Stafford Springs held a meeting for the correction and revision of the lists Wednesday. Several new voters have been added to the list this year. The annual borough meeting and election will take place at the Warren Memorial hall on the second Monday in December.

The local chapter of the American Red Cross is conducting its annual drive for membership. The efforts of the committee in charge have thus far been very successful.

POETRY

The Biscuit

We thought that Irene was a Biscuit,
She never would get in a clinch;
The kid was too proper to risk it—
The thought of a kiss made her flinch.

She never would snuggle or nestle,
The slightest advances she'd check;
And girls who were willing to wrestle
Would win from Irene by a neck!

The rest of us janes used to snicker
At Irene's Victorian calm,
For some of the fellows would pitch her
Or date her to drag to a Prom.

We often would hear her remarking,
"This soft stuff I cannot abide;
My motto is always 'No Parking'
Whenever I go for a ride."

Her line didn't win admiration,
The college boys gave her the gate.
And then—she came back from vacation
With a Solitaire big as a plate!

We'd thought that Irene was a blister,
We found she was cagey, that kid,
And planned that the baby who kissed her
Should mean it each time that he did!

Well, that shows how clever her hunch is—
The Biscuit is soon to be tied,
While each of the rest of the bunch is
A bridesmaid but never a Bride.

—Berton Braley in McClure's.

A Brook of Life

Have you got a brook in your little heart,
Where bashful flowers blow,
And blushing birds go down to drink,
And shadows tremble so?

And nobody knows, so still it flows,
That any brook is there;
And yet your little draught of life
Is daily drunken there.

Then look out for the little brook in March,
When the rivers overflow,
And the snows come hurrying from the hills,
And the bridges often go.

And later, in August it may be,
When the meadows parching lie,
Beware lest this little brook of life
Some burning noon go dry.

—Emily Dickinson.

"But dear, why do you want him to stand up?"

"Because he's sitting on my marshmallow cracker."—The Progressive Grocer.

Woman Onlooker, after accident—You are not a very expert driver, I take it. Just beginning eh?

Hapless motorist—On the contrary, I've just finished.—London Humorist.

Edna—I'm in love with a sailor—the man who steers the ships! Isn't that wonderful?

Lois—Not so much. I'm going to marry a farmer—the man who ships the steers.—Detroit News.

The house-to-house canvasser had talked for an hour.

"This egg-beater," he said, "speaks for itself."

"Then," interrupted the housewife, "suppose you keep quiet for a moment and give it a chance?"—Good Hardware.

An old-fashioned wagon, 105 years old, that was made by T. C. Ross, is being displayed by C. W. Day at Skowhegan, Me. This was the first wagon that went into the town of Solon. It somewhat resembles the old-fashioned high express wagon, but is of heavier construction. It has leather springs and wood axles. The thills show the most wear, the rest of the wagon being fairly well preserved and well painted.

A luxuriant orchid garden containing 7,000 plants and representing many species of the tropical flower has been taken over by the Missouri botanical garden from C. W. Powell of Balboa. Mr. Powell has made a special study of the orchids of Panama and has more than doubled the number of species formerly known from that country, besides discovering more than 100 species previously entirely unknown to science. The orchid garden will be maintained in the Canal Zone as an experimental tropical garden.

A new approach to absolute nothing, a vacuum so nearly complete that only enough free gas is left in it to cause a pressure of one-billionth of a millimeter of mercury, or approximately one-fifty-billionth of a pound to a square inch, was reported to the recent meeting of the Association of German Natural Scientists and Physicians at Duesseldorf by a woman scientist of Vienna, Mme. Anna Schiermann. The usual procedure in obtaining high vacuums is to introduce specially prepared carbon, which absorbs the remnants of the gases not removed by the powerful air pumps. For this carbon Mme. Schiermann substituted tungsten filaments, which proved much more efficient.

BOY SCOUTS TO WITNESS BROWN-N. H. STATE GAME

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Nov. 19—About 50 Boy Scouts, representative of Danielson, Putnam and Moosup will see the Brown-New Hampshire state football game at the stadium in Providence Saturday through the courtesy of the Brown management and the co-operation of Secretary Edwin Hill of the Windham county Y. M. C. A. and the Rotary clubs of Danielson and Putnam. Perhaps that doesn't represent a treat for the youngsters! Arrangements were going on Friday to obtain the necessary transportation to Providence and return. Rotary club members likely will furnish most of the cars required to get the boys and their mentors to the game and safely home again. The Scouts will see the game admission free, and it is not too much to predict that some other pleasant surprises await them during the course of the trip.

Rt. Rev. Ernest V. Shayler, D. D., bishop of Nebraska, who is a guest this week of Rev. and Mrs. Richard D. Hatch at Brooklyn, all having been members of a party that made a tour of Palestine last winter, is to preach at the evening service at St. Alban's church Sunday. Dr. Shayler, a distinguished American and an outstanding leader of the Episcopal church, is a speaker of especial forcefulness and ability.

At the undertaking rooms of A. F. Wood on Academy street Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock funeral services for James Thompson Peckham were conducted by Rev. Roger C. Stimson of the Methodist Episcopad church. Burial was in Westfield cemetery. The bearers were Rodney Lloyd, William Mason, Henry E. Anderson, Arthur Baribeault, Floyd Sweet and Herbert Lyman.

Mrs. Eva E. Hopkins, 48, wife of George L. Hopkins and resident in Foster, died Thursday at the home of her sister, Mrs. Lucius Barnes, Laurel Hill avenue, Providence. The body was brought to the home in Foster by Undertaker A. F. Wood. Besides her husband Mrs. Hopkins leaves two sons, Lester C. and Raymond S., and a daughter, Alice L. Hopkins, all of Foster.

Friday morning the funeral of Mathias Bernier was held from his home on the West Side with services at St. James' church. Three masses were celebrated simultaneously. A solemn high mass of requiem had as celebrant Rev. Joseph A. Demers with Rev. James McCarthy, M. S., and Rev. Fr. Denault, M. S., as deacon and subdeacon. At the side altars Rev. Fr. Mollard, M. S. and Rev. Joseph Deschaux, M. S. were celebrants of other requiem masses. Many relatives and friends attended the sbervices. Burial was in Holy Cross cemetery, Rev. Fr. Mollard conducting the committal service. The bearers were Joseph Fournier, Anselm Bernier, George Cloutier, Arthur Grenon, Amadee Lemeux, Joseph Bernier. Matrin T. Burns was the funeral director.

BISHOP'S CROSSING BRIDGE IS NOW OPEN

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Nov. 19—Traffic on the Danielson-Norwich route was passing over the new bridge across the tracks of the New Haven road at Bishop's crosing in south Plainfield today, the route having been opened late Thursday. The detour off the main highway and across the tracks that has been in use since last spring has been abandoned.

Thus is eliminated one of the most dangerous grade crossings in eastern Connecticut, a place where several fatal accidents have occurred and where persons have been injured and where there have been many narrow escapes The elimination of this crossing was one of the most expensive undertakings by the state highway department in this part of the state, the work involving the building of long ascending approaches to the bridge from each side of the track, as the country thereabouts is comparatively level.

BEAUTIFUL SNOW OWL SEEN NEAR DANIELSON

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Nov. 19—A beautiful snow owl—a giant of the species—has been observed by Game Warden Gurdon E. Withey while he was going through woodland territory a few miles west of Danielson. These owls are rarely ever seen in this section of eastern Connecticut, inhabiting country much farther north. Warden Withey said the owl was perched on a wall when he first observed it and too distant to be taken with the revolver that was the only weapon the warden was carrying at the time. A few specimens of snow owls are in collections of mounted birds owned hereabouts, but they are not plentiful. The snow owl's presence might be taken as an excuse for predicting a hard winter, but that sort of prophecy has been overdone this season.

Killingly's evening school promises to be of great value to the majority of those attending it. Of about 70 attending the school about one-third have no knowledge of English and others have only a very limited knowledge of the language. All are earnest in acquainting themselves with the language of the United States, that they may have a better understanding of many things and that life may be more pleasant for them.

Teddy Reeves and Bertram Godreau as forwards, Bill Armington at center, Stanley Keech and Lionel Poirer as guards will make up the speedy Danielson town basketball team that will play its first game of the season here on Thanksgiving night. Germaine Meunier and Bob Fulton are reserve players in a team that should make a very creditable record during the months that they will play. The team went splendidly last winter though getting a late season start.

Persons who have had occasion to travel some of the little used highways in various towns hereabouts tell of how the heavy rains of the past ten days have washed and damaged some of them. Nearly three inches of rain has fallen in this territory since a week ago Tuesday, the last down-pour beginning late Thursday night and continuing into the early hours of Friday morning.

Vegetable contributions that are to be barreled and sent to the Deaconess home at Providence are being received at the Methodist church today (Saturday).

Mrs. Christopher Andrews of Cambridge is visiting here with her son, Tyler P. Andrews.

State officers from the Danielson barracks will be on patrol duty today in various parts of the state incident to handling the heavy traffic moving to the Yale-Harvard game at New Haven.

Of the patients to the Day Kimball hospital at Putnam in the year covered by its recent annual report, 147 were residents of the town of Killingly. This town sends more patients to the hospital than any other county town excepting Putnam only.

Special Sunday dinner 11 a. m. to 6 p. m. at Attawaugan hotel will include consomme julienne, roast Vermont turkey, apple stuffing, giblet sauce, vegetables, waldorf salad, peach fritters, selection of desserts; dinner, $1.25.—Adv.

Mrs. A. W. Dawson of Elmville was among those from this town attending sessions of the National grange at Portland, Me.

This is the last Saturday of the open hunting season this fall a fact that will cause an unusually large number of hunters to go afield.

A marriage at East Killingly last Sunday afternoon by Rev. W. D. Hetherington was that of Miss Florence Bailey and Leslie Shippee, both of that community.

PUTNAM

CHARLES MOSLEY OF POMFRET FOUND DEAD

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Nov. 19.—The body of Charles Mosley was found at his home in Pomfret Thursday night. He had killed himself with a shotgun borrowed from a neighbor. He was about 70 years old and lived alone. No reason is known for the suicide.

The annual meeting of the Connecticut Library Association, which has been in session for two days of this week, closed its sessions yesterday afternoon. Eric H. Johnson, a member of the board of the public library of Putnam for a number of years welcomed the association. Miss Corinne Bacon of New Britain, president of the association, paid a well deserved tribute to Caroline M. Hewins, for more than 50 years librarian at Hartford, and calling special attention to her recent book which the author had not lived to see published, "The Mid-Century Child and His Books." Miss E. Louise Jones, field secretary of the division of public libraries of Massachusetts, spoke on The Measuring Stick of Rural Libraries. Brief reports were given of the anniversary meeting of the American Library association, Dr. Marry Elmer Barnes, professor of historical sociology at Smith college spoke of the Intellectual Freedom and Human Progress.

There was a general discussion of the papers of Miss Belle Holcomb on the relation of the Connecticut Library association to the Connecticut library committee and Mrs. Bacon's talk on the subject of the Policy and Work of the Connecticut Library Association.

At the afternoon session of the second day, Miss Leonard S. Power of the New York public library gave a most interest address on "Foreign Picture Books". She spoke of the changes during recent years in the appearance in the picture book in various countries of Europe. She displayed many foreign books of this nature, and stressed the return of the silhouette in an improved and attractive form, in the picture books of Europe, also noting that this same style was becoming more common in America.

The Parent-Teachers association of this city have been invited to attend a meeting of the same organization of Plainfield to be held at the community house at the place on next Tuesday evening. The meeting was postponed from Wednesday of this week. The Putnam organization will furnish part of the musical program of the evening.

The following is a list of the new books recently added to the shelves of the Thompson public library: Old Youth, Dawson; Flying Fighter, Roberts; Hounds of Spring, Thompson; Fernande, Maxwell; Autumn, Reymont; Instruments of Darkness, Milles; Blind Goddess, Train; Black Flemings, Norris; Vanguard of American Volunteers, Morse; 200th Anniversary of Congregational Church, Chesire, Conn.; Kate Douglass Wiggin, as Her Sister Knew Her, Smith; One Increasing Purpose, Hutchinson; Across the Continent, Johnson; Adventures of Talemaque, Fenelon; Napoleon, Dumas; Picciola, Saintine; La Seige de la Rochelle, Genlis; Grand Pere, Pusay; Chefs D'Oeyre, Racine; La Sain Bible; German and English Dictionary, Adler; Leatherface; Cease Firing, Orczy; Little City of Hope, Crawford; Yellow Dove, Gibbs; Open Market, Bacon; Picture of Polly, Courtney; Reluctant Imposter, Hine; Sorrell and Son, Deeping; Elope If You Must, Bath; Mannequin, Hurst; Barbarian Lover, Pedler; Trumpeter Swan, Bailey; Emma McChesney & Co., Ferber; Afternoon, Erts; Connecticut Beautiful, Nuttings.

From Mrs. Colcieugh: Clew in the Glass, Ferguson; Golden Dishes, Masnamara; Root of All Evil, Fletcher; In Naaman's House, Finney; West of Dodge, Ogden; Conquest of Brasil, Nash; Uncle Sam's Sailors, Green; Modern Aladdins and Their Magic, Rugh; Downey of the Mounted, Hendryx; Sage Hen, Buskley; Heart of Black Papua, Taylor; Test of Donald Norton, Pinkerton; Silver Forest, Williams; Adventurous Bowmen, Pope; Running Special, Packard; My Life As An Explorer, Hedin; Golden Squaw, Whalen; Treasure, Terhune; White Waters and Black, MacCreach.

About 150 boys of high school age and younger, all members of the Windham county Y. M. C. A. will go to Providence on Saturday under the supervision of L. Edwin Hill, county secretary, as guests of the Brown university football association and will attend the Brown-New Hampshire game.

Mrs. Grace Child Bevan of Hart-ford, formerly of Putnam, is the guest of her sister, Miss Elizabeth Child of Grove street. While here Mrs. Bevan has been attending the meetings of the Connecticut Library association held at Odd Fellows' hall.

Worcester Polytechnic institute has recently granted to the Putnam high school the certificate privilege for three years ending Jan. 1, 1930. Putnam high school has for a number of years sent some very good pupils to the Worcester Polytechnic institute and it is expected that several of the best students of Putnam high school will enter that institution in the near future.

At the Congregational church at 10:30 Sunday morning, the Rev. Dr. George L. Cady, secretary of the American Missionary association will preach the morning sermon. At 6:30 p. m. there will be an important business meeting of the Young People's society after which the society will go to Woodstock by automobile to witness a stereopticon lecture by Dr. Cady on The Japanese in California.

The Rt. Rev. E. V. Shayler, D. D., bishop of Nebraska, will preach at 10:30 in the morning at St. Philip's Episcopal church. Bishop Shayler has recently returned from Palestine where he headed the First Church Pilgrimage to the Holy Places.

There was a large attendance at the parsonage on Thursday evening when the Rho Delta class of the Methodist church met with Mrs. Burton. There was an interesting discussion on The Chief Characteristics of the South.

Postmaster Archibald Macdonald announces that he has been requested by the postmster general at Washington to endeavor to enlist the aid of business and civic organizations, for early mailing of Christmas packages, letters and cards.

"The Christmas job is a hard one for all postal workers," said Postmaster Macdonald. "With the immense volume of pracel post that has been of late years going through the mails, the Christmas mail can only be expeditiously handled if the public will mail early. Mailing early doesn't mean the day before Christmas td points 200 to 800 miles from Putnam. It means three weeks to Pacific Ocean points; the middle of November to England, France, Spain, Germany, Belgium, Holland, etc.

"For several years people have been mailing their packages several days earlier than they used to, possibly a week, or in some cases, ten days before Christmas, but they haven't been mailing their Christmas cards early. Cards mailed a day or two days or three days before this Christmas, is going to make it a hard job to handle. Christmas comes on Saturday. If cards for Puntam are turned into the post office on Saturday, the 18th, a week before, or Monday, the 20th, there will be little chance of congestion."

The Elk's club and the Masonic club of Putnam have appointed committees to arrange for tournaments between the clubs in the various indoor sports, which will include auction bridge, whist, pool, billiards, checkers and chess. The Masonic club held a bean supper in the banquet hall of the club for members and guests this week.

JEWETT CITY

HI-JACKERS FOLLOWED TRUCK OVER SIXTY MILES

(Special to The Bulletin)

JEWETT CITY, Nov. 19—Lorenzo Marion left Hazelton, Penn., early Wednesday morning, with the Asoland Cotton company's big Reo truck, loaded with silk warp, to the value of several thousands of dollars, to be used in the extensive rayon manufacturing now being carried on by the local company. Albert Bryant was accompanying the driver on the long trip. The cargo was lashed in and protected from possible weather inclemencies, by means of a heavy canvas cover, securely tied at the sides and corners. Everything went well on the trip up through northeastern Pennsylvania, and the New York bordering counties of New Jersey. The Hudson was crossed, then came the long stretch to the eastern end of Connecticut.

Coming in to Bridgeport, in the Black Rock secton, four state troopers held up the truck, and, evidently deeming the canvas cover as suspicious, made a search of the cargo.

Everything being O. K., young Marion proceeded. Some little way east of Bridgeport, the men on the truck detected suspicious action on the part of the drivers of two following machines, one a touring car with New York registration, the other being somewhat smaller. Presently the lighter machine of the two pulled up in front of the truck, and Marion stopped, whereupon he was asked for a match, which he declared he didn't have. Meanwhile the whole "hi-jacker" gang, six in all, got out in the road and as the truck driver was explaining that he had no matches, he saw, out of the corner of his eye, one of the men lift up the canvas flap and peer hurriedly underneath. Mr. Marion then popped wise to the game. These men thought he was transporting a load of liquor, and, in the line of their business they proposed to "lift" the same, at the first offered opportunity.

Mr. Marion, being on his seat, was able to make a get-away, and in advance of both the automobiles.

Numerous times, before Norwich was reached, the smaller machine attempted to cut in ahead, but as often as its driver tried the game the truck operator swung over and cut him off.

In New London, a side street detour proved futile as the gang overtook the truck again a few miles out. In Norwich, Mr. Marion pulled up near the Palace theatre, only to have his action adopted by his pursuers.

Nothing could have been gained by attempting to explain to the Norwich police, as his shadowers hadn't made a hostile move, only in the repeated attempts of the smaller machine to cut in ahead.

These tactics were put into operation twice between Norwich and Jewett City, where, having arrived, Marion entered the Main street restaurant. One of the men, wearing a heavy white sweater followed in, and after purchasing two packages of cigarettes came over to the counter and gave one pack to Marion. He then told the plucky driver, "Say!" he said, "I don't know you and, you don't know me, but you've got anything stopped for a driver that I've stacked up against," adding: "And say! If you ever want a job in the game, let me know, and I'll fix you right." Before Mr. Marion had opportunity to relate his experiance to Officer Vegiard, the two machines and their passengers had disappeared.

It is believed by the police that the road thieves expected to tire Marion out, or at least find out his destination. They dare not take the risk of open hostilities, with machines always in sight, neither did they care to get run down by the heavy truck. It is doubtful if the most experienced "fence" or stolen goods operator would be able to negotiate silk rayon warp. There is no belief here other than that the thieves were fooled in the load.

RED CROSS PUBLICITY DISTRIBUTED BY AIRPLANE

(Special to The Bulletin)

JEWETT CITY, Nov. 19—Jewett City chapter of the American Red Cross is the first chapter, in this part of the state that has had its publicity matter distributed from an airplane. Robert Kamm of Narragansett Pier has been in town for some time and kindly consented to help the Red Cross roll call by throwing fliers from his airplane. The wind storm broke one of the wings of the plane, but it has been repaired, and this afternoon he flew over the chairman's home with the fliers as he had agreed to do. He will distribute the rest of them today (Saturday) and Sunday over other parts of the town.

A special Thanksgiving service will be held at Pachaug church Sunday morning.

Wallace H. Payne, Jr., infant son of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Payne, died Thursday morning at 10 o'clock of bronchial pneumonia. The parents and a sister Barbara survive the little one, who was only fourteen hours old.

No mention, having been made of the generosity of Jewett City people in contributing to the Backus hospital auxiliary, Fair of Nations, the committee who solicited candy and aprons both here and Newent feel that it is no more than just to express their personal appreciation. More than 75 pounds of home made candy and a number of aprons were sent from this vicinity. There are a number of members of the Backus hospital auxiliary living in Jewett City and Anne Brewster Fanning chapter, D. A. R., has furnished a room with comfortable and lovely equipment this last year.

An annual Christmas sale and sup-per was held at the Methodist church Thursday afternoon. The committees in charge were:

Fancy work, Mrs. A. C. Burdick, Mrs. J. W. Carter; aprons, Mrs. Ella Geer, Mrs. George Thornton; candy, Mrs. Alice Anthony, Mrs. E. S. Cheney, Mrs. Francis Liberty; handkerchief, Mrs. Albert Harris; supper, Mrs. Ruth Thornton, Mrs. L. D. Hone, Mrs. R. W. Robertson, Mrs. William Robertson, Jr., Mrs. William Jeffers, Mrs. Thomas Gray, Martha Mell, Mrs. Dora Johnson, Mrs. Webster, Mrs. Harry Davis, Mrs. Charles Rathbun, Mrs. Merion Bugbee, Mrs. McDowell, Mrs. Joseph Wharton and Mrs. Harry Hawes. A baked bean and salad supped was served.

A silk Red Cross banner has been offered to the state which shows the greatest percentage of members in proportion to its population. It is offered by the national secretary, Miss Mabel T. Beardman. Connecticut is considered the third best Red Cross state in the Union.

John S. Ray, formerly boss spin-ner in the William A. Slater mills, now of Troy, N. Y., is spending a few days in the home town.

Two local Aspinock men may just-ly lay claim to some distinction for their musical and dancing skill. Henry Lockwood who recently won the highest prize for artistic dancing in Westerly, has now, with his female partner, been taken on one of the regular Keith circuits in which they appear in dancing skits.

John Pinkley, whose singing many have found pleasant to hear, sang solo tenor in a Boston choir last Sunday, in one of the churches of that city. "Smithie" (Fred Smith) a local young man is on his way back to Miami, in his H. F. speed bus.

Rev. Myron Genter, presiding eld-er of this district of the Methodist church will preach at the local Methodist church Sunday morning. He will be the speaker at the union service to be held in the Baptist church Sunday evening.

There will be no service at Newent church Sunday as Rev. and Mrs. W. J. Reynolds are visiting relatives in New Jersey.

The local authorities call attention to the fact that children who are playing "peggy" in the streets are taking a chance at getting killed. Also, it is a dangerous game for passing travelers. It is reported by an officer that a man from Massachusetts in his automobile was struck by a flying peggy and had his eyeglasses broken.

EAST HADDAM

Mrs. Francis L. Rathbun, Miss Sarah L. Parker and Mr. and Mrs. F. T. Brooks returned Monday from Portland, Me., where they attended the annual session of the national grange.

Marshall Emmons was in New Haven Sunday to see Mrs. Emmons who is a patient at the New Haven hospital.

W. C. Parke is busily engaged in tearing down the old school house near the Congregational church.

John Blaschik has left the employ of Williams Bros., and is with the Chevrolet Co., in Hartford.

Miss Grace Alger has returned from Middlesex hospital, where she underwent an operation for appendicitis.

Mrs. Alice Lecrenier is visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank S. Lecrenier, in New Britain.

Miss Martha W. Alden, who has been in poor health for some time has entered Hartford hospital for treatment.

EAGLEVILLE

Miss Etta Swift, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George D. Swift of this place and Clifford T. Blank of Glastonbury were married Nov. 11th at 12 a. m. at the Congregational parsonage at Mansfield Center. Rev. Mrs. Florence Jones performed the ceremony which was witnessed by the parents of the bride and groom. After a wedding trip to Washington, D. C., the newly married couple will reside in Glastonbury where Mr. Blank is engaged in farming.

Sheriff and Mrs. F. O. Vinton entertained over the week end Mr. Frank Kent of New London and Mr. and Mrs. Edward Rogers of New Haven.

Miss Doris Bentley and Clarence Finley were married Monday at South Coventry by Rev. Dennis Moran. Miss Ida Labonte of Willimantic and William Miner of Rockville were the attendants After a wedding trip Mr. and Mrs. Finley will make their home in Rockville. Mrs. Finley made her home here with her grandmother, Mrs. Lydia Harris, for some time before her marriage.

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Johnson and daughter visited Mr. and Mrs. Carl Goodman at Easthampton Saturday.

Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Warren were Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Lillibridge of West Hartford. Mr. and Mrs. Carl Warren and Gladys Anderson of New Britain. Mr. and Mrs Alfred Warren and daughter of Storrs. Miss Vivier Johnson of Willimantic and Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Johnson and daughter.

Mrs. Carpenter and daughter of Willington spent Wednesday with Mrs. William Converse and Mrs. Alfred Johnson.

RED CROSS ROLL CALL

The appeal which is being made in behalf of the Red Cross is general and is one that should receive a general response. Here is an emergency organization whose services are sought at the most unexpected times, and yet it is known that when appeals are made to it for relief they are always answered. It is through the support which is given to the American Red Cross by the people of this country in becoming members that much of its funds are obtained for use in relieving distress. Thus the more members there are the more funds are available and the greater the work that can be done.

It is a fine record of services rendered through the forwarding of funds that the local organization made during the past year. It is one in which all its members can take pride for who is there that isn't desirous and eager to have a hand in extending aid to those in trouble.

For the individual to undertake in an emergency to relieve distress conditions is out of the question. Time and again has it been demonstrated that the need is for an organization ready and prepared to answer at the first call. It is necessary to have those who are experienced in dealing with such situations and it is important that the many necessary requirements for helping the sick, injured, homeless and hungry should be anticipated and be subject to call.

That is the service in which the American Red Cross has been engaged most commendably for years. It is a fine record of achievement it has established and it has long since been made apparent through its work that it is indispensible. By its good works it is known far and wide, and it is the first thing that is thought of when relief is required because it is ready and equipped for immediate service.

Thus when appeals are made for the annual renewal of memberships there should be readiness to respond, a desire on the part of the many to contribute what is necessary to keep the organization up to its high state of efficiency. The Red Cross is known by its good works and there should be a desire to have them continued, which is, in fact, the goal sought by the annual roll call.

DOWN IN NICARAGUA

Developments in Nicaragua have taken a new turn. It is a republic where trouble is always to be found or is brewing. When peace seems to have been established and a new era opening up it is only the beginning of something new, for Nicaragua is a long way from adjusting its difficulties by the ballot. It is one of those republics where the bullet is the real persuasive power and that is the medium which too frequently changes administrations down there.

The present difficulties were precipitated when General Chamorro overthrew the government about a year ago. Whether he expected it or not he must have known that his consequent, established in that way, could never get the sanction of the United States, which has long since stood for constitutional government in its neighboring republics. Chamorro was quickly opposed and the liberal forces did their best to elect him. There was trouble but they got nowhere. This country was taking sides with neither one, but it did offer the suggestion of a compromise in behalf of law and order with the result that Chamorro recognized that he must yield and he did so by resigning. That permitted the naming of a new president by the Nicaraguan congress in keeping with constitutional requirements.

For the office Adolfo Diaz was named and having come to the office in a legitimate way he and his government have been recognized by the United States. In the meantime an embargo on arms in that country from the United States was put in effect and it still exists. Through Mexican source, the opponents of the Chamorro and the Diaz governments have been receiving arms and assistance, so it is claimed and President Diaz protests that he can do nothing as long as such a situation prevails. He thus asks for the aid of this country in an endeavor to suppress such support of the revolutionary forces. He wants intervention by Uncle Sam and if in response to his representations that this government is endeavoring to clear up the situation, which has resulted in the landing of some marines and others are where they can be quickly obtained if necessary. Trying to maintain peaceful conditions, and law and order in the Central American countries is nothing new but however altruistic it may be it seldom is appreciated.

RESTS WITH SENATE

There are those who give the impression since the recent speech of the president at Kansas City that he ought to have devoted further efforts to get the senate to compromise with the other nations in regard to our entry into the world court. They are mindful that the president was an advocate of adherence that he urged it upon the senate and that he sanctioned the reservations made by the senate, although when it came to the reservations the senate went further than would have been necessary to obtain his endorsement.

For that reason those who are disposed to criticise carry the idea that the president ought to use his power of persuasion to get the senate to consider the matter from the standpoint of the other nations and at least try to get it to recede from its position. They, of course, give no consideration to the situation which has prevailed in the senate relative to the world court, they pay no attention to the fact that but for the reservations as adopted it would have been impossible for adherence to have been voted and they fail to realize that the probable result of an attempt to get a modification on the part of the senate would be a refusal to adhere on any terms.

The president has repeatedly presented his position relative to the world court. He urged adherence upon the senate. The senate has stated the terms of such adherence. The fact that these terms are not satisfactory to the other nations leaves the matter entirely up to he senate which is alone responsible for the attitude by the other nations which are members of the court. The president doesn't say that nothing further shouldn't be done but he makes it clear that he is convinced that nothing can be expected from the senate as at present made up, and recognises the folly of undertaking such a hopeless task. It is a situation which has been created by the senate and that body is not in a mood for modification. When the president indicates that it is not a propitious time to try to get it to change its mind he must be given credit for knowing what he is talking about, critics to the contrary notwithstanding.

WORKING FOR NEW ENGLAND

The New England conference this week at Hartford has sounded again the note for increased interest and activity in behalf of New England business and industry. There is plenty of evidence as to what other sections of the country are doing in this respect. There is attention given to the results being obtained and it is inevitable that New England should be awakened to the importance of getting back of a New England movement. There are states which are larger than the whole of New England but they have no greater opportunities that New England has if it will but furnish that coperation to arrive at the desired goal.

President Lawrence of the New England council shows what is needed when he says, "For the next year I believe the council should stimulate efforts to break down artificial barriers impeding the most economic production and distribution of power, standardization and better marketing of agricultural products, reforestation of areas unfit for agriculture to meet the growing demands for and decreasing supply of lumber, community interest in local industry, the elimination of every form of waste, just taxation, intelligent marketing and research and especially the erection of a new attitude of mind toward ourselves," and then he pointedly reminded the body that "your council insists that it will not undertake so much that it can accomplish nothing, but reminds you that its accomplishment will be limited by the measure of your support."

It is when all are putting their shoulder to the wheel that the best results are to be obtained. It is for the interest of all New England that this group of states should be actively concerned in making New England as productive and prosperous as lies within their power. Through the instrumentality of the New England council thought is being directed in a much neglected channel and it is to be hoped that the guidance will not only be continued but be as effective as needed.

BUTLER REMAINS

By the decision of William M. Butler of Massachusetts to continue as chairman of the republican committee it is evident that he is acting in accord with the desires of the president, whose wishes are bound to govern in connection with that office, and that he does not regard the recent election result in the Bay state as in any way affecting the chairmanship. As he says the fact that he will not be burdened with the duties of the senatorship gives him fuller opportunity for discharging the working of the national committee chairman, in which office he has been particularly successful and where he holds the confidence of the head of the party.

President Coolidge has not said whether he is to be a candidate to succeed himself. It is possible to infer that inasmuch as he has retained Mr. Butler as chairman of the national committee that he intends to be a candidate, but whether he does or not, whether he has reached a decision or not, it is apparent that he does not believe that this is the time for making a change in that office and that nothing which has taken place calls for any such step. If there are reasons for making a change in the chairmanship they will be made, but at the present time they are lacking.

THE MAN WHO TALKS

The modern boy will take advice from anybody in the world before he will take it from his dad. He sees nothing unreasonable in asking a traffic cop how to get to West Fayette street; but he never thinks of asking his father which is the usual way to the street called Straight, which runs like a blessed highway through the tangled traffic system of men." This is a quotation taken from a recent issue of Association Men, the organ of The Young Men's Christian association. Whether this is typical of the majority of boys is difficult to state. That it is true of a certain type of boy is beyond question. When it comes to information along moral lines why is it that the modern boy is a paradox? Along other lines he thinks his own father is a perfect paragon of information. He likes to hear his father talk of his past career in athletics, in his studies, and in his general information. How often he says, "I'll ask dad—he knows."

Well, Armistice day has come and gone and what do you think of it? One thing is quite evident, had there not been a big idea back of it such a parade as Norwich furnished would have been an utter impossibility. To get together 26 bands and fully as many if not more organizations, widely separated in purpose and sentiment, would be unthinkable, were there not running through them all a certain spirit of unity. These organizations one and all felt the importance of Armistice day. They realized that it emphasized a matter of lasting historical importance. It marked the close of the most tragic and utterly-uncalled for war in human history. No great principle of human government was at stake. It was not even a fight for the kingdom of righteousness. Back of that parade was this spirit: Let there be no more war!

How slight are the influences that produce wide divergence in human destinies. Nature is very rich in her illustrations of this fact. Let a single one of them suffice. In a certain township of central Ohio is a courthouse so situated that the gently falling raindrop on the north side of the roof makes its way northward into Lake Erie, over Niagara Falls, through Lake Ontario and the St. Lawrence river to the Atlantic. But the drop that chances to fall on the south side of the same roof makes its way southward through the Ohio and Mississippi rivers to the Gulf of Mexico. A gentle breeze determines whether the falling rain drop is to end up in the north Atlantic or in the Gulf of Mexico. In 1853 a recent graduate of Harvard known as Charles W. Eliot was offered the position of treasurer of a certain textile establishment of Lowell, Mass. His salary was to be $5000—very large for that day. Had it been accepted how different would Harvard college and learning generally have been.

Things that are now transpiring in Italy remind us of a little incident that did not work out according to schedule on Nov. 5th, 1605, when Guy Fawkes attempted to blow up the houses of parliament. The recent experiences of Mussolini logically recall the Gunpowder plot, and we associate the Italian dictator with Guy Fawkes, but inversely. Guy Fawkes was the man who tried to get rid of Westminster hall, and Mussolini is the man whom the anti-fascisti are trying hard to put out of commission. But he will be saved as the parliament buildings were more than 300 years ago if better marksmanship does not appear in the future than in the last four months. In these attempts at assassination we see idiocy raised to the nth degree for two reasons, it throws around the person of Mussolini the halo of sanctity, if not of divinity, and makes the ignorant and superstitious believe that the premier is immune from murder. It gives to fascism tremendous prestige.

A current magazine contains an article entitled: "Do ministers think?" What an absurd question! Absurd, because everybody knows they don't think. Their non-thinking is what distinguishes them from doctors, lawyers, teachers, editors and especially politicians, who are great thinkers. All that a minister has to do is to stand up in his pulpit, open his beautiful mouth, and at once there proceeds therefrom the profoundest thought clothed in choice Anglo-Saxon speech, which would make political orators green with envy if they were ever seen inside of a church. The ex-minister who wrote that article knows what he is talking about. He gave his people such carefully prepared diet its objective in the larger communities within the same states. In Vermont, small in area, having few cities and no large ones, lying at the door of the great industrial centers, an unusually large proportion of those citizens who determined to seek larger communities went beyond the borders of the state. But the changes thus described have been in progress in Vermont for a long period. The population has increased little in the last 50 years."

A Green Mountain Problem

In other words, this movement of population, part of a general movement in evidence of the country over, is distinctly for Vermont a state problem, and it may be so described as it affects Maine and New Hampshire. Were Vermont included in the state of New England the movement from farm to city would properly be regarded as element in a problem of nation-wide extent, and so not peculiar to any one region. The people moving away from the farms of the Connecticut valley and the Green mountains would in perhaps the great majority of cases remain, residents of the state of New England, having settled in its industrial centers. The state would have continued to grow in substantial measure. Census figures show that the growth of New England in population compares favorably with that of the country.

That the state of New England would share with the rest of the country in such problems as the population movement from rural to urban areas may offer is shown by Mr. Rossiter when he calls attention to the fact that in 1920 there were 3065 counties in the United States, and of these one-third, or about 1,000, showed decrease of population. It may interest some of our pessimistic New Englanders to be told that the areas most directly involved were the North Central states and the southwest. Commenting on the significance of the figures, Mr. Rossiter writes as follows:

The extensive population decreases in so many counties, the wide distribution of the areas involved, and the number o finstances in which entire states were seriously affected naturally create some concern. To a limited degree it is justified. The county decreases begin to register in some detail the extent to which men and women are turning from isolated farms or small villages to larger communities. This tendency is no recent development. It was coincident with the development of the factory system and the necessary concentration of man-power in small areas.

New England's Untamed Waters

Consider another of its much discussed difficulties which would disappear if New England were a single state. Again comparison with New York is suggested. The Empire state possesses magnificent water power, including its share of the electric energy developed at Niagara on the international border. There are no state lines to interfere with the distribution of this power throughout an area three-fourths the size of New England. Power is actually transmitted over distances greater than those from some of the rivers of Maine to manufacturing cities in Massachusetts. But Maine have closed the gates, as far as legislation can do so, against the transmission of power beyond her borders, save for the exception made by the people themselves with reference to power generated from the tides at Passamaquoddy bay, should plans for a great plant there be carried out. So we have here a question between states. It is a question that would not exist were New England one state instead of six.

These state lines dividing into six parts a region that might be among the larger states of the union limit the field from which one vital necessity of New England's most populous area may be drawn. Massachusetts has embarked upon an enterprise calling for the expenditure of many millions of dollars in order that the flood waters of the Swift river may be made a part of the supply of metropolitan Boston and Worcester. Perhaps the present plan would have been adopted were the line between Massachusetts and New Hampshire not on the map, but it is conceivable that were New England a single state Boston's water supply might have come from the north instead of from the west. Certainly the legislature of the state of New England could have looked farther afield than could the general court of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts.

As the North Would Gain

From these suggestions it might seem that the southern portion of the region would have most to gain were New England a single state, but there is another side to the picture. If New England were united under one state government, money raised by taxation levied on the rich and populous industrial portions of it would, in part, be spent in building roads and in meeting other costs of government in the sparsely settled northern portion with its great area. For example, the fees paid by motorists in Massachusetts would constitute a large part of a general fund available for highway development throughout all New England. Maintenance of institutions for the sick and unfortunate would likewise be met from taxation levied on New England as a whole. Financially northern New England might be the gainer through the union of the states. It is conceivable that people who had removed from Vermont to seek fortune in the industrial centers of Massachusetts would in the event of such combination be paying directly or indirectly taxes that would go to help meet governmental expenses in their native state.

But nobody is likely seriously to advocate the creation of the state of New England. The division of the region into the six parts brings with it one advantage so great as to overshadow all the disadvantages. Six New England states have 12 members of the United States senate. The state of New England would have but two. With the 12 senators, the New England states send 44 members to congress. New York with only two senators sends 45. New York with its ten million people, has in the national legislature only one more member than does New England with its seven million. In the senate, the seven million have six times the representation of the ten million. Take Pennsylvania, second state in population, with more than eight million inhabitants. It has total representation in congress of 38, as compared with 44 for New England. The commanding influence exerted by New England in the senate is in part to be explained by the fact that a succession of senatorial groups of 12 is more likely to provide outstanding figures than a succession of senators serving two at a time.

There remains what many would regard as disadvantage to follow the creation of a state of New England. They would see in it the loss of that form of local self-government which comes with the division of region into the six states. Just now, it is probable that the people of New Hampshire would prefer to have proposed abandonments of their railroads considered in Concord rather than in Boston. So in the conduct and regulation of many other activities.

No state of New England will take its place in the American union, but the picture of what it would be like, with some consideration of the effect its existence would have upon matters of New England interest, is not without interest and value. It enforces the wisdom of better understanding among the states on matters of common concern. It should inspire more sympathetic consideration by all New England of the peculiar problems of some of its member states. It emphases the opportunity for useful service by such a body as the New England conference.

IF NEW ENGLAND WERE A SINGLE STATE

It New England were one state instead of six, some of the problems which may be brought before the New England conference at its meeting in Hartford this week probably would not be regarded as existent, or would be looked upon as evidences of nation-wide tendencies rather than of local troubles. Before considering them, it may be of interest to imagine a state of New England and assign to it its rank in the sisterhood of the states, writes F. G. Fassett in the Boston Transcript.

The state of New England would not be noticeably large in area in comparison with the other states. It would include 66,424 square miles of land, lakes and streams. Texas would be four times and California more than twice as large, Missouri with 69,420 square miles, and Washington with 69,127, would be the states nearest in size. New England would rank in area 30th among the states. It would be nearly half way down the list. But it would be considerably larger than New York, with 49,204 square miles, and somewhat larger than Florida with 58,666.

In the New Enland "say it" Maine, with 33,040 square miles, contains about half the area, but it ranks 38th among the states. The other five New England states are among the smallest in the Union. Vermont, New Hampshire and Massachusetts rank respectively as 32nd, 43rd, and 44th. Only Delaware and Rhode Island are smaller than Connecticut, and Rhode Island is just about half as large as Delaware.

The Third State in Population

Had New England been a single state when the census of 1920 was taken, it would have ranked third in population. Its 7,400,000 inhabitants would have been exceeded only by the 10,385,000 of New York, and the 8,720,000 of Pennsylvania. Illinois, which the census placed in third position, with 6,485,000 inhabitants, would have been forced to fourth place.

But this prominence among the states would have been due to the density of population in the southern portion of the state of New England. As it was, Massachusetts with nearly four million people in 1920, was the sixth state of the Union in population rank. Maine, New Hampshire and Vermont contained only a million and a half inhabitants of the seven million New England total, yet these states included very much more than half the area of the region. Here is suggestion of one of New England's present-day problems.

Concentration of population in cerpends to conditions elsewhere corresponds to coditions elsewhere. There is such concentration in individual states. More than half the population of New York is in its great city. New York has its counties where population is scanty in comparison with the more densely populated regions. New York has areas where the land once devoted to agriculture is going back to nature. The New York State Farm bureau held a meeting in Syracuse last week and it was there stated that the farmers of the state had abandoned 275,000 acres a year for the last five years. A touch of sentiment came along with the figures when it was added that these abandoned farms have broken a lot of hearts as well as pocketbooks.

New York and Vermont

But when agriculture declines in parts of New York, the loss in population is much more than made up by the growth elsewhere within the state. It is illustrative of conditions in most of the other states of the Union. Mr. W. S. Rossiter of Concord, N. H., president of the Rumford Press, was formerly an official of the federal census bureau. His standing as a statistician has been recognized by his election to the presidency of the American Statistical association. Following the taking of the census of 1920, he was selected to write a monograph explanatory of the tendencies revealed by population figures.

In that work, he discusses the causes and significance of the movement from rural to urban areas. He points out how this may retard or prevent growth in population in certain of the states. Speaking of Vermont, he says: "In the case of nearly all the other states, a considerable part of the movement from country to city found courses that after a few years it thought it best to take up some other line of work. Another writer has said: "It is idle to talk about the sermon going, it has already gone. What passed for a sermon is nothing but disconnected talk." That is to say that the poor deluded people who still persist in going to church have not been fed, since we old timers stepped down and out. How long the people will stand a brainless ministry is a question.

The contribution which the little country town has made to the moral and educational betterment of the world is simply amazing. For this the small village church can justly claim a share. There was something about its educated ministry that appealed powerfully to the undeveloped energies of its young people and had much to do in bringing them out. There is scarcely a hamlet in Connecticut that cannot point with pride to some of its sons and daughters who have attained great eminence. Back in the last century the little village of Pachaug gave birth to a man who gained an international reputation as an educator, who gave luster to Andover seminary and Dartmouth college. I refer to the late Pres. William J. Tucker.

Exactly 63 years ago today, President Lincoln delivered his short but immortal address at Gettysburg. Among the minor things it suggested was the fact that a speech need not be lengthy to be impressive and durable. We are told that while he was en route from Washington to Gettysburg the address was written on a scrap of paper. It was not the product of long and elaborate preparation, but rather the spontaneous outburst of a great soul that loved justice and practiced charity. The main address on that occasion—which required two hours for its delivery—was given by Edward Everett and was from every point of view a classic oration. But in general popularity it has been completely overshadowed by the few, plain, extemporaneous remarks that came from a great sad life who longed to see the principles he believed in and stood for, verified throughout the nation.

Someone has said that "the voice returned is the telephone's greatest gift to man." The following incident, I think, will verify that statement. A good woman, glancing at the morning paper saw an item that blanched her cheek and made her nearly unconscious. It stated that a young woman having the same name as her married daughter, and living in the same city, had met with a serious automobile accident. As quickly as possible she got in touch with her daughter's home by telephone, and her daughter answered. She hardly listened to what her daughter said—she did not care. It was the "voice returned" so cheerful and pleasant that drove the pallor from her cheek and put confidence into her heart. She knew that her daughter was all right. Is it not the "voice returned" that makes the telephone so wonderful? If this voice is one you are familiar with there is no mistaking its identity, and this makes the telephone its greatest "gift to man."

Sunday Morning Talk

THE ANNUAL THANKSGIVING

In reading the Bible we are impressed by the prominence given to the duty of praise, not only are the psalm vocal with melody where heart answers to heart as deep unto deep in thanksgiving to God, but throughout the entire book from Genesis to Revelation. In the ancient days, both as individuals and as a nation, the people of God acknowledged their mercies by thank offerings and by ascription of gratitude. Whenever there was a signal, deliverance and the nation knew itself safe from peril, the song of triumph became a song of praise.

The Psalms are full of Thanksgivings. We cannot doubt that God does want to be thanked, not alone is thanksgiving due to Him, but it blessed the soul that renders it. David's thanksgiving did not end in words. His question was, "What shall I render unto the Lord." Again he says, "Because he has inclined his ear unto me I will call upon Him as long as I live."

Does it seem a far cry from an American holiday, which is also a holiday, to the times when the Old Testament was written, when men were intimate with God as children with a father; when they sometimes dared to be impatient in their importunate manner of addressing Him, and when they wrestled by night, as Jacob did, or sought Him from their beds, as Hezekiah did, and would not let Him go until He gave them a blessing? Although the elder time is distant we are built upon its foundation, and the best we have has come straight to us from the best which men had when first they consciously sought God.

The builders of this American nation were men of prayer. Whatever might we have reached since this country was settled, we have reached through the kindness and favor of Almighty God. Annually, as the president and the governors issue Thanksgiving Proclamations, the fact is borne upon us that we are a Christian nation. This in itself is a fact to make us thankful. From time to time efforts are made never successfully, to eliminate from our public proceedings the thought of God and the acknowledgment of Him as our Father and King. It cannot be done, for, the wide world over, the home of the people shelter those who long and honor their heavenly Father. The alien peoples who come to our shore may bring what they will of distrust, ignorance and superstition. They will lose these calamitous qualities and after a while be lifted into a higher atmosphere and a purer life through the influence of republican ideas founded upon the worship of a righteous God. This would not be so were the republic to cut loose from the safe moorings of belief.

"Thanks, then, O God! From sea to sea
Let every wind the anthem bear!
And hearts be rife, through toil and strife,
With joyful praise and grateful prayer.
Our father's God, their children sing
The grace they sought through storm and sun;
Our harvest tribute here we bring,
And end it with "Thy will be don."

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

The Rt. Rev. Peter T. Rowe, who is 70 years old today, is the Episcopal missionary bishop of Alaska and as such he has extended a helping hand to residents of the frozen north for more than 30 years. The diocese of Alaska, which was founded in 1895 with Dr. Rowe as its first bishop, lies on both sides of the Arctic Circle. Sitka is the bishop's seat, but his field at work is mainly the great interior of Alaska, the country drained by the Yukon, the Koyukuk and the Tanana, and the mountains and valleys to the northward. Every year Bishop Rowe has traveled more than 20,000 miles through this territory, by boat in the summer, and by dog team and reindeer in winter. During his long service in Alaska the bishop has built more than a score of churches throughout his huge diocese, has organized a number of hospitals and founded social clubs and reading rooms for the inhabitants.

Stories That Recall Others

No Pink Sheep.

A new pair of pink and white striped blankets had been bought for the home. Harriet, aged six, was the proud possessor of them. A few nights ago, after tucking her warmly in bed the mother spoke of how the sheep had given the wool to make the blankets. Harriet listened attentively, then said seriously, "Yes, mother, they gave the wool for the white part, but not for the pink part, because there are no pink sheep."

Not Out That Long.

A few days ago a woman driving an automobile was stopped for driving at an excessive speed and told to draw up to the curb.

"Why did you stop me?" demanded the woman somewhat militantly.

"You were driving through the street at the rate of 35 miles an hour," she was told.

"Oh, that can't be true," she exclaimed, "I haven't been out an hour yet."

Make the Most of Books

By James Hosmer Penniman, Litt. D.

Why Poetry Impresses Us

Poetry is life crystalized into literature, its value is in its eternal truth, in its universal adaptation to the higher needs of our nature. It is because we find in poetry what we have observed but could not formulate for ourselves that it impresses us so deeply. George Eliot said of Wordsworth's poems, "I never before met with so many of my own feelings expressed just as I should like them." "There is some awe mixed with the joy of our surprise," wrote Emerson, "when this poet, who lived in some past world, two or three hundred years ago, says that which lies close to my own Soul, that which I also had well-nigh thought and said."

Lowell thought that the highest office of a great poet is to show us how much variety, freshness, and opportunity abides in the obvious and the familiar. Great poets have concentrated in their works the thought of an age. Gladstone says that the poems of Homer constitute a world of their own. "The study of him is not a mere matter of literary criticism, but is a full study of life in every one of its departments." Poetry has somewhat the same relation to prose that a landscape painted by Corot bears to a photograph of the same scene. It is truth idealized. The poets teach us to admire beauties in nature that we have often looked at but never perceived. If it were not for Scott few people would know of Loch Katrine.

There is just as beautiful scenery elsewhere, but we are waiting for the poets to show it to us.

SCHOOL CONTRIBUTIONS WILL SUPPLY THANKSGIVING TREATS

As in past years the generosity of school children and their parents will provide this Thanksgiving the contents of the Thanksgiving Baskets to be distributed by the family welfare department of the United Workers. This voluntary contributing of supplies for the Thanksgiving feasts for needy families prevents the use of regular funds for the work and has been carried on in Norwich for many years.

There are 128 families on the list and the sum of $100 is needed for purchasing the supplies for the baskets, contributions to be sent to the family welfare department, No. 9 Washington street.

3. A. A. MUTUAL AID HELD ENJOYABLE MASQUERADE

The Engineers and Armstrong Mutual Aid held their first masquerade dance Friday evening at Odd Fellows hall with an attendance of fully 200. Pep's Melody Boys furnished the dance programme which was an excellent one. Friday night's event is the forerunner of similar events to be held this winter. Supt. William E. Futhill was in charge and among those who assisted him were Misses Anna Connell, Catherine McGowan, Agnes McGowan, Eva Levine, Nellie Malcolm, Violet Cook, Ora Malcolm, Elizabeth Hoar and Joseph Laporte and Fred Meyers. The hall was prettily decorated in colored streamers.

The judges awarded the several prizes as follows: Most beautiful costumes, M. J. Curtin and Miss Josephine Millius; most original costumes, Mrs. Josephine Hester and Raymond Montillar; funniest costumes, George Moran and Thomas Fogarty.

The judges were John E. Hayes of Worcester, James F. Tynan of Worcester and C. J. Sheehan of Boston.

CITIZENSHIP LOST BY SUPERIOR COURT CONVICTION

Town Clerk Elias B. Hinckley of Stonington has been notified by George E. Parsons, clerk of the New London county superior court, that two former Stonington residents have lost their citizenship rights during the year previous to Oct. 10, 1926, they having been convicted of serious offenses in the criminal superior court for New London county.

The two former residents who were convicted of crimes for which the privileges of an elector are forfeited are Paul Wunch, convicted of indecent assault, and Eugene Perry, convicted of statutory rape. Wunch came to Stonington from Westerly.

A number of the churches will have special music for Thanksgiving Sunday.

POST OFFICE CALLS FOR EARLY MAILING FOR CHRISTMAS SEASON

Instructions for the public as to Christmas mailing have been issued by the post office department and distributed to local offices for the information of patrons, copies having been received at the Norwich post office. The reminder that there will be no deliveries on Christmas day after 12, noon, is included with the instructions.

The post offices will make every effort to handle the Christmas mails without congestion and delay, but owing to the enormous volume this can be done only with the co-operation of the public. Compliance with the following suggestions will greatly aid the post office and insure the prompt handling of mail:

Wrapping and Packing.

All parcels must be securely wrapped or packed. Use strong paper and heavy twine.

Special Packing.

Umbrellas, canes, golf sticks, should be reinforced their full length by strong strips of wood tightly wrapped and tied to withstand transportation.

Hats: Packed in strong corrugated or fiber boxes. Ordinary pasteboard hat boxes must be crated. Ladies' hats and stiff hats easily damaged should be marked "fragile."

Shoes: Pack in strong boxes, preferably corrugated cardboard. Wrap with strong paper securely tied with heavy twine.

Cut flowers: Place in strong suitable boxes of wood, tin, or heavy corrugated cardboard. Wrap with tissue to retain moisture.

Candies: Inclose in strong outside boxes or containers.

Drawings, paintings, unmounted maps, etc.: Pack or wrap in strong material to avoid damage. When not flat, roll around a wooden core and then wrap and tie carefully or place in strong pasteboard tube.

Sharp-pointed or sharp-edged instruments or tools must have points and edges fully guarded to prevent injury to clerks in handling or damage to other mail. Crate suitably or thoroughly wrap so that they can not cut through the wrapping.

Fragile Objects.

Articles easily broken or crushed must be crated or securely wrapped. Use liberal quantities of excelsior, or like material, in, around, and between the articles and the outside container.

Glassware, fragile toys, crockery must be packed so as to prevent the escape of particles or pieces if broken in transit.

Cigars: Ordinary boxes of cigars wrapped in paper only will not be accepted. Pack in a manner to prevent damage by shock or jar. Wrap in corrugated pasteboard or similar material.

All articles easily broken or damaged must be plainly marked "fragile."

Perishable Matter.

Articles likely to spoil within the time reasonably required for transportation and delivery will not be accepted for mailing. Wrap or pack carefully, according to contents, and plainly mark all such parcels "perishable." Use special-delivery stamps to expedite delivery.

Addresses.

Addresses should be complete, with house number and name of street, post office box or rural route number, and typed or plainly written in ink. A return card should be placed in the upper left corner of every piece of mail. If a tag is used, the address and return card should also be written on the wrapper for use if tag is lost, and a copy of the address should be inclosed inside the parcel.

Postage.

Postage must be fully prepaid on all mail. Affix the required amount of postage in the upper right corner. Full information concerning postage rates can be obtained at the parcel-post or stamp window.

Limit of Weight and Size.

No parcel may be more than 84 inches in length and girth combined. For delivery locally and in the first, second, and third zones, 70 pounds is the maximum weight; in all other zones, 50 pounds.

Where to Mail Parcels.

Uninsured parcels 8 ounces or less in weight may be mailed in street letter or package boxes, at all classified stations and branches, and at such numbered stations as are designated to receive parcels. Parcels weighing over 8 ounces can not be mailed in street boxes, but must be taken to the main post office or classified station or branch. Parcels containing meat food products, cut flowers, or other perishable matter should be mailed only at the main office or one of the large classified stations.

When to Mail.

Christmas gifts and cards addressed to points within one day's travel should be mailed not later than December 20; within two days' travel, not later than December 18; within three days' travel, not later than December 16; for more distant points, not later than December 14. Parcels and cards for local delivery should be mailed not later than December 22.

Parcels and envelopes may be indorsed "Please Do Not Open Until Christmas."

Christmas Cards.

The early mailing of Christmas cards is just as important as parcels. Millions of these cards, separate and in envelopes, are mailed each Christmas. Consequently, great congestion and delay occurs in large post offices when they are all mailed within a day or two of Christmas. Therefore, if you want your Christmas greetings to reach your relatives and friends on or before Christmas day, follow the instructions in the preceding paragraph relative to mailing early and be certain of delivery before Christmas.

Not Mailable at Parcel-Post Rates.

Written matter in the nature of personal correspondence can not be inclosed in parcels.

Communications attached to parcels: A letter placed in an envelope, addressed to correspond with the address on the parcel, and fully prepaid at the first-class rate, may be tied or otherwise securely attached to the outside of the parcel in such manner as to prevent separation therefrom and not obscure the address of the parcel.

Special-Delivery Service.

Special-delivery service is obtained by affixing a special-delivery stamp of the proper denomination, or its equivalent in ordinary stamps, in addition to the regular postage. When ordinary stamps are used, the words "Special Delivery" must be written or printed directly below, but not on the stamps. Special delivery is for speed and not for safety. Valuable mail should be registered or insured. If mailed in time the use of a special-delivery stamp will insure delivery by Christmas day.

Insure or Register Valuable Mail.

All valuable domestic parcel-post mail should be insured.

Insurance fees: Value not exceeding $5, 5 cents; not exceeding $25, 8 cents; not exceeding $50, 10 cents; not exceeding $100, 25 cents.

Coin, currency, jewelry, and articles of similar value should be sent as sealed first-class registered mail.

Collect on Delivered Service.

Parcel-post, also third-class, matter may be sent C. O. D. from one money-order post office to another.

Fees (in addition to regular postage): Value not exceeding $10, 12 cents; not exceeding $50, 15 cents; not exceeding $100, 25 cents to be prepaid with stamps affixed. The C. O. D. fee also covers insurance against loss or damage up to $10 for a fee of 12 cents; up to $50 for a fee of 15 cents; and up to $100 for a fee of 25 cents actual value.

Parcels For Foreign Countries.

Parcels of mailable merchandise may be sent (subject to certain limitations and conditions) by international parcel post to all foreign countries except Arabia, Spanish Guinea, and Tristan Da Cunha. Parcels weighing 4 pounds 6 ounces or less may be sent to Cuba subject to the domestic parcel-post rates and conditions. Foreign parcel-post packages should be mailed at the main office or large classified stations.

Owing to the long sea travel involved in most instances and customs inspection abroad, foreign parcels should be most carefully packed and mailed in November.

Information.

For further information on any of the above subjects or concerning any other postal matter, inquire at the proper window—stamps, parcel post, money order, registry, etc.—or see the postmaster or one of his assistants.

WILL ATTEND ZIONIST CONFERENCE IN BOSTON

WALLETT WAS FOUND IN BARBER SHOP CELLAR

(Special to The Bulletin)

JEWETT CITY, Nov. 19.—Maurice Schwartz of Norwich, with another man, came to Jewett City today to peddle fruit. During the afternoon they went to the barber shop of Sam Nigrelli. While there Schwartz transferred a few small bills from his wallet, which contained a large sum and when leaving the shop he forgot to take the wallet which was lying in a chair. A little later in the afternoon he discovered his loss and remembered that he had his pocketbook in the barber shop. Returning to get it, Nigrelli denied all knowledge of having seen it, and abused the man for calling him a thief. Deputy Sheriff John Dolan was found and the story told to him. The sheriff went to the barber shop, and again Nigrelli denied having seen the pocketbook, but after some very close questioning by the sheriff he told where he had hidden the money under a board in the cellar. Mr. Dolan entered the cellar through a trap-door and recovered the full amount. Nigrelli will be presented in the town court before Judge John Barry this (Saturday) morning.

SOUTH WINDHAM CHURCH HELD BRANCH MEETING

Seventeen churches were represented by delegations Friday at the quarterly meeting of the Eastern Connecticut branch, W. H. COURT DISCHARGES COLE IN DEER KILLING CASE

Edward Cole of Bozrah, on trial Friday night in the Bozrah town hall, on the charge of shooting a deer illegally about ten days ago, testified in his own defense that he was attacked on the highway by the deer that reared up and struck at him with its hoofs so that he was compelled to shoot it in self defense, firing two charges from his shot gun, one of which struck it in the jaw and the other in the top of the head.

The case was tried before V. P. A. Quinn as justice of the peace with Attorney Clayton B. Smith of New London appearing for the state and Attorney John R. Burke of this city for Mr. Cole who had been arrested on a complaint of Deputy Game Warden Watson.

At the conclusion of the evidence, Judge Quinn discharged the accused, declaring that the state had failed to prove its case beyond a reasonable doubt and he was convinced that the deer was vicious. The animal that was killed was a pet deer that he had been owned by Thomas McGrath for the past three years. At the same time Judge Quinn said he believed that the accused had not told the whole truth about the shooting of the animal.

Another angle of the case was revealed in the statement by an attorney that the statute regarding the killing of deer applied to wild animals, while the testimony had been that this was a tame deer.

Attorney Smith for the state attacked the testimony of Cole on the ground that the deer was not killed in the road where Cole said he killed it, but in a field where Cole said he dragged it after shooting it in the road. It was pointed out that there were no marks to show that the deer had been dragged from the road into the field.

County Game Warden Robert Chappell attended the trial and the court room was filled with a crowd for the trial, many standing on chairs in order to get a better view of the proceedings. Deputy Game Warden Watson was the principal witness against Cole, telling the results of his investigation. Mr. McGrath and Mrs. Edna L. Fish, who lived at the McGrath place, testified as to the gentleness of the deer, but against them was the testimony of Jerry Allen, who said McGrath told him it was ugly as — Jabez Lathrop who said he was told something similar, Frank L. Lathrop, first selectman, who said the deer had butted and pawed at him, and Fred L. Pierce who testified along similar lines.

Announcement of the court's verdict was greeted with whistles, cheers and applause as the audience dispersed.

TWO SPECIAL EVENTS BY UNIVERSALIST Y. P. C. U.

Two special events made interesting features for the Universalist young people this week, a treasure hunt on Monday evening and a minstrel show at Uncas-on-Thames on Thursday evening.

Captain Kidd and a score of his followers started from the church on Monday evening to hunt for hidden treasure. Through strange parts and along curious trails the band pursued its way until many miles from the starting point in a wild and desolate spote, the hidden wealth was found. By whom? To the chagrin of the male members of the enthusiastic crowd the chest was unearthed by Grace Taft.

Back to the church wended the captain and his haughty crew were the treasure was distributed. A delicious clam chowder was served and music and games enjoyed before the Y. P. C. U. members left for home after a delightful evening.

ACADEMY FACES STIFF OPPOSITION IN STONINGTON THIS AFTERNOON

Stonington high, boasting one of the best gridiron outfits in years, will furnish the opposition for the Academy eleven at the campus this afternoon and a tight battle should be the outcome.

The down-staters have a very formidable record so far this season with but one defeat, that by Westerly on Armistice day, to mar an otherwise perfect record. Stonington had led Westerly and outplayed them for three quarters and part of the fourth when Westerly snatched the victory from the fire in the closing moments of that game. Victories over Chapman Tech, Plainfield, Bulkeley high of Hartford, Conn. Aggie Freshmen B squad and others are included in the Stonington record and from all indications the Academy is in for a busy afternoon's work if a victory over the visitors is to be secured.

However, the Academy, with one of the best elevens in years, has little intention of being stopped by Stonington and Coach Brigham will send his entire group of first stringers onto the field for the opening whistle with the avowed purpose of annexing the visitor's scalp and continuing uninterrupted on their march towards the eastern Conn. scholastic football championship for the 1926 season. Bulkeley and Chapman Tech, two leading teams have already been disposed of and the locals intend to make Stonington the third and then finish up with Windham on Thanksgiving day, if that much-talked-of game goes through.

The probable starting line-up for the Academy follows: le, Hussey; lt, Misti; lg, Fidell; c, Schwartz; rg, Gulomb; rt, Kahn; re, Greene; qb, Williams; lhb, Labenski; rhb, Marks; fb, Capt. Ed. Brewer.

The cheering section, which made such a favorable impression last week, will again be out strong and as usual, will assemble on the westerly side of the field with the easterly side of the gridiron being left for the visitors.

Today's game will be the next to the last [illegible] for the majority of this year's eleven, who will graduate in June and they can be depended upon to put up a great game for their school against Coach O'Brien's Stonington squad.

The kickoff is scheduled for 2:00 sharp.

WINDHAM FACES HARD GAME WITH MANCHESTER

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Nov. 19.—Action aplenty on the sidelines as well as on the field of actual combat is promised for the Windham high-Manchester high school gridiron encounter at Recreation park here this Saturday afternoon. When the game is called at 2:15 o'clock Windham will be entering its salute match of the season and the team as well as the rooters will go into the fray, prepared for every effort to ring the curtain down with a bang-up victory over the formidable opponents from the Silk town. A big football rally was held at the school Friday morning. Addresses to the student body were made by Principal Egbert A. Case, Coach Thomas A. Callahan, Manager Joseph Hinds, Captain Buck and other members of the varsity eleven.

The Windham undergraduates will march to the field in a body and to snappy tunes played by St. Joseph's Boy Scout band this afternoon. Cheer Leader Roderick Beaulieu has arranged some special numbers for the game. The biggest crowd of the season is expected to be on hand. As the hour for the game approached no final choice of lineup for Windham had been made. Stanley Wojick, regular guard, has been ill at his home for two days. Haggerty, reliable speed artist, has been on one leg with a sprained ankle since the Westerly game and Saba will occupy one of the end positions with an injured ankle sustained during the past week.

TIGERS AND NUTMEGS IN SECOND CLASH SUNDAY

Local fandom will be served a delectable dish of football on Sunday at the J. B. Martin park gridiron when the Greeneville Tigers and Nutmegs, both of this city, come to grips in the second game of their series.

The Tigers took the measure of the Nutmegs in the first game played a few weeks back by a 13-0 score. This game was a tight struggle from start to finish and attracted one of the largest crowds to witness an amateur grid contest in this city for some time and there is every indication that this number will be rivalled and perhaps surpassed at the coming game, so great is the interest and bitter the rivalry.

The Tigers, after their defeat at the hands of the Westerly Majestics last Sunday, their first of the season, have secured a few men to fill the weak spots and their starting lineup as announced by Mgr. H. Boyd, Friday evening is as follows: Center, Sadinsky; rg, Clabby; lg, Joe Tombari; rt, Butte; lt, Langevin; re, Gay; le, Kelly; qb, Norm Courbois; lhb, Pheno Tombari; rhb, Capt. Mielski; fb, Nelson. The following while not starting will also without doubt see service during the game, S. Boyd at tackle, Coptenia and R. Courbois at halfbacks, Swanton at guard, a new recruit from New London, Bob Tennant.

The Nutmegs will present a strong lineup and will include the following: Ends, Ludlow and Capt. F. McGrath; tackles, Barber, Stefano, of the N. F. A., and Hummock guards, Hagberg, former Academy player, Nawrocki and Grover; center, Caren; qb, Sullivan; lhb, C. McGrath; rhb, Lupinacci; fb, Peduce.

The field has been marked for the game and the kickoff is slated for 2:30 sharp.

PRES. AND MRS. COOLIDGE TO ATTEND SERVICE GAME

WASHINGTON, Nov. 19.—(AP)—The President and Mrs. Coolidge will attend tomorrow the annual football game here between enlisted men of the Army and Navy for the championship of the services and the president's cup.

The game will be played between the Fort Benning, Georgia team, representing the Army, and the Quantico marinee, representing the Navy. Cabinet officers and high officers of the Army and Navy also will be present.

TRIANGLES AND BLUES CLASH AT HARTFORD SUNDAY

(Special to The Bulletin.)

HARTFORD, Conn., Nov. 19—Dayton's Triangles, regarded as one of the greatest football machines in the National League, will face the Hartford Blues at the Velodrome here Sunday afternoon.

Dayton has made an excellent record in the circuit, boasting victories over several clubs. The eleven comprises sterling performers from Ohio and Indiana. Saders of Miami and Calhoun of Ohio state, tackles, provide the line poundage.

Mahrt of Dayton is heralded as one of the greatest field generals in the professional game and he has the excellent ball-carriers in Dobleit of Ohio state and Beckley of Michigan state. Abbott, formerly at Syracuse, is the strong man, backing up the forwards on defense and hurling the passes.

Dayton will meet a newly-aligned Hartford club, from which Hank (Cowboy) Webber, Louis Smythe, Harry Brian and Eddie McEvoy have been dismissed. Jim Manning of Springfield, Mass., captain at Fordham last season, proved last Sunday against the Buffalo Bisons that he is among the leading leather-toters and pass-grabbers. Therefore Manning has earned a regular post.

Shrimp Foley, former Syracuse star, and Vic Radzevitch who earned his place on the fields of Connecticut, also will see plenty of service and Chuck Corgan will handle the team from his quarterback post.

Students of Hartford and New Britain high schools have been invited to witness the engagement, providing a cheering section that should carry the Blues to victory. They will be assisted by Tasillo's band and the Dunn-Nally trio. The probable lineup:

HARTFORD	DAYTON
McCann, le	Mayl (Notre Dame)
Werwais, lt	Sauers (Miami)
Nichols, lg	Graham (Wittenberg)
O'Neil, c	Kinderdine (Independent)
Keenan, rg	Reiter (Marietta)
Flynn, rt	Calhoun (Ohio state)
O'Connell, re	Fonner (Wittenberg)
Corgan qb	Mahrt (Dayton)
Foley, lhb	Dobleit (Ohio state)
Manning, rhb	Beckley (Michigan state)
Radsevitch, fb	Abbott (Syracuse)

YALE WEEKLY DISCUSSES GOAL POST SNATCHING

NEW HAVEN, Nov. 19—(AP)—Opponents' goal posts are not the only things that undergraduates might seize as souvenirs of victory if the practice is to be continued, the Yale Alumni Weekly today pointed out in discussing the matter. "Why should not we carry out the idea in other contests?" it asks. "There are our intercollegiate debates for instance. Why should not our winning audience, after a forensic form and make off with some gilt form an dmake off with some gilt organ pipes that adorn that sanctuary of open, commencements and football rallies? That is not a bad idea, and just about as sensible as to lug off goal posts. We leave it to our readers to complete the list. There is the eel grass on the Thames course, the railway ties at Derby and the ice in the hockey rink that we expect will be ready this winter.

"About the only way to settle the question, perhaps, will be to make goal posts neutral ground by adopting the plan of intercollegiate debaters so that each team has a representative on it of both sides."

The Weekly says that Yale was the first offender in the practice and gradutes still prize splintered trophies of that Harvard game at Cambridge.

AGGIES CLOSE SEASON AT STORRS TODAY

(Special to the Bulletin)

STORRS, Nov. 19.—Connecticut Aggies will close their 1926 gridiron season here tomorrow against Rensselaer, using the newly constructed athletic field instead of Gardner Dow field, which is in a muddy condition.

The Engineers have not made an impressive record this season, but Connecticut's men expect a hard fight for all that. Practice this week, while not strenuous for the first team, has been devoted to a thorough preparation for a strong attack expected from the New Yorkers.

Coach Dole's Connecticut eleven will take the field with Wilson and Callahan on the ends, Longo and Sayers at the tackles, Lorentzen and Zollin, guards, Captain Daly at center, Schofield or Knaut at quarterback, Eddy and Williams, halfbacks, Powers or Hewitt, fullback.

Williams, who has developed rapidly this season and is now tied for third place among the high scorers of the east, will be back to receive punts when Rensselaer is forced to kick tomorrow. Connecticut followers are hoping to see Williams add to his total tomorrow, and Dole is moving him to where he can handle the punts in the belief that he will get away for some long gains and possibly touchdowns.

Tomorrow's contest will be the last intercollegiate football game for Captain Daly, Schofield, Lorentzen, Zollin and Longo, all of whom are seniors and due to graduate next June.

JEWETT CITY AND NOANK CLASH ON SUNDAY

Sunday at Ashland park the Jewett City gridsters will play the undefeated Noank Crushers in a game that will interest the football fans of eastern Connecticut, for both teams have won three games and lost none. As this game will decide the championship of eastern Connecticut, so both teams have drilled hard for this struggle.

Capt. Smith of the Jewett City eleven has his team working like a clock and need not be afraid to tackle any team in the radius of 50 miles.

College Football Results

YALE-HARVARD CONSOLATION GAME AN INTERESTING FEATURE IN THE EAST

NEW YORK, Nov. 19.—(AP)—Gridiron rivalry of more than half a century turns the eastern football spotlight tomorrow on the New Haven bowl as Yale and Harvard come to grips in a colorful spectacle before 80,000 spectators.

Only traditional honors remain for the embattled ranks of Blue and Crimson this year, but there was every prospect of a gruelling battle, for victory promised a cloak for many disappointments in both camps, not in ten years has either eleven experienced so many setbacks, each team having lost four of its seven contests this year.

Both were toppled by Brown and Princeton, while Yale lost to Maryland and Army, and Harvard was upset early in the fall by Geneva and Holy Cross. In this game is centered the hope of a saving finish by both elevens, with Yale rating a slight favorite by reason of a greater show of strength against the Bruins and Tigers.

Injured stars of the Blue squad some of whom have been unable to start for several weeks, are ready for the fray. They include Larry Noble, the fleet ball-carrier who flashed so brilliantly against Dartmouth, and Bill Kline, whose effectiveness in the backfield against Princeton was impaired by pre-game absence from the squad. Captain Bunnell and Johnny Hoben were expected to complete the strongest quartet Coach Jones has had behind the forward wall since the Dartmouth contest.

Flashy football is not anticipated, although reports came today from both camps that Tad Jones and Arnold Horween, the rival coaches, have reserved a bit of magic for the closing classic of the last "Big Three" series. Yale's triple pass, worked successfully against Princeton, was expected to figure in the Blue's drive, while a new Harvard mass on tackle, revealed for the first time last week against Brown, loomed as chief offensive weapon of the Crimson.

The Yale-Harvard clash stood out in a light schedule, which nevertheless promised at least three other stirring conflicts between Georgetown and Fordham, Lafayette and Lehigh, Carnegie Tech and West Virginia, Pennsylvania and Cornell, colliding on Thanksgiving day, will be idle, as will Columbia, Colgate and Washington-Jefferson.

Minor opposition confronts many of the other outstanding teams prior to their curtain games next week, with Army pitted against Ursinus, Navy against Loyola, Brown against New Hampshire, Holy Cross against Boston university, and Syracuse against Niagara. New York university, fighting to extend a record of eight straight victories, will face Nebraska on the Cornhuskers' home battleground.

Principal games tomorrow and last year's scores:

Harvard at Yale 0-0.

New York university at Nebraska, no game.

Georgetown at Fordham, 27-0.

Lehigh at Lafayette, 0-14.

West Virginia at Carnegie, no game.

Niagara at Syracuse, 0 -17.

Boston university at Holy Cross, 7-48.

Gettysburg at Boston college, no game.

Ursinus at West Point, 0-44.

New Hampshire at Brown, 14-33.

Swarthmore at Rutgers, no game.

Allegheney at Geneva, 14-0.

West Maryland at Bucknell, 0-17.

HALLORAN PRAISES WORK OF AGGIES' FULLBACK

(Special to The Bulletin.)

STORRS, Nov. 19.—"The best fullback I have seen on any college eleven during the last three seasons" is the way William T. Halloran, prominent football official in New England collegiate circles describes Arthur V. "Pop" Williams, the 250-pound fullback of the Connecticut Aggie varsity eleven.

HaHoran's statement carries considerable weight inasmuch as he has officiated in games for a number of the larger New England colleges in that time, including Dartmouth, Harvard, Brown and others that have ranked well up among the leaders in football for this section. Similar praise has been forthcoming from others who have officiated in Connecticut Aggie games this fall and coming as it does from experts who are well acquainted with the outstanding players of New England, it indicates that Coach Dole has a real star in the Danielson boy.

Williams will finish his first season of varsity competition here Saturday against Rensselaer, when the Aggies close their eight-game schedule. This will be the last opportunity of the year for Connecticut followers to see the big fullback in action, and a large crowd is expected at Gardner Dow field. Although this is his first season of varsity playing, Williams has already made 12 touchdowns and is tied for third place for individual scoring honors with a total of 72 points. Aggie followers are pulling for him to boost his total on Saturday.

WESTERN CONFERENCE TITLE TO BE DECIDED TODAY

CHICAGO, Nov. 19—(AP)—Two hundred thousand persons will see the western conference football season 1926 roll into history tomorrow.

Michigan and Northwestern, playing the leads in the conference spotlight, will know by night fall tomorrow whether they share the crown of championship jointly or whether one shall bear it alone. Each team has won four conference games and is unbeaten.

If the Wolverines crush the Gophers and Northwestern conquers Iowa, the honors will be divided, and if both teams should lose they still will share the highest percentage. But if either Minnesota or Iowa should spring an upset while the other is losing, one of the two unbeaten teams would wear alone the mantle of supremacy.

RED SOX NOT ON THE MARKET SAYS QUINN

CHICAGO, Nov. 19.—(AP)—Recent offers of Albertis Powell, vice president of the Boston Braves, to purchase the Boston Red Sox, have not been accepted and there will be no change in ownership at present, President Bob Quinn announced here today just before leaving for the south to select a training camp.

A manager to replace Lee Fohl, recently released, has not been selected, Quinn stated.

HARVARD AND YALE READY FOR BATTLE TODAY

NEW HAVEN, Nov. 19—(AP)—The rival Harvard and Yale elevens this afternoon completed their preparations for the big clash of the football season here tomorrow afternoon.

Both teams held only short sessions, consisting for the most part of secret signal drills and brushing up on the special plays which each coach is planning upon bringing out for the mystification of the opponents.

All appearances indicate that Johnny Hoben will get the call for the right halfback position which has been in doubt. Captain Bunnell at quarterback, Larry Noble at halfback and Bill Kline at fullback, a trio of veterans of three years' experience, are certain of starting. The line which started against Princeton will face the Crimson too.

Following practice today the Harvard squad went at once to Derby, where quarters had been engaged at a hotel. The Yale varsity watched the scrubs of the two institutions battle to a scoreless tie, and then took over the bowl after Harvard had completed its practice.

The probable lineup:

Yale	Position	Harvard

TWO BOYS FATALLY INJURED IN GAME

GRANVILLE, Ohio, Nov. 19—(AP)—Watson Rogers, 16, Granville high school student, was killed today in a football game between Granville and Marysville high school teams here.

Rogers was struck in the solar plexus while making a tackle and was rendered unconscious. He died a few hours later.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Nov. 19—(AP)—Gene Finnegan, halfback of the South Park high school football team is dying at a hospital as the result of injuries received in a game with a Canisius team this afternoon. Finnegan's back was broken.

BARNES AND FARRELL WIN MID-WINTER BEST BALL TOURN

MID-WINTER TOURNEY

PINEHURST, N. C., Nov. 19.—(AP)—Jock Barnes, former British open champion, and Johnny Farrell, Quaker Ridge club, Mamaroneck, won the Mid-Winter Southern Best Ball championship today by adding 33-35—68 to their 66 of yesterday for a total of 134.

Bobby Cruickshank, north and south champion, and Pat Doyle of Elmsford, N. Y., were second with 136. The Armour brothers, Tom Andalex, from the Congressional club, Washington, and Fred McLeod, Columbia Country club, and Emmett French, Southern Pines, tied for third with scores of 137.

MORGAN HAMMERS DUANE INTO DEFEAT IN 15 ROUNDS

NEW YORK, Nov. 19—(AP)—Tod Morgan, brilliant little junior lightweight champion from the Pacific coast, hammered Carl Duane, New York Italian into defeat in a thrilling 15-round slugging match before 15,000 fans here tonight.

The titleholder won, but after more gruelling struggle than marked either of his previous title defenses when he knocked out Kid Sullivan, the former champion, in six rounds and outclassed Joe Glick of New York.

Duane showed exceptional ability to absorb the raking fire of Morgan's face brought blood streaming from the champion's mouth Morgan gave a brilliant exhibition, hammering the little New York Italian about the head with an attack that closed Duane's right eye and cut his mouth, but the champion never was able to relax his clever defense Several times Duane's head punching jarred him into holding.

The weights were: Morgan 127 1-2, Duane 128.

Herman Outpoints Wilson

TAMPA, Fla., Nov. 19—(AP)—Willie Herman, New York lightweight, outpointed Red Cap Wilson, also of New York, in a ten round bout here tonight.

Lee Beats Saxon

WORCESTER, Mass., Nov. 19—(AP)—George (Kid) Lee of Worcester, welterweight champion of New England won a decision over Johnny Saxon of Bridgeport, Conn., here tonight. The bout was hard fought for Lee had the better of it all the way.

SUB BASE PLAYS NEWPORT TRAINING TEAM TODAY

The Submarine Base gridders have staged revival meetings this week to prime themselves for the Newport training station invasion this afternoon at the Sub Base field, after dropping a game to the Newport Torpedo station 15 to 12 at Newport last Sunday. The Sub Base lineup will probably be the same that opposed the torpedomen. Lieut. P. L. Mathes Sub Base athletic officer, announced that he has secured as referee for the game, "Baggs" Wanamaker of New Haven, head of the Connecticut Football Officials' association, and a member of the Central board. The game will start at 2.30 o'clock.

DEMPSEY WILL BOX ANY ONE RICKARD PICKS

NEW YORK, Nov. 19—(AP)—Jack Dempsey is willing to box anybody Tex Rickard picks in March or April, the promoter announced today in making public a letter the former heavyweight champion had written him. The fight would be somewhere in the east, Rickard said and added: "The fellow wasn't himself when he lost to Gene Tunney."

Of the 22 football games played by the Army and Navy since 1890 the Army has won 14 and the Navy 12 with two tied.

In Myron B. Stevens the University of Maryland has one of the best backs of any team performing on southern gridirons this season.

Results of football games all over the country this season show that the day when the big college team could win all its games has certainly gone.

The recent football game between University of Michigan and Annapolis was the first time the Wolverines had failed to score since the game with Vanderbilt university four years ago.

BURGLAR REFUSED TO USE SAFE COMBINATION

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I., Nov. 19.—The operations of safe-crackers in Westerly have not ceased following the break of several weeks ago when safe in the Greek-American fruit store on West Broad street in Pawcatuck and over $1000 was taken, for on Thursday night an unsuccessful attempt was made to enter the safe in the office of the Westerly Grain company, Louis Foley, manager, on Friendship street. The Westerly company is a branch of the Textile Grain company of Norwich.

When Frederick V. Burdick of Pawcatuck, employed by the company entered the grain house on Friday morning he found that the office had been entered and an attempt made to break open the safe. Manager Foley was notified and summoned Chief Thomas H. Brown, who, accompanied by Patrolman Frank Knight, made a thorough inspection of the property and are continuing their investigation, having a number of clues on which to work, among these finger prints which Chief Brown has had photographed.

Entrance was gained to the office on the south side of the building which projects out on a platform, by breaking the upper right hand pane of glass in the upper sash, and the window raised. The safe on the front floor of which appeared a newly written sheet of paper with the combination of the safe and the further information that the contents were of no value except certain papers of value only to the company, was given attention by the intruder, who apparently did not believe in signs. A small spanner wrench was picked up and the knobs on the ends of the hinges, which could have been unthreshed by simply twisting them were knocked off and broken, being picked up on the office floor. Several cracks were then given the combination knob, but that was as far as the would be breakers got.

In the company safe, if the attempt to break had been successful, there would have been nothing to reward the perpetrator for even loose change had been taken out on the previous day.

DRUNKEN DRIVER WAS GIVEN JAIL SENTENCE

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I., Nov. 19.—Regular session of Third district court was held Friday morning at 9 o'clock, with Judge Oliver H. Williams on the bench. Court matters were transacted as follows:

Criminal docket—State, Angelo Turano, state, vs. James Miller. Continued two weeks; state, vs. Raymond Patraca. Continued one week.

Civil docket—James W. Burke vs. William S. Archie. Attorney C. E. Roche presented for the plaintiff, a proof of claim, which was filed, amounting to $315. He asked for judgment of $500, the limit of district court, and that the case be defaulted. On proof of claim, decision was entered for plaintiff to recover $500 and costs.

Tilley Radio corporation vs. Howell Wilson. Continued one week.

Trial Calendar

In the case of the state vs. Charles B. Yattaw, the complaint was for the operation of an automobile on Pleasant street, November 13th, while Yattaw was intoxicated. He entered a plea of guilty. Yattaw said that he was 60 years of age, was married, had children, the youngest being 20 years of age and that he had never been arrested before.

Town Solicitor, John Ferguson told the court that the accident happened while Yattaw was operating a Nash touring car, westerly, on Pleasant street and was in collision with the Oakland sedan, driven by Natale Turco of 16 Dayton street. Police Officer Robert M. Kessel, who was called to the scene to investigate, found that Yattaw was so much undr the influence of liquor that he continued to sit back of the wheel after the autos had come together, the time being about 6 p. m. Drs. M. H. Scanlon and J. Gordon Anderson examined the driver at the Westerly police station and declared the defendant to be intoxicated. Judge Williams sentenced Yattaw to 10 days in Providence county jail and the payment of costs. He was committed by Police Patrolman Robert M. Kessel.

In the civil case, Peter Priore vs. Arthur Shepard, Attorney John Ferguson, filed proof of claim. Judge Williams entered judgment for the plaintiff in the amount of $268.50, $32.85 interest, totaling $309.35 and costs.

The Hudson sedan of Arthur L. Perry, driven up Elm street on Thursday morning, was in collision with the roadster, owned and driven by William Segar as he came out of the driveway of his home, 6 Elm street. The forward left tire of the roadster was punctured and the Hudson car sustained broken headlight, fender and mud guard. Neither occupant was injured.

The flag on the flagpole in the grounds of the Westerly high school was flown at half mast on Friday out of respect for Mrs. James King, who died in Providence on Wednesday morning and who was buried Friday noon at St. Michael's new cemetery in Pawcatuck. Mrs. King was, formerly Miss Sara Jane Carney, a graduate of the first class in the high school building in 1903, who later graduated from the Rhode Island state normal school in Providence and taught for a number of years in the public schools of Westerly.

No action was taken on the cutting down of Union street at the hearing given by the Westerly highway commission on Thursday evening in the Westerly town hall. A plat was on exhibition showing three projects which contemplated the cuting down of Cooky hill on three different grade lines. There were present Chairman Charles F. Berry, Harvey C. Perry and Engineer A. L. Leon, while outside the railing were some 30 interested citizens. At the conclusion of the meeting, after a nearly two hours talk, a poll was taken of abutting property owners, the result being as follows:

Frank W. Coy, none of the recommended projects, until a better one is presented.

Westerly school committee, by Chairman Thomas Perry, cutting the grade to either three or six feet at the high point. Mrs. James Welch, not in favor of any change if the five per cent grade from Broad street is not lowered. Westerly fire district by Chief George E. Egger, any project that will present a level front at the fire station building. Antonio Panciera, have the job done right, cutting down to the lowest grade. William Mincher, cutting the grade to either three or six feet at the high point. Sharoh Zedek congregation Jewish synagog, by Abraham Leibovits, trustee, cutting the grade to either three or six feet at the high point. Everett E. Whipple, custodian of the Westerly town hall, no change in grade from the present one by the Westerly town hall. When a conference between Mr. Panciera and Mr. Whipple did not change their points of view, the commission declared that they could not make "heads or tails" of what was desired. Chairman Berry announced that the Highway commission held meetings every Monday afternoon at 5 o'clock and if anyone had any plans that would meet with the approval of all, the commission would gladly consider them. Thus the Westerly fire district was unable to have a grade established for the fire station changes or Mr. Panciera for his new building, which he desires to erect on his property on the south side of Union street.

The final and concluding meeting of a series of six assemblies of Methodist churches in the Norwich district, known as the Mohegan trail circuit, with Rev. C. E. Spaulding of New London, dean, will be held next Tuesday evening at Grace Methodist Episcopal church, Rev. Marvin S. Stocking, pastor, in Westerly.

Beginning either the last Sunday in November or the first in December the church school sessions of Christ Episcopal church in Westerly will be held at 9 a. m., before church services instead of after at 12 noon as in the past few months.

Golden Rule Sunday will be observed this year in Westerly on Sunday, Nov. 28, in the annual celebration of the Christian Endeavor societies. George R. Dowding is in charge of the Westerly observance this year.

A patient at the Westerly hospital is Rudolph Green, aged 17 years of Exeter, R. I., suffering with several gun shot wounds in his face, sustained while hunting for birds late Thursday afternoon. About 20 shot gun pellets were removed from the man's face. Although his condition was reported as painful, it is not believed critical.

According to report of Dr. John Ruisi of Westerly, who attended the patient, Green was hunting in Exeter when the accident occurred. A companion, he said, accidentally fired in his direction, mistaking his movements in the thick brush for game, which he was pursuing.

Manager Robert Mitchell of the Hope Valley branch of the Washington Trust company, was a Westerly subject for a demonstration of "C. N." government tear gas in the banking rooms in Hope Valley on Friday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock, under the auspices of the Rhode Island state police. The hand grenade is used with a depictonator, which emits smoke and an occupant of the room is overcome in less than half a minute. The state troopers are demonstrating its use particularly in the case of rural banking institutions to frustrate holdup attempts. The next exhibit of the grenade will be given in some bank in the northern part of the state of Rhode Island. Banking officials and employes were generally invited to witness the workings of the tear gas.

VOTE TO REFER ACTION BACK TO TOWN MEETING

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I., Nov. 19—This evening over 50 interested citizens of the town of Westerly, from both country and business sections, attended a hearing on the adoption of a Westerly building code held by the town council committee, Rogers E. Trainer, chairman and Peter Nardone. After an hour's debate in which the compulsory adoption of non-combustible roofs for the entire district was desparaged, it was voted the sense of the meeting was that if a code were projected it should be referred by the town council back to a town meeting for adoption.

A committee of practical men consisting of Joseph L. Lenihan, James O. Lynch, David A. Lowry, and Frank H. Crandall, was named by the meeting from among those in attendance to confer with the council committee to simplify the 21-page code tentatively presented by the council committee. It was the general impression that this code should be confined to the business section of Westerly. The enlarged committee is to meet at a convenient time in the near future to reframe the code.

NOANK

Wednesday night, when the moon made it bright as day, nine young men with lanterns and flashlights and scoop nets were over on the beach at Groton Long Point catching white fish. They are called whitings and without a hook or line these fish are caught and these men got eight bushels in three hours. The fish will be salted for the winter, so the young men don't have to worry about going fishing when it is 2 below zero.

Wilmore Bogue, a good shot with a gun, was out in the woods hunting and saw two grey squirrels in a tree. He fired and killed them with one shot. He also got five squirrels, three rabbits and a partridge, a good afternoon's work. Today (Saturday) he will have a squirrel dinner, calling in his friends to enjoy it.

Boone Spink, of Providence, is home for a few days' visit.

Miss Josephine Shandoer was in old Mystic Thursday.

Harry Park was in Niantic for a short stay this week.

George Adams is visiting friends in West Hartford for a few days.

William Crowell has gone to Monson, Mass., for the week end.

Mrs. Etta Crowell spent a day in Norwich this week.

William Chappell has returned from a visit with Wood's Hole, Mass., relatives.

Mike Passi while working at the shipyard on the new dock Thursday got his hand in between a spile and a plank. His mate pushed the plank ahead and jammed Passi's thumb badly. He will be laid up for a few days.

The pinochle game held by the auxiliary to the Fire company was attended by a good crowd Thursday evening, six tables being in play. The first prize went to Albert Banks, low score being made by Arthur McDonald. First prize was won by Miss Elise Porter and the low score award went to Mrs. Robert Mayard. Refreshments were served by the committee. Dancing followed with Edgar Schoolmaker at the piano and for the square sets. Prof. Peter Donahue, Jr., prompted.

Going from Noank to New York Thursday the fishing schooner Magnolia, with a catch of 7,000 pounds of cod for Fulton market, went aground at the entrance to Noank inlet. Coast Guard boat No. 238 steaming to Narragansett bay, saw the schooner in distress and pulled her off the mud with a line, taking the Magnolia back to the town dock in Noank, where the fish was unloaded and forwarded to New York by truck.

Early in the week the same boat rammed into Turner Reef, but no damage was done. The schooner went to Frank Post's boat shop in Mystic and is hauled out for repairs.

Men who go out after black fish around Gulf Island and in the race at Fishers Island have only been out twice this week, on account of bad weather. The wind and rough water keep the boats tied up at the docks. The fish are plentyful.

Mr. and Mrs. Sterns of New York are visiting at the home of Miss Annie Spicer.

The D. of A. held a meeting Wednesday night at their hall on Elm street. A reception was tendered Mrs. Mary Latham in appreciation of her 20 faithful years as degree mistress and ten years as deputy. She was presented a large bouquet of chrysanthemums from the guild members and an electric lamp from the lodge. A musical programme was carried out, vocal duet by Misses Jean Bentley and Ruth Shaffer, solo, Mrs. Elizabeth Hobart, piano solos, Miss Esther Latham, and Mr. Scaplen, vocal solo, Miss Audrey Brooks.

Miss Arlene Bentley has resumed her duties as teacher in Noank grammar school after a short illness.

Mrs. Horace White is visiting her mother Mrs. Spencer, in Stonington for a few days.

Harold Rathbun is millwright at the silk mill in Mystic.

Beraurd Carson of Fishers Island coast guard is home on a short furlough.

Only after a public favorite has become a "hasbeen" does he begin to realize the emptiness of applause.

LEFFINGWELL

Wednesday evening the young people met at the parsonage to rehearse the Thanksgiving music for the concert Sunday evening.

Fred V. Amburn, accompanied by George Amburn, and Louis Wala, of Norwich, motored to Camp Devens, Ayer, Mass., and Nashua, N. H., and returned on Sunday, covering a distance of 227 miles.

Wednesday an all-day sewing bee was held with Mrs. Charles E. Ellis on Asylum street.

Mid-week prayer meetings are now held each Thursday evening. This week the meeting was held at the parsonage.

A caller at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Leffingwell Beard recently was State Policeman Frederick O. Johnson, of the Groton barracks.

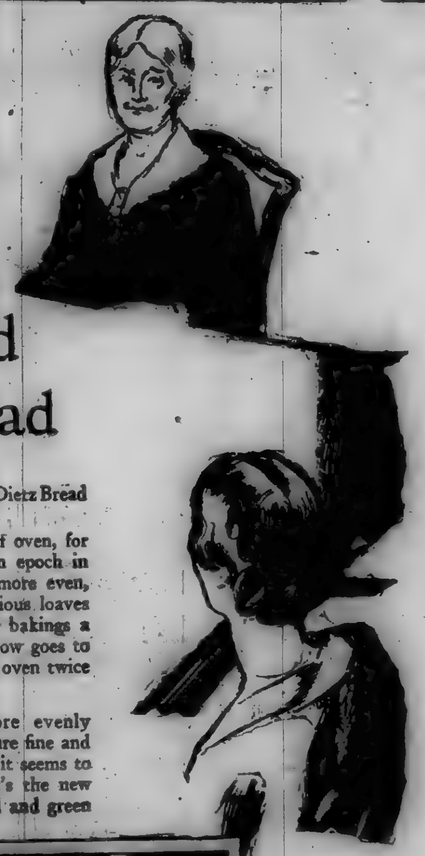
Mrs. Ethel Ross is in New Britain with Mr. and Mrs. Pearl W. Ross and infant daughter.

Rev. and Mrs. George W. Borden motored to Holyoke, Mass., Monday to visit Mrs. Borden's mother, Mrs. Brown.

Forest C. Leffingwell is improving and is able to be up.

40 years ago

some of the best bread makers in New England began buying Dietz Bread



FOR they recognized in this loaf the same choice of ingredients, the same scrupulous care they had given to their own baking.

They found that this troublesome, time-taking task could be delegated to Dietz without in any way lowering their standards. Dietz Bread was at home with the other well-cooked foods on their tables.

During forty years the high reputation of Dietz Bread has not changed. For no loaf of bread bearing the Dietz name has ever been made of inferior ingredients or with relaxed care.

Every baking has been an attempt to realize the Dietz ideal—perfection in appearance, in nutriment, in texture and in flavor.

Now the new Dietz Bread—Better than ever!

THIS ideal Mr. Walter Dietz had before him in purchasing the Dolly Madison bakery and bringing it under his personal control and management.

For Mr. Dietz believes that the independent, locally owned and personally supervised bakery is best equipped to produce the kind of fine bread which will satisfy New England housewives.

In reorganizing the bakery, Mr. Dietz has had an opportunity to introduce improvements which make Dietz Bread better than ever.

A marvelous new type of oven, for one thing, which marks an epoch in bread baking. It insures more even, perfect baking of the delicious loaves and it makes possible two bakings a day so that Dietz Bread now goes to your grocer fresh from the oven twice each day.

RICHER, crustier, more evenly browned, with a texture fine and firm, yet so soft and fresh it seems to melt in your mouth—that's the new Dietz Bread in its new red and green wrapper with the homey farmhouse and New England maples. Get it from your grocer today and watch the pleased look on your husband's face when he eats it. Dolly Madison Baking Corporation, Springfield, Mass.

Made of pure, nutritious ingredients—fresh milk, Fleischmann's Yeast, Pillsbury and Gold Medal flours—Dietz Bread has the honest wholesomeness you require for your family

The Gobbler's Grumble

It's all very fine for you girls and boys
To hip-hip-hurrah and make a big noise
From my point of view it isn't so gay
To think of the coming of Thanksgiving day

Such beating of eggs, such stirring of cake,
Such mixings of puddings to boil and to bake,
Such coring of apples and similar pranks
Strikes me in a curious way to give thanks

Now doesn't it seem to you wonderfully queer
That folks don't give thanks every day in the year,
But wait 'til the gwyners are minded to say
Good people, give thanks, I've appointed the day.
Then straightway their noodles are filled with delight
At all the fine dishes called up to their sight
At which first and foremost "roast turkey" they say
Shall cut the prime figure on Thanksgiving day.

I haven't much blame for the girls and the boys,
To let them hurrah and make a big noise;
My scorn's for the "humans" so strong and so tall,
Who think that they own this terrestrial ball,
And slay without scruple, each bird and each beast,
Whenever they're wanting a very big feast.
I'm sick of these creatures, these curious cranks,
Who do so much gobbling before they give thanks.

My days they have number, no wonder I grieve
No more shall I wander from morning 'til eve,
In the dim, dusky wood, or the brown stubbled field
For my life for Thanksgiving, alas, I must yield.
Should I never again beneath the blue sky,
Be permitted to roam, 'twold be better to die,
And be roasted and eaten by "curious cranks"
Who must gobble up turkey before they give thanks.

Hymn of the Mountaineers

For the strength of the hills, we bless thee
Our God, our father's God!
Thou hast made thy children mighty
By the touch of the mountain sod.
Thou has fixed our ark of refuge,
Where the spoilers foot ne'er trod
For the strength of the hills we bless thee
Our God, our father's God!

We are watchers of a beacon
Whose light must never die;
We are guardians of an altar
'Neath the silence of the sky;
The rocks yield founds of courage
Struck forth as by the rod;
For the strength of the hills we bless thee,
Our God, our father's God!

For the dark-resounding caverns
Where thy still, small voice is heard;
For the strong pines of the forests,
That by thy breath are stirred;
For the storms on whose free pinions,
Thy spirit walks abroad;
For the strength of the hills we bless thee
Our God, our father's God!

The royal eagle darteth on his quarry from the heights,
And the stag that knows no heights
Seeks there his wild delights;
But we for Thy communion,
Have sought the mountain sod,
For the strength of the hills we bless thee
Our God, our father's God!

The banner of the chieftain far,
Far below us waves;
The war horse of the spearman
Cannot reach our lofty caves
Thy dark clouds wrap the threshold
Of Freedom's last abode;
For the strength of the hills we bless thee
Our God, our father's God!

For the shadow of thy presence
Round our camp of rock outspread;
For the stern defiles of battle
Bearing record of our dead;
For the snows and for the torrents,
For the free hearts burial sod;
For the strength of the hills, we bless thee
Our God, our father's God!

FRIENDS

Words are easy, like the wind;
Faithful friends are hard to find.
Every man will be thy friend
Whilst thou hast wherewith to spend;
But if store of crowns be scant,
No man will supply the want.
If that is thy friend indeed,
He will help thee in thy need;
If thou sorrow, he will weep,
If thou wake, he cannot sleep;
Thus of every grief in heart
He with thee doth bear a part.
These are certain signs to know
Faithful friend from flattering foe.

HAD FINE TIME AT CLUB 6'S MEETING

Dear Cornerites: A friend carried five of the Social Corner members to the meeting of the Shore Line club, No. 6 held in Westerly Tuesday and when we arrived there found Musician and Denny there. The dinner was it for a king and so much of it. We all regretted we couldn't eat more. Roly Poly carried chicken salad that couldn't be beat.

The program contained many good readings and recitations and musical numbers and the best was the kitchen orchestra.

Was glad to meet so many of the first to join the club and new ones. Interested Reader told me her telepone was not out of order. Neither is mine, but it is impossible to do all the things we would like to do. I was one of the fortunate ones that went to Portland, Me., and met others that had been. The Mystic members invite the club here on Tuesday Dec. 14th. The meeting will be in Grange hall, main building. If anything happens that the date must be changed notice will be given in The Bulletin. Mystic members will do the work and put on the program. We do not expect to equal the one of Tuesday but will do the best we can.

Susanna has a sick husband and unable to go to Westerly. C Sharp will be on hand for the next one.

A MUCH ENJOYED TRIP

Dear Editor and Social Corner Friends: I don't want to lose my seat in the Social Corner so thought I would write one more letter.

Kochie: Have been very busy, couldn't seem to get time to write before. We looked for you at the E. K. Social Corner picnic, also looked for you and your mother at the Fiddler's convention at Clayville. Where were you? I don't believe you headed Elizabeth in the right direction, did you?

I am going to tell you about a trip I took up into Massachusetts not long ago, first we went to Harrisville, R. I., to stay over night with friends, the next morning they suggested going for a ride in their car. Of course we were willing, so we went out through Graniteville, Glendale, Slatersville, Uxbridge, Framingham, to the Wayside inn in Sudbury. We didn't expect to stop here but were very glad of the opportunity to look around a little while. Mr. Peggy saw a picture at one time of Mr. Ford's white faced oxen. His first thought was to find them, which he did in the barn with another pair of oxen and some horses. One of the party found an old fashioned wooden shovel, the shovel part was quite large with a short handle. We have been told that it was used to shovel the pumice away from the cider mill. We saw the old cider press and old fashioned coaches. We didn't go into the house as we didn't have much time to look around. After we got into the car and on our way again we saw the old mill wheel. Was very much surprised after I arrived home and was looking at the Sunday paper to find in it a picture of this old whel.

Our next stopping place was the Marlboro reservoir. We were very much interested in that as it is a sight worth seeing, also because Mr. Peggy worked there for several months at the time they built the dam, 30 years ago.

Just after we passed through Milford we saw a tower with places in or near the top as though it was designed for sightseeing. We wondered what it could be. It looked as though it was in a cemetery but might not have been.

We liked that part of the country very much. Milford was especially pretty. This was a very interesting trip and we enjoyed it very much. We found after we arrived at Harrisville that we had been a little over 90 miles. Dinner was a little late but it was worth waiting for.

Caro: I looked up there this morning to see if your chimney was at home. Did you enjoy the wind blow. I laugh every time I think of what you said about that poor man. Do you remember?

Kochie asked me at one time to tell about the Fiddler's conventions I have attended this summer but have taken up so much space I will tell about it later.

Nonesopretty—We have your number. I hope they lived after all the trouble you took in setting them out.

Wonder if Kochie knows who you are? Hope you are feeling much better.

Votami: Hope it didn't make you ill, I am making another. Come over and sample this one.

The sick ones and those in trouble of any kind have my sympathy.

Best wishes to all.

ATTENDING NATIONAL GRANGE CONVENTION

Dear Editor and Social Sisters: For the benefit of sisters who are Patrons of Husbandry and could not attend the National grange convention at Portland, Maine, thought you might like to hear something. Mrs. Charles Ellis, Mrs. Ida Richardson, H. Dwight Richardson, Mrs. Ivy Peckham, Mrs. William Murray and myself.

Left Norwich Thursday on the boat train via Worcester, arriving in Portland Friday morning 6:30 Having left Norwich at so late an hour everybody was getting ready or had retired for the night. We soon were in our reservation, two in one. There was no sleep for me. My companion was drifting in dreamland while I was trying to take in the sights. Not much to be seen until we reached Biddeford, Maine. From then on every time we stopped at a station I would look out.

When we reached Old Orchard, Me., a place I had heard a great deal of but had never seen, the sun was beginning to rise and such a beautiful sight. The sun shining on the water was a picture no artist could paint, and one I shall never forget. I never saw anything so beautiful before.

Arriving in Portland at 6:30 we were soon on the look out for something to eat. Such a crowd on the street you would think a circus was in town. Some went one place and some another and the places were soon filled.

Having a good breakfast, we then started for headquarters in the Congress hotel where we made our assignment for the 7th degree, which was given at the Strand theater. We were very fortunate and were in the 9 a. m. class.

On reaching the theater such a crowd! We never thought we would be able to get in. We waited from 8:10 a. m. until 9:16 a. m. before doors were opened. I must say I never was so jammed in my life. As far up and down the street as could be seen was packed as closely as it could be. The theater was filled, every seat in the house was taken, 2500 in all. There were four sessions the same, and one class of 850 people. I cannot tell you much about the degree as you would have to see it yourself to appreciate the beauty. I can only say it was the finest work I ever saw.

Having taken our degree, about 12:30 noon we again were ready to eat. Going to the Minerva we were served a fine dinner—consisting of stuffed veal and the full course; for dessert apple pie and ice cream. After dinner we had to find out where we could sleep for the night. Congress hotel could not accommodate us but sent us to the Lafayette where we had a lovely room. In the evening 7:30 we attended a Grangers concert given by The Music clubs of Portland. It was largely attended and the music was very fine. I think by a remark our chaplain made he is not fond of or does not care for classical music. I think Ole Black Joe would be more suitable for him. About 11 p. m. we returned to the Lafayette and had a good night's rest.

Saturday 9:30 a. m. we attended a meeting of the Priest of Demetus which was greatly enjoyed by all and was given in the city hall. Leaving, we were asked to gather in front of the city hall and have our pictures taken which we did. We then went to dinner at the Congress hotel and a fine dinner was served.

After dinner we went to the Armory where the Agricultural society were giving an exposition of canned goods, apples and all kinds of vegetables, butter, etc. We spent the larger part of the afternoon at the armory and everyone seemed to be pleased with the grand exhibition. We then went to supper, after which there was not much time so went to the depot. The train left at 9:10 p. m. and we arrived in Norwich at 3:44 a. m.

To those who could not go I would say you missed something wonderful. We did not meet many Connecticut people. Mrs. Alice Brinkman and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Angus Cheesbro of Stonington I think were all. We did meet lots from Rhode Island we knew.

Idalene: I did not see you. Would not be able unless by appointment. I watched out to see if I could see you.

Milky Way: I saw Agnes and wife. We now meet at the Buckingham the 2nd Tuesday in December. Be sure to come up. You will not have to bring dishes.

In conclusion must say, we were nicely treated by the people of Portland and they did everything to make us comfortable and want to go again. It certainly was just like home and as though you had always known them. I visited The Portsous, Mitchell and Braun store which was very fine.

Also many others, including the 5 and 10. Our shopping would be incomplete without the 5 and 10.

With best wishes for the Corner.

IMPRESSIONS OF THE SESQUI

Dear Social Corner: First I want to say thank you to the editor for the "yellow slip." It was a great surprise. I had not seen the paper and could not imagine what it was for. Then saw Norwich Bulletin on end of slip. I called up Deborah and she said, "I knew that last week."

Thank you Lady Lou for my birthday card. Was glad to read a letter from C. D. Wish the sister in Georgia would write again, and tell us about her home there.

Black Eyed Susie: I shall try and find you. I believe we have the same hobby. What is yours?

Deborah has gone to the sesqui-tentennial. When she gets home she had better write to the Corner and tell us about it. My visit there in June was so early they had not turned on the lights but even then there was much more than we could see in a day. The India and Japanese exhibits were wonderful. The Japanese pagoda was made of 48,500 pearls, the top set in platinum and one large pearl in the center weighs 13.2 grams. It is constantly guarded. At six o'clock at night with the touch of an electric button it goes out of sight and a grating covers the top. This alone is worth half a million. I admired most of all the work done in silk floss, more lovely than a painting, with people, birds, trees, sky and water. And such real clouds! The soft blending of silk, done stitch by stitch one for a folding screen had taken five men 15 years to make. It was about four feet high and each panel a different landscape.

I asked a Jap if women did not do it also. He said, "Not so grand like a man." So is in America the grand artists are men.

I think I should not take more space.

Glad the sisters are writing more letters.

SUSANNA.

WANTS OLD FASHIONED CORN CAKE RECIPE

Dear Social Corner: Will some of the sisters give a recipe for old fashioned corn cakes? We are having some fine weather. Hope Kochie and Peggy Alder are enjoying it as much as I am. Hope it will continue for a while.

Say, let us see who can write the jolliest letters to give the shutins something to have a good laugh over. Tell of some of the childhood pranks we used to do. I think Rural Aunty can, she was always so full of fun. And there are others I know way back in school days. Now let's start in as it is coming a long cold winter.

There is lots of good information in the Corner but let's have some fun as well. It would be so nice to hear from the old friends through the Corner.

Quince Sauce with Pumpkin: I helped make some quince sauce with pumpkin and it was fine. Cut the pumpkin in pieces about two inches square and cook until tender. Then put in the quince sauce and cook it until all is done. I liked it very much.

Well I see Ma of Greene Gables is at her favorite pastime—pie making. Well she was always famous at that. Where is Kochie? Has the cold snap been too much, and has Peggy gone to sleep too? Come wake up, there will be time enough to sleep when the snow comes. I am not going to sleep until then. There are violets still blooming.

Well I think the Social Corner is just fine. There is so much good information in it.

Good bye, sweethearts, for this time.

NONESOPRETTY.

HOPES OLD WRITERS ARE NOT FORGETTING CORNER

Dear Social Corner Friends: We wish to thank all the Corner members who kindly sent me birthday cards on Nov. 8th.

The writers are doing well to keep the Corner page full of interesting letters, many of the old writers are missed from week to week Hope they will form the habit again and send in their letters to The Bulletin. We hear that Crimson Rambler will spend the winter months in the south. She surely needs a vacation. Let us hope she will escape the New England winter and enjoy the sunny south.

We enjoy the poetry in the Corner page and am sending in a few lines today which seems to fit my case as the years go swiftly by. With best wishes to all.

MY FAVORITE GIFTS

Dear Corner Friends: Here are my favorite gifts and they are always welcome and will retain their popularity for generations to come. I make one bag with six pockets which one hangs on a door to hold shoes.

The big flat bag for wrapping paper, with its pointed top, shaped altogether like an open envelope and with a pocket attached in front, a patch pocket to hold the string. The string bag with a ball in each end, one of string the other with stout cord. Then I make button bags, stocking bags and laundry bags, clothespin bags, marble bags, needle books, pinchusions (in which one can easily stick pins) spoonoases well stocked—all these are good to give and my friends are glad to receive them. I make them out of cretonne.

PREPARING THE THANKSGIVING DINNER

Dear Corner Editor and Sisters: Thanksgiving day is nearly here again so here are a few points about poultry, which may be served in many fashions and is generally eaten with pleasure. In selecting it full-grown fowl have the best flavor, provided they are young. The age can be determined by turning the wing backward if it yields, it is tender. The same is true if the skin on the leg is readily broken. Older, poultry makes the best soup. In dressing poultry, chickens only should be scalded. All other fowl and game should be dry picked. The intestines should be removed at once, but frequently in shipping they are left in and when removed, the fowl needs washing in several waters. The heart to the last water should contain a half teaspoon of baking soda, which sweetens and renders all more wholesome. The giblets are the gizzard, heart, liver and neck. A double pan is the best in which to roast all fowl and game.

If you are to have roast duck, two small young ones are better than a large, handsome, hard-fleshed drake, which, as a rule, is best fit for a stew. Pluck, singe and empty the birds, wash thoroughly, cut off the head, neck and legs, the latter at the first joint, and all skewered firmly to give the breast a nice plump appearance. For stuffing, take one-half pound of onions, a teaspoon of poultry seasoning, three tablespoons of bread crumbs the liver of the duck parboiled and minced with pepper and salt. Cut the onions very fine, cover with boiling water and let stand ten minutes, then drain and mix with the crumbs and liver, salt to taste then fill duck, but do not fill in too hard. This quantity is for one duck. More onion and seasoning may be added but the above is a delicate compound not like to disagree with the stomach. Roast before a brisk clear fire, baste often and dredge with flour to make the bird look frothy. Serve with a good brown gravy and apple sauce.

Loretta: The coat did not fit you, for you have written several very interesting letters. They do not come very often but we are always looking for one.

Hope our sisters in Florida will not forget us this winter. Letters from them are always interesting.

Best of wishes to all Cornerites.

A TRIP INTO MASSACHUSETTS

Dear Editor and Social Corner Sisters: Just a few lines about an auto trip I took not very long ago. brother, sisters, hubby and myself making a party of five taking the early morning flight. Leaving the fair city, the Rose of New England, and the familiar scenes far behind, the car like, a bird on wings was speeding rapidly forward. We soon became interested in the new scenery along the trail over which we were passing, rather obscures in the early morning light, but when the sun rose above the eastern horizon gilding with its golden radiance the glowing landscape of tinted beauty, the scene was gorgeously wonderful. Many points of interest were passed and some laughable sights were seen. The tiller of the soil had placed by the wayside the toothsome products of his toils. The attractive Springfield exposition grounds were passed, quiet now after entertaining many thousand people a short time previous. We saw a large apple orchard with boughs bending low with fruit clinging to the branches where once the blossoms were. As we came in sight of Mt. Tom standing with bold grandeur garbed in varigated colors of the autumn splendor the scene was very beautiful. At various points were apples, vegetables of all kinds and honey tastefully arranged to attract the tourists' eyes, all along the route. The lenient hand of Jack Frost had withheld his icy touch from the brilliant bloom of flowers that were as bright as in mid-summer. The many curves of a long drive were safely passed and the journey ended at brother and sister's house. The glad hand of a cordial greeting was extended and with its welcome clasp we were ushered into the home. Nieces and nephews were there to greet us but we missed the absent ones. The social hour that followed was of much enjoyment as was the repast that was soon served to which we did ample justice. As we withdrew from the table a sight-seeing trip was proposed. Strolling along in the warm sunlight, Sugarloaf mountain looked but a step away, but too far to visit and as we turned back we realized that half of the sights had not been seen. After a short call at the new beautiful bungalow where a niece lived we retraced our way to the large general merchandise store in connection with a post office where brother is proprietor and postmaster at East Wheatley, Mass.

A few happy hours and soon we were standing beside the car bidding the loved ones goodbye. As the door closed the last hand wave was lost to view and the homeward ride began. The beauty of nature was admired until the slanting rays of a western sun lengthened the shadows, the twilight deepened and the mantle of night dropped the curtain which hid the view from sight. As we talked over the events of the day, the car was steadily nearing home. We must say the trip was most delightful after a most pleasant day.

FRIENDSHIP

Dear Social Corner Members: Real friendship as I understand it means, that we have many acquaintances but few real friends in time of need and trouble. It is easy for anyone to be friendly as long as we agree with them and do as they wish us to. I think one good turn deserves another. I like the Social Corner motto, friends and friendly to all.

E. L. M.: Your ham was a worse calamity than my codfish.

Chauffeur: I saw you pass by smiling and know you were thinking about what a nice time you was going to have at the Shore Line club. I had to stay at home and watch for the coal man, but my mind was at the Corner especially when I ate my dinner all alone and knew what I was missing, so I consoled myself by making hubby a shirt, and the coal man never came.

O. D.: Thanks for the nice card sent. It was greatly appreciated.

Best wishes to all the Corner.

LOBSTER AND CHOWDER RECIPES

Dear Sisters: You will enjoy these recipes sometime:

Lobster Souffle: 1 lb of lobster, 1 beaten egg, 1 1-2 cups milk, 2 teaspoons butter, 1-4 teaspoon pepper, 1 cup rolled cracker crumbs, 3 tablespoons of flour, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 tablespoon minced onion.

Melt butter stir in flour until smooth, add gradually 2 cups milk, cooking and stirring constantly until thickened. Into a greased baking dish arrange a layer of lobster through which the onion and seasoning have been mixed, then a layer of cracker or bread crumbs and cover with the white sauce. Repeat until all is used having crumbs on top. Dot with bits of butter, bake in a moderate oven 30 minutes.

Timbales of Lobsters: 2 cups lobsters, 5 hard boiled eggs, 2 eggs, 1 teaspoon salt, 1-4 teaspoon pepper, 1 teaspoon pepper, 1 teaspoon lemon juice, white sauce 1-2 quart, celery.

Flake salmon into bits, removing all bones and skin; rub the yolks of hard boiled eggs to a paste and stir them into the lobster (after putting it through the chopper) Mince the white of the eggs as fine as possible and stir them into the lobster mixture, season with salt, white pepper, lemon juice and a dash of cayenne; beat the mixture into the well beaten yolks of 2 eggs; add the whites of eggs beaten stiff; pour into buttered, napples or timbale cases; set these in pan boiling water and bake 30 minutes. Turn out on hot platter.

Clam Chowder: Four onions (white ones) 5 medium sized potatoes cut in small pieces, 3 slices salt pork, ground fine and 12 large chowder clams, steamed and cut in small pieces (keep in juice) 2 tablespoons of flour (heaping) 1 1-2 cups water, 1 quart milk, 1 gill cream. Melt the salt pork, put in the onions, simmer slowly but do not let onions get brown. Then add the flour, mixing well, the juice of the clams with the water, then add the potatoes and clams. Let cook until the potatoes are soft, then add the milk (scalded first.) Season with salt and cayenne pepper. When ready to serve mix in the cream and a good lump of butter. Serve with chowder crackers. This recipe feeds eight people.

GUESS WHO.

MAKING BREAD

Dear Corner Sisters: So I won't be classed as lazy with my pen I will write just a few lines. At this time of year one can gather rose leaves, black alder berries and the brilliant deadly night berries, barberries and by dipping very quickly in boiling parafine keep them all winter as they will not dry out and are cheery on a cold snowy day to look at.

I read an article in a farm paper sometime ago that it was not possible to make as good bread in one loaf quantity as in larger batches. I know from long experience that it is an easy thing to do. The most important thing in making bread is temperature. A thermometer (Dairy) can be bought for 35 cents. Take the temperature of the room and of the flour add together and subtract from 240 and that is the right temperature for the water. Use one yeast cake, 1 1-2 teaspoons shortening, 1 teaspoons sugar, 1 of salt and one and one half of water and five cups of sifted flour. Mix and put in well greased pan to rise brush with melted butter or lard to keep crust from forming. This will be at 80 degrees and it is very easy to keep it there while rising. Knead and let rise again. Form into loaf, let rise and bake. This can be varied by using part oatmeal, graham or shredded wheat.

Lucille Drew: We missed you today. I can sympathize with you on the jelly cooking. I had the same thing happen to me.

Necia: I reckon you were too tired to come down to our meeting. Hope you enjoyed your trip.

Little Rhody: Hope you are rested and have recovered from the headache. I think you put it over the best ever. Every one else seemed to enjoy every minute and there surely was plenty of good things to eat.

Thanks for the space and wish every one the best of luck.

MILKY WAY.

PLEASURE AND HAPPINESS

Dear Editor and Social Corner Sisters: I want to add my bit to other reports that may be sent in regarding the November meeting of the Shore Line club which was held in Westerly at Vets hall in the 16th. The large number present was evidence of the esteem with which the genial hostess are regarded by members and guests of the club. They were assisted by other members who did everything in their power to contribute to the comfort and entertainment of all present. At the noon hour about 75 members and guests sat down to a bountiful collation. In fact all the luxuries of the season and everything known to be good to eat were in waiting to appease their appetites.

In the afternoon there was an interesting program of songs, solos, recitations, a marked feature of which was the kitchen band which was greatly enjoyed and all declared that this meeting had been one of the best ever. Now we are looking forward with pleasure to our next.

While writing this I have been thinking over the different subjects that have been written up in the Social Corner letters. What about pleasure and happiness? I for one am thinking what a blessing it is that simple pleasure and happiness cannot be bought over the counter and that they do not come by the pound or that wealth cannot possibly corner the supply of the joy of being alive. Why no Rockefeller or Ford with all their wealth could buy as much happiness as shines from the eyes of a young mother who holds her first born in her arms. No, happiness is not measured by bank accounts or the price of our house. It lies rather in the consciousness that no matter how simple our task we are doing the best we know how and that through our willing service lives are brightened because we have passed by. It isn't what we get but what we give. It is the part of ourselves we put into life that makes it smile back at us. It is the heart we gladden by word or deed that gives purpose and meaning to life and stores the mind with golden memories that accomplishment alone can bring.

Oh there are beautiful things we all can do
But they are not the things we wear
As we all shall find when our journey's through
And the roll call is read up there.
When all is weighed on that fateful day
The lightest thing will be gold
There are beautiful things we all can do
But they are not bought or sold.

EULIEKA.

THANKS FOR FAVORS

To Editor and Members of Social Corner: Club No. 1 of the Social Corner held a successful meeting Nov. 10. Rose Lee was hostess and she certainly knows how to arrange everything.

I thank those who sent birthday greeting—Marigold, Theoda, Edie M., Irva Lynn, Mary France and others from distant states.

Irva Lynn: Your letter arrived on my birthday.

Joan: Thank you for recipe for pie. It was delicious.

Twice Twenty: Thank you for recipe. When I can get all ingredients together will try it.

Several have written about friends. I think Shakespeare has described a faithful friend perfectly. "He will help thee in thy need."

E. L. M.: You seem to have an ideal friend in Cosmos.

Those who enjoy reading will find a Chinese Quaker an interesting book, also The Magic Garden; the least book written by the late Jean Stratton Porter.

It is said there are only two words in the English language that contain all the vowels in their order. They are abstemious and facetious.

Hope all have a pleasant Thanksgiving.

NEMA.

It keeps a lot of people moving to get enough money to pay rent.

READING IN OTHER SCHOOL DAYS

Dear Social Corner Editor and Sisters: May I come in for a few moments to the Social Corner circle? Noting that so far the request of Iola in the Bulletin of Oct. 20 has not been answered, I am glad to be able to send the poem she wishes to obtain. I have copied it from The Standard Fifth Reader by Epes Sargent. 1857.

This book was in use in our schools in Windham up to 1868 when the series of Sargent's Readers as they were called were displaced by Hillards New Readers. I well recall hearing the first class in reading, read the poem enclosed, and in copying it, the phrases were very familiar and reawakened something of the fervor and inspiration I used to feel while listening to the older pupils render the poem with dramatic effect.

It was the custom of many teachers at that time to have the classes often read in unison, generally chosing some patriotic stirring poem. This poem I am sending was read that way. One member each in turn would read the preceding lines and the whole class join in the refrain, "For the strength of the hills, We bless thee, Our God our fathers' God!" The class used to read The Launch of the Ship by Longfellow in unison to the loyal sentiments of the poem, The Captives Dream by Mrs. Hemans was also a favorite for "reading together," as it was termed. I used to borrow the Fifth Reader from my older sisters and reread the pieces I had listened to as they were read in the class and how I longed for the day when I could read in the Fifth Reader in the first class. I had reached that dignity when I was 11 years old, alas! the joy was short lived. One day a short time after the winter term had begun the visiting committee made an unexpected call. Entering the school with a pile of new books in his arms, it was announced that all the old readers were to be discarded and replaced by new ones.

I never was reconciled to the change. Even now, many years later, on glancing over the Fifth Reader (fortunately I have a copy saved from the other side of the house) I feel its superiority over Hillard's sixth Reader which supplanted it. Even today with all the modern improvements in text books the book, Sargents Fifth Reader could well be used as a text book of literature. Unfortunately literature as a study was not developed in my school days. Occasionally a teacher would call attention to the author's name. A careful review of a collection of old readers which have descended to the family from preceding generations of school teachers and students convinces me that there was much worthy material in the old time books. Unfortunately the lack of knowledge of how to teach it, how to interest the pupils in the subject of the reading lesson rather than to see that every comma and semi-colon and period received due attention prevented the majority of the scholars of the rural schools of that time from getting the full value of the treasures of literature which their Readers contained.

I ventured some two or more years ago to send a contribution to the Social Corner. At the time I was trying to cheer up and bravely await the coming of spring after a long trying cold winter.

Though now, was are enjoying some Indian summer days, we have a long winter to look forward to. To bravely meet each day as it comes with the shortening hours and increasing cold and storms requires much courage, so I will sign the former name with the wish it may be my inspiration to not only endure but enjoy the coming season.

RURAL AUNTY GOING TO FLORIDA

Dear Editor and Sisters: Well, sisters, I have a surprise for you, I am going to start for the sunny south in about two weeks time. What do you think about that! While some of you up here will be blowing your fingers to keep warm I will be sitting on the veranda making rugs and out among the flowers but you will hear from me thruogh the Social Corner. I will let you know how I like it down there. I have a son at Winter Park and he wants me to come.

I was sorry I left out the sugar in my recipe for five minute cup cakes, but most everyone knows that it takes a cup of sugar to make most anything in that line so I hope they won't forget the recipe and try it as it always comes out good if properly made.

Speaking of friends I think we ought to help the one next to us. I think there is mission work to do right at home. Why go anywhere else until we help those that need it the most right at home. And by the way I want to thank the Editor for the yellow slip and I will tell you what I did with it. I gave it to a friend that was very much in need so I say begin at home first. Isn't that the way we would like to be done by? That is what friends are for. Help each other along.

Kochie: I am pretty well thank you and am going to the sunny south soon. Will send you a card but I don't know where it is best or not as I saw where someone called your mother their mother. I didn't know but things were getting serious but I guess it is all right to take a chance in sending a card.

Olga: Did you get my letter? Would be so glad to have a line from you. I think of you often and when I get to Florida I will write you a line. I hope I won't be so absent minded as the man was that was going to New York. His wife said the morning he started, with tears in her eyes (he was going to be gone 24 hours) you will think of me while you are gone. Certainly I will. Nothing could have been more obliging than his tone. I will bear it in mind. And you will be very careful of yourself getting on and off trains and about your meals, I will certainly see that all those matters are attended to at the proper time and he hastily scribbled a note in regard to an important business matter he had almost forgotten and then placed a loving arm around his wife. I have a memoranda of all these things you have mentioned my dear, he said in a reassuring tone, you may be perfectly easy about them all. Hope all the sisters are enjoying this weather before it comes too cold.

Was so glad to see the page so full and running over I think the writers, some of the old ones, are waking up and doing better. So let's keep the page full and running over. Perhaps my next letter will be dated Winter Park, Florida.

With kind regards to all.

THAT ROAD TO SCOTLAND

Dear Social Corner Members: As usual when the Bulletin comes in on Saturday I glance over the Corner page to see who has written and when I saw the length of my letter I said to myself I guess I wont write again very soon. I had been saying some of the members were not doing much letter writing and no doubt much letters is not any room for them. I write so often and so lengthy. Later in the day when I got time to read the letters I saw the beginning of my letter was a good deal like Hoot Owl's cake recipe a little lacking. It should have read, Many for fair weather, few, for foul. Many when you have money and few when you are short.

I have been interested in the letters written about Westminster. Some months ago quite a number wrote about the terrible road. I did not even know where it was. A few weeks ago we went for a ride over Pendleton Hill to Voluntown, Ekonk, North Sterling, Oneco, Moosup to Plainfield. We then went to Canterbury, saw a sign that said Scotland where he had never been so thought we would go. The good road lasted for a few miles then such a road as we struck. I don't know how far it was until we again came to a good one but it seemed miles and miles. It must be impassable in winter. Such a neat looking church at Westminster and while I shall probably never go that way again I rejoiced for the people in that section to see a new road had been surveyed. Scotland is a pretty little place. We then came to several Windhams through Willimantic and Norwich home. I do enjoy rides over roads I have not been on but don't want to find many like that.

Oriole: Was sorry to read that you had been ill. Hope you are all well now.

Rebe: I had heard all about that pie. I am going to try it. Sorry your birthday got by before I realized. Hope you have lots more each happier than the last.

Now I'm going to hide my pen and read oh! so many letters from the one-letter writers, as Twice Twenty called them.

PEANUT BUTTER FUDGE

Dear Social Corner Editor: I had a chance to attend a meeting some time ago and enjoyed it so much, would like to become a member. One meets so many and makes so many nice friends.

Would like to get this letter in on time to go to Club No. 6 in Westerly. I have a recipe for filled cookies if you would care for it send it later. Am sending one for peanut butter fudge.

Peanut Butter Fudge (Mocha): 2 cups granulated sugar, 1 cup strong coffee, 2 tablespoons peanut butter, boil hard until it forms a soft ball in cold water. Remove from fire and add 1 tablespoon butter, 1-2 cup peanuts dropped; set in a pan of cold water until it cools, then beat until creamy, pour into tin, cut in squares.

TO MAKE FRIENDS

Dear Social Corner Editor, and sisters: Your letters concerning friendship, and gossiping have been very interesting. It put me in mind of an article Bruce Barton wrote concerning friendship. He said: "In my son's library (he is aged four) I ran across this bit of wisdom, which I commend to every young man ambitious to succeed.

Why does the lamb love Mary so?
The eager children cry,
Because Mary loves the lamb you know,
The teacher did reply.

And I thought surely you are obliged to show yourself friendly, to your friends. It isn't fair, to expect the lamb to do all the loving.

We don't always think we should have the same ideas that the other fellow has, and I believe if a man has a different idea in his mind, he should have the courage to live up to it. Not to feel they must follow a pattern made by others instead of carving out his own destiny, and here is where the gossiping, slandering, knocking, or persecuting, lends itself, for you know almost always. "It is the worthiest party that is injured by slander, we usually find that it is the best fruit which the birds have been picking." and it is almost always sure to follow if a man or woman chooses something a little different than the other fellow. They don't stop to think that it is none of their business, what the other fellow is doing.

We know so little how the other party is situated. It reminds me of a young woman entering a crowded car with a pair of skates on her arm. An elderly gentleman at once arose, and offered her his seat.

"Thank you very much," she said, "but I don't care about sitting down. I've been skating all afternoon," so you see that time silence would have hide a vast amount of stupidity. If he had kept still and thought it over he would have known she had been sitting down most of the afternoon.

Here is another time that it would have been wiser if the party had been silent. Senator La Follette, discussing the currency bill, said of a certain passage, "That needs delicate handling. It is, like the position of a young man on his honeymoon, peculiar because while still in mourning, he had married his deceased wifes sister. A friend of his, a chap he had not seen for years, accosted him on his honeymoon in a Niagara restaurant. The friend, after being introduced to the bride said sympathetically,

"But who are you in mourning for, old man?"

"For my sister-in-law," was the delicate reply.

CLUB NO. 6 TO HAVE PARTY AND TREE

Dear Editor and Social Corner Members: I have read with much interest the many expressions of pleasure experienced at the different Social Corner gatherings during the past years.

Club No. 6 is trying to add her bit by cordially inviting all the different club members and their friends to meet in the Salvation Army rooms, Putnam, Conn., on Thursday, Dec. 8, 1926.

Each person who comes is asked to bring plate, knife, fork, cup, spoon and something to eat; also an article for a tree.

As a part of the afternoon program the tree and its contents are to be presented to the Salvation Army for their disposal.

Do not forget the place and date and earnestly hope that all the Social Corner clubs may be represented.

Yours for the success of the Social Corner.

BUFFALO.

TAKES ANOTHER'S PENNAME

Dear Social Corner Editor: Having been invited by the sisters of the Social Corner club to join them I am asking that I be enrolled as a member of the Social Corner which I enjoy very much

I'll take as a pennname.

WINONA.

(You have taken the penname of another, so please make some other selection.—S. S. Editor.)

ANOTHER CORNER MEMBER

Social Corner Editor: Just a line to let you know I wish to join the Social Corner.

I'll take for my pen name.

JONAH.

MISSED A CALL

Dear Editor and Social Corner Sisters: I am almost ashamed to write it is such a long time since I received my Social Corner pin and never thanked the editor for it, but I hope he will pardon me this time.

Well first of all I have been sick and then very busy with housecleaning, and now I have lots of sewing to do.

Well, I was very sorry last Friday I went to see my sister, and while I was gone a certain Social Corner sister came to see me. I think it was

IN NORWICH FIFTY YEARS AGO

Dissatisfaction among the members of the Shetucket Steam Fire Engine company, No. 7, resulted in their withdrawal from the fire department of the city, 50 years ago this week. The company numbering 42 men, were planning at that time to organize a literary club with a reading room. The same week, H. H. Osgood purphased at auction, for $25,500 the Griswold paper mill, situated about one and a half miles from Voluntown. Interesting extracts taken from the files of The Bulletin of November 1876 are as follows:

Monday, Nov. 13, 1876—The annual report of the New London Northern road, which has a capital of $1,500,000, a funded debt of $682,000 and an unfunded debt of $100,000, shows $508,-003 receipts for the year ending Sept. 10th and expenses of $348,281.

It gives us pleasure to announce that Chaplain McCabe who is to lecture in Breed hall this evening, will sing The Trundle Bed, after the lecture.

There will be a continental reunion at Continental hall in the Fourth district Army Friday evening. Captain Scott, Lieutenants Murphy and Stamm and the president of the club will furnish tickets to those wishing to attend.

Tuesday, Nov. 14 1876—Mr. A. C. Mitchell of the Norwich Rifle club made an excellent score at the annual shoot of the Connecticut Rifle association at Willowbrook, Saturday, making 12 out of 15 bulls eyes at 500 yards. Mr. James Duggan also made a good record in the long range match.

Ira F. Lewis, charged with selling liquor without a license, was brought before U. S. Commissioner Hall in this city yesterday but the case was postponed. The cases of Michael Ward, Michael McCafferty and Edward Sweeney were also called and postponed.

Mr. C. W. Bowser, supported by Miss Effie Johnson and a company, appears here Saturday night, in Gilbert's comedy, Sweethearts. His acting is highly spoken of.

Wednesday, Nov. 15, 1876—James S. Ripley, confidence operator, was fined $25 and costs in the city court yesterday and sent to jail. He had about $1.50 on him but it is known that he collected quite a large sum of money, as he has been at work here for some time. Other complaints will probably be brought against him.

Clothes line thieves are about. Monday night Mr. George W. Bruce, who lives on Fountain street, lost the clothes of his family for the week, which had been left out to dry. As his family includes 10 children and three adults and three dozen pairs of stockings and other things in proportion were taken, the loss was quite a heavy one.

Mr. F. F. Jewett, for some time an instructor in the Free Academy and more rebently private assistant in chemistry to Prof. Wolcott Gibbs of Harvard university, has through the recommendation of President Porter of Yale college, been appointed professor of chemistry in the Imperial university of Japan.

Thursday, Nov. 16, 1876—Owing to the dissatisfaction of the members of the Shetucket Steam Fire Engine company, No, 7, they last evening, tendered their withdrawal from the fire department of the city, to Chief Engineer Carrier. They agreed to do fire duty until Saturday, to enable the chief to raise another company, and Saturday evening, they propose to have their last social. Miller furnishes the music.

At the annual meeting of the Norwich Provident association holden November 13, it was voted to request each of the town and city churches which desire to unite in the labors of the association, to appoint a committee of two, a lady and gentleman, to cooperate with the board in the matter of raising funds to pay its present Indebtedness and sustain its charitable work during the coming year.

About 150 persons gathered at the social supper of the Central Methodist church last evening and a very pleasant time was had. It was so much of a success that the society propose to repeat it soon.

Friday, Nov. 17, 1876—The Griswold paper mill situated about one and one half miles from Voluntown, which has been idle for the past two years was sold Wednesday at public auction for $25,500, H. H. Osgood of the firm of Lee and Osgood, Norwich, being the bidder.

The music of the City band falls pleasantly on the ear of evening loiterers about the lower part of the city.

Every effort is being made to finish the Colchester railroad before cold weather.

People are still going to the centennial from here.

Saturday, Nov. 18, 1876—The ladies sewing society of the Central Baptist church gave a pound festival in the vestry of the church last evening. The object was to raise funds to pay for the painting, cleaning and repairing of the building. It was a success and reflected credit on Mrs. E. H. Beckwith, president of the society and the efficient corps of directors who assisted her.

At a special meeting of ministers held in this city Friday afternoon it was decided to hold a Union Sunday School institute in the Second Congregational church on Tuesday, December 5th.

Chaplain McCabe was warmly welcomed in Breed hall last evening and deservedly so.

At 7:30 this evening the Shetucket Steam Fire Engine company, No. 7, retire from the fire department of the city. They number 42 men and propose to organize a literary club, including a reading room.

GOOD RECIPES

Dear Social Sister:: Try these recipes which have been tested and let me know what you think of them:

Date and Walnut Angel Cake: 5 eggs, 1 1-2 cups powdered sugar, 1 teaspoon of orange, 2 1-2 tablespoons of flour, 2 teaspoons baking powder, 3-4 lb. of dates, 1-2 lb. chopped walnuts. Beat yolks, add sugar after sifting and beat again, add chopped nuts and cut dates. Mix thoroughly, add flavoring (if you prefer vanilla or lemon you can use that) then add the whites beaten stiff. Sift your flour with the baking powder and mix in the batter, (I bake it in an angel cake baking pan.) Line your cake pan and flour it.

When cool moisten with 2 tablespoons of sherry and put a sprinkling of sugar over the top. If you wish you can eat it as a pudding with whipped cream.

Egg Timbale from Belgrade, Maine: (A charming hostess recipe) 1-2 tablespoon of butter, 1 cup milk, 1 tablespoon flour, hard boiled egg.

Melt the butter in a sauce pan with the flour and stir constantly until thoroughly blended. Then add the milk, slowly stirring all the time until creamy. Season to taste. Have ready a timbale form, or glass baking dish, which has been previously filled with hard boiled egg diced and halved. Pour the sauce over the eggs. Bake in a moderate oven 20 minutes. This serves three people.

CLUB NO. 13 MEETING

Dear Social Corner Friends: I feel I should drop a few lines to the Corner. I attended the meeting in Waterly Tuesday and had a lovely time. We sat down to a lovely dinner at noon with many guests. The program was very interesting and greatly enjoyed.

I missed Tatting and her mother Cutie. I hope they will be with us in Mystic at our next meeting.

Best wishes and success to the Shore Line club.

MOONIE (Club No. 6.)

UNION

George W. Thayer, who had been failing in strength for some months, passed quietly away at six o'clock on Sunday morning, November 14. As he had wished, he was able to be about until the last, and just quietly "fell asleep" on Sunday morning.

The funeral was held at his late residence in the East district. Burial was in the East cemetery, Rev. Henry A. Coolidge, pastor of the Union church was the officiating clergyman. He was assisted by Rev. Mr. Higgins, a former pastor of the North Ashford church, and an old friend of the Thayer family. Two beautiful selections were sung by Mrs. Archa Walker, Mellen Tatem and son of Eastford and Mrs. Charles Buell of North Ashford. The casket was draped with the flag of D. P. Corbin post, the flag that Mr. Thayer, our last Civil war veteran, had carried so many Memorial days, and which he had guarded so faithfully. Paul Risner, World war soldier, stood in uniform at the head of the casket, and Civil war veteran, Mr. Chism, of Westford, stood at the foot. The large house was filled with many relatives and friends, and there were many beautiful floral tributes. The bearers were Ralza Horton of Union, George Horton and Harry Horton of Worcester, William Crawford of Lexington, Mass., the four grandsons, also Clarence Marsh of Worcester, a grandson-in-law.

At the grave in the East cemetery the G. A. R. ritual was read by Rev. H. A. Coolidge. The flag with which the casket had been draped, was removed, and, in conformity with Mr. Thayer's expressed wish, Mrs. Thayer handed the precious relic to Ralza Horton, their grandson, for safe keeping.

Mr. Thayer will be missed by many friends in the church and community life of this and neighboring towns. He was a kind neighbor, a faithful friend, a man of great industry and an earnest Christian gentleman.

George William Thayer was born April 14, 1844, the son of William Thayer and Laura Barton Thayer. He served in Co. G, of the 22nd regiment, of which David P. Corbin was captain. He married Louisa V. Young and lived for several years in a cottage which he built near his father's home in the Bigelow valley. Later he removed to Kenyonville. In 1884 he purchased the Benjamin Corbin farm where he has since resided.

Besides his widow, he leaves three daughters, Mrs. Leona Howard of Putnam, Mrs. Minnie G. Horton of Worcester, Mass., and Mrs. Charles A. Proulx of Union. There are the following grandchildren, William Crawford of Lexington, Mass., Mrs. Louise Spencer of Putnam, George Horton, Harry Horton and Mrs. Clarence Marsh of Worcester, Mass., Ralza Horton and Arthur Proulx of Union, and Mrs. Frank Peck of South Lyme. There are also these great grandchildren, Marion and Alice Spencer of Putnam, Grace, Archie, Mary and Fremont Horton of Worcester, Mass., Edna, Dorothy, Ruth and Myrtle Horton of Union. He is also survived by a brother, Charles H. Thayer of Woodstock.

Mrs. George Coolidge has been spending a few days in Hartford with her sister, Mrs. Walter Turning and family.

Edwin Oliver and family of Thompsonville were guests Sunday of Samuel and Miss Della Heck. Little Mabel Oliver returned to Thompsonville with her parents after spending several weeks here with her uncle and aunt.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond B. Kelsey and their little daughter, Cynthia, accompanied by Mrs. Mary Soule, all of Stafford were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Holcomb R. Howard.

The following have been appointed solicitors for the Red Cross roll call: East district, Mrs. Eva A. Proulx; Center, Mrs. H. A. Coolidge; Rock Meadow, Miss Della M. Heck; Mashapaug, Miss Helen F. Millard: Red School district, Mrs. Ella C. Barrows.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Palmer of Hartford were at their log cabin on Marcy Hill the past week end.

After the severe gale of last Tuesday afternoon and early evening had subsided, eight members of Mashapaug Lake grange carried out their intention to attend Neighbor's night at Sturbridge grange. The 3rd and 4th degrees were worked and a supper served.

Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Willis had for Sunday guests, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Cerley and family of Springfield, Mass. The members of the Ladies Benevolent association are planning to hold their Christmas sale on Thursday evening, December 2.

STAFFORDVILLE

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. McCarthy of Springfield, Mass., visited friends here Wednesday.

Rev. and Mrs. J. M. Von Deck of Oneco, visited their daughter, Mrs. Elizabeth Belcher, recently.

Mr. and Mrs. W. V. Odell of Blackstone, Mass., visited the latter's brother, Grant Hanna, at Hydeville, Sunday.

Mrs. Frank Belcher, Mr. and Mrs. George Belcher and three children were guests of Mr. and Mrs. George Taylor in South Coventry, Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Clark and two children of Windsor were guests of Mrs. H. G. Dunham Sunday last.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Smith and son, Howard, and granddaughters, Marjorie and Doris Cooley, were guests Sunday of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Smith.

Where Was Mrs. Grouse?

How oft the thing on which were set
Is just the thing we cannot get.
—Reddy Fox.

Reddy Fox flared up at Mr. Grouse, and Mr. Grouse glared back at Reddy Fox. Mr. Grouse was safely up in a tree. Then Reddy Fox turned and glared up at Chatterer the Red Squirrel, and showed all his teeth, and growled, and told what dreadful things he would do to Chatterer. And Chatterer glared back and scolded so fast that his tongue tripped over itself, and said all the mean things about Reddy Fox that he could think of, made fun of Reddy, and told him that he was glad that Mr. Grouse had escaped.

Reddy looked up and glared at Mr. Grouse

But Reddy suddenly remembered Mrs. Grouse. He turned his back on Mr. Grouse and Chatterer and eagerly began to sniff under that pile of brush. He was sure that Mrs. Grouse was somewhere under there. How could she be anywhere else? She couldn't fly, because she had been hurt with that terrible gun of the hunter who had come to the Green Forest. Of course, Mr. Grouse had been with her. Now Mr. Grouse was up in the tree, so Mrs. Grouse must be somewhere under that brush-pile.

No longer did Reddy try to be quiet and crafty. He simply began to tear at that brush-pile and throw sticks this way and that way, pausing every now and then to sniff. At first he smelled Grouse very strongly. Of course. You see, Mr. Grouse had left there only a few minutes before. But as he worked his way under that pile of brush, the smell of Grouse grew fainter and fainter and fainter, until by and by it disappeared altogether. Then Reddy Fox backed out and looked about him with such a puzzled air that Mr. Grouse up above him chuckled.

"Were you looking for some one, Reddy?" inquired Mr. Grouse.

Reddy looked up and glared at Mr. Grouse, and if looks could have killed, Mr. Grouse would have dropped right down stone dead. But looks connot kill. They cannot even hurt. So Mr. Grouse merely chuckled some more. Chatterer the Red Squirrel stopped scolding long enough to chuckle too. This made Reddy angrier than ever. Somehow it always does make folks angry to be laughed at when they don't want to be laughed at. Reddy didn't want to be laughed at. He rushed around to the other side of the pile of brush. He thought Mrs. Grouse might have run out on that side. But though he ran this way and he ran that way, with his nose to the ground, he couldn't get the faintest whiff of the scent of Mrs. Grouse.

Once more Reddy went at that pile of brush, until at last he had it all torn to pieces. Mrs. Grouse wasn't under it. There was nothing under it good to eat. "Ha, ha, ha!" laughed Mr. Grouse up in the tree. "Ho, ho, ho!" laughed Chatterer the Red Squirrel. And Sammy Jay, coming up just then, laughed too, although he didn't know what he was laughing about. Lots of people laugh when they don't know what they are laughing about.

Black anger filled the heart of Reddy Fox. He knew he was being laughed at and that was bad enough. But it was worse not to find that dinner he had been so sure of. It must—it simply must be there somewhere. Reddy sat down to think it over. It couldn't be possible that Mrs. Grouse was smarter than he. No, sir, Reddy would never admit that. But where was Mrs. Grouse?

"While There's Life There's Hope" seems to be read by some people, "While there's sight there's hope."

Nature repeatedly sends out signals in the form of headache, dizziness and so on, as warnings of more serious troubles ahead.

But so long as they can see at all, many people think it is not necessary to seek relief.

Much suffering and distress could be avoided if, at the first of these warnings, an examination were made of their eyes. We are here to relieve ocular troubles whenever glasses will do such good work.

Have your eyes examined TODAY!

ECHOES FROM THE LODGE ROOMS

DAUGHTERS OF VETERANS

The regular meeting of Clara Barton tent No. 7, Daughters of Union Veterans of the Civil war, was held in the Buckingham Memorial Tuesday evening at 7:45 with the president, Miss Gladys B. Newbury, presiding. The minutes of the last meeting were read and approved. It was voted to send a card of thanks to Harry Ford for the use of his truck in the Armistice day parade, also one to the driver, and one to Merton Latimer for their kindness and assistance. The meeting closed in the usual way with the salute to the flag and singing of "Star Spangled Banner".

PATRONS OF HUSBANDRY

Norwich grange, No. 172, which is approching the end of an active year of work has an important meeting for its regular session next Wednesday evening as this is the time for election of officers and a large attendance is anticipated in consequence of the interest that is always shown as to who will guide the grange for the next year.

CATHOLIC LADIES OF COLUMBUS

At the last regular meeting of Mercier Assembly, No. 12, Miss Elinore Donovan presided. The following meeting, this year, will be in charge of Miss Mary Hamill, vice president, as Miss Donovan is leaving Norwich. Miss Mary McCrohan has consented to act as treasurer for the rest of the year as Miss Agnes Bresnahan is leaving also.

All members are pleased to hear that the work of Mercier Assembly in "All Nations Bazaar" has been a wonderful success.

V. F. W. AUXILIARY

At the last regular meeting of R. E. Hourigan auxiliary, V. F. W., at which the president, Mrs. Annie B. Turner, was in the chair, the attention of the members was called to the meeting on Nov. 22, at which nomination of officers will be made and a large attendance was urged in order that this important business may be well taken care of.

SONS OF HERMANN

The junior branch, O. D. H. S., went into the lead over the senior branch of Germania lodge, having 6,030 more than their opponents. Both teams met for the first time Wednesday evening at pinochle and will continue to play one night each week for four consecutive weeks. At the end of the tournament the losers will act as hosts at a banquet. J. Schaffhauser was high man for the junior branch with 7710 while H. Liepold was high for the seniors with 7155.

FOREIGN WAR VETERANS

A very successful whist and dance was held at the Richard E. Hourigan post rooms, 142 Main street, Wednesday evening.

The first prise was awarded Antanette Beauregard; second, Mrs. Ethel Hoelck; third, Mrs. McKelvey; consolation, Jennette Rochette. First gentlemen's went to Mr. Webber; second, Alfred Inical; third, Fred Blanchard; fourth, Harry Ogulnick.

There were 17 tables at play. The Ideal Radio orchestra furnished music for dancing which was enjoyed by all.

REBEKAHS

The regular meeting of Hope Rebekah lodge, No 21, was held Wednesday evening in Odd Fellows hall with Noble Grand Mabel Wheeler presiding and after the reading of a letter regarding Christmas cheer at the Odd Fellows home at Groton the lodge voted $5 for this purpose.

The first nomination of officers was made and the report was given that the proceeds from the recent supper and sale held by the Rebekahs was $200, which will be given to the Odd Fellows building fund. The Odd Fellows thanked the Rebekahs for their assistance in serving refreshments on Armistice day. It was voted to have every Rebekah member give a dish towel to the lodge.

Mrs. Margaret Hart of Hartford, a past noble grand of the lodge, spoke interestingly of visits to the Hartford lodge.

At the close of the meeting several of the members enjoyed a game of [illegible]

Thirty five were in attendance for a meeting of Thames Past Grands' association, which was held Wednesday afternoon, following a chicken dinner that was served at noon. Groton, Jewett City, New London and Montville, with Norwich, were represented by those attending the meeting. Mrs. Morgan of New London, president of the association, presided at the meeting in the afternoon at which a social hour was enjoyed after routine business had been transacted.

EAGLES

Norwich Aerie, No. 367, held its regular meeting Monday night at their home on Cliff street, Worthy President August Hastedt presiding. The attendance was very large at this meeting. Routine business was transacted. The chairman of the class initiation committee reported that all arrangements have been made for the Thanksgiving eve class initiation. This is an annual celebration for the aerie. A turkey supper has been arranged for and a good line of entertainment. A very large class is expected.

The chairman of the entertainment committee announced the date for a public pinochle and whist.

ODD FELLOWS

The regular meeting of Shetucket lodge, No. 27, was held Tuesday evening in Odd Fellows' hall with Vice Grand George E. Faulkner presiding. After a short business session the meeting was thrown open to the friends and relatives of the members, and a delightful program was put on under the direction of A. H. Perry, chairman of the entertainment committee. The program follows:

Music, orchestra; song, Miss Fowler; monologue, Mr. Holland; music, orchestra; reading, Mrs. Manning; song, Miss Fowler; humerous song, Mr. Holland; a little "Maine Bunk", Mr. Perry; reading, Mrs. Manning; a few minutes with the dummy, Mr. Holland.

Ice cream and cake were served after the program and dancing was enjoyed until a late hour. Brother Waters announces that there is a vacancy on the pinochle team that is to represent Shetucket lodge in the city tournament and is requesting any brother interested in playing to call 657-2 immediately for details.

NEW LONDON CHEST IS $30,000 SHORT

With the total subscriptions to the Community Chest in New London brought up to $59,000 Friday and with campaign leaders having hopes of obtaining only $10,000 more from present prospects before today (Saturday) the campaign faced failure by $30,000 of the quota as the campaign approached the final day. In view of the situation, President Waldo E. Clarke said that the campaign would be held over indefinitely, Executive Director Thomas Mason stated that he would remains here for a few more days, donating his time to further means of bringing the campaign to a successful close.

SEEKS DIVORCE ON GROUNDS OF DESERTION

Suit for divorce from Elsie Cook O'Brien of this city has been brought in the superior court by Daniel J. O'Brien of this city. He alleges desertion in July 1922. The couple were married in February, 1908 and have a son, aged 14 and a daughter, aged 11, of whom the father asks the custody. The suit is returnable in December.

Robert Matthews, 17, died while playing in a basketball game in Louisville, Ky. A coroner's verdict pronounced death due to heart disease.

Solution of Yesterday's Puzzle

His despair turned to joy

When painful skin trouble is healed after resisting many treatments

East Haven, Conn., March 17:—"I work at Electro Plating and have what is known as "Platers' trouble." Every Plater gets it more or less, but I am unfortunate enough to get it all over my body from my head to my feet. My skin just opened up into a million and one deep cuts, from which ran a nasty watery fluid. I suffered tortures even after many different treatments. I was very much discouraged for some time and had about given up all hope of ever being healed when I tried your Resinol Soap and Ointment. I immediately began to get better and today my face and [illegible] tender parts of my body are entirely healed without even a scar. [illegible] boost Resinol every chance I get [illegible] I wish everybody suffering [illegible] skin trouble, especially that [illegible] caused by Electro Plating, would [illegible] it a fair trial." "The new Balkite "B" at $27.50 and the new Balkite Charger convert your radio set into a light socket receiver

Balkite Trickle Charger
MODEL K. With 6-volt "A" batteries can be left on continuous or trickle charge thus automatically keeping the battery at full power. In effect converts the "A" battery into a light socket "A" power supply. Charging rate about .5 ampere. Over 200,000 in use. Price $10.

Balkite Combination
Supplies automatic power to both "A" and "B" circuits. Controlled by the filament switch on your set. Entirely automatic in operation. Serves any set now using either 4 or 6-volt "A" batteries and requiring not more than 30 milliamperes at 135 volts of "B" current—practically all sets of up to 8 tubes. Price $59.50.

All Balkite Radio Power Units operate from 110-120 volts AC current with models for both 60 and 50 cycles. The new Balkite Charger is also made in a special model for 25-40 cycles.

Operate your radio set from the light socket with Balkite "B" and the new Balkite Charger.

Balkite "B" eliminates "B" batteries entirely and supplies "B" current from the light socket. Balkite "B"-W at $27.50 for any set of 5 tubes or less requiring 67 to 90 volts. Balkite "B"-X at $42 serves sets of up to 135 volts and 8 tubes. Balkite "B"-Y at $69 for any set.

The new Balkite Charger at $19.50 with both high and low charging rates, is the most convenient of all "A" battery chargers. At the low rate, on continuous or trickle charge, it automatically keeps your battery at full power. The high rate provides a ready reserve of power for heavy-duty sets.

Both the Balkite Charger and Balkite "B" are entirely noiseless in operation, with nothing to wear out or replace. Add them now and know the convenience of operating your radio set from the light socket. Ask your dealer. Fansteel Products Co., Inc., North Chicago, Ill.

DANIEL J. DONOVAN, NORWICH, HELD BY NEW LONDON COURT FOR BURGLARY

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Nov. 19—Daniel J. Donovan, who came to this section from Norwich more than a year ago, when he was a cook at a camp of laborers doing work here and near here, was bound over to the superior court, January term, in the police court this morning for burglary. He was with Joseph Porkornicky, a youth of 15, last Tuesday night, and robbed McMullen's Smoke shop on Main street. Donovan has a bad record in the police department of this city, for he was on parole at the time of the robbery. The Porkornicky boy made a confession of the crime and connected Donovan with it. Donovan was the "brains" who conceived the robbery and he furnished the implement, a jimmy, by which entrance was effected. The robbery was a mystery until the detectives, Cavanaugh and Smith, convinced that the robbery was the work of someone residing in the vicinity of the store robbed, took into custody boys of shady reputation. This included Porkornicky. He was given a brisk questioning with the result that his stories did not check up satisfactorily. The rest was easy when that progress had been made and he was accused. That broke him down and he related the circumstances of the break and gave information that led to the arrest of Donovan. Porkornicky was sent to the reformatory at Cheshire. The pair stole cigars, cigarettes and tobacco of a value of $125, and got away with $5 in cash, which they divided. Donovan's bond was fixed at $5,000 so he is not apt to get his liberty before the convening of the court.

MAN WITH TWO WIVES FINDS SITUATION EMBARRASSING

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Nov. 19—Albert Frank Cornell, under arrest at Staten Island, will have to face a charge of bigamy as he has one wife more than the law allows. He married Madaleine Mueller in Jersey City in 1916 and by her he is the father of a child. In July, 1921 he married Theresa Maroni in New London, she giving birth, to two children. It was Madaleine Mueller who discovered that Albert was in Staten Island and she promptly had him arrested for bigamy. He is held there, but as soon as the New York officers have dealt with him he will be brought back to New London. Cornell was married here by Rev. J. Gray Bolton, who was acting pastor of the Second Congregational church while Rev. Dr. J. B. Lee was on a vacation. Cornell will discover that he has committed a very serious offense, before the authorities notify him that he is free to trifle with the affections of other women.

Cornell is under arrest in New York on a technical charge and will be brought back to New London next Tuesday or Wednesday to face the charge of bigamy. He was arrested in New York Wednesday when Mrs. Cornell, No. 1, preferred charges against her husband that she might formally enter a charge against him in New London, where he married, Mrs. Cornell, No. 2. Cornell's case will come up in one of the New York city courts next Tuesday at which time he will be turned over to Sergeant John Cavanaugh, of the New London department, who has already been given a warrant for the arrest of Cornell. Sergeant Cavanaugh will go to Hartford and Albany and obtain the signatures to extradition papers of Gov. Trumbull and Gov. Smith, that there may not be any hitch in the procedure necessary to bring the prisoner back to this city.

The Mrs. Cornell who was H. Madaline Mueller and is now residing in Jersey City, N. J., and Cornell were married in New York Aug. 15, 1924. Cornell afterwards came to New London and married Theresa Maroni, on July 6, 1921, the couple, as noted, being married by Rev. J. Gray Colton, acting pastor of the Second Congregational church in the absence of the pastor, Rev. J. Beveridge Lee. When Cornell, who is a machinist, obtained his marriage license for the wedding here he took oath that he had never been married before. Cornell has one child by his first marriage and in the union of his New London marriage he is the father of two children. Cornell and his second wife have been residing lately at Midland Beach, Staten Island, N. Y.

John Mahoney, an aged man, whose home is in Ashford, wound up a visit here by becoming intoxicated. He went to the railway station and there endeavored to use the telephone to notify his relatives that he was on his way to Ashford and to ask them to meet him at Willimantic. John made a bad mess of telephoning and thus his condition, one of helplessness, became manifest. He was taken into custody for safe keeping. He appeared in court dejected and there promised to get out of New London if allowed to do so. He was given that privilege and started for Ashford.

John R. McLean, a fellow with a police record, added to that undesirable reputation yesterday when he robbed a cash register in the little general store of Gordon Copley, at 244 Pequot avenue. McLean entered the store to find that there was no attendant in sight. He went to the cash register and helped himself, getting $7 in cash. But he did not realize that Mrs. Crossley was in the upper part of the store building. She heard the click of the cash register and hastening to the store found McLean at the register. He made his escape from the store notwithstanding her was semi-intoxicated. Mrs. Crossley called police aid and Officer Ray found McLean on Montauk avenue. McLean represented that though he had the cash he did not steal it, as he returned the money when arrested. He was released from jail on the 1st inst., after serving a term of four months. Then he was committed for taking an automobile that did not belong to him. He was fined $10 and sent to jail to stay ten days.

Four motorists were charged with violation of the parking ordinances, Meridian street being the section where the offense was committed. They claimed that they had been parking their autos there during the past six months and that they supposed they were within their rights in so doing. Suspended judgment was the result of the explanation.

Peter J. Leverone, 42, died this morning at his home, 33 Mill street. He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Anna Leverone, a son, Charles Leverone, his father John B. Leverone and a sister, Mrs. Elizabeth Gaecia, of California. Mr. Leverone had been an invalid about 10 years, afflicted with a brain disease and during the greater part of his illness he had been confined to his home.

Mrs. Herbert Williams of Mystic, William Lonergan, 33 Colman street and William Welham, Gales Ferry, patients at Lawrence-Memorial Associated hospital were discharged today.

An automobile owned by Harold Hargan, United States Coast Guard, stationed at Boston navy yard, which was stolen from Atlantic street yesterday morning was recovered by the police today. The automobile had been parked many hours in front of the premises, 26 Smith street and an occupant of the house so informed the police. When an officer went to where the automobile was parked it was identified as the stolen auto and was brought to police headquarters where Hargan took charge of it.

Commissioner of Motor Vehicles Robbins B. Stoeckel today ordered the driver's license of Nicholas Andrella, 30 Montauk avenue, suspended.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas F. Cooney of Neptune avenue, are spending a few days in New York.

John Angelus, 2 West Pleasant street, made complaint to the police this morning that a spare tire was stolen from his automobile last night while the auto was parked in front of his residence.

Joseph Miceli has sold a house and lot on Jefferson avenue to Michael Angelo Restici, Westerly.

Thomas Patenaude, until recently an inmate of the Massachusetts State hospital, Hardins, Mass., who escaped a few days ago, was arrested in this city this afternoon and is locked up at police headquarters awaiting the arrival of a guard from the Massachusetts hospital to escort him back there. It is said that Patenaude's mind became unbalanced following a love affair. Patenaude came to New London recently and a day or two ago he went to the Western Union Telegraph company and sent a message to a friend in Harding threatening to fire him unless. The Harding hospital authorities were informed of the request and in turn asked the New London police to arrest Patenaude. This afternoon a messenger boy recognized Patenaude on Atlantic street and informed Patrolman William Corcoran. The officer, accompanied by Patrolman George Cockell went to Atlantic street, but Patenaude was not found. They then went to the Learned mission, North Bank street and there Patenaude was found mingling with other lodgers.

James Gaurdacosta, 46 Shaw street, and Louis Ellonsky, 25 Moore avenue, were arrested by Sergeant Smith today, each charged with breach of the peace. Guardacosta and Ellonsky were released upon their furnishing a surety on their bond of $25 each, for their presentation in the police court tomorrow morning. Guardacosta is alleged to have attacked and beaten Ellonsky on Shaw street when the former claims Ellonsky ridiculed Guardacosta and his wife, who were attempting to start the engine of a Ford automobile. Ellonsky went to police headquarters and made complaint against Guardacosta and when he was arrested by Sergeant Nelson Smith, Guardacosta made complaint against Ellonsky and he also was arrested. Ellonsky was badly bruised from the beating he received.

The police declare that there are not half as many automobiles in use in New London now as were in commission during the summer season. The appearance of the streets at night when cars are parked would not seem to warrant the opinion that the police estimate is a correct one.

Commissioner of Motor Vehicles R. B. Stoeckel today ordered the driver's license of Guy Underwood, 872 Main street, returned to the owner. The license was suspended several months ago.

Mrs. Alice K. Bindloss, 62, wife of Frederick Bindloss, 9 Shapley street, died this morning at her home. Mrs. Bindloss had been ill many months. She is survived by her husband.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Morton of the Mohican, will occupy the house of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Bodenwein in Nathan Hale street while the owners are south this winter.

John R. McLean, 26, was arrested this afternoon by Patrolman Augustus Ray, charged with theft. He is locked up at police headquarters and will be presented in the police court tomorrow morning. McLean entered the store of Gordon Crossley, 244 Pequot avenue, and while Mrs. Crossley was engaged in the rear, McLean went to the cash register and removed $7. Mrs. Crossley heard the register open and observed McLean about to leave the store. She hastened to the front entrance and seizing McLean compelled him to return the money. She then notified the police and Patrolman Ray was sent in one of the police autos to make a search for McLean. He was located on Montauk avenue and was taken back to the Crossley store, where Mrs. Crossley identified him as the thief.

TWO NORTH BANK ST. MEN VIOLATED LIQUOR LAW

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Nov. 19—Wasily Slepica, 97 North Bank street, and Peter Mros, 111 North Bank street, were arrested this evening by Sergeant Samuel Hick and Patrolman George Perkins, charged with violation of the liquor law. Both were later released upon furnishing a surety on their respective bonds of $150. They will be presented in the police court tomorrow morning. Both Slepica and Mros have been arrested before for violation of the liquor law, Mros several times, and he has served terms in jail. The last time that Mros was convicted and sentenced he assured the court that he would discontinue this form of business.

Patrolman Perkins in making a tour of his beat observed a fellow emerge from the Slepica house showing signs of liquor. When questioned, he admitted that he had purchased liquor of Slepica. He was instructed to make another purchase which he did, and when he emerged from the place Patrolman Perkins endeavored to obtain possession of it, but failed. The fellow also admitted having purchased liquor from Mros and being instructed to attempt another purchase there. He did as ordered and this time when he came out into the street the officer seized the liquor and carried it to the police station. Officer Perkins then went to the Slepica and Mros homes, accompanied by Sergeant Hick and both the accused men were arrested. The liquor seized from the purchaser is being held as evidence against Mros.

Charles P. Wilbur of Shillips street, has returned to his home, having attended a two days' conference of employes of Henry L. Doherty & Co., 60 Wall street, which was held at the Pennsylvania hotel, New York.

A two story frame cottage owned by Mrs. Edith Hubbenette at Mago point, unoccupied, was entirely destroyed by fire last night, together with a large quantity of furniture. How the fire originated is not known for the house had not been occupied for several weeks. The fire was discovered late at night and when the flames appeared through the roof the fire was beyond subduing because practically no fire protection is afforded at the summer colony. The house was reduced to ashes and is a total loss.

John J. Egan, secretary and treas-urer of the Connecticut Federation of Labor, addressed the members of New London Central Labor union at the regular meeting of that body in the Bacon block last night. Mr. Egan confined his remarks to the endeavors of the labor union throughout the state and referred to matters of importance to the organization and prospective legislation.

Commissioner of Motor Vehicles R. B. Stoeckel this afternoon ordered the return of the driver's license of Alex Manners, sailor, stationed aboard the U. S. S. S-3, which was suspended three weeks ago.

William Treat, employed by a Bank street concern, was arrested this evening by Sergeant Frank Howard charged with driving an automobile while under the influence of liquor and failing to have registration in his possession. He was released upon furnishing a surety on his bond of $150 by C. A. Findley and will be presented in the police court tomorrow morning. Treat went to the Katz garage where a commercial truck had been left for repairs to be made upon it. The truck had not been repaired when Treat called, for it and Katz refused to permit it to be taken from the garage in its present condition. When Treat was refused the truck he went to police headquarters where he interviewed Desk Sergeant Howard on the matter and because of Treat's condition, the sergeant advised the young man to go to his home, but instead of doing so he insisted upon taking the car and even went so far as to threaten the officer. When Treat left police headquarters he went across the street to an automobile of his employer and when he started to drive away he was arrested.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Strand Theatre

Following the opinion of the world at large, that this is the year of laughs, Anthony J. Xydias, president and production head of Sunset Productions, secured the services of Fred Warren as the comedy lead in "With Sitting Bull at the Spirit Lake Massacre," which will be shown at the Strand theatre, as the first feature Sunday only.

It is probable that Fred Warren has occasioned more hearty laughs than any other comedy character acting in straight screen dramas. He has long been noted for his peculiar adaptability to characters of whatever time the story demands and regardless of the era or condition, he can bring laughs out of the somber touches.

Other members of the cast are Shirley Palmer, Anne Schaefer, Jay Morley, Chief Yowlache, Bob Bradbury, Jr., Lucille Ballard, Tom Lingham, and Leon Kent.

The very name of Larry Semon makes you chuckle, doesn't it? Well, for a good hearty laugh, see him in his latest picture for Chadwick Pictures corporation "The Perfect Clown," Sunday only.

This production promises to be an even greater success than "The Wizard of Oz." Its appeal is general—a commonplace clerk, simply out of luck until he accidentally falls—or rather "runs"—into it. The kiddies will screech with delight at his chases on foot and in automobile; the boys and girls will shiver at the "spook" scenes in the cemetery; while the older folks will smile sympathetically and laugh heartily at the luckless lover and his endeavor to win his heart's desire. Together, you will all enjoy the ridiculous situation of "The Perfect Clown."

A new comedy rounds out the bill with laughs.

Broadway Theatre

This latest photoplay from the Chadwick Pictures corporation is the dramatized screen version of Franz Lehar's successful musical operetta which rivals and surpasses the fame of his "Merry Widow." This picture has an all-star cast including George Walsh and Helen Lee Worthing.

"The Count of Luxembourg" is the romance of a new love and a new marriage presented in a new way. The most beautiful and successful star on the Paris stage promises to marry an old duke, because it was his money that paved the way for her theatrical success. But the marriage cannot take place until she first acquires a title, for that reason she marries at the duke's instigation, "The Count of Luxembourg." Then the trouble begins; life of the stadio, life of the stage is carried down to the Riveria, where troubles gradually transforms themselves into breathless joys. It is the first of two features on the Broadway program for Sunday only.

On Sunday only, Larry Semon's newest screen endeavor "The Perfect Clown" comes to the Broadway theatre as the second feature.

Semon in his eccentric self, rushing and scurrying through reels of films a poor, luckless, loveless clerk, he attains wealth, the girl and happiness at the finish of a side-splitting comedy. Tearing through detours in a tumble-down flivver, crossing a cemetery in the dead of night, forced to change clothes with an escaped convict—all these situations and then some, tend to insure a fun-loving audience of an evening of mirth.

Larry Semon, "comedian de luxe" ridiculous grimaces, chases and hunts —all, all are to be found in this latest film and you can be well-assured that nothing will be spared you in the way of laughter.

Kinograms, world's news completes this bill.

Palace Theatre

The Palace theatre will present its opening program of vaudeville on Thursday, Thanksgiving day and thereafter offer for the entertainment of the Palace theatregoers, a three day vaudeville program each Thursday, Friday and Saturday, with a popular matinee daily on each of these days. The management of the Palace theatre assure its patrons, programs of real, big time, wholesome acts at all times, acts which will be adaptable to women and children, that is nothing will be presented objectionable from a moral standpoint. No effort or expense will be spared in the endeavor of obtaining the best talent in the field of entertainment. In addition the usual first class photoplays will be given. The first half of the week will be devoted to the presentation of the best photoplay attraction produced. Starting next Sunday "We're in the Navy Now," will be shown. This picture now is playing on Broadway, New York and is acclaimed as one of the best of the year. The Palace theatre is fast becoming the home of entertainment in Norwich, and with the addition of vaudeville the last half of the week, will undoubtedly prove an institution of which Norwich will be proud.

Palace Theatre

Just how far a gentleman who prefers blonds will go will be demonstrated Sunday night at the Palace theater during the initial unfolding of Douglas MacLean's latest farce-comedy, Hold That Lion. The smiling comedian follows his blonde charmer around the world before he finally overtakes her in East Africa.

Out on the African veldt, MacLean finds the road to romance not only rocky but blocked by unsociable lions who take violent exception to his comic presence. His method of dealing and capturing the animals may be contrary to all rules of big game hunting, but it is productive of an abundance of rip-roaring action and hilarious fun.

The above, of course, is merely a skeleton outline of this mad and merry yarn. It doesn't begin to touch upon the broad comedy gems, the laughable complications and the breathless thrills woven into the warp and woof of the story. One has to see MacLean dashing about blithely minus his trousers, or making love in a pair of stolen Scotch kilts, or playing hide-and-seek with the frisky lions to appreciate just how funny this comedy really is.

MacLean, as usual, carries off the major portion of the acting honors, but he is ably assisted by a supporting cast of ample merit and experience. Constance Howard brings both pulchritude and personality to the role of leading lady. This picture, incidentally, marks her screen debut, and her performance stamps her as a definite "find." Walter Hiers, Cyril Chadwick, Wade Boteler and George Fearce are a few of the others who acquit themselves with distinction.

Breed Theater

The Waltz Dream, coming to the Breed theater Sunday, is different in theme and treatment from any UFA picture heretofore presented in America. It has the eerie quality of The Cabinet of Dr. Caligari, the romance of Passion, the pathos of The Last Laugh and the melodrama of Variety. It is said to be full of the romance and the heart interest of the musical comedy which was its source, and for Oscar Straus was wrote some of his most charming melodies.

The story and music of Oscar Straus' famous operetta delighted New York theatergoers a little more than a decade ago, and the very lightness and essence of musical comedy are declared to have been recaptured for the screen.

Ludwig Berger, director of Cinderella, directed The Waltz Dream. Mady Christians, Willy Fritsch and Xenia Desni play the leading characters. Miss Christians, who appeared on the American stage in the old Irving Place theater, plays the part of the Princess Alix; Willy Fritsch is the dashing Count Nux, Prince Consort, and Xenia Desni is Franzi, the beautiful violinist.

Complete official motion pictures of the big parade and celebration will be shown commencing tomorrow evening and all next week.

Breed Theater

Men of Purpose is no writer's dream. It is no directors' triumph. It is war photographed down to the drags of the scenes of action. And one of the sights you see is a wrecked camera, in which, somehow or other, the film was miraculously preserved—but the man who took the pictures was sent west by the same bomb that tore up his machine.

Five years were required to get this film together. The finished work contains the cream of all the official films of all the allied nations. There can be no question of its authenticity. Starting with the assassination of the Archduke Francis Ferdinand it shows with terrible vividness the performances of the allies and the enemy—"the shrie of shrapnel the scream of shells to the continuous roar of guns." Silent forms, still faces, and—faceless—on the scarred breast of the earth.

The film which ends with the signing of the armistice and a few brief shots of the boys as family man again, shows the Germans marching into Belgium, the hurriedly gathered French troops hastening into the battle of the Marne, the British struggling in the Flanders mud, the landing of the American troops on European soil and their fierce drives at Chateau-Thierry, St. Mihiel, and in the Argonne. (Honestly, aren't motion pictures wonderful).

No loyal adult Norwich citizen should be able to say when the showing of this film is over that he has not seen it.

Nine members of a mob that removed Dave Wright, a white man, from the county jail at Douglas, Ga., last August 27 and lynched him, have pleaded guilty to murder and drawn sentences of from four years to life prisonment.

LEGAL NOTICES

DISTRICT COURT OF THE UNITED States, District of Connecticut.
In the matter of Irving M. Snitkin, Bankrupt, in Bankruptcy No. 7759.
UPON PETITION FOR DISCHARGE
Notice is hereby given that Irving M. Snitkin of New London, in the County of New London and State of Connecticut has filed his application, dated Nov. 17, A. D. 1926, for a discharge from all his debts in bankruptcy, and that all his creditors and other persons interested objecting to such discharge may attend before Thomas M. Shields, Special Master, at his office in Norwich, Conn., on the 20th day of Dec., 1926, at 10 o'clock A. M., then and there to examine the bankrupt, and to show cause, if any they have, why such discharge should not be granted, and to determine whether or not to authorize the trustee to interpose objections to such discharge.
THOMAS M. SHIELDS,
Special Master.
Norwich, Conn., Nov. 19, 1926.

AT A COURT OF PROBATE HELD at Norwich, within and for the District of Norwich, on the 19th day of Nov., A. D. 1926.
Present, NELSON J. AYLING, Judge.
Estate of Jane S. Murray, late of Norwich, in said District, deceased.
The Executrix appeared in Court and filed a written application alleging that said estate is now in settlement in said Court, and praying for an order to mortgage certain real estate belonging to said estate, fully described in said application.
Whereupon, it is Ordered, That said application be heard and determined at the Probate Court Room in the City of Norwich, in said District, on the 23rd day of Nov., A. D. 1926, at 11 o'clock in the forenoon, and that notice of the pendency of said application, and of said hearing thereon, be given by the publication of this order once in some newspaper having a circulation in said District at least three days prior to the date of said hearing, and that return be made to the Court.
NELSON J. AYLING, Judge.
The above and foregoing is a true copy of record.
Attest, HELEN M. DRESCHER, Clerk.

MARKET WAS IRREGULAR

NEW YORK, Nov. 19—(AP)—Heavy liquidation of U. S. Steel common and General Motors unsettled today's stock market after an early period of strength. Selling of the recent market leaders was accompanied by rumors later denied, of the serious illness of George F. Baker, veteran banker, and large stockholder in both corporations. Early gains of 1 to 5 points were substantially reduced or wiped out, with closing quotations disclosing a fairly long list of net declines of a point or two.

Business news disclosed further irregularity. Reports of another slight recession in steel mill activity was offset by the announcement that a subsidiary of the United States Steel corporation and received orders for $20,000,000 worth of tin plate from two of the largest can companies. The weekly mercantile reviews continued to report mixed tendencies, but with some improvement in retail trade noted as a result of the colder weather.

The improvement in credit conditions, shown in the weekly Federal Reserve bank statements, was not reflected in the call money market, which held steady at 4 1-2 per cent all day. Banks called about $15,000,000 in loans, but money was always in plentiful supply. Time money and commercial paper rates were unchanged.

Some of the late selling of stocks also was believed to have been inspired by the break of over 3 cents a bushel in active wheat futures, the December option closing just above $1.32. Cotton was barely steady, closing 9 to 12 points net lower, and coffee prices reacted 17 to 35 points. Raw sugar was unchanged, but futures were slightly firmer.

U. S. Steel common dropped from a high of 147 3-8 to 145 5-8 and then moved back to 144 1-8, off 1 3-4 net. General Motors, selling "ex" the regular and extra dividends of $5.75, slipped from 142 1-8 to 138, closing at 138 3-8, off 3 3-4 net. Baldwin Locomotive continued to show independent strength, jumping over 5 points to 143, a new high for the year, and closing just a point below the top.

Sugar shares attracted fresh buying as a result of the Cuban presidential decree to restrict production. South Porto Rican jumped over 4 points to 139 7-8, closing near the top, while American Sugar Refining, Cuban American common and preferred, and Manati preferred showed net gains of 1 to nearly 3 points. United Fruit jumped over 5 points to a new top at 120, but lost about half its gain. Textiles were quiet but firm.

Among the specialties, new 1926 peak prices by American Sumatra Tobacco, Texas Gulf Sulphur, Reynolds Tobacco B, Liquid Carbonic and Federal Light & Traction were counteracted by new now prices in Paige Detroit, Cudahy Packing (new) and Pacific Coast second preferred. Standard Oil of New Jersey common also touched a new low at 29, with the "rights" actively traded in around 2, several blocks ranging from 20,000 to 90,000, changing hands.

Rails continued to lose ground with the industrials, Atchison, Union Pacific and Atlantic Coast Line each losing about 3 points while New York Central, New Haven, Texas Pacific, Reading, Wabash and several others lost a point or more.

Another sensational jump of nearly 15 points in French francs, which crossed 3.61 cents for the first time since last spring, featured the foreign exchange market. Demand sterling lost 1-3 of a cent, being quoted around $4.84 3-8 Norwegian krone broke 22 points to 25.83 cents, but other European rates showed little change.

BOND MARKET

NEW YORK, Nov. 19—(AP)—Brisk rallies in French and Japanese obligations to the year's highest price vied with the buoyancy of various domestic issues for first place in trading interest in today's strong bond market. Dealings expanded as the forward movement of prices gained headway, with total sales exceeding $15,000,000.

Coincident with heavy buying of Japanese bonds, it was learned that a $70,000,000 loan for the city of Yokohama would be brought into the market next week J. P. Morgan & Co., are expected to handle the offering, which will provide funds for reconstruction purposes.

The establishment of new high records by most of the French government, municipal and railroad liens was a natural sequel to a spectacular jump of nearly 20 points in the French franc to the highest level since last spring less than a third of a cent from the 1926 peak of 3.90 cents. The return flow of capital to France in anticipation of early currency stabilization was credited with stimulating the demand for both the bonds and the exchange. Scattered profit taking developed late in the day's best figures.

Expectations that the foreclosure sale of the St. Paul railway to reorganization interests next week would pave the way for the road's early emergency from receivership caused spirited bidding for the road's bonds, most of which advanced 1 to 2 points to the highest prices in nearly two years. The demand for other rails embraced Frisco, Chicago & Northwestern, Allegheny & Western, "Big Four" Union Pacific and Baltimore & Ohio issues.

Sugar bonds responded to the upturn in the market for this product resulting from the destruction of the Cuban crop, with Cuban Cane issues gaining more than a point. Local traction liens were strengthened by the decision of city authorities to formulate a definite policy on bus franchises at an early date.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET.

CHICAGO, Nov. 18—(AP)—Wheat tumbled down today to a new all-around low price record for the season, but rallied to a fair extent later. Better weather in Argentina, dying out of export demand for shipments from North America, and signs of free selling on the part of the Canadian Growers' pool were largely responsible, closing quotations here for wheat were unsettled, 2c to 2 3-8c net lower, with corn unchanged to 3-8c up, oats at 1-8c decline to a shade advance and provisions unchanged to a rise of 30c.

Downward swings in the price of wheat began almost at the outset of trading. A brief initial show of firmness was ascribed to the fact that Liverpool quotations were higher than due, but the buying or

GREENEVILLE

The regular meeting of the Women's guild of St. Andrew's Episcopal church was held in the guild room Thursday afternoon with 22 members present. The meeting was opened with prayer by the president, Mrs. F. A. Dolbeare. Reports from the secretary and treasurer were read. The report from the sale and supper committee of Wednesday, Nov. 12th, showed that the receipts were $182. This was very pleasing to the members who are greatful to everyone who helped make it a success. Mrs. Howard Gordon, chairman of the supper and Mrs. John D. Hall, chairman of the sale, were assisted by the members of the guild.

The president announced that the committee on the coin cards, which were given to the members of the parish in January would like to have them returned on or before Dec. 9th. The members are planning an entertainment and dance for January. Mrs. William Crowe being the chairman. The next meeting will be held with Mrs. William J. Banfield of Fourteenth street on Dec. 2nd.

At the close of the meeting the social hour was in charge of Mrs. William Mabrey, assisted by Mrs. J. R. Jones and Mrs. Alice Baker.

INCIDENTS IN SOCIETY

Mrs. George L. Carey of Williams street has had as her guest her niece, Mrs. Fred Tillinghast, of Central Village.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Nelson Weymouth and son of New Haven are week end guests of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel E. Smiley of Slater avenue.

The Trefoil club was entertained Thursday afternoon by Mrs. Walter M. Buckingham at her home at Gales Ferry, the members going down for cards being Mrs. Leslie L. Brewer, Mrs. Gilbert S. Raymond, Mrs. Charles Tyler Bard, Miss Louise Robinson, Miss Sue I. Gallup, Miss Isabel Mitchell, Miss Annie L. Taft, Mrs. James J. Moore, and Miss Alice L. Bennett. Playing as a substitute, Mrs. Harvey M. Briggs won the prize.

The semi-annual meeting and luncheon of the Connecticut society of Colonial Dames, held at the New Haven Lawn club Tuesday, was attended by the second vice president, Mrs. Oliver L. Johnson, Mrs. William B. Birge and Miss Louise Bond Meech, from Norwich. The delegates elected to the biennial council of the Colonial Dames to be held in Washington in 1937 are, the Connecticut president, Mrs. John C. Wilson of Hartford, Mrs. Frederick F. Brewster, Mrs. Arthur Twining Hadley, Mrs. Thomas Hooker and Mrs. George Nettleton of New Haven, Mrs. James K. Crofut, Simsbury, Mrs. George Driggs and Mrs. J. H. Bronson, Waterbury, Mrs. Horace D. Cheney, Manchester, and Mrs. James Andrews of Hartford.

BEWARE THE COUGH OR COLD THAT HANGS ON

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubes. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

WAUREGAN HOTEL PROPERTY SOLD FOR PRICE AROUND $300,000

Announcement was made Friday that Harry M. Land, treasurer of the Max Gordon & Sons Corp., has purchased the Wauregan hotel building on Main street and Broadway from the Parker-Davenport Co. The sale of the property is one of the largest real estate transfers put through in Norwich, as the purchase price approximates $300,000. The transfer was made by the Norwich Land and Title Co., through David Karr and James E. Moore.

The Parker-Davenport company is made up of Henry B. Davenport, Joseph G. Bland and Martin E. Jensen. According to Mr. Land he will take over the property sometime before Jan. 1. He has purchased the property as an investment.

Henry B. Davenport has been a resident of Norwich since 1889 when he came here with J. H. Weaver and opened the Buckingham hotel on Broadway. In 1890 he went to the Wauregan house with F. E. Parker. He retired from active business in 1920 after a long and successful period of hotel management. Mr. Bland subsequently entered the employ of the Stratfield hotel in Bridgeport, where he is in charge of the restaurant.

It was in 1853 that construction of the Wauregan house was started. Two years later invitations to the opening were sent out as follows:

Acting in behalf of the ladies of Norwich we have ventured to hope that you would give the countenance of your presence and pleasure of your company at a levee to be held at the Wauregan house on the evening of Tuesday the 20th inst. between the hours of 8 and 12 as a festival of congratulation upon the occasion of its opening.

(Signed) Mrs. William Williams, Mrs. John Breed, Mrs. John T. Wait, Mrs. James L. Day, Mrs. J. F. Slater, Mrs. William M. Colt, Mrs. John B. Young, Mrs. L. F. S. Foster, Mrs. Wolcott Huntington, Mrs. William A. Buckingham, Mrs. Joel W. White, Mrs. Charles Osgood, Mrs. David Young, Mrs. Lusk, Mrs. David Smith. Norwich, Feb. 13, 1855.

To facilitate and perfect the arrangements, gentlemen are particularly requested to procure their tickets or give information of the number required as early as possible. Tickets to be had at Messrs. Lee & Osgood's, R. W. Roath's and at the office of the Wauregan house.

Tickets admitting a gentleman and lady $3. Tickets admitting a gentleman and two ladies $4. Single tickets, each $2.

On Dec. 1, 1890 the Wauregan was leased of the Henry Bill estate by F. E. Parker and H. B. Davenport. Nov. 1, 1891, Charles F. Simonds purchased the property from the estate of Henry Bill and Gurdon Bill. In 1894 the Crocker House in New London was leased by Messrs. Parker and Davenport. In December, 1905 F. E. Parker purchased the Wauregan house from the estate of Charles F. Simonds and on Nov. 6, 1906, the Parker-Davenport company was incorporated, incorporators being F. E. Parker, Mrs. Fannie Parker and H. B. Davenport. At this time the property was again sold, F. E. Parker to the Parker-Davenport company. On May 7, 1915, a reorganization of the company was made, Mr. Parker withdrawing. A new corporation was formed, consisting of H. B. Davenport, J. C. Bland and M. E. Jensen. The hotel from that time on was conducted under the personal management of Mr. Bland until June 1926, when the hotel was leased to the Knott hotel management which since has conducted the hotel and which still holds a lease on the property.

Some years ago an annex was built on the hotel on the Broadway side and many improvements were made to the property between 1908 and 1913. In 1913 the present fine lobby and entrance were constructed. The property has a frontage of 90 feet on Main street and 144 on Broadway. The land contains 18,000 square feet and the floor space in the hotel is 72,000 square feet.

The hotel with its addition on Broadway includes besides the hotel proper, the following stores: The Cranston Co., A. J. FitzGerald, Wauregan barber shop, The Lyons company, Geo. G. Engler's drug store and the Maurice Sample shop. The Parker-Davenport company will continue to maintain its organization at 23 Shetucket street.

ROAD CONDITIONS AND DETOURS ARE REPORTED

Road conditions and detours where work is in progress in eastern Connecticut are reported this week by the state highway department as follows:

Norwich-Putnam road, route 12. Grade crossing being eliminated in Plainfield, short detour.

BRINGS $15,000 SUIT FOR INJURIES HE RECEIVED

Suit for $15,000 damages has been brought in the superior court by George B. Fox against Thomas Shahan, both of Norwich, for injuries received when Fox was hit by an automobile owned by Shahan and driven by his employe, Armand Forand.

It is alleged that Fox was crossing from the southerly to the northerly side of "Preston bridge" about 11 o'clock on the night of Dec. 20, 1925, when he was struck by the automobile, which, it is claimed, was operated at a dangerous rate of speed and the driver failed to keep a proper watch for other vehicles or persons in the street. Fox had his right leg broken, his left knee cap broken, his left shin bone scraped and was otherwise injured about the head and body, so that it is claimed his injuries are of a permanent nature and he has not been able to work since he was hurt.

The suit is returnable in the superior court in December, Attorney J. Greenstein appearing as counsel for the plaintiff.

CITY DEPARTMENT WORKER BURNED BY ELECTRICITY

In a workmen's compensation agreement approved by Commissioner J. J. Donohue, Paul Brumme of 75 Oneco street, an employe of the Norwich city gas and electric department, is given compensation at the rate of $17.50 per week. Brumme suffered electric burns on left hand and forearm and right forearm from a current of 550 volts on Oct. 20, besides injury to muscles of chest and back.

Other approved agreements are the following:

Lightship Board Co., Norwich, employer, and Mrs. Eva Baer, Coolidge avenue, employe, index finger injured, Oct. 3, at rate of $6.

Charles A. Marquardt, Groton, employer, and Henry Cinquarta, Mystic, employe, small finger jammed, Oct. 9, at rate of $21.

New England Collapsible Tube Co., New London, employer, and Elizabeth McGonagle, New London, employe, right index finger injured, Feb. 6, compensation for 12 2-3 weeks at $5.91 for loss of distal phalanx of right index finger.

OFFICERS ELECTED BY FIRST BAPTIST PHILATHEA

The Philathea class of the First Baptist church met at the church parlors for their annual business meeting and banquet. The banquet was in charge of the entertainment committee, Mrs. E. McGuire, Mrs. A. Haring, Mrs. Frank Davis and Mrs. Howard Smith.

The business meeting was called to order by the president, Mrs. Maude Wheeler. Annual reports were read and approved. The following officers were re-elected: President, Mrs. Maude Wheeler; vice president, Mrs. Clarence Smith; secretary, Mrs. James Tourtellotte; treasurer, Miss Mary Dolbeare; teacher, Mrs. J. E. Leach, assistant teacher, Mrs. Winifred Pulsifer; reporter, Mrs. J. Henry Frink. Eighteen members responded to the roll call.

A loafer never allows himself to get out of practice.

COURT ORDERS SALE OF DAVIS-WARNER ARMS CO.

In the superior court short calendar session here Friday morning, with Judge Allyn L. Brown presiding, The Davis-Warner Fire Arms Co. of Norwich, which three months ago went into the hands of a receiver, was ordered sold at public auction for not less than two-thirds of the appraised value. William H. Allen, who was named temporary receiver was appointed to make the sale. The appraisers have not as yet made an appraisal of the plce. The date of sale is to be announced later. The procedure follows a foreclosure action brought by Franklin B. Warner, one of the principal stockholders.

Allowance of $25 to prosecute was ordered by Judge Brown in the case of Rose F. Fournier against Henry J. Fournier, both of this city. Alimony pendente lite of $5 a week for the support of the child was also ordered.

It was ordered that the plaintiff be ordered to file a bond for costs in the amount of $75 in the case of McHenry against Wilcox.

Henrietta M. Dombroski, of Norwich was allowed to change her name to Henrietta M. Dee, the same as that of her brother.

Termination of continuance was postponed and a continuance of three months ordered on two defendants in the case of Sawicki, et al against Braski, et al.

The application of Jeremiah Twomey and Michael L. O'Connell, both of this city, doing business as the New London Glass Co., to intervene in the case of the Amheret Brick Co. against 325 State Street Corp., et al, was granted.

Allowance to prosecute, $25 in three weeks and $25 at time of trial was granted in the case of Emilia Zelenski against Louis Zelenski, while a motion for alimony pendente lite was denied without prejudice.

The following cases went off:

State Finance Co. against Richmond, alias; disclosure of defense or judgment.

L. E. McLaughlin, Inc., against Novogroski; argument of motion for more specific statement.

THREE GIVEN PERMISSION TO TAKE LAW EXAMINATIONS

Three applicants to take the examinations for admission to the practice of law in Connecticut were granted at the meeting of the New London County Bar association here Friday morning, following the short calendar session of the superior court.

They were James E. Murray of New London, a graduate of Georgetown Law school; Michael H. Rollo of New London, a graduate of the New York Law school, and Maurice W. Mayer of this city, a graduate of Brooklyn Law school. The examinations will take place during the last week in December.

The application of Lionel H. Legare of Fall River, a graduate of Boston Law school, was continued for two weeks, due to the fact that neither he, nor anyone representing him, appeared before the meeting. President William H. Shields said that he would investigate the matter.

A special committee, consisting of Attorneys E. W. Perkins, G. H. Gilman and Josiah Greenstein, all of this city, reported that upon investigation of the application of James I. Yoffa, of Boston, Mass., for admittance to the Connecticut Bar association, they found him to be of good moral character and that he was found to have complied with all the requirements necessary for admittance. They reported that he was practicing law in Boston and that he did not intend to remove to New London county until Jan. 1, 1927 and recommended that he be admitted and allowed to practice law when he had removed to reside in this county. The recommendation was adopted as read.

PIMPLES ITCHED AND BURNED

Over Face, Arms and Body. Cuticura Healed.

"Pimples broke out on my face, arms, and all over my body. They were large and red and later formed water blisters which caused me to scratch. The pimples itched and burned so that I could not sleep at night or rest during the day. Scratching made them very sore and they would scale over.

"I tried a number of different remedies but they were no good. I began using Cuticura Soap and Ointment and after using four boxes of Cuticura Ointment, together with the Cuticura Soap, I was completely healed." (Signed) Miss Hattie Small, Box 102, Jonesboro, Me., March 22, 1926.

Use Cuticura for all toilet purposes.

Soap 25c. Ointment 25 and 50c. Talcum 25c. Sold everywhere. Samples free: "Cuticura, Dept. X, Malden, Mass." Cuticura Shaving Stick 25c.

EXPECT 40,000 AUTOS FOR HARVARD-YALE GAME

A careful effort to keep the state traffic record clean throughout the intercollegiate football season will be made by state, New Haven and West Haven authorities today (Saturday) when nearly 40,000 cars will be brought into state highway traffic, it is expected, on account of the Yale-Harvard football classic at New Haven.

It will be the last big football game of the season at New Haven. The state police department reported Friday that the Yale-Army and Yale-Dartmouth games, both of which attracted to the Yale bowl crowds larger than the entire population of some Connecticut cities, went off without any traffic casualties of consequence on the main highways into New Haven.

The Yale-Harvard game traffic will be fully as heavy, if not heavier than that brought out by the Yale-Army game, although the bowl itself having being packed to capacity for the latter, will not accommodate any more people. But there is invariably heavy interstate traffic on Yale-Harvard football days, owing no doubt to the large number of Harvard undergraduates and alumni who make the trip to New Haven by automobile.

While the state police report for the Army and Dartmouth games indicates good traffic conditions on the state highways, New Haven city reports indicate the occurrence of several minor accidents within the city limits, most of them at street intersections. Nineteen cars were thus involved at the time of the Army game and forty-seven at the time of the Dartmouth game which brought in considerably more traffic from other states.

NATHAN HALE TABLEAUX FOR C. A. R. PROGRAMME

The November meeting of Gen. Ebenezer Huntington society, Children of American Revolution, was held at the home of Mrs. A. C. Freeman, 89 Union street, on Friday afternoon, the junior president, Betty Spear, presiding. The usual opening exercises and the business was transacted and a vote of thanks was given Mrs. H. H. Osgood for books presented the society. The topic of the afternoon was Nathan Hale. The tableaux presented were preceded by short sketches describing them. The part of Nathan Hale was taken by Sherrod Ingalls. The first tableau was the home scene, with Hale's parents and brothers and sisters; the second showed him as a student at Yale; the third represented him as teaching school at New London, the first section the young ladies school from five until seven in the morning and the second as teaching the boys; the next was his enlistment and farewell to his family; the last represented the statue in font of the Connecticut building in New Haven. This statue was designed by Bela Lyon Pratt of Norwich. A large number of the members of the society took part in these tableaux. The committee having charge of the entertainment was Mrs. Clarence A. Spear and Mrs. Arthur M. Thompson. This meeting was the fourth at which the society has commemorated the 150th anniversary of American independence.

The hostesses were Mrs. A. C. Freeman, Mrs. J. Frank Corey, Mrs. E. Allen Bidwell, Mrs. Walter Holden and Mrs. Ernest Latimer. The December meeting is to be held with Mrs. Leslie L. Brewer, 168 West Thames St., contributions to be brought for Ellis Island and the Christmas box.

THE RICHMOND RADIATOR CO. KEPT UNUSUALLY BUSY

The plant of the Richmond Radiator company, on Thames and South Thames streets, is exceptionally busy this season. The 800 employes under supervision of Agent Joseph W. Curtis are not only rushed through a 48-hour week, but some of the departments are running nights, in the endeavor to keep up with orders.

The company's output is steam and hot water house-heating boilers. This standard industry has been so long associated with prosperity in the West Side district that its steady, reliable volume of business means much to the city at large, as well as to the section where it occupies such a conspicuous space along the river bank.

RUSSIAN CHOIR TO SING AT CENTRAL BAPTIST

At the Central Baptist church on Sunday evening the Russian choir will present the following program: "The Great Litany, "Lord Have Mercy" Smolinskoho; The First Psalm, "Kelv Melody"; "The Third Antiphon", from Russian Liturgy, "In Thy Kingdom Remember Us, O Lord"; O Holy God, Holy Almighty, Holy Immortal One, Have Mercy Upon Us; "Cherubim Hymn", Harkovskaia; "A Mercy of Peace, A Sacrifice of Praise", Scherbukova; "The Day of Resurrection", Easter Iromos.

The pastor will continue the series on the Decalogue, speaking on "Religion and the Home".

DESCRIBES COLLEGE COURSE ON ART OF LIVING

The meeting of the Women's federation and parish house department of the Park Congregational church was held in the parlors of Hugh Henry Osgood Memorial on Friday afternoon with Mrs. Frank Hempstead presiding and leading the devotional exercises.

Mrs. John S. Blackmar read the minutes of the last meeting and Mrs. Allan Latham read the report in the absence of the treasurer, these were followed by routine business.

Mrs. Aurin E. Payson presided for the parish house program, introducing Miss Elizabeth Dubois Bache, professor of home economics at Connecticut college. Miss Bache prefaced her remarks by telling of the establishment in women's colleges of departments for the study of the art of living. In Connecticut college 18 or 20 professors are contributing to the course in its various phases. As in industrial life much study is devoted to the standardization of work to prevent the loss of money through the lost motions and fatigue of the workers, so in the scientific management of the home, the equipment should be arranged to prevent lost motion and the fatigue of the housekeeper. Tests are arranged for timing the methods of work and the lessening of steps. Mention was made of the Scientific Housekeeping bureau at 158 East 48th street, New York, with the unit kitchen and labor saving equipment. Fatigue should be reduced by having tables and sinks high enough so bending would not be necessary. The homes in Australia have a higher standard of equipment than those in the United States. The talk closed with practical suggestions for the purchase of devices which should meet the requirements of saving labor, fuel, time and fatigue.

Four selections for the piano, played by Miss Ruth Dreschen, closed the entertaining program.

Mrs. Payson announced that the next meeting would be a Christmas party.

After tea was served by Mrs. E. A. Harris and Mrs. Blackmar, with Mrs. A. N. H. Vaughn and Mrs. Blackmar at the tea table and Misses Higgins, Dorothy Harris, Janet Harris and Louise Evans acting as waitresses.

NORWICH TOWN

MRS. MAURICE WALLEN AIDS TOWARD ORGAN REBUILDING

At a meeting of the First Congregational church corporation, held after the prayer meeting Thursday evening, it was voted to proceed with the rebuilding of the church organ. This has been made possible by the gift of the larger part of the amount to be expended from Mrs. Maurice Wallen of West Hartford, who gives it in memory of all the Lathrops who have sung in the choir of the First church in former years. Mrs. Wallen before her marriage was Miss Ruth Lathrop Potter, daughter of the late Walter and Julia Lathrop Potter. For many years prior to leaving Norwich Town, Mrs. Wallen was soprano in this choir, representing the last and youngest generation of the Lathrop family to serve the church in this way.

Mrs. John Hoppman and little daughters, Louise and Rose Marie, were guests Wednesday of Mrs. Hoppman's mother, Mrs. Rose Symington, and her sister of Hallville, Mrs. Mitchell Bressette.

Benjamin L. Kennedy of Town street was a visitor in Danielson Wednesday at the home of his mother, Mrs. Charles Kennedy. While there he attended the funeral of his aunt, Mrs. Mary Nye, a sister of Mrs. Kennedy.

Dr. Charles H. Lamb of Norwich Town, is in receipt of notification of the 33rd annual roll call of Fairview Lodge, No. 101, I. O. O. F., of Groton of which he is a veteran member. The card which was sent out by the recording secretary, Irving H. Poppe, requests Dr. Lamb's presence at the roll call Monday evening, also at the supper which precedes the evening programme. When Fairview lodge was organized in November, 1893, Dr. Lamb was chosen to fill the chair as first left supporter to the noble grand.

For Burial in Dorchester

The body of James McGregor who died Thursday in Montville, was sent to Dorchester, Mass., on the 2.36 o'clock train Friday afternoon by Undertakers Cummings and Ring. The body was accompanied by John McGregor of New York city. The funeral is to be held at Dorchester.

SEC'Y WILBUR BOOSTS "SAVE OLD IRONSIDES" MOVEMENT

Likeness of the Hero Ship Constitution as She Appeared in the Days of Her Glory is to Be Reproduced in Ten Color Prints, Which Will Be Sold Throughout the Country by State Quotas at 25 Cents Each—To Date But $225,000 of the $650,000 Needed to Save the Ship Has Been Collected by Patriotic Subscription.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 21.—(AP)—Secretary Wilbur sprang to the rescue of the "Save Old Ironsides" movement today declaring that the proud old hero ship Constitution, veteran of 42 battles in which she never knew defeat, "is sending out an S. O. S. to the nation she defended."

"Surely this gallant old defender of our young nation is worth saving as a living reminder of our glorious past," the naval secretary said, stirred by the fact that up to date only $225,000 of the $650,000 needed to save the ship from the junk heap and restore her to her original beauty, has been collected by patriotic subscription.

As an immediate practical means to stimulate the movement, Mr. Wilbur announced that Gordon Grant, noted marine artist, had been authorized to paint the likeness of "Old Ironsides" as she appeared in the days of her glory, to hang in the white house. The painting will be reproduced in a limited number of ten-color prints made by a new process. The work is to be done at cost by the reproducers as a contribution to the cause and the results will be sold over the country by state quotas at 25 cents each although their actual value has been placed at several dollars. Local patriotic committees will arrange for the sale and each reproduction will be numbered to insure authenticity.

CONDEMNED HENRY FORD FOR SLANDERING JEWISH PEOPLE

BOSTON, Nov. 21.—(AP)—Charging that Henry Ford has engaged his wealth "in a campaign of slander against the Jewish people," Nathan Straus today invited the manufacturer to select eight members of a committee of ten which would prove to him that "some of the sycophants in his surroundings, for their won personal reasons misinformed and decried him" on Jewish questions.

Speaking here at a national conference of the united Palestine appeal, which opened the year's drive for $7,500,000 Mr Straus asserted that the Jewish millionaires who fail in their duty to aid the cause "are not the only offenders by not employing their wealth properly."

"Among the Christian millionaires there are some who use their wealth for the benefit of mankind, and others who use it for destructive purposes. for breeding trouble" he said. "For example, the Rockefellers, both father and son, are devoting their millions to help the welfare of mankind, to promote science and advance civilization; while a man like Henry Ford, who has become one of the richest money kings of the world, has engaged in a campaign of slander against the Jewish people, has spread malicious lies about them, and stirred up trouble, mischief and hatred here and in Europe."

A NEW CABINET HAS BEEN FORMED IN CHILE

SANTIAGO, Chile, Nov. 21.—(AP)—The governmental crisis created by the resignation last week of the Ibanez cabinet in the face of a demand by the militant General Carlos Ibanez, the minister of war, was solved late last night with the constitution of a new cabinet by Manuel Rivas-Vicuna.

The personnel of the ministry is as follows:—

Premier and minister of the interior—Manuel Rivas-Vicuna.

Foreign minister—Jorge Matte-Gormaa.

Minister of justice and education—Alvaro Santa Maria.

Of finance—Alberto Edwards.

Of agriculture—Arturo Alemparte.

Of war—General Carlos Ibanez.

Of marines—Admiral Arturo Swett.

Of public works, commerce and communications—Julio Velasco.

Premier Rivas also will hold the portfolios of hygeiien and labor pending the selection of ministers for these posts.

BELIEVES MOTHERHOOD BENEFICIAL TO TEACHERS

LONDON, Nov. 21.—(AP)—George Bernard Shaw, winner of the Nobel prize for literature, thinks that all school-mistresses should have a baby.

The Wickenham education committee recently dismissed the head mistress of the girls' secondary school on the ground that her responsibilities as the mother of a seven months' old baby were incompatible with her school duties. The head mistress, Dr. Isabel Turnadge, is a doctor of philosophy and a bachelor of sciences, and has been married three years.

G. B. S. is quoted by the Westminster Gazette as commening:

"Wickenham is near the river and the sooner the Wickenham people put their education committee in the river the better. It would be far more sensible to refuse to allow any woman to become a teacher unless she had at least one baby, and looked after it properly."

WORCESTER IS TO HEAR SPIRITUALISM EXPLAINED

WORCESTER, Mass., Nov. 21.—(AP)—Clark university has announced that the case for and against spiritualism will be argued and explained in the most far-reaching and authoritative symposium ever made in the field in this country when world known authorities will gather here November 29. There will be a series of lectures continuing until December 11 based on exhaustive investigations in the realm of spiritualism and spirit phenomena.

Sir Arthur Conan Doyle has already sent his manuscript to be read and Sir Oliver Lodge has written that he approves of the conference. A manuscript prepared by Harry Houdini before his death will be read.

GREAT STRIDES MADE IN WATER POWER DEVELOPMENT

WASHINGTON, Nov. 21.—(AP)—The greatest water power development in the country's history occurred in the four years ending with the last fiscal year, the federated water power commission reported today in its sixth annual report.

In the fiscal year 1925-26, the report said, 20 new projects, capable of developing an aggregate of 1,200,000 horsepower, were started under the commission's grants. This was 40 per cent. of the total placed under construction during the preceding five years.

DUCHESS OF TORLONIA IS SUED FOR DIVORCE

NEW YORK, Nov. 21.—(AP)—Another marriage between American dollars and European nobility has gone into the courts, the New York American says.

The Duchess of Torlonia, the former Elsie Moore, daughter of Charles A. Moore, wealthy shipbuilder of New York and Greenwich, Conn., has started suit for divorce in Connecticut. She names Marie Lorenzonie, said to be of royal Italian blood, co-respondent.

The duke intends to fight the suit and has filed a plea for abatement before Judge John W. Banks in superior court in Bridgeport, Conn. He contends the duchess, being now an alien, has no legal status in America. The couple separated in 1925.

The magnificence of the receptions accorded the duchess in Rome after her marriage earned her the title "The Dollar Duchess." The couple were married August 15, 1907 in Greenwich, following a special dispensation from Rome. Excommunicated in 1922 as the result of a duel with Count Filippo Lovatelli, Italian sculptor, the pope later revoked the sentence.

LITTLE OPPORTUNITY FOR QUEEN MARIE TO REST

NEW YORK, Nov. 21.—(AP)—Queen Marie's desire for rest and relaxation before sailing for home on Wednesday was set aside today while she was whisked hither and yon keeping four engagements that kept her on the move from nine o'clock this morning until past sundown.

After little more than five hours sleep at the Tuxedo home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Mitchell, Marie motored to New York to spend an hour in the Metropolitan Museum, to lunch at the apartment of Mrs. Robert Weeks Kelly, to tea at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ira Nelson Morris, and then back to Tuxedo for dinner at the Mitchells.

Princess Eleana was away even other than her mother, motoring to Calvary church and then taking lunch with the rector, the Rev. Samuel M. Shoemaker.

THREE WOMEN ABANDON LONG DISTANCE SWIM

BOSTON, Nov. 21.—(AP)—After battling the icy water and strong tide for two hours and 20 minutes, Mrs. Lottie Moore Schommel, New York long distance swimmer, dropped out of the 20-mile endurance race, from Charlestown bridge to Boston light and return, at Castle Island today. When she left the water, at the three and a half mile mark, it registered 38 degrees.

Her two opponents, Eva Morrison, of Boston, and Mae Well of Revere, retired earlier. Miss Morrison remained in the water for two hours and six minutes and Miss Elwell 50 minutes.

STATEMENT BY HEAD OF CHINESE REBELS

NANCHANG, Kiangsi, China, Nov. 21.—(AP)—General Chang Kaisbek, 30 year old idol of the Cantonese revolutionary forces, told The Associated Press today the revolution in China will not end until extra-territorial concessions and "unequal treaties" have been abolished. He approved the denunciation of the Belgian treaty by Wellington Koo, minister of finance of the Peking government.

TWO YOUTHS ARRESTED FOR STEALING AN AUTOMOBILE

STAMFORD, Nov. 21.—(AP)—Joseph Ouillette, 18, of 909 Albany street, Roxbury, Mass., James McGillicuddy, 18, no address given, and Frank Costa, were arrested here tonight charged with stealing an automobile in Boston. The group was roughly dressed and an officer thinking that they looked suspicious stopped them.

Ouillette, who was operating the car, was unable to produce either an operator's license or a registration card, and after questioning admitted that the car was stolen in Boston today.

WOULD HAVE EDUCATED FASCISTS RULE IN ITALY

ROME, Nov. 21.—(AP)—Italy of the future would be ruled by a specially selected and educated aristocracy of fascists under plans submitted to Premier Mussolini by leading fascist intellectuals.

A school, semi-military and semi-scholastic, with a curriculum based on science, politics and the art of government, would be created having many features similar to America's West Point Chief among these would be a selective system of obtaining candidates.

SPIRIT MESSAGE RECEIVED FROM MAGICIAN HOUDINI

NEW YORK, Nov. 21.(AP)—The first spirit message from Harry Houdini, the magician, has arrived, the Scientific American announced today. The recipient was a medium in Attleboro, Mass., whose name is not made public.

CABLED PARAGRAPHS

ROME, Nov. 21.—(AP)—A secret consistory of the college of cardinals will be held December 20, and a public consistory December 22. The dates were published today by the Osservatore Romano, official organ of the vatican.

LONDON, Nov. 21.—(AP)—Settlement of disputes promptly and without stoppage of work is provided for in an agreement signed between the Shipbuilding Employers' federation and the Federation of Engineering and Shipbuilding Trades.

LONDON, Nov. 21.—(AP)—Governors-generals should represent the crown only and not the British government. This principle is affirmed in the report of the premiers' committee on inter-imperial relations, adopted by the imperial conference.

PORTOPRIA, Cape Verde, Nov. 21.—(AP)—The Brazilian aviator, Cunha Braga, who is making a flight from Italy to his own country, has chosen Porto-Calheto as his point of departure. He had his plane towed there today so as to be able to start for Brazil during the early hours of Monday.

HAVRE, France, Nov. 21.—(AP)—The French liner Paris arrived here after a stormy passage in which four passengers were slightly injured. At the height of the storm, Thursday night, a grand piano was torn from its moorings in the saloon and crashed through a wall onto the promenade deck.

TWO MEN KILLED WHEN AUTO WENT OFF EMBANKMENT

THOMPSONVILLE, Nov. 21.—(AP)—Two men were killed and another seriously injured this evening when the sedan in which they were riding crashed through a fence beside a new concrete highway at Prospect hill, Warehouse Point, and somersaulting down a 10-foot embankment crashed into a pile of railroad ties in a field 26 feet from the highway.

The dead are: B. F. Thomas, of Farmington, the driver, and E. M. Cummings, of Winetka, Ills. The third occupant of the car, George S. Troxell, of Bridgeport, was taken to a Hartford hospital with a broken leg and numerous cuts about his body. Both Thompson and Cummings were apparently killed instantly, appearances indicating that Cummings had been thrown ahead of the car down the embankment and pinned beneath the sedan when it came to a stop.

FATAL AUTO ACCIDENT ON POST ROAD AT NORWALK

NORWALK, Nov. 21.—(AP)—Mrs. Samuel Hyman, 34, of 28 Raymond street, this city, was fatally injured and five others were injured in an automobile accident here this morning when a car in which they were riding turned over several times on the Post road, while bound for New York. The car was operated by Philip Weiner, 10 Day street, who was one of those injured. He said while proceeding along the Post road, the accelerator of the car became stuck and when he noticed the speedometer reach 45 miles an hour, he became frightened instead of shutting off the engine, he jammed on the brakes, and the momentum, being checked so suddenly, caused the car to turn over several times.

MOTORIST KILLED WHEN AUTOMOBILE HIT BRIDGE

MANCHESTER, Nov. 21.—(AP)—George Jarvis, 21, of this place was killed and Robert Orr of South Manchester and Frank Crauteaur of Hartford were seriously injured when the automobile in which they were going down a steep hill out of Pittsfield, Mass., crashed into a bridge in Rensalaer, N. Y., just over the sate line.

Crauteaur is not expected to live, but Orr's injuries are less serious. Both are in a Pittsfield hospital. Jarvis' body is in Pittsfield, where relatives have gone to claim it. The three were on their way to visit friends in New York state.

Jarvis was in the sand and gravel business with his father, Alexander Jarvis. He is survived by his father and mother, four brothers and five sisters.

HOW STUDENTS GREETED SIR AUSTEN CHAMBERLAIN

GLASGOW, Nov. 21.—(AP)—It took all Sir Austen Chamberlain's characteristic imperturability to remain serious when at the ceremony of his installation as lord rector of Glasgow university. Recently he was faced by 2,000 boy and girl students all wearing monocles like himself, singing in unison: "Oh Austen Dear, We Love You So."

Like his famous father, Joseph, Britain's foreign secretary, cannot very well be imagined without his single eye glass, and there were loud protests from the students when he changed it for horn rim spectacles to sign the document appointing him to his new dignity.

PRINCESS ILEANA AIDED INJURED PATROLMAN

NEW YORK, Nov. 21.—(AP)—Princess Ileana converted her automobile into an ambulance today to take an injured motorcycle patrolman to a hospital, and then walked to her hotel.

The princess was driving up Park avenue from the Calvary Baptist church, where she attended services, when a crosstown automobile at 43th street collided with Eugene Roberts, a patrolman escorting her. She ordered her car to stop at once, helped the injured patrolman into it and sent him off to a hospital. Then she walked three blocks to the hotel accompanied by her chaperone.

The patrolman received a sprained wrist and abrasions of his legs.

TWO ARMY OFFICERS WERE ARRESTED IN MEXICO CITY

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 21.—(AP)— Police have arrested two army officers, Carlos Obregon and Manuel Martine, on charges that they were organizing a seditious plot against the gogernment and were active in distributing propaganda favorable to the Catholic cause. Several civilians were apprehended on the same charges. Police declare there will be numerous other arrests.

AVIATOR WAS KILLED IN TAIL SPIN CRASH

INGLEWOOD, Calif., Nov. 21.—(AP)—Eddie Bainter, 22, an aviator, was killed, and E. A. Luckey of Los Angeles, a passenger, was probably fatally injured today when the airplane piloted by Bainter went into a tail spin at an altitude of 2,000 feet and crashed to the ground.

Weekly Review of Business Conditions

Seasonal Reductions in Several Important Fields Were Noted During the Past Isle, Me., Republican, Ad-

NEW YORK, Nov. 21.—(AP)—Confusing cross currents continued to envelop the business situation last week, with all evidence pointing to a readjustment of activities on a smaller scale. Orderly recessions in industrial operations have followed a gradual decline in the volume of new buying—a process which may not be completed for several months. So far it has caused virtually no unsettlement.

A natural decline in commodity prices already noticeable in some of the basic industries, had probably contributed to the slackening of trade, since it had encouraged many potential consumers to delay filling their requirements in the hope of getting further concessions. This situation is expected to correct itself as soon as supplies begin to run low.

Seasonal reductions became more pronounced last week in several important fields. Railroad freight car loadings apparently reached their peak in October and the declines noted early this month probably will be extended throughout the rest of the year. Curtailment of operations in the steel mills brought the average for the industry well below 80 per cent. Lower pig iron prices were reported and the price of tendency of steel products was inclined to weaken on indicati is that the demand would be light for several weeks. Purchases of automobiles continued to dwindle.

Prospects for a settlement of the British coal strike unsettled the market for this fuel which had been strengthened as a result of a heavy export demand.

In contrast to the general downward trend, the sugar market was strengthened by a presidential decree limiting the Cuban crop to 4,500,000 tons. Conditions in the textile industry also showed signs of improvement.

The excess of American merchandise exports over imports for the month of October was officially reported last year the favorable balance of trade amounted to $115,000,000. The total value of exports—$456,000,000—was the largest of any month this year while imports were the heaviest of any month since April.

ACTION OF PREMIERS AT IMPERIAL CONFERENCE

LONDON, Nov. 21.—(AP)—Inter-imperial relations as set forth by the committee of premiers of the imperial conference establishing the dominions officially as autonomous units, equal in status within the empire, are commented upon favorably by the London papers, and criticisms, even of the details, are few. A point generally made is that nothing of importance is changed.

(These clauses recommend that in future treaties the British minister shall sign for Great Britain, with each dominion signing for itself, and recognise that in foreign relations neither Great Britain nor the dominions can be committed to acceptance of active obligations without the consent of their own governments.)

NEW HAVEN ROAD CARRIED 50,387 PASSENGERS TO N. HAVEN

NEW HAVEN, Nov. 21.—(AP)—A total of 50,387 passengers to and from the Yale-Harvard game were carried Saturday by the New Haven railroad, it was announced today at the general offices of the company. This was a gain of 150 over last year, but much under the record of 66,795. Eighty eight special trains were necessary to move the fans. All the special trains but one arrived at their destinations on time or early. During one 23-minute period, 19 trains left New Haven station, while for two hours and 55 minutes a train left on an average of every three minutes and 18 seconds.

NONE OF CREW OF NINE OF SUNKEN TUG FOUND

ANACORTES, Wash., Nov. 21—(AP)—The Bahida, a tug which carried a crew of nine, sank near Jack island in Puget sound today, one of the crew had been found tonight.

Wreckage of the vessel was found on the shore of the island, between Anacortes and Bellingham, Wash. Examination of the wreckage led to the belief that an explosion of the ship's boilers preceded the sinking about 2 a. m.

SEAPLANES SEARCH BEING MADE FOR TWO HUNTERS

NEW YORK, Nov. 21—(AP)—A seaplane equqipped with flares and a searchlight, took off from Mineola flying field today for Lake George in search for two hunters who vanished a week ago.

The missing men, John J. Eden and L. D. Green, residents of Middletown, N. Y., disappeared when they set out on the lake in an improvised motorboat, presumably bound for some of th islands.

FREIGHTERS FORCED INTO ST. JOHN'S, N. F., BY STORMS

ST. JOHNS, N. F., Nov. 21—(AP)—Three storm tossed freighters were forced to make this port to replenish bunkers over the week-end.

They were the Tritania, 17 days out from Cardiff for Montreal and Florida, a Danish freighter 20 days out from Bremen, also bound for Montreal, and the steam trawler Willoughby, 16 days out from Grimsby, England, bound for Halifax. None of the vessels suffered any material damage, except for a slight shift of cargo on the Tritania.

MIXTURE OF SNOW AND RAIN AT NORFOLK, VA.

NORFOLK, Va., Nov. 21—(AP)—The northwest wind that brought a mixture of snow and rain today prevented final tests of the navy's Norfolk to Panama non-stop flight seaplanes and officials tonight would not predict when the start would be made, saying it might be made tomorrow or probably held up for three weeks.

CONDITION OF KING FERDINAND IS IMPROVED

BUCHAREST, Rumania, Nov. 21—(AP)—The condition of King Ferdinand, who has been ill, was greatly improved today. In the afternoon he took a long drive.

Official circles still refuse to comment regarding Queen Marie's earlier return from America, but general satisfaction is expressed among the people that the queen is homeward bound.

Insinuation of Bribe by Senate Nominee

Arthur R. Gould of Presque Isle, Me., Republican, Admitted Making Payment of $100,000.

PORTLAND, Me., Nov. 21.—(AP)—Arthur R. Gould of Presque Isle, republican nominee for United States senator to succeed the late Bert M. Fernald at the special election November 29, at an investigation before Chief Justice Harrison A. McKeown, admitted making a payment of $100,000 in 1918 to J. K. Fleming, then premier of New Brunswick, which the chief justice in a report, characterized as a "bribe", a committee associated with the campaign of Fulton J. Redman, Mr. Gould's democratic opponent, reported tonight.

The $100,000 was paid at the time Mr. Gould was connected with the construction of the St. John Valley and Quebec railway. A transcript of the evidence containing Mr. Gould's admissions, was reprinted in the Carleton Sentinel, published at Woodstock, N. B., in its issue of October 16, 1925.

The committee reported today and accompanied its report by extracts from testimony and findings in the case. The report says in part:

"This matter was brought to the attention of Mr. Redman and as a result of the investigation it has been disclosed that Arthur R. Gould during the progress of an investigation conducted by the province of New Brunswick testified under oath that he had paid to J. K. Fleming, then premier of the province, the sum of $100,000, and the commission in its report to the government has characterized this payment as a bribe.

"As a part of his report, Chief Justice McKeown made the following statement:

"Unfortunately it transpired that, for the purpose of advancing his own interests, Mr. Gould paid to the Hon. Mr. Fleming, then acting for the province this large sum of money—most of it to him personally, the balance to his order.

"Mr. Gould represents the payment as practically forced from him. I am not so sure that this is so. I think he was only too ready to purchase an advantage by making a payment of such a nature. Indeed I can see no other reason why he should have paid it. It seems to me impossible to conclude that any man is going to part with $100,000 unless he expects to gain very material advantage thereby."

The finding of Chief Justice McKeown in reference to the claim which the chief justice had heard is as follows:

"The claimants have no rights which should be recognized or enforced in any court or before any arbitrator causing the contract to be void by reason of the act of bribery committed by Arthur R. Gould during the negotiations for the building of the road between the province and the railway company."

The date of the report is March 13, 1918.

Hearing Set For No. 26

AUGUSTA, Me., Nov. 21.—(AP)—The date of a hearing on charges that Arthur R. Gould of Presque Isle, republican nominee for United States senator, exceeded the legal limit of expenditures in the recent primary, had been set for Nov. 26, at the state house, Secretary of State Frank Bail announced tonight. The charges were filed yesterday by Rev. A. F. Leigh of Randolph, prominent in the Ku Klux Klan organization of the state.

FRIENDS TAKE SLAYER OF DEPUTY SHERIFF FROM JAIL

SALISA, Okla., Nov. 21.—(AP)—Blazing a path of gunfire to escape, six men took Matthew Kimes, convicted slayer of a deputy sheriff, from the county jail here early today and fled with him to the hills where they were sought by possemen in parts of Oklahoma and Arkansas tonight.

The men, suspected by officers to be friends of Kimes, who is under life sentence, disarmed two jailors whom they locked in the prisoners' cell and left in an automobile, firing volleys of shots when Chief of Police J. C. Woll sought to interrupt their flight.

Officials tonight said the band that liberated Kimes included two women, one of whom they believed was the wife of the escaped prisoner.

BUS SERVICE TAKES PLACE OF "DECEASED" TROLLEYS

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Nov. 21—As announced in The Bulletin Saturday morning, the South Coventry-Willimantic branch line of the Connecticut company passed into the pages of history Sunday as the result of the approval of a petition of the company by the Connecticut public utilities commission. In compliance with the petition the trolley service will be substituted this Monday morning by a motor bus furnished by the New England Transportation company, and operating on a schedule practically identical to that maintained on the trolley line in the past. The route starts from the Main street terminal in this city to South Coventry and 6.83 miles in length. The hearing on the petition was held in this city October 28, and met with much opposition from residents of South Coventry who sought vainly to enlist the influence of local business men in an endeavor to retain the trolley. Eight daily round trips with an extra round trip on Saturday and two on Sundays and holidays will be made. Three of the regular trips from this city will be continued to Bolton via North Coventry.

Manager Samuel Anderson of the Connecticut company stated that the work of tearing up the trolley tracks on the line will be started either this Monday or Tuesday. The first stretch to be removed will be along West Main street where the city's proposed sewer line is to be lai and a permanent road constructed

The passing of the trolley line recalls to many the big celebration which marked the running of the first trolley over its tracks. Incidentally the discontinuance of this line gives Willimantic the distinction of being one of the few if not the only city of its size in this section of the country not to have at least one trolley operating through its business section. It should prove an additional attraction and safety to Main street to have the trolley tracks covered over or removed.

The South Coventry trolley line was built as a secondary to the line between Willimantic and Baltic which was built in 1906 by the Willimantic Traction company. The company had a franchise to extend its line to South Coventry and built as far as the Willimantic cemetery. Two years later the New Haven railroad built the line into South Coventry and operated it for about two years when it was disposed of to the Connecticut company. For a time the line was a good paying proposition but the advent of automobiles cut business down so that night trips had to be abandoned except on Saturdays and some holidays. Later the regular schedule was cut down and a few years ago the "one-man" system adopted.

Residents of South Coventry and of this city have frequently refreshed their memory of the big day and galaxy of events which marked the opening of the branch line. The first car was run at noon. Representative officials of the New Haven railroad, Willimantic city fathers and guests boarded the trolley at Railroad street here. Farms along the line and the village of South Coventry were highly decorated to greet the tramway. Leading citizens of the town and this city delivered addresses and there was cheering and merrymaking on every side. Late in the evening, however, the festivities ended in disaster when a section of the floor of a dancing pavilion on the shore of Lake Wangumbaug at South Coventry caved in while crowded with gay dancers. Sixteen persons were injured, several of them seriously. Until the increase of prices brought on by the World war the ride to South Coventry cost only ten cents, but with the fare doubled now the line has been a financial loss and the Connecticut company has failed to figure any bright future. It is just another instance of the passing of the old for the new, a new type of conveyance for the more costly old.

Mary Todd Lincoln tent No. 16, Daughters of Union Veterns of the Civil war, received its annual inspection during a regular meeting in G. A. R. hall Friday evening, with Mrs. Lura Dutton of Waterbury, assistant department inspector in charge. Included in the large attendance were Department President Mary E. Ayle of Bridgeport and staff. Mrs. Jessie Tracy, president of the Hartford tent, and Miss Gladys Newbury president of Clara Barton tent of Norwich. A supper was served and the local tent presented gifts to the department president, assistant department inspector and Department Inspector Mrs. Minnie E. Mathieu of this city. Mrs. Dutton commended the growth and progress of the tent. Guests from the local G. A. R. post present were Comrades Arthur P. Benner, George Herrick, Adam Dunts and Joseph Slater. The local tent was also presented a quantity of silver by Miss Annie Moriarty.

There seems to be something radically wrong with the installation of the new overhead traffic signals which have been placed at the intersections of Walnut and Church streets on Valley streets. Police officials admit that the lights are set pretty well up in the air and can be sighted only by craning the neck especially from the seat of automobile coaches of modern design with an added obstruction from sun visors. The installers claim that to set them lower would mean to have them run into by tall trucks but others believe that a shorter arm from the curbstone pole would solve the trouble. Another danger has developed in the shape of the metal box about three by four feet, which contains the motor operating the lights and which has been on the sidewalk beside the telegraph pole only about four feet from the gutter. The box is right where it should not be for safety's sake. Heads have already and will continue to be pounded against this sharp-cornered metal obstruction and as comparatively few local craniums are made of wood or ivory bad results are likely to ensue. The box is only used every six months when a pint of oil is dropped into the motor. It is understood that the box will be set higher up on the pole and other defects such as the timing of the lights, will be corrected in the event that the police committee purchases the lights.

Funeral services for Ernest Lyman Noble were held at 3 o'clock Saturday afternoon at the South Coventry Congregational church with Rev. Charles G. Johnson officiating. Burial was in the Nathan Hale cemetery. The bearers were Louis Phillips, Louis Daniels, Eugene W. Latimer and George A. Cour. Avery and Van Zandt had charge of the arrangements.

A substantial sum for the Christmas fund was received from the annual sale of fancy work and food conducted at St. Paul's parish house last week. Mrs. Mary Lovett had charge of the sale a feature of which was a waffle salad luncheon served by Mrs. Fannie Dixon Welch as chairman, assisted by Mrs. Yeomans, Mrs. Reynolds, Miss Peterson, Mrs. Grant and Mrs. Foote. The Thimble club of the church, Mrs. Clarence A. Bowen, chairman, conducted a fancy work table with Mrs. D. K. Clark and Mrs. Emil Bernet in charge. Mrs. Leander Anthony and Mrs. Frank M. Lincoln presided at the food table. Mrs. Adams of the Woman's society conducted a fancy work and apron booth.

The civil side of the October term of the Windham county superior court will close next week during which one case will be heard Tuesday. It is that of Alfred Rooney against Charles Robitaille a suit for damages as the result of an automobile accident several months ago in Killingly. The jury panel were being summoned Saturday by Deputy Sheriff John H. Fitts of Hampton Friday of next week a short calendar session will close the term at which time motions by attorneys will be heard by Judge Baldwin.

Judgment for the defendant has been rendered by Judge Alfred C. Baldwin of the Windham county superior court in the civil suit of Clara Peck of the Peck Real Estate agency vs. Joseph Recoat to recover an alleged commission due on the sale of a house owned by the defendant on Bolivia street.

Some 40 children of the junior department of the Congregational Sunday school were tendered a party at the church house Friday evening by their teachers. Miss Evelyn Nichols had charge of the games. Refreshments were served.

Alderman and Mrs. Robert H. Fenton have as guest for the winter Mrs. Frank L. Webb of Windham Center.

Charles E. Washburn of South Coventry spent the week end with friends in New Haven.

Mr. and Mrs. Henderson H. Moulton were visitors in Norwich Saturday.

Mystery shrouds the origin of a blaze which started in the south side of the main attic of the five-tenement house at 27 Temple street at 2:45 o'clock Saturday afternoon. Pierre Kelley, a member of the household occupying the upper tenement of the building made effective use of a pail of water in checking the flames. Kelley said that he seldom visited the attic. He went there in the afternoon to bring down vegetables stored there and upon opening the door was confronted by considerable smoke. He ran for a pail of water which he poured onto the blaze. His next step was to telephone Engine company No. 1. The fire was out upon the arrival of the firemen but they removed about six square feet of the attic flooring to prevent another outbreak. Considerable paper had been burned. Kelley could not account of the fire and Fire Chief Henry J. Kelly is conducting an investigation. The building is owned by Napoleon Racon.

Raymond Arthur Neff died at the home of his parents, Arthur R. and Clara Baldwin Neff of 81 Willowbrook street Sunday noon. The child was born in this city Nov. 16. Two brothers and a sister survive.

YOUTHFUL BURGLAR WAS CAUGHT IN STORE

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Nov. 21—Peter Zurowski, 15, of 13 Brick Row, was caught redhanded in the act of robbing the combination grocery and confectionery store conducted at 1088 Main street by Adelard Monast shortly before 7 o'clock tonight when he walked into a trap set by the police. Robberies at the store had been frequently committed on Sunday night about 7 o'clock, entrance being made through a rear window. Capt. of Police Frank McLean stationed Leo Monast, son of the proprietor in the store and Zurowski was held until the arrival of Police Officer Larivee and then confirmed the suspicions of the police and implicated Leo LaChappelle, 15, of West Main street and Mike Wawer, 20, of the Brick Row, as having been his accomplices in previous breaks. The boys had made a practice of selling goods which they did not use. The two accomplices were rounded up by Officers Laramee and Arthur Hurley and all three were charged with breaking and entering. They will be tried in court this Monday morning.

WESTMINSTER

Services were held each evening except Saturday, Nov. 7-14 inclusive and one afternoon service the 12th for those unable to come in the evening, by Evangelist L. T. Johnson of Johnson, Vt. During the series there was but one very stormy night when no one came from a distance, and many who came from a distance came several times, richly rewarded by the timely, earnest at times humorous exhortations and illustrations of the gifted consecrated speaker. Brother Johnson will probably begin a short work in Attleboro Sunday next and from that point shortly after Thanksgiving will go to work in Florida, where he will make his headquarters with his son, L. T. Johnson, Jr.

Items sent to The Bulletin were delayed in transit somewhere, between Nov. 5 and 11.

Beans baked in the ground
—in a great bean pot buried in the "bean hole" under a camp-fire of dying embers
Now you can taste beans like them
Baking beans in the out-of-door ground oven called the "bean hole" still persists in Maine because Maine people, particularly the lumbermen, cling to the tradition of preparing beans by the one method that produces the finest of all baked bean flavors.
Those who know how appetizing beans baked in this good old way are would have them no other way but for the trouble and great inconvenience of out-door preparation.
It was only natural that Van Camp, the noted bean baker, should be the first to faithfully and exactly reproduce the historic product of the flavor-producing "bean hole" of the Maine woods.
Nothing, therefore, exceeds the pride that Van Camp flavor experts feel in their achievement in making this most delectable of all baked bean flavors available in convenient package form.

DANIELSON

NEW KILLINGLY HIGH GYM NEARLY COMPLETED

(Special to The Bulletin.)

DANIELSON, Nov. 21—In another week the new gymnasium of Killingly high school in the recently constructed south wing of the enlarged building will be ready for occupancy. The student body awaits the event with very great interest. This interest is reflected in the activities of the young people in rounding out gymnasium costumes and other preparations to take up what will be a brand new feature of the work at Killingly high school.

Only a little painting and the installation of certain gymnasium apparatus remains to be done to make the big gymnasium ready for use. Bleachers have been built in. Lockers have been provided for the use of all students who will have a part in athletics. Adjacent to the gymnasium are showers, and in fact all of the appointments are such as to be convenient and adequate.

Work on the auditorium, which is in the south wing and over the gymnasium, is progressing. It is indicated now that this part of the building will be ready for use in from two to three weeks. Meanwhile the school is going ahead with its routine of work.

Tomorrow (Tuesday) is the last day of the open season for hunting protected game birds until next fall. The season now drawing to the close has furnished good sport for a large number of the citizens of this town, as for many others in towns hereabouts. Pheasants appeared to be more than ordinarily plentiful this fall and a great many of them have been taken. Partridges have been reported scarce, but nevertheless a considerable number of them have been brought in. Also there was a quota of woodcock. Quail, protected all through the present hunting season, have become more abundant than for years past.

With the bird season ending, the hunters who like to trail the canny fox are looking forward to more good sport. Foxes are reported plentiful and the chase of them already has been taken up.

At the masses at St. James' church on Sunday announcements were made relative to the week's mission for the English-speaking people of the parish that is to open next Sunday. This mission follows two weeks of missions held earlier in the season for the French-speaking people of the parish. During the past week, on Thursday and Friday, there were mission services for the hundreds of children of the parish, this period closing with attendance at communion on Saturday morning.

At Thursday's meeting of Sarah Williams Danielson chapter, D. A. R., at St. Alban's parish house transfers to the chapter were made by Mrs. Bertha Snell of Fanny Ledyard chapter of Mystic and of Miss Ruth Litch from the Children of the D. A. R. of Brooklyn, N. Y.

Following the business meeting Miss Sarah L. Pardee, Newton, state recording secretary of the Daughters of the American Revolution, addressed the members and their many guests on Egypt. This particularly interesting lecture was followed with a display by Miss Pardee of a fascinating collection of articles she collected in Egypt, there being shown, among other things, scarfs, shawls, dragomen's costumes, beads, bags.

A Sherbrooke, P. Q., despatch tells of the annual meeting of the Canadian-Connecticut Cotton Mills, Ltd., a concern that is an outgrowth of the original Connecticut Mills of Danielson. The meeting authorized the declaration of a dividend of one per cent. on the preferred stock, payable January 3, to stockholders of record on December 15. The financial report presented was accepted and the following were elected: H. J. Burrage, Boston; G. R. Fuller, Sherbrooke; H. S. Davis, New York; S. W. K. Vanson, New York; Rodney S. Jarvis, New York; T. W. Wood, New York; R. J. Caldwell, New York; John Low, Valleyfield; S. W. Ewing, Montreal; A. W. Kilian, Montreal; W. R. G. Holt, Montreal; R. W. Elliott, Halifax; M. E. W. L. Page, of Sherbrooke.

The Canadian-Connecticut Cotton Mills operates entirely separate from the Connecticut mills of this town, though it was established by the same interests that developed the business here in Danielson. Splendid mills were built at Sherbrooke with a view to furnishing fabric for the manufacture of tires within the dominion. A considerable amount of the stock of the Canadian company is held in Danielson.

Boy Scouts who went from Danielson and neighboring towns to see the Brown-New Hampshire state football game at the Brown stadium in Providence Saturday had a delightful outing. It was an exceptional treat for them and was made possible through the efforts of Secretary Edwin Hill of the Windham county Y. M. C. A. and the Danielson and Putnam Rotary clubs. In addition to the Scouts there was a considerable attendance of Danielson people at the game, which proved far more exciting and interesting than the average person anticipated it would be.

Thanksgiving day will be a general holiday in Danielson. All mills and other manufacturing plants will be closed for the day, as will the stores in Danielson with the few exceptions that regularly cater to the public on holidays. At the postoffice a holiday schedule of hours will be in effect, though the lobby will remain open during the day and mails will be despatched as usual. Family reunions will be numerous, with many coming from out of town to spend the holiday in Danielson. Diversion for the day includes theater program, a football game and dancing.

A big moving van en route from Philadelphia rolled over on the Providence highway at Spalding's hill in South Killingly. A wrecking crew from a garage here righted the vehicle, which was damaged on one side, but able to proceed under its own power after its supply of oil had been replenished.

The Twentieth Century Sodom was the subject of an address by Dr. Milton S. Rees at a mass meeting for men at the Methodist Episcopal church Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock, this being one of a series of evangelistic meetings in Danielson that are to continue through three weeks, this being the final week. Dr. Rees also preached at a union morning service at the church and at a union service in the evening. An orchestra and chorus choir assisted at the evening service. This week Dr. Rees is to preach at Methodist Episcopal church every evening excepting Saturday.

Motorists are delighted with the fine job done in eliminating Bishop's crossing over the New Haven tracks in the southern part of the town of Plainfield. The new roadway, opened the past week end, takes riders up an easy and gradual incline and down as easy and gracefully made one on the other side. Many gained the impression while using the detour while the new overhead way was being built that the approaches would be steep and dangerous, but this assuredly is not the case. The approaches to the new bridge are concreted.

State officers from the Danielson barracks who were on duty in various parts of the state Saturday, aiding in handling traffic made heavier by the Yale-Harvard football game at New Haven were back at the barracks here Sunday afternoon, tired out after an arduous tour of duty.

Next Wednesday evening will be social night for the members of the Headquarters detachment stationed at the state armory, Sidney P. Marland is arranging a program.

Sidney R. Bard of Brooklyn is continuing his work of locating the graves of soldiers in the cemeteries of Killingly and will arrange with the Sons of Veterans state organization for properly marking all such graves that are unmarked.

Mrs. Mary Taylor of Webster was a visitor with relatives in Danielson over Sunday.

Ernest V. Champagne of Central Falls spent the week end with relatives here.

During the present week priests of St. James parish will continue to be engaged with the taking of the annual census, this involving enumerating parishioners in Danielson, East and South Killingly, part of Elmville, Brooklyn, Hampton and sections of Canterbury, missions of St. James.

Mrs. A. J. Tillinghast of Academy street will have members of the woman's board of missions of the Congregational church at her home for a meeting Tuesday afternoon.

The installation of Rev. Harding W. Gaylord as pastor of the Westfield Congregational church is scheduled for Tuesday afternoon of next week.

Arthur Y. Baker of Providence was a visitor with friends in Danielson on Sunday.

Rev. Richard D. Hatch of Brooklyn substituting for Rt. Rev. Ernest V. Shayler, D. D., bishop of Nebraska, who was unexpectedly called home addressed the congregation at St. Alban's church Sunday evening, telling of his pilgrimage to Palestine last winter.

PUTNAM

THOMAS HANNIFAN DIED SATURDAY IN WORCESTER

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Nov. 21—Thomas Hannifan, 20, of South Main street, Putnam died at St. Vincent's hospital in Worcester at 2 o'clock, Saturday afternoon. He had been a patient at the hospital for seven weeks but death came unexpectedly. He was in the employ of the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad as timekeeper on the work train.

Besides his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Timothy Hannifan of South Main street he is survived by three brothers and one sister, the latter a student at the Putnam high school. His brothers are Timothy, who is also an employe of the New Haven road, Michael, who is a student at a Worcester business college, and John Hannifan, who has been in charge of the office work of the Windham County Farmers' association for several years.

The young man was widely known and his death at an early age will be greatly deplored.

Seventy-five Putnam boys saw Brown university defeat New Hampshire at Providence Saturday by a score of 40 to 12.

The authorities of Brown university through L. Edwin Hill, Y. M. C. A. secretary of Windham county invited the Putnam boys to see the game. Mr. Hill enlisted the interest of 17 automobile owners who drove the cars filled with boy passengers to Providence. They left Putnam about one o'clock and arrived home about dark.

Miss Katherine Byrne, vice chairman of the republican state central committee, and her brother, John B. Byrne, state bank commissioner, were special guests of Governor Trumbull at the state dinner at the Hotel Bond, Hartford.

Harry Jodoin of Mechanicsville was before the city court Saturday charged with abusing a horse. He pleaded guilty and was fined $10 and costs of $5.34. The fine of $10 was suspended.

The annual Christmas bazaar given by the women of the Congregational was well patronized and netted quite a large sum. In the afternoon there was a sale of gifts, food and candy in the chapel. Mrs. Lillian Phillips and Mrs. George Twigg had charge of the food table, Mrs. Karl T. Phillips and Mrs. Howard Shirrefs sold the candy and Mrs. Frank Thayer, Mrs. Cropp, Mrs. Wm. Saretski and Mrs. Edward Scott Duffy the fancy work and gifts. The "White Elephant table" for the children was in charge of Mrs. Nelson Lowe.

A committee consisting of Mrs. Eben Holden, Mrs. Ralph Booth, Mrs. Herbert Johnson and Mrs. James B. Tatem served tea during the afternoon.

At 8 o'clock in the evening, Miss Mildred Bass Anderton of Boston read the play Cousin Kate. Miss Anderton is a reader of note and her rendition of the play was very pleasing. This Christmas affair was open to everyone and proved one of the delightful social events of the season.

At St. Philip's church Sunday morning, the Rt. Rev. E. V. Shayler, D. D., bishop of Nebraska, preached at the morning service. Bishop Shayler has but recently returned from the Holy Land where he headed the church pilgrimage and his talk was most interesting.

At their weekly luncheon, the Putnam Rotarians were surprised at the appearance of the man who came to address them. He announced that he had come to speak for Mr. O'Brien, who had been engaged and the members were astounded when he advocated bold red propaganda. He attacked everything in any way American. He stated that Russia was the only government worth the name of government and that if the flags of the nations were put "in soak together" they would come out red, the only flag worth considering. Then he began personal attacks on the members present. Finally one prominent Rotarian left the room.

The speaker paused and then said, "Now that that man is gone, I will make myself known to you." He then removed a wig and other disguises and "Soapbox" O'Brien of the National Security league stood before them. His address from that time on was directly opposite from before.

At a special meeting of the Masonic club, their part of the plans for the tournament between that club and the Elks club were discussed and perfected. The matches will be played on Monday night, alternating between the two club rooms. The tournament will be in auction bridge, bid whist, checkers, chess, cribbage, pool and billiards.

The state board of education for the blind recently held an exhibition at the Bugbee store of the work done by the blind of the state of Connecticut with Miss Susan Todd, sales manager of the board and Miss Ineta Dellett, home teacher of the blind in this district in charge. The articles on display consisted largely of baskets, serving trays, tea stands and a great variety of useful and ornamental needlework, all of which were made by the blind. After the display, all of the articles were placed on display and the money for which they sold given to the blind persons who made the articles.

Dr. Milliard Knowlton, of the bureau of preventable diseases of the Connecticut state board of health, recently gave an interesting address under the auspices of the Thimble club of Thompson.

Dr. George L. Cady, secretary of the American Missionary society, was the speaker at the Second Congregational church on Sunday morning after which he met with the Men's forum in the library of the church and took part in a discussion of the Galilean ministry of Jesus.

Joseph Kayer, formerly of Putnam and later an inmate of the Connecticut School for Boys, is awaiting trial before the city court here, charged with the theft of an automobile. His commitment to the home several years ago was for a similar offense.

Miss Mary Child of Hartford spent the week end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Child.

Mrs. Mayo D. Hersey of Washington, D. C., is the guest of her parents, Judge and Mrs. E. M. Warner of South Main street.

Gould Beard of Easton, Pa., was the guest recently of his aunt and uncle, Miss Emma J. Kinney and Elbert Kinney, at their home on Center street.

Howard Frost of Brooklyn, N. Y. spent the week end at Longmeadow farm.

Rev. and Mrs. James F. English and little daughter, Janet, have been recent visitors with relatives at Hartford.

Mr. and Mrs. Williard Place have been visiting relatives at Worcester, Mass.

Miss Tillie Kaminsky of Worcester, Mass., spent the week end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Kaminsky, Fremont street.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Cokell of New London have been the recent guests of Mr. Cokell's parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Cokell of Grove street.

Miss Celia Aframe, who has been at New York city for the past two months has returned to her home on South Main street.

Mr. and Mrs. M. Dupre and family of White Plains, N. Y., have been the guests of Mrs. Dupre's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Maynard of Maynard street.

Mr. and Mrs. William Jell of Mill street have returned from Providence where Mrs. Jell's brother, Fred Cartier, is a patient in one of the hospitals.

Mrs. Juda Lemonovitz of Bridge street is the guest of her mother, Mrs. Sarah Israel at Winthrop, Mass.

PLAINFIELD

Mr. and Mrs. O. E. Charron were in New York for a few days during the week.

Clarence Jeffers was in Boston recently for treatment at a hospital.

Friends of Mrs. Mary Weng of Dover Plains, N. Y., were grieved to hear of her sudden death. She was the wido wof Theodore Wing, who for many years resided in what is known as the Benedict parsonage here.

Ormond Halloway has completed a three year enlistment with the U. S. Army. He expects to spend the Christmas holidays with his parents here. His route via the Pacific coast east is anticipated Mr. Halloway was discharged as corporal and has been serving at Hawaii.

Mrs. Arthur Bates was a recent visitor at the home of E. Hoxie Lillibridge.

Mrs. Charles Fletcher is visiting relatives in New Bedford.

Mrs. Arthur Moffitt, of Providence spent the week end with Mrs. Everett Dawley, of Gallup street.

There was a good attendance at the guild meeting, held Friday afternoon at the home of Mrs. George Babcock. The following program was carried out: Reading by Mrs. Carl N. Mathewson; vocal solo by Mrs. Henry Fountaine and a reading by Mrs. Lotta Dodge. Refreshments were served by the hostess.

Rudolph Swanson of Pleasant street is employed in Providence.

Miss Dorothy G. Pike attended the Brown-New Hampshire game Saturday, at Providence.

Mrs. Ida Echtelburg visited her brother George A. Dawley and family in Voluntown recently.

The members of the eighth grade of the local grammar school have organized with the following officers: President, Leo Jolicoeur; vice-president, Thomas Lang; secretary, Raymond Roode; treasurer, Hillard Smith. Class pins have been selected and ordered. Navy blue was chosen as the class color.

Mrs. Mary Gailup, of Sterling, spent several days with her daughter, Mrs. Charles Hopkins, during the past week.

There was an error in Friday's Bulletin in the report of the Lincoln club meeting. The chairman of the supper committee was Elmer Greene instead of Elmer Phillips as stated.

The overhead bridge at Bishop's was completed during the week and the new route is open to traffic.

St. Paul's Sunday school gave a harvest concert in the church Sunday evening at 6:30. For the benefit of the church. A potato pie supper and sale of women's work, fancy articles and novelties is planned.

JEWETT CITY

CLARK W. REYNOLDS DIED SATURDAY IN MERIDEN

(Special to The Bulletin)

JEWETT CITY, Nov. 21—Clark W. Reynolds died at his home in Meriden, Saturday. Mr. Reynolds was for 40 years one of the outstanding figures in Griswold's history. He was the son of Earl and Sara Reynolds and was born in Voluntown Feb. 21, 1846. Until reaching the age of 21 he followed the regular routine of a farmer's life. His occupation in Jewett City was that of the livery business. Mr. Reynolds kept a stable of fine horses and many will remember his famous "George," a white thoroughbred. He was a member of the first board of borough government, serving as burgess more than two years. Mr. Reynolds was a democrat, with firm convictions and an eye ever alert to any possible benefit to his party. He served as a member of the county commissioners under Gov. Morris. He was Griswold's town treasurer and held several other minor offices. He was one of the oldest members of Mt. Vernon lodge No. 75, F. and A. M.

Succeeding the late A. C. Ladd close to 40 years ago, Mr. Reynolds was treasurer and manager of the Jewett City Creamery Co.

In 1898 Mr. Reynolds moved to Meriden where two years later, in March 1900, his wife died. She was Miss Eunice M. Palmer of Griswold. He is survived by his second wife, who was Agnes Keene.

In Meriden he has been engaged for some years in business, and until his brother-in-law's death, was associated with him.

Not many residents of Jewett City ever enjoyed the extended social popularity of Clark W. Reynolds. He possessed a wonderful trait of personal attractiveness which accounted for his long list of warm friends. What is said of Jewett City is equally true of Norwich where to him latch strings were always out and his presence assured his welcome.

AUTO KILLED ONE PIG, FOURTEEN MAY DIE

(Special to The Bulletin)

JEWETT CITY, Nov. 21—A big touring car came down the Hopeville road just at dusk Saturday evening, from the direction of Flat Rock. Near the Christopher Colligan place, now owned by John Stinkevitz, a woman of the family was driving two fat hogs from the lot across the road. Without warning the big machine came out of the dusk at a smart clip. Both hogs were struck, one being killed instantly and the other was later humanely dealt with. The pig that was killed was a large sow and after being struck and rolled by the blows of the heavy machine, gave birth to a litter of 14 healthy little pigs, all of which there appeared to be no hope of keeping alive.

The operator of the machine escaped and hopes he is scot free. A man who was working at shingling the house ran through an upper lot and got the number. Deputy Sheriff J. T. Dolan and Officer Henry Vagiard were sent for and they were given the numbers. Police of another part of the state will keep out a watch and arrests are probable.

The heavy Sunday state road traffic passed over the new Bishop's bridge which was opened for travel Thursday. This latest addition to Griswold's bridges has passed inspection and stands as the last word in the master builders craft. The main steel span is 75 feet between the piers, with regulation clearway from the tracks beneath and laid at an angle of 35 angles. On each end there is a steel reach from piers to abutments of 45 feet.

The approach on the north is about 350 yards, while on the south a fill of 1,500 yards was necessary, making an elevation which carries over the small land on that side. R. W. Dearley furnished 30,000 yards of gravel to complete the long inclines. The cost for steel and fill was close to $100,000.

The advance in state road bridge building is sharply set forth, when the matter of comparison is considered, between the structure and angles of crossing the tracks, of Bishop's and the Lower Tadpole bridges.

Arthur J. Brooks of C. A. C. was the week end guest of Benjamin Kolbus and William Bakanowski.

Mrs. F. L. Kanallan entertained the Harmony club Friday afternoon.

Additional names to be added to the Red Cross roll call are Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Gilbert, Mrs. Joseph St. John, S. Krasofsky, F. Rinalt, Howard Pepin, M. Sorokolit, E. Cockcroft, Joe Adamenorotsy, U. Fountaine, Peter Gerard, Daniel Morgan, M. E. Shea, Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Burdick, Louis Guillotte, J. J. Green, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Hiscox, Henry Cole, Joseph Guillotte, Watie J. Wyatt, James McCluggage, Bessie McCluggage, Peter Olsen, Mrs. T. E. Dugan, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Tomlinson, Mrs. Viola Gaska and Eva Ralli.

Entertained at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Everett H. Hiscox Sunday, were Mr. and Mrs. Everett H. Hiscox, Jr., and their son, Everett H. Hiscox, 3d of Norwich.

The Congregational church vestry held a large audience Friday evening which thoroughly enjoyed a concert given by a mandolin club of Willimantic. They gave trios, quartettes and solos, which were wonderfully well played. The club members were Mrs Butler and Misses Michaud Lisse, Van Haverbeke, and Grant. Miss Alene Bachant and Mrs. Merrifield accompanied at the piano. Miss Lillian Grant gave two readings, responding to encores. During the intermission candy was sold by Misses Sadie Thompson, Isabel Marshall and Bessie Thompson, who were in charge of the arrangements. The proceeds will go towards the renovation of the church.

Cottage prayer meetings this week are to be held tonight (Monday) at Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Brown's, Mr. and Mrs. Abraham Zeggers, and Mr. and Mrs. L. D. Howe's, Tuesday evening at Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Stewart's, Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Palmer's and Dr. and Mrs. G. H. Jennings. Thursday evening a union service will be held at the Baptist church from five to six. Friday evening at the homes of Mr. and Mrs. Alex McNicol, Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Prior and Mr. and Mrs. Martin Davis.

Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Robinson and son spent the week end in Hartford with Mr. and Mrs. Jay Ricketts.

The decorations in the Baptist church Sunday were bouquets of winter flowers sent to Mrs. G. H. Prior from California.

SECOND $2,000 HEADLINE CONTEST

His Wife said: "Such miles of Smiles this morning"

"Why the change, Henry?

"You used to follow the early morning smoke with an early morning grouch . . . with plenty of spluttering and coughing."

"'Change' is right, dearest," the husband replied.

"I changed my cigarette—and lost the throat-tickle.

"I switched to OLD GOLDS."

A lot of men have made that change lately . . . and with it have made a big discovery. They found out for the first time that a real he-man's cigarette doesn't need to be harsh and irritating. Coarseness doesn't mean strength. A fine cigarette, like a fine full-bodied cigar, is smooth and mellow. That's OLD GOLD. The smoothest cigarette of all time! You can smoke them and enjoy them morning, noon and night, without regret or after-effect.

NEW ENGLAND'S WASTE POWER

The typing up of power plants for the purpose of establishing a system that can distribute electrical energy to points that need it from those which have it in abundance has been seriously advocated for some time. It was given a further boost last week when Owen D. Young, chairman of the General Electric, urged unification before the New England conference at Hartford.

He gave emphasis to the point that it has been effectively demonstrated that power which is generated at hydro-electric stations can be transmitted over long distances and it is no longer a case of finding an outlet within the immediate vicinity.

There is much food for thought in connection with his statements, for even though he revealed no secret it is time that the situation was better realized. New England has great undeveloped power sources. It has had them for a long time and during all the years potential horsepower in large volume has been going to waste. Some development has taken place but much is in its natural state and in some instances there have been actual impediments to development in the way of laws which prohibit the transmission of power outside of the state. However much this may have been intended for the purpose of attracting industry to the state to get the benefit of such power privileges, the fact nevertheless remains that large development might have taken place had there been no such restrictions and had an ear been lent to the pleas for such power from out of the state sources.

In the search for cheaper power in New England it is highly desirable that there should be an electric power system with a sufficient surplus of energy waiting to be tapped all along the line. This would be a decided relief for those localities which need it but haven't it and a boon for those which have it but which are allowing it to go to waste through lack of development because there is no local demand for it.

Electrical development makes transmission over long distances possible and urges the ending of the waste that has been going on for ages.

THE MEREDITH PLAN

According to suggestions which have been advanced by E. T. Meredith, former secretary of agriculture, he would like to see put into operation a plan for meeting the farm problem. He has made a study of the situation, in which he is of course deeply interested, and does not approve the McNary-Haugen bill. But he does think that relief could be obtained if the matter was placed in the hands of a government commission made up of three members of the president's cabinet and four others appointed by the president with the consent of the senate, whose duty would be "not to buy any crop, or any portion of a crop, until one year after harvest and only the surplus not absorbed either in our domestic or export trade at the price bid." The commission would be authorized to name minimum prices to be guaranteed to the farmer on six major crops produced during the ensuing year.

What Mr. Meredith has put forth is a plan. He has not carried it out to the pointing of estimating what it would cost the government if put into effect, or what would have been the situation financially had it already been in operation but he believes it would end the risk of the farmers. He doesn't say whether it would give encouragement to raising of tremendous crops without regard for the demands and he doesn't offer any opinion as to whether it would cause the producers to place their entire dependence upon the government price without otherwise endeavoring to move their crops. The idea is to protect the farmers against loss, a government service which those in other lines of business would undoubtedly welcome at times.

The extension of relief to the farmers is a problem that has been before congress for a considerable period of time. There are certain plans which have been considered and found to be undesirable. There are others which have been received with greater favor and the Meredith plan, now that it has been set forth and apparently with the best of intentions, will be subjected to an analysis and a scrutiny both as to what is aimed at and what would develop thereunder should bring to the surface without great delay its real merits or demerits. It is one more plan in the ring.

TEMPORARY AUTHORITY

The suggestion has been made that when congress assembled steps be taken to put through congress a resolution endowing the secretary of commerce with authority to regulate radio until it is possible for congress to agree upon a permanent measure of regulation.

This is advanced because of the failure of congress to act at the last session, because of the uncertainty as to whether it will do anything at the coming session and because there is need for something of the kind in order to put an end to the confusion and interference that have developed.

When it was disclosed by court decision that the commerce department had no authority to continue its endeavors to regulate radio it was pointed out that chaos would result unless some authority was set up to meet the situation. As to whether chaos is the right word to describe the result may vary according to the locality in which one resides, but there is no question but what there has been much confusion and trouble. Encroachment upon the wave length of other stations has bothered the listeners-in even to the point of despair, and the longer it is permitted to go the worse it will become.

With the two branches of congress divided as to what should be done, or how it should be done, it is time that some temporary provision was made for meeting the situation. Regulation was attempted in the first place because it could be done much easier then. It was of great advantage to radio that it was started and the sooner the temporary regulation can be put into effect the easier it will be and the quicker the relief will be obtained. At present there's nothing to regulate radio in the way it is needed. The importance of refraining from using the same wave length as another station should have its appeal, if for no other reason than preventing the antagonism of those listening, but it doesn't in all cases and that spirit of keeping only just over the borderline of trouble likewise needs attention. A temporary measure would meet requirements even if congress found it impossible to do anything else in this direction at the coming short session.

THE THOMPSON REPORT

Carmi Thompson has returned from the Philippines, where he went as the special representative of President Coolidge to study the conditions and report. He hasn't as yet made his report. When he does it will be to the president and soon thereafter it can be expected that it will be made public.

Naturally he refused to tell what his findings are when questioned on landing in Seattle and those guesses which have been made as to what he favors and what he doesn't favor, what he will advocate and what he will oppose, must be accepted as such until the report is made.

Mr. Thompson has covered the situation thoroughly in the Philippines. He has seen the politicians at work seen the government in operation, witnessed the opposition that is being shown toward the governor general, had first hand chance to note how certain factions are fighting others, studied the natural advantages of the islands and unquestionably has accomplished just what was expected of him in sending an impartial observer to the islands.

There are certain general conditions about which it may be possible to successfully guess what he will advocate but there is no probability that he will urge upon the president the granting of independence to the islands at this time or within a decade or so. Conditions in the islands in the past have not worked to the advantage of the islanders Corrections have been applied and still there are internal conditions which stand in the way of the benefits that should accrue. The island politicians have not helped the situation. Rather have they served to create the impression that their goal would be the worst thing that could happen to the Philippines This phase of the matter and a number of others should and probably will get attention in the report which should be soon forthcoming.

SHAW'S PRIZE MONEY

George Bernard Shaw was the choice of the committee to receive the Nobel prize for 1925. Perhaps this surprised Mr. Shaw quite as much as it did some others. At any rate he has announced that while he appreciates the compliment he doesn't want the money and makes the suggestion that the $35,000 be applied to bringing about a better understanding of art and literary ideals between Great Britain and Sweden, the latter country being named out of respect for the Swedish chemist who established the fund for the prize.

Not many are inclined to dispose of such a prize in such a manner or so promptly, but Mr. Shaw runs true to his unusual characteristics. Of course he has a perfect right to do with the money as he pleases. He is in fact not obliged to receive it and could turn it back so that other prize winners in the future might get a larger sum. It is not to be supposed that he was picked because the committee thought he needed the money. They must have known to the contrary and perhaps they anticipated that he would do just about what he has done—that is the unusual—for they must have fully known the man and his inclinations.

What Mr. Shaw has done is however no different than Theodore Roosevelt did just 20 years ago, and in each case much more was gained from a publicity standpoint than would have been the case had the prize been received with simply a fitting acknowledgment of thanks. Though not men of the same type their thoughts apparently ran in similar channels when dealing with that question, of when expressing themselves in such a principle.

WOMAN IN LIFE AND IN THE KITCHEN

SUGGESTIONS FOR THE HOUSEWIFE

Wet salt will remove those dark stains on silver that results from eggs.

Before serving plain beef broth, add a beaten egg if you wish it to be more nutritious.

To measure a level cup or spoon of any dry ingredient, heap first, then scrape off level with a knife.

Small lamps for the dressing table consist of a large flower of tinted shells which conceals a bulb.

Blankets that are very light and warm are of lavender and white plaid on one side, while the other is white.

When meat appears tough add a tablespoon of vinegar to the water or gravy in which it is cooked, and simmer slowly.

Sandpapering baby's shoes before they are worn prevents slipping and saves many a fall.

Spread a little rich cream over the top crust of a pie just before it is put into the oven and it will make it brown and flaky.

When fruit juice runs out in the oven or on the stove, if salt is thrown on it there will be no odor if allowed to burn to a crisp. It can then be easily removed.

When hot flannels are wanted in illness try heating them in a steamer and you will then avoid the trouble of wringing.

To clean painted kitchen walls, dip a damp cloth in dry baking soda, wipe the walls, then go over again with another damp cloth.

Do not throw your coffee grounds into the garbage can. They should be emptied into the sink, as they will help materially in keeping the drain pipe clean.

Dried fruits, such as apricots, peaches and apples, will need very little sugar if you soak them long enough.

Where grease is spilled on a kitchen table or floor, pour cold water on it at once. The cold will harden it. It may then be taken up with a knife and will not soak in.

SAVE REPAIRING ENTIRE WALL

To repair wall-paper, instead of cutting a square piece to fit the place which needs patching, tear out a piece in irregular form. Place it on the wall, being careful to match all lines and figures. By doing this the patch can scarcely be detected.

CANDY-MAKING

Grease the saucepan around the top with butter before putting the ingredients for candy on the fire and the liquid will not boil over.

MAKE WINDOWS SHINE

To make your windows shine and gleam, wash the inside of the glass with tepid water applied with chamois, using no soap or powder of any kind. The outside requires different treatment and should be cleaned with the following mixture: One ounce pulverized whiting, 1 ounce grain alcohol, 1 ounce liquid ammonia, 1 pint water. Apply with a soft cloth after removing dirt. When allowed to dry and be rubbed off with a polishing motion the surface will be brilliant.

COOKING HINTS

Chopped dates and peanut butter mixed to a paste make a delicious filling for sandwiches.

To color soup green, pound spinach leaves in a mortar, extract the juice and add to the soup.

When making baked custard, pour boiling milk onto the beaten eggs. It will bake beautifully firm.

Before baking an apple, to prevent it from bursting, run your knife around the rind about an inch from the top.

Several different cooked vegetables may be combined with white sauce and cooked in a casserole to form a substantial luncheon dish.

When cooking a roast of meat, sear the outside by intense heat to keep the juices in the meat. Then reduce the heat and broil or roast in the usual manner.

Cabbage for cold slaw should be finely shredded, soaked an hour in ice water, and then drained and patted dry between towels. Chopped green pepper is a pleasing garnish.

HEMSTITCHING WITH A SEWING MACHINE

A double hemstitching may be made on any sewing machine, without a special attachment. Blotting paper or newspaper 1-8 inch thick is placed between two pieces of material. The tension of the machine should be loosened slightly and a rather long stitch be used. Colored thread on white goods gives a novel effect.

Hold the edges of the two pieces of material even, keeping the paper between, and begin to stitch through it as for a plain seam. When one has stitched the desired length, the paper must be carefully torn away from each side of the stitching. On the wrong side the raw edges may be turned back, pressed and stitched close to each side of the hemstitching, or if desired the raw edges may be hemmed back.

Many attractive uses can be found for this kind of hemstitching. Shoulder straps for the costume slip make use of a line of hemstitching hemmed on each side. The bodice top for a slip may be finished with this hemstitching and a 3-4-inch hem. A hem of another color can be applied in this way.—Christian Science Monitor.

SALAD DRESSING

Never pour the salad dressing over a salad until you are just ready to serve it. After you have prepared French dressing, it should be kept very cold—some cooks place it on ice, others put a chunk of ice right in the dressing.

THE COFFEE POT

To clean out a coffee pot, put a tablespoon of washing soda into it and fill with water. Boil for 20 minutes. Then pour out soda and water and boil fresh water. Dry in the air, if possible in the sunlight.

BOILING VEGETABLES

Experts say it is advisable to cut vegetables lengthwise instead of crosswise when preparing them for boiling, or even for salads, if you want to retain their best flavor.

DICTATES OF FASHION

A lovely hazy tone of blue is featured in coats and frocks, as well as hats.

Among the smartest frocks are those fashioned of chiffon velvet in small checked designs.

White fur lines heavily embroidered Chinese coats that are shown for evening wear, as well as wraps of velvet or metal cloth.

Slips of changeable satin, or of iridescent fabrics are used under chiffon gowns.

Yellow and green are being promoted as the most popular colors for winter resort costumes.

Many of the new scarfs are of wool and they are embroidered in wools in pleasant designs.

Leather coats in delightful shades of blue, red or green, are trimmed with narrow bands of gold or silver leather.

The newest gloves are of soft doeskin in contrast tones stitched in col-

FALL COATS FUR TRIMMED

Fur trimmings on coats are the rule rather than the exception this season, and the use of fur is marked by discretion and restraint. Even in instances where it is employed with a most lavish hand the effect is always distinguished and in perfect taste. On the other hand, for those who prefer to wear a separate neckpiece, there are any number of models devoid of fur. They attract attention by reason of their skilful cut and meticulous finish.

Stitching, usually of the same tone, is brought into play as an important detail of ornamentation.

KNICKERS OF FROCK FABRIC

In these days when underthings are scarcely ever entirely under cover, French designers have been emboldened to do a bold thing but modest. They have designed knickers made of the same material as the dress which is wrongfully supposed to cover them. They can not be seen when the wearer stands, but when she crosses her legs they are fully evident.

JUNGLE GREEN POPULAR

A dark shade of green known as jungle green is much in evidence in present fashions. It is unusually effective when used for millinery and wraps developed in velvet.

LAUNDRY HINTS

After washing handkerchiefs, let them soak over night in water in which a bit of cream of tartar has been dissolved. This whitens them.

To obtain a good navy blue when dyeing cotton material, add from one quarter to an entire package of black dye to the navy.

If you find you have no starch after the garment is all washed and ready, use the same amount of cornstarch as you would starch and you will obtain the same result.

All lace should be carefully pulled out before being ironed. Embroidery should be placed over several folds of blankets. Frills can be plaited with the fingers and pressed with the iron.

To successfully wash ribbons and dainty laces, shave pure white soap into a glass jar or use pure white soap-flakes to make a rich suds. Have the mixture warm, put the lace (or ribbon) into the can, screw on the lid, and allow to soak for a few minutes; then shake vigorously. Rinse in the same manner. They will be clean without the usual harmful rubbing. If the ribbon is wound smoothly around the outside of the fruit-can and allowed to dry there, it need not be ironed.

IT'LL COME OUT

When grease has been spilled on marble, remove it this way—make a strong solution of sal-soda and add enough fuller's earth to make a thin paste. Cover the spot with this and let it remain for 24 hours. If at the end of this time the stain has not been entirely removed, repeat the operation.

FOR CLEANING

You can make an effective scouring pad by making a strong suds of castile soap and mixing with enough fuller's earth to make a fairly stiff paste. Work this into balls of convenient size and let them dry. They may be used on garments or in cleaning spots from carpets.

SOMETHING NEW

Custom seems to have ordained that sheets and pillow cases should be white. Fashion, however introduces a new idea in sheets and pillow slips of the finest quality cotton in pastel tones. Some are blue with rose colored borders. Others are pale green and violet.

IF THEY STAND

If boiled potatoes must stand after cooking, cover the top of the pan with several folds of cheesecloth and let it stand on a warm part of the stove. This allows the moisture to escape, but it protects the vegetable from the cold air.

KEEPING PARSLEY

If parsley becomes slightly wilted, let it stand for about an hour in cold water. If you shake off the water and put in a glass with a tight cover and place this in the ice box it will last in perfect condition for several days.

CONCERNING WOMEN

In Portugal, if the wife publishes literary works without her husband's consent, the law frees him at once from all his matrimonial obligations.

Dolls are often seen displayed in the cottage windows of Serbia. They are put up as a sign to announce to wayfarers that a marriageable daughter dwells in the house.

In the course of her work as home demonstrator of Snyder county, Tex., Miss Laura Bell Roton travels an average of 25 miles a day, or about 13,000 miles in the course of a year.

Mrs. Mary Brooks of Sacramento, only surviving member of the first graduating class of the College of the Pacific, is to be the guest of honor at a celebration of the diamond jubilee of the college, June 13 to 15.

The Ontario Minimum Wage board last year collected over $17,000 for girl employes from employers who had failed to comply with findings of the board. Three thousand dollars was collected from one industry and handed over to 150 girls.

Miss Emma Christman, who has been chosen a member of the board of governors of the Portland, Ore., chapter of the American Institute of Banking, is one of the first women ever elevated to such a position in the history of the organization.

TASTES BETTER, TOO

The stew made out of leftover roast will go much farther if some little paste dumplings are boiled and served with it.

AVOID RUST

Paint the nails with white enamel that are used for hanging kitchen towels and the tapes will not become discolored with rust.

RECIPES

Gold Butterscotch Sauce: Boil together 1-4 cup of water, 1-4 cup of white sugar, syrup and one cup and 1-2 of white granulated sugar until when a spoon is dropped into a cup of ice water it forms a hard ball. This, if tested with the sugar

Serum for Measles

The blood serum of adults who had measles in childhood may be used to modify the disease in children so that it will take only a mild form devoid of serious after effects, and yet will give immunity for life just as the normal form of the disease does.

This is the conclusion of Prof. R. Debre and Dr. Joannon of the University of Paris Medical school, reported to the health committee of the League of Nations. More than a thousand injections of serum have been given without any bad effects. The efforts of Dr. Leon Bernard, of the University of Paris resulted in the establishment of two prophylactic stations in Paris for the treatment of the disease.

"Up to the present time," Dr. Bernard said, "prophylactic methods have been used to some extent in the United States and Germany to secure temporary immunity. A serum from convalescent cases was used and injected in patients during the first six days after infection.

"But a durable immunity may be developed if the serum is not injected until the germs have had more time to incubate, as in the modified procedure of Prof. Debre, where the injections are made only between the sixth and the tenth day after infection. A serum shortage problem was solved by the discovery that the serum of adults who have long since recovered from measles was as efficient as that taken from convalescent children."

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

Cyrus E. Dallin, who will observe his sixty-fifth birthday anniversary today at his home in Arlington, Mass., is one of the most distinctively national sculptors that the United States has produced. The more conventional output of his art is to be found in his figures in the library of congress at Washington, and in his designs for soldiers' monuments at Syracuse, N. Y., and Hanover, Pa. His most enduring and striking individual contribution to his people's art will prove to be statues like "The Medicine Man," in Fairmount park, Philadelphia; "The Appeal to the Great Spirit," which stands before the Museum of Fine Arts in Boston, and "The Indian Hunter," in his home town of Arlington. In these works Mr. Dallin has done justice of the Red Indian of the plains and valleys of the far west, among whom he grew up in Utah.

YOUR HEALTH

Common Sense

By Leo Dreiska, M. D., Detroit, Mich.
Member Gorgas Memorial Institute

This generation has acquired more general knowledge of medicine than any other in the history of mankind. The doctor finds himself able to talk to his patients in common terms.

The information relating to childcare, sanitation, dangerous infections, disease prevention and all kindred matters is widely distributed. Education is a highly important part of the war of science on disease, and the results are already manifest in statistics relating to tuberculosis, cancer, heart trouble and other maladies.

But, like every other form of progress, our increased medical knowledge has brought its penalties. Doctors know that it is possible to give too much thought to health. There are some families in which children are being reared under such strict hygienic conditions that they are in danger of becoming neurotic invalids or else of throwing overboard all health counsel as a nuisance.

One truth that all doctors have impressed upon them in their practice is the extreme variability of human bodies. We have many old sayings to the effect that "what is one man's meat is another's poison," and there is a profound basis of common sense in them. There is another saying, "that every man should be his own doctor at 40."

We can be our own doctors much earlier than that. All know that every person needs fresh air, exercise, rest, pure water and wholesome food. But whereas John may thrive on black coffee, strong cigars and plenty of meat and require but six hours of sleep a night, the same manner of living might make a wreck of Bill.

Nature helps us find out what is good and what isn't. If we give her a fair chance and don't deceive ourselves, after a system that keeps us healthy and happy has been worked out, the best thing to do is to forget our bodies.

Health fads are often as harmful as helpful. The man or woman who takes too much thought about digestion, pulse, blood pressure, diet, and such matters is very likely to become one of those pitiful beings who haunt doctors' offices seeking relief from ailments which exist only in the imagination.

If you are inclined to be a health fusser, stop it. Old Mother Nature is brooding over you, trying her best to take good care of you, so don't worry.

If you are a few pounds over or under weight, and enjoy yourself, let it go at that. After a doctor gives you a thorough examination once a year, and finds nothing radically wrong, avoid the doctor's office for another year unless you are in acute need of him.

Stories That Recall Others

The Logical Minded Parrot

A young lady is quite fond of ice cream. She pilots her father to the shops where she can get it on frequent occasions, but on one evening he rebelled.

"Why do you insist upon going after ice cream so often?" he asked.

"I like it," replied the daughter.

"Well," said the indulgent father, "I like eggs, but I don't run after every hen I see."

Off to a Poor Start

One of two brothers had been building a new house and when it came to a heating plant the owner decided on a hot air furnace while his brother advised steam.

The new hot air furnace was installed and the time came for the tryout. The steam heater advocate went over to help his brother get it started, still harboring the feeling, however, that a mistake had been made. When the fire was started nice the owner ran up stairs to see that all registers were open. Before following, the helpful brother carefully turned all the hot air dampers off tight. Then he went up and thought he had better be getting back home as everything seemed to be going nicely. Now he is dodging the house owner who declares he will get even if it takes all winter.

The Open Door

Behold I have set before thee an open door.—Rev. III: 8.

When we come to the end of our pilgrimage,
And waiting, we stand at the door;
When the Father bids us lay down the load
We have carried—forevermore—

We shall come sustained by a steadfast faith
Where fear has no power nor place,
If daily we live in His presence here
Walking humbly before His face.

And what men call death we shall find to be
A gladsome home-coming at night;
In our ears the sound of a welcoming voice,
A door op'ning up to the Light.

—Gertrude E. Walker.

Omnia Vincit

Long from the lists of love I stood aloof,
My heart was steeled and I was beauty-proof;
Yet I, uncathed in many a peril past,
Lo! here am I defeated at the last.

My practice was, in easy chair reclined,
Superior-wise to speak of womankind,
Waving away the wornout creed of love
To join the smoke that wreathed itself above.

Love, I said in my wisdom, Love is dead,
For all his fabled triumphs, and instead
We find a calm affectionate respect,
Doled forth by Intellect to Intellect.

Yet when Love, taking vengeance, smote me sore,
My Siren called me from no classic shore;
It was no Girton trumpet that laid low
The walls of this Platonic Jericho.

For when my peace of mind at length was stole,
I thought no whit of Intellect or Soul,
Nay! I was cast in pitiful distress
By brown eyes wide with truth and tenderness.

—Alfred Cochrane.

A method for more thorough analysis of dental gold alloys than has hitherto been possible has been perfected at the United States bureau of standards. It is now possible to make accurate stuies of the various effects, derived from putting different kinds and quantities of metals in the alloys. Manufacturers in consequence will be able to guarantee with more certainty the exact qualities of the product they can supply to the man who manipulates the little drills. Forty different alloys of the kinds used by dentists throughout the country were recently analysed.

Licensing travelers through forests, as a means of protecting Canada's timber wealth from the ravages of fire, is advocated by the Canadian Forestry association. Robson Black, editor of Forest and Outdoors, believes that a forest is potentially almost as dangerous as a powder magazine and advocates the issuance of travel permits, without which no one would be permitted to travel through any forest region during those season when there is danger of forest fires. The advantage of this system, says Mr. Black, would be twofold. The formality of securing a permit would bring forcibly to mind the real dangers of forest fires, and since a permit can be revoked the possibility of forfeit would make the traveler careful. The preservation of Canadian forests, Mr. Black says, would assure to Canada an annual income of $500,000,000 for all time to come.

Impenetrable "Donsteel"

In a recent demonstration of a new alloy steel christened donsteel, in honor of its inventor, J. G. Donaldson, that material was proved to be far superior to any other alleged torch resisting materials, according to Science and Invention.

In the demonstration given, sheets of ordinary iron such as used in some cheap makes of safes were attacked with an oxy-acetylene torch. The material readily yielded and a 1-inch plate was cut through in less than 2 seconds. Then other types of safe metals were tested, including such supposedly burglar-proof methods as chrome steel, compositions of steel and copper and mixtures of steel and carborundum. Every one of them yielded to the intense heat of the blow torches, proving that many of the so-called burglar-proof safes in use today can be readily rifled by means of an acetylene torch in the hands of an expert. With some of these materials, it was necessary to use what is known as the "fluxing-iron" process, invented by Francis J. Napoliteau, which consists of burning an iron rod against the sheet of metal to be cut with the torch. Doing this facilitates the work enormously and it is said that a process similar to this is used by many professional cracksmen. In any event, every one of the metals tested, with the exception of donsteel, yielded quickly and easily.

After these tests were completed, they were all applied to donsteel and, with this metal, even the usually effective fluxing-iron process failed. First the sheath of donsteel was heated with an oxy-acetylene torch for 5 minutes and the surface remained unchanged. Then a disinterested party of oxy-acetylene torch users attacked the same sheet and after 2 hours' work had still failed to make any impression.

Then the 6-inch thick core of the safe door was tested. It could not be affected in any way by means of either an oxy-acetylene torch or a drill. The reason why both a sheath of donsteel and a thick core of the same metal are employed is because it is believed that the thinner sheath can be burned through if sufficient time is believed that the thinner sheath can be burned through if sufficient time is employed and that it can eventually be penetrated by a drill. However, the thick core is absolutely impenetrable by any known means, and therefore perfect protection is achieved by the combination employed.

DUWELLS HAVE BOUGHT CHAPEL FOR CLUBHOUSE

Negotiations have been completed whereby the Duwell Athletic club becomes the owners of the so-called Preston chapel in the east side section of the city. The chapel has been owned by the Central Baptist church for years and was used for religious purposes. Lately the chapel has been used less and less and owing to a lack of interest the Central Baptist church decided to sell it. The Sunday school, which has been meeting in the chapel, will be transferred to the central church.

Heretofore the Duwell club has been meeting in leased rooms in the east side section. The club membership now numbers about 200. The chapel is 40 x 25 feet in size and is a two story frame structure. The club will move into its new quarters early in December.

Russian Choir Sang.

Sunday evening at the service at the Central Baptist church the congregation enjoyed an unusual musical opportunity in hearing the Russian choir sing a group of anthems and sacred selections in the Russian language. Dr. John Haynes, for many years master and head of the history department of the Hyde Park high school, Mass., and a former teacher at the Norwich Free Academy was buried Friday at Fairview cemetery, Hyde park, after funeral services in the First Congregational church, in that place. Rev. George W. Owen, minister of the church, officiated. In attendance was a delegation of forty teachers from the Hyde Park high school headed by Headmaster George W. Earle, and representatives of the Boston Latin school, Dorchester high school, the Boston school committee, New England Teachers' association, High School Masters' association, Economic Association of Boston, college entrance examination board, Massachusetts Teachers' association and the Hyde Park board of trade.

RECEIVER TO COLLECT RENTS AND PROFITS

Judge Allyn L. Brown of the superior court has appointed Attorney Hibbard R. Norman temporary receiver of the mortgaged premises in the suit brought by the Norwich Savings society against Waino J. Lebtinen and Emma Lebtinen, both of No. 2056 Fifth avenue, New York, formerly of Taftville; The Texas company and Bartolew Mockewiz. The bank holds two mortgages on the property for $10,400. Mr. Normae has been named temporary received to collect the rents and profits and to hold the premises subject to the order of the superior court.

The plaintiff bank claims that on September 28, 1925, Waino Lebtinen owed the bank $5,000 on a promissory note secured by a mortgage on land and buildings on the highway leading from Norwich avenue to Blissville. It is claimed that only $400 has been paid on this note. It is claimed that on September 28, 1925, Lebtinen gave a promissory note for $6,800 to James Graham of Lisbon and also gave a mortgage on the premises mentioned above.

On Oct. 6 1926, Graham assigned the note to the bank, which note is wholly due and unpaid except $1,000 that was paid September 28, 1926.

On Oct 28, 1925, Lebtinen leased a portion of the mortgage premises to the Texas Co.

On Nov 17, 1925, Lebtinen deeded the premises to his wife.

On May 15, 1926, Emma Lebtinen leased a portion of the mortgaged premises to Bartolmew Mockewicz, who is now in possession.

The mortgaged property is used as a gas filling station. The counsel for the bank brought the acting alleging that as the Lebtinens had removed to New York, there was no one to collect the rents, and the exigencies of the case demand the immediate appointment of a receiver to collect and hold the rents and profits from said premises in order that they may not be wasted and that security of said mortgages may be protected.

SUBURBAN DAY BROUGHT GOOD BUSINESS HERE

Norwich merchants conducted suburban day Saturday, making inviting offerings of their seasonable merchandise in all lines, with the result that the stores experienced a busy business period and did their customary public service in waiting upon a host of satisfied customers.

The advertised goods, at attractive prices, brought many visitors to the city from the out of town districts, besides resulting in liberal local patronage for the progressive Norwich merchants who participated in the special event and very satisfactory business was generally reported.

SERVICE OF DEDICATION FOR NEW CLOCK AT NORWICH TOWN CHURCH

Sunday morning at the service at the First Congregational church at Norwich Town, there was a brief service of dedication of the new clock that has been placed in the belfry of the church, beginning its mission to the public this week. The hymns of the morning and the brief message of the pastor, Rev. Gurdon F. Bailey, were in harmony with the theme of the dedicatory services. He spoke upon the theme, The Measure of Time, using as the text, Psalms 90, 12: So teach us to number our days, that we may apply our hearts unto wisdom.

Referring to the new clock, Rev. Mr. Bailey said that the Norwich Rural association co-operated with the First Congregational church in securing this public convenience and shared generously in the expense. Walter T. Camp, president of the Rural association, made an address on the relation of the Norwich Rural association to the clock fund and to community betterment in general.

A resolution was passed by the church expressing its appreciation to the Rural association for its generous co-operation, to John A. Ferguson for his personal interest and service and to the Seth Thomas clock company for its generous consideration and interest in this ancient church.

The prayer of dedication was offered by the pastor as follows: "Almighty God, thy ways are orderly in the universe which thou hast made and we thank Thee for the precision with which the heavenly bodies make their appointed rounds through space and in time. We thank Thee for the gift of creative genius whereby we may imitate Thee in the construction of devices for the measuring of time. We thank Thee for the generosity which has made possible the erection of a trustworthy time-piece in the tower of this church. As Christian people who believe in a God of order and punctuality and precision, we would now dedicate this clock to the service of the people.

"To the service of the children of our schools as they come and go in the path of learning and who should learn to be punctual in their appointments and orderly in their habits, we dedicate this clock. To the service of all workers within the sound of the church bell who shall be aided in the call to labor and who shall rejoice in its call from labor to refreshments, we dedicate this clock. To the service of the families of this community who shall be reminded of their appointments to various duties and obligations in the home and in business and in social relations, we dedicate this clock. To the service of the great throng of humanity of every creed and color and nationality who shall come and go through this busy thoroughfare of travel and who shall look to the tower of the old meeting house for the measure of time, we dedicate this clock as the servant of the people. As an aid to the worship of God by all those who come in hither, both now and in the generations to come, and who would be reminded of the important duty of working while it is day, we dedicate this clock. May its continued service and its repeated calls hour by hour become a companionship to those who serve through the night watches waiting for the morning and may its faithful ministry as the years go by keep constantly before us the faithfulness of God through all generations. Amen."

During the service the pastor read the Thanksgiving day proclamation by Governor Trumbull.

HELPING HANDS' SALE AND SUPPER SUCCESSFUL

Saturday, at the Buckingham Memorial, the Helping Hands of the Spiritual academy held their annual Christmas sale, which was a decided success in every respect. The attractive line of fancy articles, candy and cakes was disposed of in quick order, netting the society a most satisfactory and snug little sum.

From 5 to 7 in the afternoon, one of the Helping Hands' baked bean and salad suppers, for which this society is famous, was served to over 250 people. The treasury of the church is thus given a substantial increase in funds most gratifying to its body of earnest workers.

The list of the workers is as follows: Fancy work, Mrs. Wilbur Chappell, Mrs. William Jones; domestic booth, Miss Rose Breckenridge, Mrs. Hattie Burrows, Mrs. Lynn; candy, Miss Lucille Hayden; mysteries, Mrs. Mary Gasser; supper committee, Mrs. Leon Hayden, Mrs. William Bettham, Mrs. M. E. Twist, Mrs. W. T. Bogue, Mrs. K. Blanchard, Mrs. F. Erlbeck; cake tables, Miss M. A. Hill, Mrs. Francis Slater; waitresses, Mrs. Jennie Marth, Mrs. Louis Russell, Mrs. Earl Pillman, Misses Rose Breckenridge, Elsie DeWolf, Alice Boska, Bernice Maynard, Victoria Armstrong. In charge of kitchen, Mrs. Joseph Mackey, Mrs. D. Buddington; Mrs. Charles A. Dawsett, the president, was in general charge.

LEGION AUXILIARY WILL SELECT MEMORIAL FORM

At the last meeting of the auxiliary of Fletcher post, American Legion, the members voted to select some special floral form to be used as memorial pieces from the auxiliary. The design of this floral piece will probably be similar to the design of the American Legion auxiliary pin.

Mrs. George Leopold and Mrs. William Bogue reported of their recent visit to the hospitals in town, when baskets of fruit and candy and fruit and smokes were distributed among the ex-service men.

The Armistice day committee expressed appreciation of the work of Miss Peirce in charge of decorating the float and also to the Legion members who assisted in portraying the message of peace.

Plans are now underway for the entertainment and dance to be given at the state hospital, a special committee being in charge of this feature.

MOOSE HAVE 22 IN THEIR CLASS INITIATION

A class of 22 was initiated Saturday evening by Norwich lodge, No. 960, L. O. O. M., at the Moose home on Laurel Hill avenue. The meeting was opened by Dictator Benjamin Wunderlich and the class was initiated in the first degree. Remarks to the class were made by the dictator who was followed by Secretary George J. Geopfert who spoke of the work being done by the Loyal Order of Moose in the United States and England. He referred to the financial status of the Moose, stating that there are now 850,000 members in good standing; 1,200 children are now being cared for at Mooseheart and there are 100 couples at Mooseheaven. This class was also addressed by West Moose John T. F. Burns.

After the meeting Brennan's Moose orchestra furnished music and Prof. Holland entertained in a ventriloquist act.

PLAN CHILDREN'S LYCEUM AT SPIRITUAL ACADEMY

Mrs. Harriet Hindley, lecturer and message bearer, interested large congregations at both services at the Spiritual academy Sunday, and by her well-chosen remarks and their well-defined climax, her hearers were aroused to an enthusiastic pitch. Her message work was most impressive and all through the message hour she was accorded the closest attention.

The society was honored by the presence of the state organizers of children's progressive spiritual lyceums, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Booth, who presented tentative plans for the organization of a local lyceum. Plans for this are already underway. Much interest is manifested in the movement toward lyceum organization here, and its support is eagerly hoped for in this society.

Fifth Birthday Party

A pretty birthday party for Dorothy Heber was given Friday afternoon at the home of Mrs. August Heber where the dining room was decorated in pink and blue and a large birthday cake with five candles delighted the children. There were favors and a gift for each child, and candy, cake, fruit, chocolate and ice cream were served. Mrs. Albert Heber and Miss Elfrieda Heber served.

In the peanut hunt the prize went to Doris Donahue, and in the donkey game the first prize went to June Heber, second to Pauline Donahue and third to Richard Carroll. Little Dorothy received many gifts, including $10 in money.

The children present were Ernestine Heber, Doris Donahue, Pauline Donahue, Marion Heber, June Heber, Dorothy Haber, Richard Carroll and Alita Savinsky.

Supper was served by Mrs. Heber for the mothers of the children.

Gentlemen's first went to Harry Collins, a tie, his score 44; second to Jack Cummings, score 42, a shirt; consolations to Teresa O'Neil, a bar of candy, and C. Frodell, pencils.

Irene Burns took tickets at the door also scored on whist. Margaret Rogers scored on pinochle.

The lodge is planning another whist and pinochle.

BLOOD TRANSFUSION MAY SAVE BAMFORD'S LIFE

Blood transfusion is to be resorted to in an effort to save the life of Thomas Bamford, 52, of Hanover, who was shot two weeks ago by his wife, Beatrice, at their home and has been a patient since at the Backus hospital where he has been making a brave struggle, but his condition has been slightly growing more unfavorable, it is reported.

One bullet punctured his right lung, another is lodged in or near the liver and the third is near the heart and close to the principal artery carrying the blood to the lower part of the body. It has not been possible to attempt the removal of any of the bullets.

Dr. E. R. Lampson of Hartford, a noted surgeon, has been called into consultation by the hospital physicians and he has recommended blood transfusion as a possible means of saving Bamford's life and this will be done as soon as a suitable subject can be found to supply the blood that the patient needs.

Mrs. Bamford, who has been adjudged insane, is now confined at the Norwich state hospital.

ADMIRAL AND MRS. HOWARD MARRIED FORTY YEARS

A Newport, R. I. society note reads: Rear Admiral and Mrs. William L. Howard will give a tea next Tuesday afternoon to celebrate their fortieth wedding anniversary.

Admiral Howard is a former resident of Norwich. He married a New Haven girl.

Recovered Stolen Automobile.

An Auburn coupe which was stolen from Fitchville several nights ago was found by the owner, John J. McCann of that place, near the Adams Tavern garage Sunday morning.

Norwich Produce Market

Apples are plenty but vary considerably in quality and price. Most of those offered are in bushel baskets with a few in 14 quart baskets and a very few in barrels. Other fruits are offered in normal quantities with prices practically unchanged.

The market on most vegetables remains normal with prices unchanged. Cabbage is a little firmer with potatoes, squash and turnips slightly easier.

Poultry continues steady with a normal supply for the holiday. The turkey market is a little uncertain with westerns selling at 52c-56c and natives 55c-60c. Eggs appear to be a little easier although prices are unchanged. Lard is easy and meats steady with only a moderate demand.

Grains also remain steady with no changes in prices.

FLETCHER POST IN MEMBERSHIP CONTEST

The regular meeting of the Robert O. Fletcher post, No. 4, American Legion, was held at the post rooms, Friday evening, with Commander E. C. Dunbar presiding. Several applications for membership were received and acted on. Reports from the various committees were received showing considerable activity. The committee on the annual show made their report showing that the show was a success financially and otherwise.

Charles Goit made a final report on the Armistice day celebration which was accepted and the committee was discharged with a vote of thanks. The interest of the members is now centered on the pilgrimage to Paris in the fall of 1927 and Comrade Jennes is now able to give all the necessary information to any one interested.

This, marking the opening of the new year for membership the post is making plans for a drive for new members and a challenge has been received from John Coleman Prince post, No. 8, of New London to a membership contest. Fletcher post has shown or tried to show the people of Norwich that it is an asset to the town and city, says Adjutant Joseph Bellefleur and at this time appeals to all the ex-service men and women of the city who are eligible for membership in the Legion to join with them and by an increased organization they may carry on the work which they have taken upon themselves with greater success.

The great record of the American Legion in its many fields of activity merits the support of every ex-service man and woman. No fraternal organization has a stronger bond of comradeship than that of having shared the hardships and pleasures, the drills, hikes and combats, the service in the uniform and under the flag of the country.

No eligible man can today justly stay out of the American Legion says Adjutant Bellefleur. It is his duty to enter upon this peace program of service. None should shirk the responsibility resting upon the ex-service men and woman and the American Legion. As President Coolidge stated at Omaha a year ago it is "A mark of personal merit which did not come by right of birth but by right of conquest" to belong to the American Legion. With the prospective hundreds of ex-service men and women in our city who have never been members of this organization the post hopes in the near future to report a substantial increase in its membership. Now is the time for all eligibles to come forward and join in the greatest "Fellowship of Common Service" ever offered. The annual election of officers will take place at the second meeting in December.

DROVE OUT HIS FAMILY WITH REVOLVER SHOTS

Temporarily insane, Stanley Kassura, said to have been selling liquor illegally at his home in Bradford Hill, near Plainfield, attempted to kill his wife and four children early Saturday. He fired six shots but none of his family was injured.

The Kassura family had retired for the night. Shortly after midnight, the husband and father seizing a revolver, dashed into the rooms where his wife and children were sleeping and began firing. Mrs. Kassura and her children ran screaming into the yard with Kassura after them. There he fired more shots.

A neighbor named Clark, hearing the disturbance, notified the state police and four officers rushed to the Kassura home. Kassura was placed under arrest.

In court Saturday he was sentenced to jail for 30 days for drunkenness, 30 days for breach of the peace and 30 days for selling liquor.

He will be examined by physicians today (Monday).

PUBLIC TAKING HOLD OF BIG POULTRY SHOW

This season the members of the Norwich Poultry and Pet Stock association are putting ever their third annual show with special vigor. This is largely due to the encouragement they are receiving from merchants and others who are aiming to make the exhibition a real community project. To that end, some extra fine trophies have been offered by public-spirited individuals and firms outside the association, so that while the association as a whole offers some gilt-edge premiums, both men and women of Norwich and vicinity who appreciate the value of choice birds are joining to put up some high grade prizes, in the endeavor to stimulate wide interest. Secretary Carl Ricker, 41 Tanner street has begun sending out the premium lists. In addition to the other prizes, cash specials have been offered by a long list of supporters and friends of the organization, including, John A. Monroe, F. E. Waters, Christopher Barry, Thomas F. Burns, Mr. Maurice, Mike Bendett, W. W. Waters, P. J. Desmond, C. M. Wilson, E. F. Brewster, N. A. Gibbs, Carpenter Mfg. Co., E. F. Griffith, P. F. Sweeney, H. F. & A. J. Dawley, Buckley Bros., F. E. Fitch, Fred C. Crowell, W. A. Ricker, W. D. Ricker, C. A. Ricker and J. L. Tourtellotte.

H. E. Deane, Waterford and Paul F. Ives, of Guilford have been secured as judges for the show.

ACADEMY BEATS STONINGTON HIGH 16 TO 9 IN HARD-FOUGHT BATTLE

The Academy gridsters played Stonington High off their feet in the first two periods of the game at the campus Saturday and then when they came out for the third quarter, perhaps left their offensive togs in the club house. Stonington, from the kick-off at the second half seemed to be able to gain freely through the Academy and also hold the locals scoreless throughout the remainder of the game. The final score was 16 to 9.

The Academy had its first touchdown within five minutes after the opening kickoff when Pete Labenski went over for the score from the 1 yard line after a series of line plunges, aided considerably by a 30 yard forward pass, McGlone to Labenski, and brought the ball from past midfield. Another score came a few minutes later when Labenski dived over for the score, after a Stonington fumble had been recovered by the Academy on the visitors 20 yard line. A long forward pass McGlone to Hussey, had advanced the ball to the six yard line. Williams drop-kicked the goal for the extra point after the second touchdown, having missed the try on the first one. Jim Williams completed the Academy scoring when he booted a neat 35-yard field goal in the second period. From then on Norwich threatened little to break into the scoring column, the ball being in their territory most of the time.

Stonington was presented with their first score 3 points, in the second period when Labenski was tackled behind his goal line on an attempted punt. The down-staters then went on, ever threatening to cross the last chalk mark through the third quarter. Cowan finally squeezed in for the score in the early part of the fourth quarter, on a rather questionable decision. Stonington had brought the ball from mid-field on straight line plays, reeling off 4 first downs in succession with Cowan doing most of the hammering until the Norwich 3 yard mark was reached where the locals put up a stonewall defense to halt the invaders. Once, twice, and three times the Stonington backs tore into the line but after the three downs only a scant yard had been gained and it was last down with two big yards to go for the score. Cowan was sent at the center of the line on this last effort and when the whistle had been blown, the umpire shook his head that is, that Stonington had failed to score, but when the pile had been untangled he reversed his decision and the touchdown was counted. It is understood that the goal line mark is rather irregular at the point, which probably accounted for the doubt as to whether the touchdown had been made.

Stonington continued to threaten during the dying moments of the struggle but always fell short of the coveted goal although the play was quite deep in Norwich territory during this time.

The honors for the day on the Academy team would seem to be divided between Peter Labenski and Jim Williams. Labenski, besides scoring the two touchdowns also distinguished himself at other stages of the contest by his play, both offensively and defensively. Williams ran the team in A-1 shape and his field goal in the second period was a clever piece of work. There were three of the opposition right at him when he received the pass from center but he managed to get the boot, a long, high one, away and it easily passed between the uprights.

Others who did good work during the fray for the Academy were the ends, Hussey and Greene and Capt. Ed Brewer. Brewer got off on a neat run in the 3rd quarter, when from behind his goal line he eluded several would be tacklers and dashed out 30 yards before being forced off-side.

Cowan was the best performer for the losers. He was practically the only one able to gain consistently through the local defense. Capnin, Cragan, Cella and Bryer also did good work for the Stonington team, in their game but losing fight for the victory.

The summary:

Notes

The Academy second stringers had a workout during the early part of the second half but they were ejected when Stonington began to make progress through the locals.

A small crowd was on hand to view the players in their efforts but considering the numbers, there was quite a bit of enthusiasm.

The Academy now has taken Chapman Tech, Wilby, Bulkeley and Stonington on successive Saturdays.

The Academy has won 5, lost 2 and tied one, a scoreless draw, this season, which is a very good record, the best in some few years at the local school.

Now, every fan of the section seems to be hoping that the Windham-Academy game can be arranged for the holiday. Rivalry is rather keen.

This game would also definitely decide the eastern Conn. grid championship for the season as both teams have come through their games in this vicinity with clean slates.

A simple explanation of the game Saturday would seem to be that the Academy played real football when they had to, scoring just enough to win and hold Stonington when matters became serious.

A Channel Swimming association is being formed in London to draw up a code of rules to govern future attempts to swim the English channel.

THREE EASTERN TEAMS NOW REMAIN UNDEFEATED

NEW YORK, Nov. 21.—(AP)—Two more undefeated elevens, New York university and Holy Cross, toppled from their stations at the head of the eastern colleges Saturday, leaving only Lafayette, Navy and Brown with records that show neither defeat nor tie. Lafayette, backed by the thrusts of her stellar back, "Mike" Wilson, kept up a high scoring surge to take a commanding lead in point scoring with 330.

The table showing wins and losses, points scored and opponents points, follows:

	W	L	T	PS.	OP
Lafayette	8	0	0	330	37

NUTMEGS AND TIGERS PLAY SCORELESS TIE

The Nutmegs and Greeneville Tigers battled to a scoreless draw at J. B. Martin Park gridiron on Sunday afternoon in a hard fought game. The play was very even throughout the entire four quarters with the Tigers having a shade in the first half and the Nutmegs a slight advantage in the last two quarters.

Nelson furnished the feature of the game when he pulled off the longest run of the contest, a 35 yard gallop in the second period. Clabby's defensive work also was a bright spot in the Tigers play.

C. McGrath, Carr, Blake and Carden played best for the Nutmegs.

WILLIAMS OF CONN. AGGIES SECOND HIGH SCORER IN EAST

NEW YORK, Nov. 21.—(AP)—"Mike" Wilson, Lafayette's sensational sophomore halfback, widened the breach that separates him from his high-scoring opponents among eastern colleges by carving three touchdowns from the Lehigh line and boosting his total to 120 points, Saturday. Williams of Connecticut Aggies, hitherto a "dark horse" entered three scores to run his mark to 90, four points ahead of "Lightborse" Harry Wilson of the Army.

The high point scorers:

WESTERN CONFERENCE ENDS IN TIE FOR TITLE

CHICAGO, Nov. 21.—(AP)—The moleskins go back into the mothbags for another year insofar as the western conference gridiron campaign is concerned, with Michigan and Northwestern sharing the championship honors of 1926.

The season ended with yesterday's game, with both Northwestern and Michigan undefeated in the conference schedule, but Northwestern, 18 games with formidable opponents, demonstrated its class beyond question. It held Notre Dame to the closest score of any foe Rockne's troopers faced, losing six to 0.

Northwestern, in the championship race, conquered Chicago, giving the Maroons one of the worst beatings they have received in years, walloped Purdue and Iowa, and also took a couple of falls out of Indiana in their double header.

RITOLA WINS A. A. U. CROSS COUNTRY RUN

NEW YORK, Nov. 21.—(AP)—Willie Ritola, Finnish-American distance running star, raced away with the National A. A. U. senior cross country championship for the fifth time over the six mile Van Cortlandt park course today and led the Finnish-American team to its fifth national senior title at the same time. Ritola's time, 30 minutes 7 8-5 seconds failed by over half a minute to equal the course record.

Trailing him by almost a minute was Philip Osif, a full blooded Rima Indian from Haskell institute, Kansas. Osif, regarded as a strong contender by virtue of victories in the national junior and senior six mile runs at Philadelphia recently in which he smashed both records for the event. The Indian team, with expenses paid by the N. A. A. U. for the purpose of promoting the sport among tribesmen, finished sixth among the seven teams that brought 92 runners to the scratch.

SANDOW ISSUES STATEMENT REGARDING LEWIS-STECHER

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Nov. 21.—(AP)—Billy Sandow, manager of Ed. (Strangler) Lewis, claimant of the world's heavyweight wrestling title, issued the following statement tonight regarding the meeting of the California boxing commission tomorrow to declare forfeited the $5,000 posted by Lewis to bind the match with Joe Stecher.

"I refuse to allow Lewis to go through with his match with Stecher in California under present conditions there. If the California commission will transfer the $5,000 forfeits to any other state in the Union I will agree to the match."

Sandow refused to explain what he meant by "present existing conditions there."

WINDHAM NOSES OUT MANCHESTER IN FINAL MINUTES

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Nov. 21.—Well matched and impelled by grim determination the Windham high and Manchester high elevens successfully protected their goal lines at Recreation park here Saturday afternoon until a reversal of form and a spurt of speed in the last six minutes of the game netted Windham a pair of touchdowns which gave it the edge of 12 to 0 over the visitors. Both teams were playing the grand finale of the season. Both had set out to wind up with a victory and were intense with sporting rivalry accelerated on the field by big delegations of rooters headed by bands. On one side of the field the South Manchester school band keep the cheering squad in the air and on the opposite the St. Joseph's Boy Scout band of this city offered symphonic competition. The game was one of the best attended this fall and the sidelines were colorful with banners and pennants.

At the end of the first half the game remained well balanced. In the third period Manchester became threatening and headed dangerously near the Windham goal, three times in the period. The final period got under way without results. With six minutes left to play Heller got in the way of a Manchester punt on the latter's 20 yard line. The ball rolled across the goal line followed by Heller who fell on it thus registering the first touchdown. A series of fast plays and touchdown number two was scored when Bood intercepted a Manchester forward pass and skimmed the gridiron 45 yards to the Manchester line. No goals were kicked.

With the defeat of the Silk Town players Windham has a claim to the championship of Eastern Connecticut. The team played seven games this season, winning five of the number. The two defeats came from the strong Hartford public high and Bristol high schools. The total points scored was 53 to opponents 19. At least one touchdown was scored against opponents.

On the invitation of Norwich Free Academy negotiations are under way for a post season game with the Academy in Norwich Thanksgiving day.

EDDY ELECTED CAPTAIN OF AGGIE ELEVEN

(Special to The Bulletin)

STORRS, Nov. 21.—Willard C. Eddy, '28, of Simsbury, who was unanimously elected to capain the Connecticut Aggie football eleven for 1927, is a three letter man at the state college, and one who is successfully carrying out the traditions of a family that has been writing athletic history at Storrs for several years.

Willard is the third of the three Eddy brothers who have been members of Connecticut Aggie sports teams and in his two seasons of varsity competition has displayed exceptional athletic ability in football, basketball and baseball. He plays halfback in football, forward in basketball, and pitch and the outfield in baseball.

In the football season just closed, Eddy shared with Williams the honor of being the big gun of the Connecticut offense that rolled up 190 points on eight opponents. The Simsbury boy is one of the best open field runners ever seen here, a punter who is consistent in getting both height and distance, a good dropkicker, an exceptional forward pass thrower and receiver, and in short—an ideal triple threat man. His work this season for Connecticut has been outstanding, and his election to the captaincy for next year well merited, as attested by the unanimous vote.

Eddys showing on the chalked court, while perhaps less brilliant than his feats on the gridiron, has been none the less outstanding. He was a valuable man in the Aggie's five that last winter won 11 of 14 contests, and great things are expected of him in the approaching season.

In baseball, Eddy has shown to good advantage in the pitcher's box, and it is expected that he will have to bear the brunt of the hurling duties when the Connecticut ball tossers swing into action after the basketball season. Eddy is also a reliable outfielder and consistent hitter.

YALE FOOTBALL RECEIPTS TOTAL APPROXIMATELY $800,000

NEW HAVEN, Nov. 21.—(AP)—Over $800,000 is estimated as the income to the Yale Athletic association for the football season which ended Saturday, with the Harvard game. The figure is based upon an approximation of the gate receipts as follows: Harvard game in Yale bowl $300,000; Princeton game in Palmer stadium, $225,000; Army game in bowl $250,000 and Brown game $50,000.

Major Y's will be awarded to 28 members of the Blue varsity for participation in the Princeton and Harvard games. Of these fourteen will be lost to next year's squad through graduation.

Captain Bunnell, Sturhahn, Richards, Wardsworth and Kline will receive their third letters, while Falling and Wortham both received letters two years ago but not last year. Others who will receive the coveted letter include Scott, Fishwick and Wilee, ends; Benton, Ryan, Flaherty and Quarrier, tackles; Webster, guard; Look and Harvey, centers; Holabird, Goodwine, Hoben, Brandenberg and McGunigle, halfbacks; Cox, fullback; Swiss, quarterback.

A captain for 1927 will be chosen at the annual football banquet tomorrow night. Eligible candidates include Bill Webster, right tackle for the past two years and Stewart Scott and Dwight Fishwick, ends. All other members of the first team are seniors.

ONLY THREE UNBEATEN TEAMS REMAIN AFTER SATURDAY'S GAMES

NEW YORK, Nov. 21.—(AP)—Developments in the latest skirmishing of the east's gridiron arrays have dropped two of the previously unbeaten clans, New York university and Holy Cross, from the top, witnessed the rise of the battered Bulldog of Yale over the equally bruised Crimson of Harvard and emphasized, for the third straight Saturday, the potency of the field goal as a decisive weapon.

With the final week of campaigning just ahead, chief claims to the mythical gridiron championship of the east apparently rests in the hands of Brown, the Naval academy and Lafayette, the only eleven which have been neither defeated nor tied. Only one other team, Boston college, has failed to taste defeat but a tie marks the otherwise clean slate of the Hub aggregation, which beat Gettysburg yesterday 30-0.

Of the title-contending "big three" two face stiff closing tests, Brown's "iron-men" meeting the rugged Colgate array Thanksgiving day after which the Navy brings the campaign to a climax in the service battle with the Army at Chicago. The Cadets, incidentally, have been defeated only by an intersectional foe, Notre-Dame, and would be in a position to dispute the claims of any other eastern title contender if victorious over the sailors.

Lafayette, with two of the east's greatest ball carriers in Frank Kirkleski and Mike Wilson, the latter leading the scorers of the section, closed a brilliant season with a smashing victory over Lehigh, 35 to 0, and cannot be dislodged from its high position. Herb McCracken's stalwarts haven't had such a conspicuously attacting schedule as the Navy and they barely snatched one triumph from Washington & Jefferson but these elements hardly dim the lustre of Lafayette's string of nine straight triumphs. The team has rolled up 330 points in the march to top the major elevens of the entire country in scoring.

Brown's rugged squad, although given a tussle, was far too powerful for New Hampshire, winning by 40 to 12 for the Bruins' ninth straight triumph. The Army and Navy, in their last competitive tests before going west to settle their own feud, also had trouble bowling minor opponents but put the main burden on substitutes in beating Ursinus and Loyola respectively, by scores of 31-15 and 35-14.

Going west with eight straight victories to its credit, New York university's speedy eleven was tumbled from its unbeaten heights by Nebraska, 14 to 7, on a snow-swept field. It was a field goal that turned the tide against the New Yorkers and it was by the same device that Boston university scored an unexpected victory over Holy Cross, which previously had only a tie to mar its record.

The unerring toe of Jerry Wadsworth, Yale's kicking specialist, booted the points that clinched the 7 to victory over Harvard before 78,000 in the Yale bowl. The final score was 12 to 7, with Captain Bunnell adding three more points on a 43-yard drop-kick to supply a snappy finish to the last "big three" series, already clinched by Princeton's previous victories over both the Blue and Crimson.

Maryland, the conqueror of Yale, also suffered from this recurrent field goal complex losing by 3-0 to Washington and Lee.

Carnegie Tech, by whipping West Virginia to the decisive tune of 20-0, served notice that Notre-Dame's national championship claimants may expect a battle next Saturday when Knute Rockne's Hoosiers invade Pittsburgh.

Georgetown, trouncing Fordham, 28 to 0 established a strong claim to the Catholic College title. Western Maryland, coached by Dick Harlow, former Colgate mentor, lifted itself so prominence in trimming Bucknell, 40 to 0. Syracuse, preparing for Columbia on Thanksgiving day, depended on its substitutes to pull out a 13-7 victory over Niagara.

WILLIAMS AND EDDY STAR AS AGGIES WIN EASILY

"Pop" Williams ploughed his way through the Rensselaer team on Saturday into second place in the eastern scoring standing, when he scored three touchdowns as the Connecticut Aggies won 26 to 6. Football experts, most of them being officials, who have seen Williams in action state that he is one of the best fullbacks they have seen in a number of seasons. Carrying a weight of 205 pounds Williams is one of the fastest backfield men in eastern football being able to step a hundred yards in 10 4 seconds.

Williams is of All-American calibre but in all probability will not be the choice of metropolitan sport writers as these writers do not follow the Aggies. Williams is a sophomore and has two more years with the Aggies and if he continues to show his wonderful ability he will be an All-American back before he graduates. As to whether Williams retains his second place in the scoring column depends on how Wilson of the Army makes out next Saturday against the Navy.

JEWETT CITY GRIDSTERS BEAT NOANK CRUSHERS

The Jewett City gridsters severely crushed the Noank fishermen Sunday under a score of 46-0 at Ashland park. The score gives a slight indication of the superiority of the Jewett City eleven.

Captain Smith, with two touchdowns, showed the crowd an excellent exhibition of broken field running. "Hoss" Gallup emulated Captain Williams of Aggie fame with his line plunging. Aland was on the receiving end of long passes which resulted in touchdowns. "Pop" French scored on two long dashes around end. The line played a steady game proving to be a stone wall on defense and opening up large holes on the offence. "Red" Farwell at end for the losers was their outstanding player.

ARMY POLISHING OFF PLAYS FOR THE NAVY

WEST POINT, N. Y., Nov. 21.—(AP)—The two days intervening before the Army football squad's departure Wednesday for the Navy game in Chicago next Saturday will be devoted to polishing up of the Cadets offensive. A few hours of drill against the Navy formation is planned. The team came out of the Ursinius game unscratched. It is in high spirits and in perfect physical condition.

Both Trapnell and Elias, mid-October casualties, returned yesterday for extended periods of play. Both showed the effect of the long layoff. Coach "Biff" Jones was somewhat disturbed by the frequent fumbling of the varsity backs yesterday as well as the lack of power and drive in the Army running attack.

Tigers Beat Aspinook

In Saturday's game, before a large gallery, Slater's Tigers defeated the Aspinook Greyes, Score 26 to 18, at Jewett City.

CAVANAUGH REFUSES TO SIGN B. C. CONTRACT

NEWTON, Mass., Nov. 21.—(AP)—Major Frank W. Cavanaugh, football coach at Boston college since 1919, announced tonight that he had refused to sign a new contract with the college. His present engagement expires this season. Major Cavanaugh in a formal statement said he had not been offered a contract by any other institution.

Major Cavanaugh, who this season has piloted one of the undefeated teams of the east, signed a contract last January for one year as coach at Boston college. His statement, given out at his home here tonight, follows:

"In order to settle rumors that I was leaving to coach elsewhere, the graduate athletic board of Boston college met on November 15 and decided unanimously to offer me a new contract. On November 17 this offer was made and declined.

"This statement is made because of misleading rumors as to my accepting or considerating a proposition from another university. No offer of any sort has as yet been made to me. I am making this statement with the approval of the graduate athletic board and faculty of Boston college."

Cavanaugh, an all-American end in his college days at Dartmouth, first coached at the University of Cincinnati after his graduation in 1897. He later served as coach with the Denver Athletic club, Worcester high school, Holy Cross, and Worcester academy, returning to Dartmouth as mentor in 1911. He enlisted in 1917 and went to France as a private, returning with the rank of major. Since the war he has turned out many successful teams at Boston college.

ANNUAL FRESH-SOPH GAME AT STORRS TODAY

(Special to The Bulletin)

STORRS, Nov. 21.—Although the 1926 Connecticut Aggie football season was officially closed yesterday when Coach Sumner Dole's men defeated Rensselaer, something in the nature of a post-season attraction will be offered at Storrs tomorrow afternoon, when the annual freshman-sophomore clash will be staged at Gardner Dow field.

Starting at three o'clock, the contest promises to show a brand of real football, for the first year men at Storrs will be represented by their undefeated freshman eleven, and the sophomore eleven will be recruited from the regular varsity squad, on which second-year men predominated.

BULKELEY FINISHES SEASON WITH WIN OVER SOUTHAMPTON

Bulkeley high eleven wound up what can be considered a successful season with an overwhelming victory over Southampton high school Saturday afternoon at Morgan field in New London. The 32 to 0 victory was due largely to the brilliant playing of Menghi, Allen and Marshall, backfield stars of Bulkeley.

TURNS OF SATURDAY'S FOOTBALL WHEEL

(By the Associated Press)

East

Brown, Navy and Lafayette alone unbeaten and untied among eastern title contenders. Nebraska's defeat of New York University, 14-7, and Boston university's victory over Holy Cross, 3-0, drop two teams from undefeated ranks. Yale conquers Harvard, 12-7, in the last "big three" tilt.

Middle West

Michigan, beating Minnesota by 7-6, and Northwestern conquering Iowa, 13-6, ended western conference season deadlocked for first place with five victories apiece. Notre-Dame keeps slate clean with 21-0 triumph over Drake.

South

Alabama, unbeaten, southern conference leader, idle in preparation for final title Thanksgiving day with Georgia, Centre upsets Kentucky, 7 to 0.

SPORT WORLD BRIEFS

The first woman known to have attempted the English Channel swim was Frau E. von Isacescu of Vienna, who in 1890 swam for ten hours. Ten years later she made another unsuccessful attempt.

Joseph Hornung, a baseball star of four decades ago and a member of the Boston National league pennant winning team of 1883, is now associated with a prominent banking concern in New York city.

Among the pugilists now displaying their wares in New York city is Abdel-Kedir, who hails from Morocco. Well, France and Spain can tell the cockeyed world that the Moroccans are some fighters.

Chalk up another one for the old men in sports. S. H. Fry, who has won the British amateur billiard championship now fewer than eight times, first captured the title in 1893, thirty-three years ago, and he was fifty-seven on the occasion of his latest success.

The successful Alma college eleven has a unique record this fall in that it has done nearly all of its scoring in the first half of its games.

The forward pass was first introduced at a meeting of the American Intercollegiate Football Rules committee in 1906, but it was not until several years later that it was used to any extent.

Two Japanese elevens are members of the Seattle Amateur Football league and the rivalry between the two is so bitter that the league thought it best not to schedule a game between them this season.

The town of Winchester, Mass., is particularly interested in the Yale-Harvard football game this year, as two of her sons will appear in the lineups—John R. Ordway of the Yale backfield and Arthur E French, star back on the Harvard team.

While Harvard has enjoyed remarkable football success against Yale in the last two decades the Elis still show a big edge over the Crimson in the matter of games won in their long series, which was started in 1875. In forty-four games Yale has been the victor twenty-five times. Harvard has won thirteen games and six have resulted in ties.

Tickets for the Army-Notre Dame at the Yankee stadium Saturday are at as high a premium as any games ever held in New York, not excepting Army-Navy conflicts. A sell-out was announced a week ago and speculators, pricing choice seats at as high as $25 a piece, are reaping a rich harvest. The attendance is expected to reach 70,000.

Timber used to construct the stalls for the coming national horse show in Madison Square Garden, if stretched out, end to end, would be ten miles long.

The popularity of athletics among the Finns is illustrated by the statement that Helsingfors, the Finnish capital, maintains a public running track where men and women of all classes go for daily exercise.

Now that Ty Cobb has retired from the helm it is likely that the Detroit team will no longer train at Augusta. San Antonio is understood to be under consideration as the new site in which the Tigers will cavort next spring.

Football has its inexplicable reversals in form as well as baseball. For instance, the Ohio State eleven which has made such a brilliant showing this season is virtually the same outfit which was kicked about the "Big Ten" circuit last year.

The "Big Three" football series, which appears in danger of being broken up, is older than the American game of football itself. In fact it was out of a Harvard-Yale agreement and game in 1875 and Harvard-Princeton and Harvard-Yale contests in succeeding years that the present game grew.

Germany's athletic revival has developed to such an extent that the 1936 Olympiad is sought for Berlin, General Charles H. Sherrill, a member of the International Olympic committee, has revealed. Italy also seeks the meet ten years hence.

Disregarding reports of a split with Gene Tunney, Tex Rickard is pushing forward his plans for an elimination tournament by which is to select the heavyweight champion's outstanding challenger, Harry Persson vs. Jim Maloney, Paul Berlenbach vs. Jack Sharkey, and a match between the victors to select an opponent for Jack Dempsey, is Rickard's schedule.

Last year it was the forward pass that advocates of football rule changes concentrated on. This season it is the shift, of which such teams as the Army and Notre Dame are leading exponents. Such prominent coaches as Zuppke and Yost have called for abolition of the shift play, first made famous by Minnesota years ago.

C. C. Pyle, may break into the professional hockey field, the promoter, now manager of Susanne Lenglen and Red Grange, is reported negotiating for the Toronto St. Patricks of the National Hockey league with the idea of transferring the franchise to Philadelphia. The barrier may be the price tag of $200,000 said to have been placed on the Canadian club.

WESTERLY

BODY OF JOHN PENDLETON FOUND ON POTTER HILL

(Special to The Bulletin.)

WESTERLY, R. I., Nov. 21.—The body of John Pendleton, 54, resident of Christian Hill, Hopkinton, was discovered about 11.30 a. m., Sunday, off Manson street, on Potter Hill, by William Greene, who reported to Washington County Sheriff Fred T. Mitchell in Westerly.

Sheriff Mitchell proceeded to Potter Hill where the body was found face downward on an embankment to the right of the road side at a point about 500 feet from the intersecting of the Nooseneck Hill state highway with Manson street.

Medical Examiner Edwin J. Knerr of Hope Valley was summoned by Sheriff Mitchell and when he was not immediately available Medical Examiner Michael H. Scanlon of Westerly was called, and arrived at the scene about 12.24 p. m. Examiner Knerr came a short time later and assumed charge. Examination of the body failed to show any exterior injury, although earlier in the evening it was reported that Pendleton was struck by the auto driven by George Lihon, chauffer for Dr. Henry L. Johnson. Upon orders of Examiner Knerr the body was taken to the Westerly undertaking rooms of Leo Gaffney, where at 8 o'clock Monday morning a conference will be held by Sheriff Mitchell and Examiner Knerr to decide as to whether an autopsy will be held. It was thought that death had occurred some 10 or 11 hours previous to the finding of the body. Examination of the clothing showed two bottles with contents of an intoxicating nature, the four and eight ounce bottles being filled.

Pendleton was married and has a family. He was struck by an automobile on March 13, 1926, and passed one month at the Westerly hospital, when he was treated for cuts on his head. He has two brothers, Frank and William Pendleton.

C. Palmer Chapman, master of Rhode Island state grange, arrived in Westerly, Friday evening to rest, return to his home in Avondale, R. I., from attendance at the National grange in Portland, Me. He was accompanied to the convention by his wife, Isabel C. Chapman, an officer in the National grange.

John J. Dunn, secretary of Rhode Island state board of agriculture has returned to his Westerly home from attendance at the two-day session of the second annual New England conference on agriculture, held at the Hotel Bond, in Hartford. Attorney Henry L. Burdick has also returned to his Westerly home from Hartford where he attended the session as a representative from the Providence Town Criers.

Train Master Thomas M. Rowley of the New Haven railroad returned to his Putnam home from Westerly on Saturday night, having been at the Westerly clock tower during the heavy traffic of express train specials from Boston to New Haven with football crowds. Another trainmaster, William P. Smith, returned to his New London home from Westerly on Saturday night.

Miss Mary T. Thorp has returned to her duties as a teacher at Barnard college in Providence after being the week end guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Job Thorp in Westerly.

SEVERAL INJURED WHEN AUTO OVERTURNED TWICE

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I., Nov. 21.—A Ford coach of the Bliven Auto Sales company turned over on East avenue on Saturday afternoon about 4.30 o'clock, wrecking it and injuring two of the occupants.

The auto was being driven by John Milne of 170 Main street, who was being taught to drive by Alexander B. Rogers, of 110 Main street. Rogers told Milne to see if he could stop the auto as he put his foot on the accelerator. The car shot across the road and turned over twice. Of the six men in the car John Milne was badly bruised about the body and limbs; Alexander B. Rogers bruised on the nose and leg; John M. Walker, 119 Main street, badly shaken up; John M. Walker, Jr., 119 Main street, cuts on his right cheek, cut on his chin and cut above the right eye, requiring eight stitches to close the cut. Both Walkers were taken to the Westerly hospital. Robert Campbell, 176 Main street, with a broken left collarbone, went to his home and Thomas Templeton escaped with no injuries.

Many east-bound Harvard-Yale football enthusiasts missed the east-bound Gilt Edge express from New London on Saturday afternoon and were caught by the special train service put on by the Westerly railroad management. Eight special trains were allowed up when the distant block signal was set against them as the trains passed through Westerly, when the train crews descended with oil cups to oil and search for heated bearings. A special trouble man from New London was on duty at the Westerly block tower until the departure of the Federal express and an emergency locomotive was stationed at Westerly and Kingston. The returning special trains for Boston at night passed the Westerly station at speeds ranging between 50 and 60 miles an hour. In all eight special trains made the round trip on the Shore Line to Boston and one to Providence.

Harley P. Chase post, No. 1263, Veterans of Foreign Wars, and the women's auxiliary completed on Saturday night Kalendar Kermiss, held in the state armory on Dixon street, on November 18th, 19th and 20th. The successful affair was held to augment the funds for the Pawcatuck World war memorial to be erected in the triangular plot at the junction of South and West Broad streets in Pawcatuck.

A better baby show contest and baby carriage parade was listed as the Thursday afternoon attraction, when Lewis Zanella, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Zanella, took first prize for best single bbay and the McShane twins, John and Jean, won the double perfect decision. In the evening a programme of music featured Mrs. Burt and her daughter of Providence and Miss Bessie Cross of Charlestown with Mr. and Mrs. Paul Rietzel, accompanist. Miss Almedia Cranston, a niece of Harley P. Chase, after whom the Pawcatuck post was named, rendered two vocal numbers and dancing exhibitions were presented by the Misses Lois and Dorothy Berry and Hildah Nowell.

Saturday afternoon was the time for the postponed doll carriage parade, when the first prize was awarded three and a half year old Anna Jean Shaw, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Shaw of Wequetequock, dressed as nursemaid with a live "doll," William R. Baldwin, standom team. Second prize was won by Clara L. Dodge, the four and a half year old daughter of an original Narragansett Indian. Agnes Booth took third, while Bertha LaPere and Ruth Hunter received as runners up, boxes of candy. Judges were Mrs. Bessie Cranston, Mrs. Jennie Howe and Mrs. Mary Chapman.

On Friday morning at 11 o'clock at the parsonage of the Calvary Baptist church, Miss Doris Isabel Clarke, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cleveland H. Clarke, 40 Wells street, Westerly, was united in marriage with Gerald Herbert Payne of 16 Moss street, Pawcatuck, son of the late Thomas A. Payne of Mystic. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Lewis A. Walker, pastor of the Calvary Baptist church. The bride's gown was a traveling ensemble. The bridal pair were attended by the bride's sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Howard F. Burdick of Avondale, R. I. Mr. and Mrs. Payne left Westerly on the 12 o'clock Shore Line express for Boston on a wedding tour. Mr. Payne has been employed as a moving picture operator in Norwich and is the proprietor of the Ninigret theatre at Watch Hill.

Recorded in the office of the Westerly town clerk appears the following transfer: November 20. Isaac G. Barber to Sekoub Tamer, two certain lots or parcels of land, lots Nos. 188, 190, Airview park.

This (Monday) evening in the council chamber of the Westerly town hall the Westerly town council will meet to act on petitions for changes in the present zoning ordinance, wherein it is desired to extend business district in Watch Hill and at Pleasant View beach. Also on Spruce street in Westerly and a commercial garage desired on property of Mrs. Florence Collings.

In Watch Hill the changes on Bay street have necessitated the finding of a new business district and a section located between the Sterling garage and Breen road has been sought for the purpose. At Pleasant View James Collins, proprietor of the Pleasant View house, petitions for the extension of the business section, a distance of 50 feet north of the present division line to enable him to add to his garage.

At the Westerly hospital, early Sunday morning occurred the death of Mrs. Mildred A. Rawson, wife of Joseph T. Grills, of Narragansett avenue. Mrs. Grills had been a patient at the hospital for the past 21 weeks and from the first her illness was regarded as serious, and eminent specialists from the larger cities were called in consultation. She is survived only by her husband to whom the sympathy of the community is extended.

Mildred A. Rawson Grills was born 34 years ago in Malden, Mass., the daughter of Frank D. and Adelia Rawson. When she was a small child her parents moved to Mystic, Conn., and it was in that village that she was married to Mr. Grills, Jan. 4, 1920. After marriage she came to Westerly to reside with her husband.

Palace Theater

A lion whose salary compares favorably with that of many bank presidents shares screen honors with Douglas MacLean in the comedian's latest mirthquake, Hold That Lion, now playing at the Palace theater.

Since his film debut, Numa, the lion, has earned more than $40,000 for Charles Gay, his owner and trainer.

Numa, has appeared in dozens of photoplays, and his trainer insists that the animal understands the difference between rehearsals and the times when the cameras are actually clicking, always saving his best performance for the film.

In Hold That Lion, the animal chased MacLean through miles of jungle as well as through the intricacies of a native African village with very little coaching on the part of his owner. Numa's big moment in the comedy came when he got entangled in a huge net. He presented a perfect imitation of a lion gone raving mad, but promptly quieted down at a word from his trainer.

In addition to MacLean, Walter Hiers, Constance Howard, Wade Boteler, Cyril Chadwick and George Pearce were also called upon to meet the lion professionally. Director William Beaudine expressed the consensus of opinion when he hid the lion good by.

"We have enjoyed your society," said Beaudine as he grasped the animal's outstretched paw, "but we would hate to meet you on a dark night."

Numa roared his appreciation.

Palace Theater

An elaborate and talented vaudeville program is now being arranged for the opening presentation on Thursday Thanksgiving day. Vaudeville will continue every Thursday, Friday and Saturday each week for the remainder of the season. Theater goers of Norwich can be assured of the highest and wholesome calibre of vaudeville. In addition, the usual excellent photoplays will be shown. Gigolo, with Rod La Rocque, a tremendous screen version of Edna Ferbers popular story will accompany the premier vaudeville program.

Broadway Theater

Five wonderful Keith-Albee vaudeville acts is the stage offering at the Broadway theater for the first half of this week. It is a real joyfest of merriment.

Tingling drama, throbbing with the life-blood engendered by the hardships of the snow country and fairly breathing the smash and wallop of the Alaskan elements comes to the Broadway theater today for a three day run when F. B. O.'s The Isle of Retribution, an adaptation of Edison Marshall's novel, is shown for the first time here. The premier of this production will mean something, since the picture is heralded as the most powerful melodrama of the northland filmed in many a year. And it is climaxed with the most unusual, gruelling and powerful fight ever staged, if the critics are to be believed.

Lillian Rich takes the starring role as Bess Gilbert, the courageous girl who is cast with snobbish society companions on a snow-swept Alaskan island which is ruled by the huge fists of the terrible Doomsdorf. Miss Rich gives a splendid performance, and Victor McLaglen does a remarkable piece of characterization in a role the like of which has not been written since Jack London's Sea Wolf. Robert Fraser, Mildred Harris, David Torrence, Kathleen Kirkham and Ines Gomaz are all fine. James Hogan's brilliant direction is everywhere apparent, particularly in the comedy interludes that lighten the tension of a smashing story.

An inflated rubber cap to keep a swimmer's head above the water has been invented.

Every mother realizes, after giving her children "California Fig Syrup," that this is their ideal laxative, because they love its pleasant taste and it thoroughly cleanses the tender little stomach, liver and bowels without griping.

When cross, irritable, feverish, or breath is bad, stomach sour, look at the tongue, mother! If coated, give a teaspoonful of this harmless, "fruity laxative", and in a few hours all the foul, constipated waste, sour bile and undigested food passes out of the bowels, and you have a well, playful child again. When the little system is full of cold, throat sore, has stomach-ache, diarrhoea, ind'gestion, colic—remember, a good "inside cleansing" should always be the first treatment given.

Millions of mothers keep "California Fig Syrup" handy; they know a teaspoonful today saves a sick child tomorrow. Ask your druggist for a bottle of "California Fig Syrup," which has directions for babies, children of all ages and grown-ups printed on the bottle. Beware of counterfeits sold here, so don't be fooled. Get the genuine, sold by "California Fig Syrup Company."

IN THE DAYS OF OUR FOREFATHERS

When America was young, the wise pioneer women learned to gather, in woods and fields, the remedies the Indians used. From the rafters of colonial houses hung great bunches of dried roots and herbs. From these, in times of sickness, the busy mother brewed remedies for her family.

From roots and herbs, Lydia E. Pinkham, a descendant of these sturdy pioneers, made her Vegetable Compound. For more than half a century this dependable medicine has been taken by women with "My satisfactory results.

If it has helped other women, why shouldn't it help you?

Are You Driving Too Hard?

Overstrain Often Disturbs Bodily Functions

HURRY, worry and overwork throw a heavy strain on the bodily machinery. The eliminative organs, especially the kidneys, are apt to be overtaxed and become sluggish. Retention of excess uric acid and other poisonous waste is inclined to give rise to a dull, tired feeling and, often, toxic backaches and headaches. That the kidneys are not functioning properly is sometimes shown by burning or scanty passages. More and more people are learning to assist their kidneys at such times by the use of Doan's Pills, a tested stimulant diuretic. Users everywhere endorse Doan's. Ask your neighbor!

Reddy Continues the Search

Whate'er you start you should see through;
It is the only thing to do
—Reddy Fox.

"It won't do you any good this time, Mrs. Grouse"

Reddy Fox is inclined to see things through when once he starts them. You see, curiosity, if nothing more, would keep him at it. Then again, he has pride. Reddy would hurt that pride.

So when Reddy discovered that Mrs. Grouse was not under the pile of brush where he expected to find her, he didn't give up. No, sir, he didn't give up. He looked up at Mr. Grouse and Chatterer the Red Squirrel, and drew up his lips to show all his long sharp teeth. They were not pleasant to look at. In spite of himself Chatterer shivered. Then Reddy turned and began to run in a big circle around that brush pile, keeping his nose to the ground. He was hunting for the scent of Mrs. Grouse. He hoped to find where she had left that brush pile.

But though he was very painstaking and careful, Reddy found no trace of her. He did some quick thinking. "If she had been there I would have found her scent somewhere," thought he. "It must be that she didn't come to this brush pile at all. It must be that Mr. Grouse left her somewhere and came on here alone. The thing to do is to go back and find out where they parted."

So Reddy turned back and followed his own trail back. But this time he was more careful than he had been when he was following it the other way. Always the scent of Mr. Grouse had been so strong, and Reddy had been so sure that Mrs. Grouse was with him that he hadn't watched for a trail turning off to one side. But now he went with the greatest care, and he kept sniffing off at one side, first one side and then the other side of the trail. You see, he thought in that way he might find where Mrs. Grouse had gone.

He was almost half way back to where he had found the feathers of Mrs. Grouse when he stopped abruptly. His eyes began to shine. Very carefully he ran his nose over the leaves on the ground. Then, with a look of triumph on his face, Reddy started off to one side. He had found a new trail, and it was the trail of Mrs. Grouse. He knew now that she really had tried a sharp trick, sending Mr. Grouse on while she herself went off to one side.

"It won't do you any good this time, Mrs. Grouse. It won't do you any good this time," said Reddy to himself. "You may be smart, but you are not smarter than Reddy Fox, as you will find out. It takes some one smarter than you to fool me."

Now this was sheer boasting on the part of Reddy. He had quite forgotten how many times he had tried his very best to catch Mrs. Grouse, and how each time she had fooled him. By this time Reddy was quite sure that what he had heard was true, and that Mrs Grouse really could not fly. He knew that if she could fly she would have taken to those great wings of hers before now. So now that he had found her trail again, Reddy felt as sure of her as if he already had her in his teeth. He couldn't think of any possible way in which Mrs. Grouse could get away from him.

Chatterer the Red Squirrel had been following through the trees, and so had Sammy Jay, and both were scolding and calling him bad names and making a great racket. Blacky the Crow came over to see what it was all about, and Blacky added his voice to the racket the other two were making. So that particular place in the Green Forest was a very noisy place. Reddy didn't like it. Noise is likely to draw attention, and Reddy was fearful that some one else might be drawn over there, some one whom he didn't want to meet. So he hurried in order to get Mrs. Grouse and get away from there as quickly as possible.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

WEEKLY FINANCIAL REVIEW

NEW YORK, Nov. 21—(AP)—Curious cross currents of prices ran through this week's financial and commodity markets, stock prices drifted downward while bond quotations rose to record high levels. Wheat prices reacted sharply, cotton futures held steady and raw and refined sugar were marked up to new high levels for the season. In the foreign exchange market a sensational advance in French francs contrasted with a sharp decline in sterling.

The reaction in stock prices appeared to receive its impetus from the operations of bear traders, who took advantage of the extreme lack of public participation. "Bulls" pools succeeded in marking up over a score of issues to new high levels for the year, but persistent selling of United States Steel common and General Motors eventually unsettled the general list.

The strength of bonds reflected the relative ease of money rates and the heavy demand for mortgage obligations inspired by the uncertainty regarding the future trend of stock prices. The enormous demand for the new Standard Oil company of New Jersey debentures even before the offering terms were announced, testified to the huge volume of funds still seeking investment.

The rally in French francs reflected the return home of French capital as a result of the confidence engendered by the finance measures submitted to the chamber of deputies by Premier Poincare. Shifting of capital from London to Paris also accounted for the weakness of sterling.

WILLINGTON

The funeral of Charles Miller, who died at his home November 13, was held Sunday afternoon at the Willington Hill church, conducted by Rev. E. E. Sundt. The bearers were Edwin Carpenter, Fred Beruby, Herbert Bowers, Joseph Klecak, Rudolph Votava and Lewis Votava. Burial was in the Storrs cemetery. Mr. Miller leaves a wife, sister, Mrs. Martha Marcy and two nephews, Maurice and Tildan Marcy of Southbridge, Mass.

Mrs. Becher was taken to the Hartford hospital Wednesday for an examination.

Miss Marie Lippa of Hartford was a recent guest of Misses Margereau and Ricketts.

Nelson Curtis of Norwich visited Mrs. Nellie White and Mrs. Julia Clark this week.

Charles Lyon, mail carrier, is ill with a sore throat, and Postmaster Allen Bennett is delivering the mail.

A meeting of the Ladies' Aid society was held Wednesday afternoon in charge of Mrs. Kitty Dimock.

Delegates to the state Sunday school convention held in Hartford were Miss Hazel Amidon and Miss Ella Bugbee.

Mrs. Ida Brown is visiting friends in New Haven. During her absence Mrs. Estelle Pratt is staying with her father.

George Perko has left Frank Parisek's Button mill and is working in the Rhode Island Worsted mill at Stafford Springs.

The Young People's society held a meeting Friday evening with Miss Emily Zemina leader. The topic was The Story of Ruth.

Mr. and Mrs. Existe Mondor and daughter, Leola, were guests Sunday of Mr. and Mrs. G. R. Robbins.

Clinton Eldredge, with team and help is repairing town roads

The first of the course of five entertainments given by the Man's Civic club was well attended. The entertainers stayed with Miss Jessie Bennett.

Postmaster Allen Bennett motored to Dumont, N. J., accompanied by his sister of Woodstock, where they visited their brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Wilmer Bennett.

A Boy Scout troop has been formed in Daleville.

The town members of Anne Elderkin chapter attended the meeting in Willimantic last week.

Dwight Gardner of Rockville was in Willington Hill this week.

Mrs. Mathew Soukup, formerly of Willington, who has been visiting Miss Clara Mann in South Manchester, has returned to St. petersburg, Florida. She writes the weather is ideal, and that she goes bathing in the gulf. She attended Sunday school which had 676 people present.

Mr. and Mrs. John Merrifield of Holyoke, Mass., are now making their home with their daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Lyon.

POETRY FOR THE WIDE AWAKES

The Battle of Hobkirk Hill

Camden! By fragrant breezes fanned,
On South Carolina's flowering plain,
Where mighty pines in grandeur stand,
Thy charm is in our hearts again!
The northern guests at Bobkirk Inn,
Were gathered round the firelight,
Urging the major to begin
His story of the Hobkirk fight!
Before our glowing fireplace,
As lights and shadows danced above
I watched the interested face
Of a sweet Boston girl I love!
At last the major rose to say
"Storming of Hobkirk Hill begun
At noon, one pleasant April day
In seventeen hundred eighty -one!
Nathaniel Green was in command
Of our rough Continentals, when
Lord Rawdon, on the other hand,
Led England's force of well-trained men!

Our men were charging without fear
Through flying lead and battle smoke,
When just as victory seemed near,
The Marylander's column broke!
These raw recruits had fled amain,
Trying the sheltering woods to reach,
And ere our line could form

TAFTVILLE

At the morning service of the Taftville Congregational church on Sunday, the topic of the pastor, Rev. Edwin Gordon Crowdis was The Spirit of Thanksgiving. The anthem after the offertory was Praise Him All Ye Nations. In the evening there was the regular meeting of the Young Peoples society of Christian Endeavor in the church vestry. The leader was Miss Fidelia Krodel and the subject considered was Praise God from Whom All Blessings Flow, a Thanksgiving study.

Lee Heap of South Second avenue has returned from a trip to California, making the return journey by water through the Panama canal with a stop at Havana, Cuba. Mr. Heap accompanied William C. Kendall of Norwich on a motor trip across the continent. Mr. Kendall remains in California, the guest of his son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Theodore S. Goodrum of Vallejo.

Miss Blanche Gaucher of Providence street has returned from a visit of eight weeks with relatives in Woonsocket, R. I.

Edward Barnes of Westerly, R. I., was a caller in the village Saturday.

WILL DISCUSS PURCHASE FOR GROTON STATE PARK

The proposed purchase of the Gardner property at Poquonoc bridge as a state park will be disclosed this (Monday) afternoon at a meeting of the New London chamber of commerce, according to notices sent to members by Secretary James G. Hammond.

Delegations may attend from Norwich, Willimantic, Mystic, Groton and Putnam, committees from which towns and cities have, according to Mr. Hammond expressed desire to study the matter.

FORMER HEBRON RESIDENT DIED IN AGAWAM

(Special to The Bulletin)

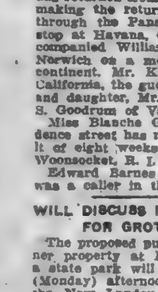
SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Nov. 24—Miss Hattie M. Allen who lived at 140 Walnut street, in Agawam, died on Wednesday in her home. She was born in Hebron, Conn., being the daughter of Elam O. and Clarissa Chapin Allen. She had lived in Agawam for 17 years. She leaves two brothers, Herbert C. Allen, with whom she lived, and Edgar O. Allen. The funeral was held on Saturday morning at 10.30 o'clock, Rev. Neil McPherson, officiating. The body was taken to Vernon Center, Conn., for burial in Elmwood cemetery.

Visitors to the beaches during Saturday and Sunday saw some of the finest surf of the season. Along the seawall at Neptune park the waves were as high as they might be at Block Island.

His despair turned to joy

When painful skin trouble is healed after resisting many treatments

East Haven, Conn., March 17:—"I work at Electro Plating and have what is known as 'Platers' trouble.' Every Plater gets it more or less, but I am unfortunate enough to get it all over my body from my head to my feet. My skin just opened up into a million and one deep cuts, from which ran a nasty watery fluid. I suffered tortures even after many different treatments. I was very much discouraged for some time and had about given up all hope of ever being healed when I tried your Resinol Soap and Ointment. I immediately began to get better and today my face and the tender parts of my body are entirely healed without even a scar. I'll boost Resinol every chance I get and I wish everybody suffering from skin trouble, especially that caused by Electro Plating, would give it a fair trial." (Signed) Samuel J. Dykes, 303 Laurel St.



Resinol Soap and Ointment are sold by all druggists. For free trial, write to Dept. 36-R, Resinol, Baltimore, Md.

MOTOR DEPARTMENT DECLINES TO IDENTIFY "SHEIKS" BY CAR NUMBERS

Attempts to identify "literally hundreds of sheiks and sheikesses" by their motor vehicle registration numbers are not countenanced by the state motor vehicle department, it is indicated by the November bulletin of that department just out.

To aid police officers and others having legitimate need of the information, the department maintains a 24 hour identification service, which helps in the recovery of stolen automobiles and in the apprehension of "hit-and-run" drivers. While any police authority can call up, day or night, and find out while he holds the wire who has any particular number and the identification of the car that should correspond to that number, the bulletin points out that "this service would be abused if the state offices did not protect themselves against attempts to identify registrants for trivial or improper reasons. For that reason, the department does not answer inquiries of this nature "unless a reasonable purpose is stated or the inquirer known."

The bulletin is devoted to a discussion of the limitations of direct discipline of motor vehicle registrants. It is held that one effective way to wipe the drunken man, the hit-and-run driver and the criminally reckless individual off the road, is to take his car away from him, in effect, as well as his operator's license. This, it is explained, can be done by revoking his motor vehicle registration when the nature of the offense warrants it, thus forcing the offender to dispose of his car.

"Inasmuch as registration is a necessity before one may operate a motor vehicle on streets and highways," says the publication it can be safely concluded that refusal to issue and suspension or revocation of registrations are potent state weapons for discipline. It has hardly been used at all as yet in any of its severe applications. But there is little doubt that the time to begin to work with it has now fully arrived."

It is proposed by the department that the offenses of operating while intoxicated, evading responsibility and reckless driving, "in the sense of negligence so great as to amount to an utter disregard of the safety of the public," be punished "not only by penalty but also by making them impossible of recurrence." In cases where the offending operator is also the owner of the car involved, the bulletin says, "it ought to be made possible for an administrator to take his registration as well as his operator's license, as is now allowed, and the vehicle should not again be registered except in another name after guarantees." It is doubted whether any motor vehicle administrator has thus far been given the power to pursue such a policy. Whether or not it might prevent "joyriding, roadhousing and evasion remains to be seen," the department says, "but certainly such power sternly exercised would deter the devotes to some extent."

The bulletin holds, moreover that if a person having a registration steals a car, takes a car without permission, uses an unfit car upon the highway such as one with inefficient brakes or does not comply with the laws relating to equipment, then he surely has demonstrated that he is unfit to have a registration and ought to lose it either permanently or temporarily, in the discretion of the administrator.

The evolution of the registration law is traced in the bulletin and its anti-theft and taking features discussed. The efficacy of state titling laws in detecting thefts is questioned in the light of the experience of states which have such laws. Instead, the Connecticut department would prefer to have enough police officers provided to insure a police inspection of every car originally presented for registration in this state.

ARCTIC OWL KILLED HERE WITH WELL-AIMED ROCK

An Arctic owl has been killed in Norwich. Not with a gun but with a common rock.

Leslie Conklin, of Baltic, employed at the George Geer farm, Plain Hill has the honor of bringing down this unusual game. The great bird has a wing spread of five feet, stands 23 inches high and weighs 5 pounds.

During Friday Mr. Conklin was amazed to see the great bird, which has been sought by Windham county sportsmen of late, evidently prospecting for a meal of chickens on the farm. His attention was first directed to the bird by the commotion made by a flock of crows which evidently had sighted the gigantic marauder and scented trouble.

There was no time to do anything except seize the weapon nearest at hand and Conklin grabbed a good sized rock and started after the departing bird. Over all sorts of pasture and roadway and stubble he chased, for a mile and a half, finally aiming at the big snowy game and hitting it in the head.

The taxidermist to whom he took the prize to be mounted at first said that its skull bone had been broken; but this appears unharmed. It was evident that the owl had been lured south by hunger, for there was a strong scent of skunk about him, indicating that he was so voracious he had not been particular as to what food had come in his way.

Mr. Conklin was at once offered a big price for the bird, but refused to sell. When it is mounted, it is probable that he will exhibit it in some Norwich display window.

The plumage is wonderfully handsome, white, with faint gray bars marking the back. Bill and legs are beautiful with the softest down.

A few days ago a similar owl was killed in South Glastonbury and there is a possibility that this may be its mate. Big and majestic as the game appears, this species of owl feeds on chickens and small game—and accordingly will not disdain the odoriferous skunk at a pinch.

GOVERNOR'S PROCLAMATION READ AT ST. PATRICK'S

Yesterday was the last Sunday of the ecclesiastical year. The coming Sunday begins Advent, the period of preparation for the advent of Christ at Christmas. In the first of the four masses at St. Patrick's church, the rector, Rt. Rev. Msgr. M. H. May preached from the day's gospel, for the last Sunday after Pentecost, Matthew 24. 15-26, the warning of the last judgment. He chose for his text, "As lightning cometh out of the east and appeareth even into the west," as a figure of the suddenness with which death may come to any of us, and be followed by the individual judgment. He developed the thought that it is not an unexpected death which is to be feared, but not being prepared to meet one's God. "It is appointed for every man to die—and after death the judgment." The preacher offered the consoling hope that it frail and faulty men do the best they can in this life, an all-loving Father will supplement their efforts so that they need have no fear of meeting suddenly either the death which comes with the unexpectedness of the lightning, or that judgment which must inevitably follow.

The great number receiving holy communion from Monsignor May and his assistant, Rev. Myles P. Galvin, following confession on the previous day, was preceded to the altar by the Rosary society. It was announced that the coming Sunday will be communion Sunday for all the men of the parish, led by the Holy Name society.

In announcing a mass of thanksgiving at 7 o'clock Thursday, Monsignor May read the proclamation of Governor Trumbull, commenting on the beauty of both its sentiment and phraseology. Thanksgiving to God is no new thing in the Roman Catholic church, as the pages of the missal on its altars prove. This custom, which has been copied by New Englanders, is a sanctified custom—as the proclamation framed by Governor Trumbull and signed by him and his secretary of state, Francis A. Pallotti and the executive secretary, Edward L. Kelly has referred to the day, it is a "heart-moving, home-loving custom" to be fostered in churches, homes and schools. The rector of St. Patrick's, in addressing his great congregation, expressed the hope that all who possibly could will attend the thanksgiving mass at 7 Thursday morning, to give God the tribute of gratitude for the favors and blessings bestowed on them as individuals and on our beloved country.

PYTHIAN BOOSTERS HELD JEWETT CITY MEETING

About 100 Pythian men and women from this city, Salem, Mystic, Westerly, New London and Jewett City attended the meeting of the Knights of Pythias Boosters club when it was held in the Jewett City town hall last week.

The Boosters were guests of Undaunted lodge, No. 34, of Jewett City, which accorded the visitors a very cordial reception. About a score of Pythian members of Wauregan lodge, No. 6, and Clover temple, No. 9, Pythian sisters, made up the Norwich delegation, contributing materially to the enthusiastic spirit of the gathering. The proceedings were opened by Chancellor Commander Merton Bugby of Undaunted lodge who, following a few brief words of welcome turned over the meeting to Rudolph Henschel, grand deputy of the district. Mr. Henschel extended cordial greetings to the members and gave a lucid exposition of Pythian precepts. He then gave the chair to C. J. Clendenen of Mystic, president of the Boosters club. Mr. Clendenen in taking the chair, made a spirited address, setting forth the brotherly objects and aims of the newly formed club, especially stressing its mission of bringing harmony, good will and co-operation among the Pythian lodges of the New England domain. He also pleaded for the support and maintenance of the Connecticut farm home recently purchased for a Pythian home to the members of the domain. Mr. Clendenen urged that all members in the domain should enlist in making the home a reality by purchasing at least one share of stock in the enterprise.

The most important business of the meeting was the unanimous adoption of the by-laws submitted by the by-law committee. The question of forming a Pythian Sisters temple in Jewett City occupied the interest of the gathering. By a unanimous vote, Past Most Excellent Chief Mrs. Jeffery, of Goff temple, No. 1, of New London, was empowered to appoint a committee to help carry out the work. In accepting the office Mrs. Jeffery gave an inspiring address about the functions of Pythian sisters as auxiliaries to the Pythian lodges. A dozen new names were enrolled upon the roster of the Boosters club, all paying a year's dues in advance. To the good of the order, Max Hanover was called upon for a few remarks and he spoke about the influence of the Pythian teaching of harmonious co-operation among the members of the society. At the close of the meeting the president declared a social hour and made Max Hanover toastmaster. Miss Charlotte Fowler, secretary of the Boosters club, rendered several pleasant vocal selections. Abner Schwartz, Solomon Wecksler, Alex Pasnik and Jacob Wecksler were called upon to tell amusing stories and they very ably entertained, the gathering with humorous remarks. At the conclusion of the social hour the Pythian sisters of Norwich in co-operation with the Jewett City ladies served delicious refreshments. As a friendly gathering and an enjoyable evening the event was a signal success. Those present pledged to attend the Knights of Pythias' dance to be held at Mystic for the benefit of a worthy brother. It was also arranged that on the evening of the dance the time and place for the next Booster meeting will be decided upon.

FIVE UNDER ARREST FOR BREAK IN LEDYARD

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Nov. 21.—Charged with larceny and breaking and entering, Clarence White, 28, railroad employe, his wife, Martha L. White, 28, of 11 Front street, and Willis Clarke, 20; Walter Genest, 21, and James Mather, 16, all of 150 Howard street, were arrested Saturday morning by state police from Groton barracks and Sergeant John Cavanaugh, New London police department. The quintette were later released upon furnishing respective sureties on their bonds for presentation in Ledyard.

Several weeks ago the cottage of William Allyn of Ledyard was broken into during the absence of Allyn. He discovered the break upon his return and as considerable plunder, including two revolvers, a shot gun, jewelry, linen and household furnishings had been stolen, Allyn made complaint to the state officers. Sergeant Clifford Gorgas assigned Officers Arthur Whitmarsh, Henry Albright and William Webber to the case and after a long investigation suspicion pointed to White and his wife and Clark, Genest and Mathew as the thieves. Saturday night the officers decided to round up the gang and this they did, but not until after 3 o'clock and following the officers lying in wait for the alleged crooks several hours. A major portion of the loot obtained by the gang was recovered and taken to the state police barracks. Additional plunder is understood to be stored in Willimantic and it is predicted that it will be recovered within a day or two.

PART-TIME SCHEDULES IN TEXTILES IN OCTOBER

According to the labor department's industrial employment survey for October, just made public, textile mills in Norwich continued on part time schedules, several averaging four days a week, affecting about 769 employes. The released workers, however, are gradually being absorbed in other active industries. Building active, with resident craftsmen well employed. Farm labor situation reported good.

Other reports in this section were given as follows:

Willimantic—Continued improvement in the thread industry was noted during October, these plants now operating on practically normal schedules. The textile mills continued running on part time, but in some cases the working quotas were increased, thus reducing number of unemployment workers. No large amount of building is under way at the present time.

New London—All plants are operating full time and there is very little unemployment evident. Building continued brisk, employing all resident artisans. Marine activities provide employment for a large number of laborers and stevedores.

Generally satisfactory employment conditions throughout New England are reported. The report by states follows:

Connecticut—Industrial employment conditions throughout the state are generally satisfactory. The major industries are all operating and a shortage of skilled artisans in the metal working trades exists in certain sections. Many of these plants are working overtime. Improvements in the thread industry was noted. Seasonal slackening in certain branches of the hat industry was reported from one center. The rolling mills continued on overtime schedules. Building projects under construction throughout the state furnish employment for several hundred artisans, with the supply in most communities ample for the demand. A decreased demand for farm help was noted during the month.

Improvement in Massachusetts

Massachusetts—Continued improvement in the major industries was reported from all sections during October. The rubber shoe factories are operating at capacity. In the textile centers many of the mills have resumed full time schedules and others that have been closed for some time have reopened. The number of released textile workers was decreased during the month. The shoe industry is operating at a high level in practically all shoe centers. The jewelry plants are running with night shifts engaged and a shortage of experienced workers exists. The metal working trades continued at capacity production, with a shortage of skilled artisans reported in some of the larger cities. Building throughout the state continued at a high peak and affords employment for thousands of men.

Rhode Island—Reports from all sections of the state indicated excellent industrial conditions, excepting one locality which is a summer resort. Increased activity in the jewelry industry absorbed all of the released workers in this line. Increased employment in the textile industry was reported, with little surplus of this class of labor apparent. Building activities throughout the state afford work for a large number of men, with the supply of craftsmen in most cities ample for the demand.

Maine—Although part time operations continued in the textile, shoe and iron industries during October in some sections of the state, reports from other parts showed increased employment in these lines. Overtime schedules obtain in the bleachery and dye, windlass and textile industries in certain centers. Increased activity in building was reported, one city reporting a shortage of experienced carpenters. Farm help is plentiful.

Working Overtime

New Hampshire—Industrial employment conditions throughout the state are generally satisfactory. Reports from many cities indicated that the local industries were operating on full time schedules. Continued improvement in the shoe and textile industries was noted in certain sections. The cigar industry continued at a high level. The box industry is operating to capacity. Overtime schedules obtain in the printing and wire cable plants. Building projects under construction afford employment for several hundred men, with the local supply of craftsmen in all localities adequate for the demand. A plentiful supply of farm labor was reported from all sections.

Vermont — Industrial employment conditions throughout the state are generally satisfactory. Practically all plants are running at capacity. In those centers where there is a surplus of labor the number of unemployed workers was materially reduced during October. The granite industry is operating at a high level. Increased employment in building activity was reported during the month, with a plentiful supply of artisans in every city. The demand for farm labor decreased.

NORWICH STATE INEBRIATE FARM GOAL OF ELDERLY NEW LONDON MAN

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Nov. 21.—A pathetic case came before the police court Saturday when a man long past middle life was charged with being an inebriate. His wife, a refined woman who gave every indication that she had seen better and happier days, was his accuser, reluctantly, too. She said he had been inclined to drink for ten years, but that of late his conduct had become unbearable. Her persuasion was unavailable. The husband came home intoxicated and his condition was such that he lay helpless on the floor. He was degenerating into a condition that left no other course to be followed than his restraint. The man pleaded not guilty, but he then went on to convict himself by what he said. He was committed to the Norwich state farm for inebriates in the hope that he will be cured of his weakness.

BOOTLEGGER AGAIN CAUGHT, HAS PLENTY TO PAY FINE

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Nov. 21.—Peter Mross appears to be one of the fellows who will take a chance, and to date he has lost out so much that he has spent several hundred dollars, yes, more than a couple of thousand perhaps, by his temerity. Saturday he was fined $150 for selling booze, a couple of drinks only, for which he perhaps got half a dollar. A special constable went into Mross' place in North Bank street and called for a drink. He got what he asked for and Mross got the pay for it. Then the constable asked for another and he got that, too. Police Sergeant Samuel Hick and Patrolman George Perkins stood outside and saw the transaction and then they scooped Mr. Mross and lodged a complaint against him. He appeared in court with an attorney, who demurred to the complaint and the fine followed.

Mross has been before both the common pleas court and the superior court for selling liquor and has been fined and imprisoned by both tribunals. Now Mross is free to have more experience, if he desires it.

Wasily Slapica is to come to court this week for selling liquor at his place in North Bank street. He is accused by Sergeant Hick and Policeman Perkins who witnessed the sale of liquor by Slapica. The accused has before been convicted of selling, the police say.

LEON REFUSES TO TELL IF WOMAN STABBED HIM

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Nov. 21.—The police are seeking the whereabouts of Sally Herbert, colored, who is wanted to explain what she knows as to the murderous assault upon Anothraus Leon, colored, of 25 Douglass street. Leon was found on Douglass street Saturday night with a gaping wound in his neck which, it is believed, was inflicted by the Herbert woman with a knife. Leon is now at the Lawrence-Memorial hospital, where his condition is said not to be dangerous. The Herbert woman, who has a long police record, was liberated only Saturday from the county jail where she had concluded a sentence of 60 days. Leon at the hospital refused to state who attacked him and would have absolutely nothing to say as to whether the Herbert woman was his assailant, although the police have been informed by a negro that the Herbert woman wielded the knife that put Leon in the hospital. The Herbert woman has kept her whereabouts a secret since the assault.

The police received notification that a man was bleeding from a neck wound on Douglass street and officers sent there found Leon. He was at once rushed to the hospital, but in spite of all efforts to obtain from Leon who inflicted the wound, he steadfastly refused to answer.

THIS HOLDUP "JOKE" CUTS NO ICE WITH THE POLICE

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Nov. 21.—William Emery, 17, colored, of 41 Foote street, New Haven, and Eddie Bruce, 17, colored, of 32 Webster street, also New Haven, were arrested Saturday night charged with attempted robbery. Both are being held prisoners at police headquarters and will be in the police court Monday morning. Emery and Bruce were in the vicinity of Hempstead and Home streets about 10 o'clock when they intercepted James Connell, 54 Howard street and Stanley Harris, 26 Franklin street, grocery store employes, who were on their way to make a delivery of groceries. The colored youths demanded of Connell and Harris the money of the latter and after being satisfied that neither Connell nor Harris was possessed of funds, the clerks were allowed to continue to their destination. The clerks who were on their way to a Home street residence when stopped by Emery and Bruce, went to the home of Mrs. Edward Prevost, 30 Home street to whom they related their experience. Mrs. Prevost communicated with the police and Sergeant Samuel Hick and Patrolman Clarence Martin were assigned to investigate. The officers made a search of where the attempted robbery had occurred, but failed to locate the hold-up men. The officers, however, obtained a good description of Emery and Bruce. At 11:30 o'clock Emery and Bruce went to the police station seeking a night's lodging and as they appeared at the desk Acting Lieutenant James Caffney recognized in the applicants for shelter the probable thieves, for they answered the descriptions furnished by the store clerks. Sergeant Hick was about to go off duty and upon questioning Emery and Bruce they admitted that they held up the clerks, but stated that they were not sincere in an attempt at robbery, but were "only fooling."

John C. Henricks of Norwich was in this city Friday night and was operating an automobile. Like many others, he did not realize the speed he was hitting as he drove along the streets and passed intersecting highways at a clip that astonished the officer who ordered him to court. Judge Prince considered his case from every angle and then suspended judgment in the hope that the experience would be a lesson learned by Henricks.

Two young men who were in a business truck were thought to be under the influence of liquor. They were taking chances of being prosecuted for operating an automobile after they had been drinking, but they escaped that. One of them was fined $5, a penalty that was hard for him to pay.

The funeral of Alice K., wife of Frederick Bindloss, was held Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock at 46 Shapley street, the services being conducted by Rev. J. Romeyn Danforth, pastor of the First Church of Christ. Burial was in Jordan cemetery.

James O'Donnell of 340 Ocean avenue; Mrs. Edwin Wetmore, Essex and David Baum, Waterford, patients at Lawrence-Memorial Associated hospital, were discharged Saturday.

Jacob Farnapol has sold a house and lot on Brewer street to Mattie Bell.

John K. Foran, 39 Fairs Harbour place, telephoned to the police station at 9:30 o'clock this morning, that he had reason to believe prowlers were in his yard. Sergeant Patrick Murphy and Patrolman Clarence Wells were sent there, but a search by the officers failed to locate the supposed prowlers.

William T. Curry, grand juror at Lebanon, reported to the New London police this morning that a Case automobile was stolen at Lebanon Saturday night. The auto carried Connecticut registration, N-1247.

Isaac Merran, proprietor of a meat market, 36 Truman street, made complaint to the police this morning that his hennery in the rear of his market had been entered during the night and that three chickens and a goose had been stolen. Sergeant John Cavanaugh was assigned to the complaint and two hours later arrested Joseph Alfiero, 44 Connecticut avenue, married, charged with the theft. After an hour of questioning Alfiero admitted having stole the poultry, stating that he went to the hennery early this morning, admitting having seized the chickens and goose and to having taken them to his home. Alfiero is employed by Merran and declared that he decided to steal the poultry because he was unable to provide proper support for his wife and six children and that he believed that it would be an easy matter for him to commit the theft without being detected. Alfiero had not killed the chickens or goose, but had placed them in a roost in the yard of his home. When Merran was informed that Alfiero was the thief and the reason that Alfiero committed the theft, he withdrew the complaint against his employe.

William West of Montville, was found helplessly drunk on State street near the Union Bank and Trust company this morning. West was injured as a result of his having fallen on the sidewalk. He was arrested by Patrolman William Riordan and taken to Lawrence hospital, where several stitches were taken in his nose to close a gaping wound.

City Manager William A. Holt Saturday ordered a change in the parking ordinance on Huntington street, between Church and Federal streets. Heretofore automobiles have been allowed to park alongside the curb on the south side of that thoroughfare, but the change now permits autos to park at right angles with the curb. Because of the width of the street, twice as many autos than before can now be accommodated there.

Miss Barbara F. Allen, 12 Huntington place, Norwich, was in New London Saturday and violated the parking ordinance in force on Meridian street. She was ordered into court by Traffic Officer Clyde Murphy, but Miss Allen will escape that formality, for she was allowed to go with a caution to heed the parking laws in the future.

Arthur Perry of Waterford, was arrested by Traffic Officer William Corcoran Saturday charged on two counts of violation of the automobile laws. He was charged with failing to obey a signal and for driving his automobile which is equipped with defective brakes. Perry's father qualified as surety on his son's bond of $50 for the presentation of the young man in court Monday morning.

Another large number of cases will be given a hearing in the police court Monday morning for when Judge Victor Prince takes the bench he will have an array of over a score of law violators to pass judgment on. The offenses alleged are breach of the peace, intoxication, violation of the motor vehicle law and attempted theft.

A young man of Polish nationality went to the police station this afternoon seeking to impart information he claimed to possess relative to the sale of liquor in New London. As the fellow had been drinking, Desk Sergeant William Babcock ordered the would-be informant locked up and tomorrow if he desires to become a squealer he will be given that opportunity.

BUSHNELL PLACE WOMAN CALLED RECKLESS DRIVER

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Nov. 21.—Margaret Schaffhauser, 6 Bushnell place, Norwich, was arrested this afternoon by Patrolman Clarence Martin, charged with reckless driving. Miss Schaffhauser was arrested upon complaint of Frederick A. Meek, 27 Gorton street.

A fire broke out at 2:45 o'clock this afternoon in the house, rear 579 Bank street, owned by John Turello. A still alarm was sent to fire headquarters and Acting Chief Thomas Shipman and Niagara Engine company and Allen Hook and Ladder company responded. The fire was located in a chimney where an accumulation of soot made fodder for the flames. A quantity of chemicals quickly subdued the fire and without damage of consequence.

The funeral of Albert W. Brickley was held this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at his home, 887 Bank street and was attended by a throng of mourners, including a large representation of railroad employes. The services were conducted by Rev. Philip M. Kerridge, rector of St. James' Episcopal church and the bearers were members of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers. Burial was in Jordan cemetery.

Thomas Patenaude, who escaped from the Massachusetts State hospital at Harding, Mass., and who was arrested in this city several days ago, was returned to the hospital this afternoon. Clayton Squires, field deputy of the department of state agencies, came to New London and took charge of Patenaude.

Milk bottle thieves are operating again. This morning Arthur S. Graham, 18 Mercer street, a conductor in the employ of the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad, made complaint to the police that a bottle of milk is being stolen almost daily from the entrance of his home.

Patrolman Frank Philopena in making his rounds on Douglass street at 2:15 o'clock this morning, came upon Matthew Ekonenen, 448 Thames street, Groton, lying unconscious across the sidewalk and bleeding from lacerations of the head, which he sustained in falling while intoxicated. He was taken to the police station, where the lacerations proved to be of such a nature as to require medical treatment. He was taken to Lawrence hospital where several stitches were necessary to close the wounds. Ekonenen was not in condition to warrant his discharge today, but as soon as he is able to be dismissed he will be arrested and presented in the police court.

NEW COMMANDER FOR COAST ARTILLERY DISTRICT

Brig.-Gen. William P. Jackson, U. S. A., has just arrived at Boston on the steamer Howard from Norfolk, Va., to begin his duties as commanding officer of the First coast artillery district of New England. He was greeted by Col. Frank Harris and Major Charles A. French, adjutant of the district. He is a medal of honor man.

General Jackson went immediately to his offices at the army base, in Boston. He is a native of Missouri and was graduated from the United States Military academy in 1891. He saw extensive service in the Philippines when he had command of troops engaged in the movement against the Moros.

The forts at Fishers Island and Plum Island are under his jurisdiction.

GUARD HAS BEEN ORDERED FOR FALL-DOHENY JURY

Jurymen Are to Remain in the Custody of Deputy Marshals Except When Actually in the Court—Defense Lawyers Protested That Justice Hooling's Approval of the Motion by Government's Counsel Would Cast the Imputation That Efforts Might Be Made to Reach Some of the Jurors During the Trial.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23—(AP)—A strict guard over the jury empanelled today for the trial of the first of the criminal cases growing out of the senate's celebrated oil investigation was ordered by Justice Adolphus Hoehling in the District of Columbia supreme court.

A motion that the jury remain in the custody of deputy marshals, except when actually in the court, was made by government counsel and was vigorously resisted by counsel for Albert B. Fall, former interior secretary, and Edward L. Doheny, multi-millionaire oil man, of Los Angeles, who are charged with conspiracy in connection with the leasing of the Elk Hills naval oil reserves in California.

Lawyers for the defendants called attention that this was an unusual procedure and asserted that the government's motion was a reflection on themselves as well as their clients, as it carried an imputation that efforts might be made to reach some of the jurors during the trial.

Only a little more than three hours was required to select the 12 men who will sit during the weeks the long-delayed case is expected to continue. Twenty-seven veniremen were examined in all, and in the course of their questioning, Frank J. Hogan, counsel for Edward B. Doheny, inquired whether members of their families had been approached for information as to the political and religious affiliations of the veniremen. In several cases an affirmative answer was given.

The jury selected is one of the youngest empanelled in such an important case here in years, the oldest member being 43; the youngest 33, and the average age of the twelve 38. Its personnel follows:

Henry J. Briggs, architect; Henry D. Byers, Jr., express driver; Clinton Carver, machinist; George B. Cobb, railway clerk; Winfield Martindill, clerk; Alphonso C. Parker, magazine dealer; Chester F. Parker, salesman; Vernon S. Snow, commercial artist; Stephen Vermillion, clerk; Herbert H. Vila, salesman; Christian Vogel, restaurant steward; William R. Farmer, electrician.

Questions propounded to the veniremen by counsel for the government were only of the usual character, but Mr. Hogan laid stress in his interrogations as to whether any of the men had read "Beverly," a novel purporting to deal with the oil and other scandals at Washington in recent years, or had heard the radio speech made by Senator Walsh, democrat, Montana, prosecutor of the senate oil inquiry, at the time the criminal charges were being considered by a grand jury two years ago. None had read the book or could recall hearing the radio speech.

Trial of the case will get under way in earnest tomorrow and the present estimate is that it will run until after the Christmas holidays. Court will sit five days a week and six hours a day.

Owen J. Roberts, of special government oil counsel, probably will make the opening statement for the government with Mr. Hogan making the reply for the defense.

NORTHERN ITALY SWEPT BY TORRENTIAL RAINSTORMS

ROME, Nov. 23—(AP)—Northern Italy, from the Alps to the Roman countryside, has been swept by torrential rainstorms resulting in serious floods and forcing hundreds of families to flee for shelter.

A tidal wave along the Italian Riviera wrecked bathing establishments, seriously damaged many factories and private villas and rendered impassible the roads along Italy's famous seaside resort.

Reports from all parts of Tuesday say that the situation is growing worse there and that assistance is urgently needed. No loss of life had been reported tonight.

The foothills of the Alps, the Ligurian Riveria and Tuscany have suffered most from the storm. The Po, Arno, Ombrone, the Bisensio and various other rivers and scores of streams were overflowing their banks tonight, while thousands of relief workers were struggling against the inundations and providing shelter and food for thousands made homeless. Scores of towns in Luguria and Piedmont were without light, while railway service was interrupted west of Genoa. The international line between Milan and Domo D'Ossola was rerouted through Novara and is operating on a most reduced schedule.

A dyke holding back the river Po at Mezzanino was smashed by the rush of waters and the population fled in panic. The waters spread over the countryside. Most of the town of Prato was under water.

Large sections of the cities of Pavia and pistoje were flooded. Reports from Garda say that the northern lakes are threatening to overflow their banks and that all boat services have been suspended.

$1,000,000 SUIT FOR ALLEGED ALIENATION OF AFFECTIONS

NEW YORK, Nov. 23—(AP)—Charles Burnham Squier, financier and clubman, whose former wife, Olive Mae Squier, divorced him in Paris and married Horace Raymond Paige, filed suit in the supreme court today against Paige for $1,000,000 alleging alienation of the affections of his former wife.

The complaint charges that between December, 1924, and May, 1925, Paige, then married and living with his wife and two daughters, made promises of gifts and money to Mrs. Squier and "enticed her to desert her home," taking with her the Squier's daughter, Patricia Elinor, 10 years old.

Squier further complains that Paige told the then Mrs. Squier that he would provide a lawyer and aid in the prosecution of an action for divorce. By witnesses and representatives, it is charged, Paige then said he would induce Squier not to defend the suit and that Mrs. Squier, in the action, would get alimony and counsel fees of a million dollars.

The Squiers were married in 1913 in St. Louis, and lived together until May, 1925. The decree of divorce in Paris was granted in April last.

FUNERAL OF FORMER JUSTICE JOSEPH M'KENNA

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23—(AP)—Former Justice Joseph McKenna of the United States supreme court, was buried in Mount Olivet cemetery here today after funeral services at the McKenna home which were attended by President and Mrs. Coolidge, Chief Justice Taft, and other members of the court.

The services were conducted by the Rev. Edward Buckey of St. Mathew's Roman Catholic church. Justices of the supreme court were honorary pall bearers. Preceding the funeral a requiem high mass was celebrated at the church.

FREIGHT STEAMER AGROUND IN THE CAPE COD CANAL

SAGAMORE, Mass., Nov. 23—(AP)—The freight steamer Gaston, Captain Rupert Wry, bound from New York to Boston with a cargo of chemicals, went aground tonight in the Cape Cod canal shortly after passing through the Sagamore drawbridge.

The Sandwich Coast Guard crew and the crew of the Gaston failed in a effort to float the vessel. Another attempt was to be made at high tide at 1:36 o'clock in the morning.

TO ASK GREATER NUMBER FOR STATE POLICE FORCE

HARTFORD, Nov. 23—(AP)—An increase in the number of men in the state police force will be asked at the 1927 session of the general assembly, Superintendent Robert T. Hurley said today, although the number to be asked has not yet been definitely determined. The present force, he said in commenting on the regular fall inspection of the barracks throughout the state, is as near 100 per cent efficient as is possible with the present authorized strength. Barracks, men and equipment at Hartford, Groton, Danielson, Centerbrook, Ridgefield, Canaan, Stafford Springs and Westport, were visited last week by the superintendent and Commissioner Ernest L. Isbell of New Haven. The other members of the commission, Motor Vehicle Commissioner Robbins B. Stoeckel, who has been ill, and Comptroller Frederick M. Salmon, who is out of the state, did not make the inspection trips.

Fifty men was the authorized strength of the state police force when it was reorganized in 1921. Thirty additional men were authorized by the 1923 legislature and ten more by the 1925 session, giving the force an authorized strength at present of ninety. Eleven of these men, however, have officer's ratings, so the force actually consists of 79 men, who are used on general work, each of whom has a two weeks vacation each year.

ON TRIAL FOR SMUGGLING ALIENS INTO UNITED STATES

NEWPORT, Vt., Nov. 23—(AP)—Two residents of Montreal who are charged with smuggling aliens into the United States in connection with the activities of an international ring, were arraigned before U. S. Commissioner W. C. Cleary here today and held in $1,000 each for the next sitting of the U. S. district court. They are John Ahab and John Sada, both captured near Rutland last Wednesday by customs inspectors. Six others, said to be aliens, escaped.

Three aliens who are detained here by the immigration authorities were ordered held in $500 bail as witnesses. One is a native of Galicia and the other two are Ukrainians. Tonight none of the five men had furnished bail.

At the time Ahab and Sada were captured Chief Immigration Inspector James Ford said as many as 1,000 aliens had been smuggled across the Vermont border this summer by agents of a Montreal ring. He said Ahab was an employe of a Montreal company, the Quebec Land and Improvement company, which advertised the possibilities of America abroad and maintained agents in various European countries. He said the aliens smuggled into the United States by agents of the ring were mostly of Jewish and Czecho-Slovakian origin. The inspector said Ahab admitted that he received $175 for each alien delivered in Boston.

TWO WOMEN AND A MAN ARE HELD FOR BURGLARY

NEW FAIRFIELD, Nov. 22.—(AP)—John Collom, Mrs. Emily Ryan and Mrs. Nettie Casselle were placed under bonds of $5,000 each for their appearance at the next term of superior court when they appeared today before Justice William H. Fairchild, on charges of burglary. The trio was arrested last Friday by state and Danbury police charged with having stolen antique furniture from the country home of E. T. Haviland in this town. The date when the furniture was taken is not known, as the house was closed for the winter, but certain of the missing articles were said to have been located in the house occupied by the trio in Danbury.

CONDITION OF MRS. JANE GIBSON IS "VERY SERIOUS"

JERSEY CITY, N. J., Nov. 22.—(AP)—The condition of Mrs. JaJne Gibson, picturesque witness in the Hall-Mills case was "very serious", according to unofficial reports tonight from Jersey City hospital. Attaches said her fever was very high and that she was "quite weak".

What bearing her ordeal in court Thursday may have had on her relapse, authorities would not say.

RENISHAW, Derbyshire, Eng., Nov. 23.—(AP)—David Kirkwood, labor member of parliament, today was fined 25 pounds for delivering a speech recently to a group of striking miners at Clowne which was held likely to restrict the output of coal.

ROME, Nov. 23.—(AP)—Three new cardinals will be created, the Tribunal reports, at the secret consistory of the College of Cardinals on Dec. 20. They are Monsignor Van Roey, archbishop of Malines; Monsignor Gamper, Papal Major Domo and Monsignor Nicotra Nuncio at Lisbon.

YOUTH KILLED UNCLE AND AUNT, WOUNDED HIS SISTER

BRIDGETON, N. J., Nov. 23.—(AP)—Obsessed for several months with the belief that he was "a great detective," Linwood Ware, 22, this morning shot down his uncle and aunt and wounded his sister and then ran into the street shouting: "I have solved a great mystery."

A few minutes later he ran into the arms of a policeman and began to beg for his mother. He was taken to Bridgeton City jail, where he remained sullen and refused to answer questions.

The dead are: William Gandy, 51, a retired realty broker, and his wife, Mrs. Gandy, 48. Mrs. Madeline Maxwell, 26, a sister of the youth is in the Bridgeton hospital with a bullet wound in her hip.

In a statement made to the police, the boy's mother said her son had gotten up quite early complaining that he did not feel well. She said she gave him some pills and told him to go back to bed. A few minutes later, he came running wildly down the stairs folurishing a new .32 calibre automatic revolver. He stepped through the kitchen into the dining room where Mr. and Mrs. Gandy and his sister, Mrs. Maxwell were eating breakfast and opened fire.

The only reason the police could ascribe for the shooting was that the "boy had become temporarily unbalanced." He had been considered abnormal for several years by friends of the family.

"The murderer was arraigned on a short affidavit this afternoon and formally charged with the murder. As he was being transferred to the county jail, he broke down and kept crying: "I want to see my mother."

Police say that the gun used by Ware had been purchased through a mail order house. It is similar to one taken from him, three years ago.

"If I had my way about it, the person or firm that sold young Ware a revolver would be held as an accessory before the fact and punished as they deserve to be," said John S. Hann, commissioner of public safety today.

YOUNG LEOPOLD OBSERVES ETHICS OF THE PRISON

JOLIET, Ills., Nov. 23—(AP)—In a suave and scholarly manner which two years of imprisonment have not erased, Nathan Leopold, co-slayer of Bobby Franks and a life prisoner at the penitentiary, barricaded himself behind a code of prison ethics today and refused to testify about the slaying of Deputy Warden Peter Klein last May and the subsequent escape of seven convicts.

Six of the convicts, re-captured, are on trial for Klein's murder, and Leopold, one of two rich Chicago youths, imprisoned in 1924 for the "thrill murder" of Young Franks, was summoned to testify for the defense.

He refused, however, to admit that he was in solitary confinement on May 7 when Klein was stabbed to death near the tier of solitary cells, and declined to say whether he saw or heard anything from his cell on the day of the escape.

"It is contrary to the ethics of the prison for me to answer such a question," he said when pressed by an attorney for details of the escape.

"What do you mean by 'ethics'?" asked the prosecution in cross examination.

"It is not the regular thing to do. I have learned to talk about prison affairs," Leopold replied.

Judge Frederick Hill warned him that he might be held in contempt.

"Your honor," he answered, "it may be technical contempt. I will give you my word of honor, however, that I do not know anything about this case."

The judge excused him, and he went back to his prison cell without given any aid to his fellow prisoners who were reported to have offered him his freedom when they fled and to have been rebuffed.

BELIEVE MISSING HUNTERS HAVE BEEN DROWNED

LAKE GEORGE, N. Y., Nov. 22.—(AP)—Belief that L. D. Green of Middletown and John J. Eden of Arden have been drowned in Lake George was strengthened today by the finding of Eden's hat floating in Basin bay, a short distance north of Bolton and ten or 12 miles from here. Green and Eden have been missing since Nov. 15, when they started in a motorboat on a duck hunting trip.

A posse of American Legion members was organized to make a careful search of Basin bay this afternoon in an effort to locate the bodies of the missing men. The finding of Eden's hat in the bay did not necessarily indicate that the men had met with an accident in that locality, as it might have flated there from some other part of the lake.

An airplane flew up and down over the lake this forenoon, but the observers aboard it did not discover any trace of the missing hunters. Search from the air was resumed this afternoon.

THE FORMER KAISER IS NOW CONFINED TO BED

DOORN, Holland, Nov. 23—(AP)—Tramping about the rain-soaked grounds of Doorn house before he had fully recovered from a cold dating back a week, the former German emperor acquired further affliction, and is now confined to bed with what is variously described as rheumatism or a nasty attack of lumbago.

Every movement is painful, though apparently there is no immediate danger from the effects of the fresh chill following upon an earlier one.

The doctor in attendance refuses to disclose the exact nature of the former emperor's complaint, though he had been ill last week, it was supposed he was well enough to go out Friday or Saturday, however, he caught cold again; so, divine service at Doday. On Saturday, however, he caught William Hohenzollern habitually conducts had to be cancelled.

To Keep up Supply of Medicinal Liquor

[redacted] immediate steps [redacted] Taken and [redacted] It Be Made in the United States.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23—(AP)—Immediate steps must be taken to replenish the medicinal liquor stock, Secretary Mellon warned today. He also advocated that it be manufactured in this country under the plan outlined by Assistant Secretary Andrews, dry chief.

Taking issue with the view of Wayne B. Wheeler, general counsel of the Anti-Saloon league, that there was no necessity for worry over the medicinal supply for several years, Mr. Mellon emphasized that it would require five years to age properly a new supply. He estimated there was no more than a five year supply on hand.

Likewise, Mr. Mellon has no sympathy for the proposals to import whiskey from abroad to meet domestic requirements. He believes it will be easier to assure a pure supply of liquor and to prevent diversions if the whiskey is manufactured here rather than imported.

While the financing detail of General Andrews plan to organize a private corporation under federal supervision, to manufacture medicinal liquor and take over all existing supplies remain undetermined, Mr. Mellon hopes this program can be put into effect without government assistance. He is prepared, however to seek temporary financial aid from the government, if it is necessary.

WITNESSES SUPPORT THE ALIBI OF HENRY STEVENS

SOMERVILLE, N. J., Nov. 22—(AP)—Using twenty-one witnesses, the defense in the Hall-Mills case completed its support of the alibi of Henry Stevens and turned to the case of Willie Stevens. The brothers, with their sister, Mrs. Frances Stevens Hall are charged with the murder of Mrs. Eleanor R. Mills, slain with the Rev. Edward W. Hall, on the night of September 14, 1922. Eight witnesses today told of seeing Henry Stevens in Lavallette, N. J., his home, that night.

After a morning devoted to the story of a regular fisherman and his wife, an occasional fisherman and the Stevens cook, a family was put forward in the afternoon to close the Henry Stevens alibi. A mother and daughter told of a conversation with the defendant at 10:30 o'clock the night of the double-killing, another daughter heard Stevens' voice but did not see him and the father told of meeting the family at Jersey City, on September 15, the day after the conversation, when all three testified Stevens took them to the station. The state has fixed the hour of the slaying at 10:20 o'clock.

Dismissing the status of Henry Stevens for the moment, the defense took up his brother's case and offered witnesses to prove that he has not suffered from epilepsy, did not wear a derby hat, constantly used eye glasses and did not have a gold watch. State witnesses, on the opening day of the trial, had testified that they saw Willie Stevens at Plainfield, N. J., inquiring the way to the Parker "house," early on the evening of the killing. They had said he wore a derby hat, no eye glasses, had a gold watch and was suffering from epilepsy.

Late in the day, a movement was started designed to impeach the testimony of Henry L. Dickmap, former state trooper, who testified that he was paid by the late Asariah Beekman, then prosecutor of this county, to leave the state after he had spent several months in investigating the Hall-Mills case. As attache of the office of the adjutant general of the army came with records of Dickman's army service and that of "Bernard J. McLoughlin" which the defense will attempt to prove was a name used by Dickman. A fingerprint expert from the navy followed the army man to testify that fingerprints on the enlistment record of Dickman and McLoughlin are the same.

RADICALS INSULTING AT THE U. S. CONSULATE IN TAMPICO

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 23.—(AP)—Radicals proceeded to the United States consulate at Tampico yesterday, dispatches from that city say, for the purpose of protesting against the execution of Sacco and Vanzetti, convicted by the Massachusetts courts. When informed that the consul was absent, they shouted insults at the United States and the consul.

The police dispersed the disturbers and no damage was done. The authorities promise that the guilty persons will be punished.

No confirmation of this has been received by the American embassy here, but the embassy does not regard the affair seriously, in the absence of a report from the consul.

OBITUARY

Mrs. Theresa Oelrichs

NEWPORT, R. I., Nov. 22—(AP)—Mrs. Theresa Oelrichs, prominent society leader and long a member of the inner circle of Newport's "400", died this afternoon. She had been ill for two years but recently has suffered a relapse from a complication of diseases.

Mrs. Oelrichs was the daughter of James Graham Fair, who came to this country from Ireland and amassed a fortune of some $50,000,000 in the early mining days of the far west.

Theresa Alice Fair and Hermann Oelrichs were married in 1890. He was the son of a German immigrant who became a wealthy merchant of Baltimore. He was known here as a sportsman and athlete, not greatly interested in society. The summer after the wedding the couple went to Newport, where Mrs. Oelrichs' social progress began.

Hermann Oelrichs died ni 1906 while returning from Europe. The probation of his will caused some stir when it was discovered that he left no portion of his estate to his wife or their son and only child, Hermann, Jr. Mrs. Oelrichs contested the will and an out-of-court settlement gave her son a share.

Judge John J. Walsh

SOUTH NORWALK, Conn., Nov. 22—(AP)—Judge John J. Walsh, of the Fairfield county court of common pleas died at his home here at 1:30 this afternoon. About a fortnight ago Judge Walsh fell while coming out of the Stratfield hotel at Bridgeport on his way to return to court, and shortly after it was found he had broken two ribs and had other internal hurts.

Rum Law Decision by the Supreme Court

Old Internal Revenue Taxes on Liquors Remains in Force—Vote Was Divided in Decision.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22—(AP)—Automobiles seized while engaged in the unlawful transportation of intoxicating liquor may be forfeited by the government, whether they are being operated by their owners or some one less, the supreme court ruled today in deciding a case from Alabama.

There was sharp division in the court over the question whether the old internal revenue laws imposing taxes on the manufacture and sale of liquor were in effect. Justices McReynolds, Sutherland and Butler joined in a vigorous dissent, contending that the manufacture and sale of liquor for beverage purposes had been prohibited by the 18th amendment and that the old revenue laws taxing the manufacture and sale of beverage liquor had been inferentially repealed by the prohibition law.

The importance of the issue arose out of the assertion of the right of an innocent owner to recover an automobile seized while being used to unlawfully transport liquor. Manufacturers and automobile sales agents were interested in the case. A Ford coupe was being sold on the installment plan by the Garth Motor company which claimed the right to recover it upon a showing of ownership and unauthorized use in liquor transportation.

The government was supported by a majority of the court in its position that the old internal revenue taxes on liquor remained in force under prohibition and that it was immaterial in forfeiture proceedings, under those laws, wether the machine was being used by its owner or some one else. The opinion was handed down by Justice Brandeis.

Justice Butler, delivered the dissenting opinion. The minority insisted that automobiles seized while being used unlawfully in liquor transportation must be proceeded against under the prohibition law, which gives innocent owners an opportunity to recover the cars upon proving that illegal use had bene unauthorized.

PROVIDENCE COP DISMISSED FOR ACCEPTING A BRIBE

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Nov. 23—(AP)—Patrolman James F. Carberry, of the Olneyville station, a member of the Providence police department for the past four years, was dismissed today when found guilty of accepting a bribe of $10 from Dr. Richard C. Doherty of 1443 Boylston street, Boston, on the night of November 7. The $10 bribe was accepted it was alleged, for dropping a charge of drunken driving against the Boston dentist.

Carberry was in civilian clothes and off duty when he stopped Dr. Doherty, who was driving an automobile that contained his wife. Carberry accused the Boston man of operating the automobile while intoxicated and the $10 was given the officer after he consented to allow the doctor to continue his trip to Boston.

According to Carberry the Boston dentist denied that he had been drinking whiskey but admitted that he had been drinking "home brew" and that he consented to drop the charge after the dentist pleaded that he was a prominent member of a well known organization and that it would be difficult for him to practice his profession if deprived of the use of his automobile as a result of being convicted and lose his operator's license. The $10 that Carberry said the Boston dentist tucked in his hand was taken to Carberry's home and the day that Carberry was suspended from the force when the charge was placed against him by Dr. Doherty, the money was turned over to the police department by Carberry.

$50,000 ATTACHMENT AGAINST EUGENE V. BREWSTER

NEW YORK, Nov. 22—(AP)—Warrant of attachment in the sum of $50,000 was granted in supreme court here today against Eugene V. Brewster on the complaint of Mrs. Eleanor V. Brewster, her counsel announced tonight. Mrs. Brewster asks $200,000 damages, claiming that her husband and Corliss Palmer entered into a conspiracy to injure her marital rights and status.

The warrant was served upon the Brewster Publications, Inc., in which Mr. Brewster is principal stockholder and from which he draws a salary as president.

"Mrs. Brewster's suit, the counsel says, "is based upon the fact that Eugene V. Brewster, in company with Corliss Palmer, went to Mexico, and that he there went through the form of divorce proceeding, although there existed no grounds which would be recognized in the courts of this state or country; and immediately thereafter went through a form of marriage ceremony with Corliss Palmer."

In an uncontested action last March, Mrs Brewster was awarded $300,000 damages against Miss Palmer for alienation of affection. Mrs. Brewster attached furs and other effects of Miss Palmer, found in storage here, and it was announced that action would be taken in California to attach Miss Palmer's income as a motion picture actress. Mrs. Brewster says Miss Palmer's furs, less storage and auctioneer's charges, netted her only $141. He requests that a receiver be appointed for the Brewster Publications was denied.

RELATIONS OF THE BRITISH EMPIRE AND ITS DOMINIONS

At the Imperial Conference, With All the Premiers Concurring, the Autonomous Equality of All the Dominions, Including the Irish Free State, Was Agreed Upon—India and the Crown Colonies Are Excluded in the Pact—Foreign Affairs and Matters of Defense Are to Rest With the British Government.

LONDON, Nov. 23—(AP)—The somewhat independent policy followed by Canada and Ireland in the matter of appointing representatives at Washington, coupled with the demand of General Hertzog, premier of South Africa for independent national status for his country, has had the effect of forcing the imperial conference to a clearer definition of the precise relations between the component parts of the great empire. The fact that all the premiers concerned in the conference have since expressed their full approval of what was done is commented upon all sides as a measure of the importance of the results accomplished.

The autonomous equality of all the British dominions, including the Irish Free State, but excluding India and the crown colonies, is laid down in the report as follows:

"They are autonomous communities within the British empire, equal in status and in no way subordinate one to another in any aspect of their domestic or external affairs, though united by common allegiance to the crown and freely associated as members of the British commonwealth of nations."

Any official relations between the British and dominions governments will be by direct correspondence. Each dominion has now the acknowledged right to initiate a foreign policy and has an equal right with the mother country to make treaties and appoint diplomatic representatives abroad. But stress still is laid upon the advisability of consultation between the dominions themselves and with the British government in these matters.

As the report says, the principles of equality in status do not necessarily extend to function. This refers especially to foreign affairs and questions of defense, concerning which the report asserts the major share of responsibility still rests, and must continue to rest, with the British government.

Comments by Australian and South African newspapers reaching London attach importance to the question whether the so-called South African separatists will respond to Premier Hertzog's call and disavow their demands for separation of South Africa from the empire.

The Pretoria News interprets Premier Hertzog's satisfaction with premier's report as meaning that the nationalist ideal of sovereign independence has been attained, and tht for all time South Africa will remain a British dominion.

CANADIAN COMMENT ON IMPERIAL CONFERENCE

OTTAWA, Canada, Nov. 22.—(AP)—The report of the imperial conference in London defining the Dominions as "autonomous communities within the British empire," meets with a mixed reception in the editorial columns of the leading newspapers of eastern Canada.

Ottawa Citizen: "Every self-governing dominion is now master of its own destiny, in no way subordinate to the others, but united by common allegiance to the crown. The conference report marks a big step forward in the evolution of imperial relations."

Toronto Star: "It would appear that a great stride forward is contemplated by the assembled prime ministers in shaping the commonwealth of British nations so that it will stand and endure, however great may be the developments in population, wealth and trade of any of the overseas dominions."

Toronto Globe: "A cursory glance at the conclusions arrived at by the imperial conference forces the conviction that no effort whatever has been made to increase the bond of union."

Ottawa Journal: "As a matter of reality, these resolutions so far as we have been able to compare them with the existing position, involve practically no change.

"We are no freer today than we were this time last week or this time last year, and for the simple reason that this time last year we were completely unfettered and free."

Montreal Gazette: "The new charter is described as a formal acknowledgment of the equality of the status of the Dominions with the United Kingdom under the king. Such an acknowledgment in itself means nothing at all; it is something that might have been obtained at any time from any British statesman. There is no more than has been expressed in the attitude of the British government toward the Dominions."

BRITISH FREIGHTER HAD HARD TIME IN HEAVY SEA

LONDON, Nov. 23.—(AP)—Sputtering radio signals from the storm-tossed Atlantic today told the tale of a grim fight by the crew of the British freighter Aldworth to save their ship in face of seeming death.

For 30 hours Captain Caldicott and his men battled the waves, with the vessel in momentary danger of foundering. Superstructure, boats and bridge smashed, and two holds and the engine room flooded.

The Cunarder Andania reached the Aldworth in answer to distress signals, but the captain and crew refused to leave the Aldworth. Finally, after hours of anxiety and peril, the sea abated and the Aldworth got under way toward Queenstown, convoyed by the American steamer West Eldara.

The Aldworth, a steel vessel of 3,868 tons, left Norfolk for Queenstown Nov. 4.

RELIGIOUS MEETING BROKEN UP IN WARSAW

WARSAW, Poland, Nov. 22—(AP)—Riotous students and others broke up a religious meeting on Sunday at which Bishop Francis Hodur, founder of the independent Polish National church in the United States, attempted to speak Bishop Hodur was bruised during the melee, while Bishop Bonczak, his chief representative in Poland was wounded in the forehead.

Notwithstanding the attack, Bishop Hodur remarked today: "I feel fifty per cent stronger, as the incident has given my church publicity in Warsaw, while it was almost unknown before."

Bishop Hodur came to Poland from Scranton, Pa., November 13 to visit the adherents of his church, numbering about 40,000 and composed mostly of returned emigrants from America and to endeavor to promote legalization of his church by the Polish government. His church is independent of Rome.

RE-FINANCING OF SACO-LOWELL SHOPS APPROVED

BOSTON, Nov. 23—(AP)—Approval of the re-financing plan proposed by the directors of the Saco-Lowell shops was voted today at a meeting here by a majority of the stockholders of the corporation, which manufactures cotton textile machinery in Lowell, Biddeford, Maine and other New England cities.

The directors declared that refinancing was necessary because there was no possibility of the company meeting $4,000,000 in notes held by banks and due on January 14. The plan calls for an issue of convertible notes to raise $950,000, additional capital and the organization of the Lowell properties, whose value is about 12 per cent of the whole, as a subsidiary corporation. The new notes will be on the basis of ten dollars for each share of common stock outstanding.

LIQUOR SHIP SEIZED 140 MILES FROM NEW YORK

NEW YORK, Nov. 23—(AP)—The German barkentine, Carmen, from Hamburg, seized 140 miles from New York was brought into port today by a coast guard destroyer. Government agents said she had a cargo of more than 100,000 cases of Scotch whiskey aboard.

Men from the coast guard cutter McCarl who boarded the vessel said the ship was armed but offered no resistance.

$140,000,000 BID FOR THE C. M. ST. PAUL RAILROAD

BUTTE, Mont., Nov. 23—(AP)—The greatest foreclosure proceeding in history was carried through here today when the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul railroad was offered at public sale and drew one bid of $140,000,000.

The bid was made by representatives of the reorganization committee, headed by Kuhn, Loeb & Co., and the National City bank, New York city, and will be submitted to the federal court in Chicago on December 13, for approval.

A half hour was required for the transaction, which ultimately means the transfer of property worth three-quarters of a billion dollars.

The road was offered in five lots $42,500,000 being bid for the lines west of Mobridge, S. D.; $67,500,000 for the lines east, or $110,000,000 for the entire physical property. Twelve million, five hundred thousand was offered for the road's investments and securities but instead of limiting the bid to the upset price of $125,000,000, the bidders offered $240,000,000. The offer was made by Robert T. Swaine and Donald C. Swaland, representing the reorganization committee, to whom they will assign their interests in the bid.

The road is the first line of such magnitude to go upon the auction block. The difficulties which forced it into the courts arose from its inability to meet indebtedness which on January 1, 1926, totaled more than $465,000,000.

MURDEROUS BANK BANDIT IS STILL AT LIBERTY

SALLISAW, Okla., Nov. 23—(AP)—Matthew Kimes, young bank bandit who was freed from jail yesterday by a band of friends on the eve of his day he was to have been sentenced to life imprisonment in the state penitentiary still was at liberty today.

Posses were searching the hills of northern Oklahoma and Arkansas today but admitted they had no knowledge of the band, which consisted of at least six men, that took possession of the town yesterday and released Kimes from jail.

Kimes, 19 years old, was to have been sentenced for the slaying of Perry Chuculate, Indians deputy sheriff, near here three months ago. Matthew and his brother, George, shot Chuculate during a running gun fight with officers before they were captured in western Arkansas.

At Oklahoma City Governor M. E. Trapp offered a reward of $300 for the arrest of Kimes, dead or alive.

TO RECONSTRUCT ROOF OF THE WHITE HOUSE

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23—(AP)—Reconstruction of the top story and roof of the white house will start as soon as possible following adjournment of congress in the spring.

Specifications issued today called for contractors' bids for tearing down the executive mansion from the second floor ceiling upward, and reconstructing a new roof of structural steel and tile to replace the one engineers have considered unsafe for some time.

The work will begin as soon as bids are accepted and the president and his family have vacated to make way for the workmen.

The question of alumni funds will be discussed in New York, November 27 when the Association of Alumni funds, made up of secretaries and directors of the alumni and endowment funds of 73 colleges and universities will meet at the Men's Faculty room of Columbia university.

BUSSES NOW RUN FROM WILLIMANTIC TO COVENTRY

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Nov. 23. — Busses went into service today to accommodate commuters and others between this city and Coventry. Two busses made the first tri pto Coventry early in the morning and returned with 37 passengers during the forenoon. Two busses were also in commission for the 5:30 p. m. trip. According to Starter Orin V. Hodgson of the local terminal of the New England Transportation company which operates the bus line, the two motor coaches are necessary during the school season to take care of commuters. Special fares have been arranged for two daily trips to Bolton via North Coventry. With the taking over of the Coventry line, the transportation company now operates five lines out of this city: Willimantic, Norwich and New London; Willimantic, North Grosvenordale and Putnam; Willimantic, Coventry and Bolton; Willimantic and Hartford. A fleet of 25 motor busses are in commission, eight of which are quartered at the company's garage in this city. Starter Hodgson announced Monday that the fare to Providence from this city had been increased 10 cents or to $2.10.

TWO YOUTHS BOUND OVER TO SUPERIOR COURT

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Nov. 22.—Leo La Chappelle, 19, of West Main street and Michael Wawer, 21, of Brick Row were bound over to the next criminal term of the Windham county superior court from the local police court where they pleaded guilty to charges of breaking and entering this morning. Bonds of $1,500 were named. The two young men were those implicated in the theft by Peter Zurowski, 15, of Brick Row, who was caught red-handed in the act of robbing the Adelard Monast grocery and confectionery store at 1068 Main street Sunday night. Zurowski's case was transferred to the juvenile court by Judge Frank H. Doss and will be heard next Monday. The youngster was alone Sunday night but when questioned by the police he admitted that La Chappelle and Wawer had been guilty of previous breaks and thefts at the store. Acting Probation Officer A. R. Handfield entered the plea of guilty on behalf of La Chappelle in court.

There were over 100 exclamations of surprise from as many commuters from this city to Hartford who went to the New Haven railroad station at 7:10 Monday morning to board the restored train No. 11 and found it not a train at all but a very smart looking "gas buggy". Whereas some of these commuters use the New England Transportation company bus to go to Hartford the seating capacity of 45 passengers in the gas bus took care of requirements and the trip to Hartford was made in snap time. The gasoline coach returned with its passengers in the evening, leaving Hartford at 5:15 o'clock. Henry St. John is conductor of the buggy and "Al" Belloveau, operator. The vehicle is a combination arrangement for passengers and baggage.

The last seen of the South Coventry-Willimantic trolley car Monday was when it was being dragged from its former terminal on Main street across the New Haven tracks onto the Norwich trolley terminal and the tracks which will direct its course in the future. The same fate awaits another trolley and a snow plow which have been stored at the West Main street barns of the company. It is understood that arrangements have already been made with the common council to leave the tracks in the block pavement on Main steret intact and cover them over with a road substance that will leave the thoroughfare smooth and even. Beginning at the end of the block pavement opposite the Jordan Auto company garage the tracks will be torn up to South Coventry although it is possible that all of the work will not be done this season. The removal of the West Main tracks will mean a saving of approximately $8,000 to the city in the laying of sewers along that stretch, as the city would have had to remove and replace the tracks in order to place the pipes.

Rehearsals for the big minstrel show which will be staged here by San Jose council No. 14, Knights of Columbus, are progressing nicely and a finished production is predicted by Director John W. Hutchings. There is also an encouraging advance sale of tickets. An unusually fine lot of stage scenery and props has been furnished by the producing company for the show which will be known as Minstrel Chuckles.

A Church Bowling league will open its schedule at the Y. M. C. A. alleys next week with David M. Moxon as chairman of the bowling committee. The entering teams and their captains are: Methodist Episcopal, Willard Olds, captain; Episcopal, William E. Higgins, captain; Congregational, Charles W. Hill, captain; First Baptist, Homer J. Hawkins, captain; Second Baptist, George Paton, captain.

A special collection will be taken next Sunday as an endeavor to raise $2,500 to pay the balance of the amount expended at St. Joseph's church for extensive interior decorations and alterations. The bulk of the total expense, aggregating over $20,000 was raised through a drive in which the main appeal was made to the younger workin members of the parish.

A small boy whose identity remains unknown narrowly escaped severe injuries Sunday night when he was struck and knocked to the pavement by an automobile on Main street near the Capitol theatre. The child was taken to the office of Dr. Girard but was found to be suffering only from slight bruises. The boy started to run across the street, waited for one car to pass and then ran back into the path of the machine which struck him according to witnesses.

Pain is so often unnecessary

SUFFERED WITH PAIN IN NECK AND SHOULDERS

After three days' home treatment got complete relief

Following a severe attack of rheumatic fever, a New York girl suffered for days with excruciating pain in her neck and shoulders.

"After trying everything else," she writes, "my mother persuaded me to let her apply Sloan's Liniment, and after three days I felt no further pain."

It is amazing what Sloan's will do to relieve pain. This is because it doesn't just deaden the nerves. It stirs up the body to throw off the cause of the trouble.

Apply gently without rubbing. Instantly it sends a healing tide of fresh, pure blood to the place that hurts. In just a few minutes the pain stops. So pleasant and easy to use too. Get a bottle today. All druggists—35 cents.

INGROWN NAIL

Turns Right Out Itself

"Outgro" is a harmless antiseptic manufactured for chiropodists. However, anyone can buy from the drug store a tiny bottle containing directions.

A few drops of "Outgro" in the crevices of the ingrowing nail reduces inflammation and pain and so toughens the tender, sensitive skin underneath the toe nail, that it can not penetrate the flesh, and the nail turns naturally outward almost over night.

AGRICULTURAL INTERESTS

MANY BENEFITS FROM GOOD WOODLOTS

Proper management of the farm wood lot is apparent in three forms:

1. Higher total income is derived.
2. The farm has more comforts as a home.
3. The farm becomes a more valuable investment.

The home woodlands serve as a source of supply of wood needs such as fuel, fence posts, building repair material and various special uses. When there is a surplus stock it can readily be turned into cash funds if sold for cordwood in towns, saw timber, cross ties, posts and poles. A properly handled forest of moderate size will fill those needs annually; in most cases a 40 acre woodlot ought to supply the average farm home with sufficient cordwood to last through the winter and enough for cooking purposes throughout the year. Of course the productivity of woodlots varies considerably and in some instances it may be possible to get along with 25 acres whereas others might require 60 acres.

A well tended woodlot can be made to serve as a protection to buildings, livestock, and sometimes to orchards or other pieces of land producing agricultural crops. It furnishes means of profitable employment of men and teams during spare or slack times, and in addition is a source of recreation to the owner and his family. A clean, straight stemmed stand of thrifty trees in a woodlot is as good looking to the eye as a bumper crop of any farm product, and adds substantially to the possible sale value of the farm.

Tree growth helps to build up the productiveness of the soil through the decay of leaves, twigs and other tree litter falling to the ground. The mechanical effect of penetrating roots helps soil aeration and increases the fertility of the soil to greater depths. The dark, rich mold formed by the rotting humus helps to enrichen the soil by furnishing available nitrogenous foods, and is instrumental in breaking down the soil into usable mineral compounds which are capable of being taken in by plant life. The regulative effect of the humus on soil moisture is an important factor to be taken into consideration on steep slopes where soil washing is very commonly the result of heavy rains. Fire getting into a woodlot destroys this invaluable material and brings on soil degeneration. A properly tended piece of woodland rarely is burned over because the owner is interested in preserving his crop. He installs means of protection just as the orchard man cares for his trees against insect and fungus troubles.

The woodlot need not be in possession of farm land fit for the production of agricultural crops unless the owner feels that he can afford to use it because he already has enough land in the cultivation of crops. Poor lands, unfit for farm crops, should be utilized to their fullest extent by growing a stand of valuable timber. Nature has fitted them to grow where other plants would lead a sorry existence. Though they cannot be used advantageously for raising other things, it is not wise to disregard it and allow the trees to come up in a wild state of confusion. Care of this growth is quite necessary and will yield proportionately for the work and money invested far greater financial returns than the neglected woodlots. With a reasonable amount of care our farm forests could be made to produce twice as much material in a single rotation it might be stated that our woodlots can be made to bring in 100 per cent higher income in wood than they are doing at the present time. — Alfred A. Doppell, extension forester, Connecticut Agricultural college.

WORMS MAY BE FOUND AMONG THE POULTRY

When a flock of pullets appear unthrifty, and upon examination, an individual is found to contain worms, the general assumption is that the flock is badly infested. This is not always the case, hence it is much safer to examine several birds before drawing any definite conclusions. Up to the present time, little or no round-worm infestation has been in evidence; but several flocks badly infested with tape-worms have been found.

In the experience of the writer, iodine vermicide, is the only satisfactory treatment for expelling tape-worms. Individual treatment is required. One ounce is given to each bird with a catheter, the dose being administered directly into the gizzard, from which it at once enters the intestines and becomes effective almost immediately.

The treatment sounds difficult, but it is really very simple and easy to handle, it being possible to dose 100 to 125 birds per hour. The cost of the material is between 4 and 5 cents per bird. Tests conducted with the individual birds and flock treatment show without question that all tape-worms and round-worms are killed and expelled. It is not advisable to treat badly emaciated birds, as they are too far gone for recovery.

Some flocks, showing the symptoms of worm infestation, are on examination found to be suffering from enteritis, and have no worm infection except a small number of pin worms in the caeca. The post-mortem appearance of enteritis is an enlarged and inflamed intestine with extremely thickened walls. Such flocks will respond to the following treatment:

Enteritis Powder: 8 ounces powdered catechu, 2 ounces powdered sodium phenolsulphonate; 4 ounces sulphate of zinc, 2 ounces powdered calcium phenolsulphonate.

Us 1 heaping teaspoon to each gallon of drinking water for one week. Discontinue for one day and give epsom salts at the rate of 1 pound to each 100 birds; then continue for one week longer. Where there is evidence of both worm infestation and enteritis, the worm treatment may be followed by the enteritis treatment. Where worm infestation is only scattered, it is advisable to use the enteritis treatment first as this may correct the entire trouble.

ADVANTAGES OF THE FALL PLOWING

Weeds can be better controlled on fall plowed than on spring plowed land. This is due to the fact that the winter exposure of the soil induces weed seed germination. The young seedlings are then easily killed by a good disking before they are large. The disking induces the germination of another lot of weed seed and a harrowing will kill these young seedlings while they are yet small and weak. By harrowing the land at weekly intervals until planting time, one can largely clear his soil of weeds and as a result reduce the cost of intertillage.

Fall plowing is beneficial in destroying such insects as wire worms and white grubs. These burrow into the soil and deep late fall plowing exposes them to frosts and freezes that bring death to many of them. Such benefit occurs especially in the plowing of old meadows and pastures.

It is well known that heavy land should not be plowed when wet. The fall is an ideal time to plow lands that remain wet until late in the spring. Such fields are seldom wet in the fall and may usually be plowed without danger. Even should they be plowed a little wet, the frosts and freezes will nullify any injury from baking as the freezes will quickly break up the crust and clods thus formed.

The greatest object of fall plowing is, however, to save labor in the spring. When plow weather arrives the farmer may at once prepare the seedbed and plant his oats, knowing that the corn and potato land is in good condition from the fall plowing. But a small amount of time will be needed to dress these plowed fields. The outcome will be that the oats may be seeded early and that the land for the tilled crops is at the same time mellowing and getting into good tilth.

In place of a sticky, dense mass the fall plowed land becomes crumbly and mellow, it is well supplied with water yet is free of standing water. It will promote plant growth both because it is moist and because it contains an abundant supply of plant nutrients.

Through the means afforded by fall plowing, the land can largely be freed of weeds before planting time. There will, as a result, be a saving of labor throughout the period of intertillage.

Late fall plowing if deep, will destroy many grub worms and wire worms as well as other insects abundant in old turf land.

All told, fall plowing of heavy turf land is to be commended, both for its saving of labor and for its beneficial reactions upon the soil and crop.—Prof. Dorsey Connecticut Agricultural College.

CARBON-DISULPHIDE CAPSULES EFFECTIVE AGAINST BOTFLIES

Most everyone having anything to do with horses is familiar with botflies and the annoyance they cause to the animals during the summer when they are active in laying their eggs on the hairs of the legs, throat, lips, etc. Few horsemen realize, however, the injurious effects of the bot or maggot stage. In biting or licking itself the horse takes the eggs into the mouth, from where they reach the stomach and intestines, developing into the bot or maggot stage. Here the bots remain for several months before being developed fully and passed out. During this time they not only interfere with digestion but may actually cause stoppage and result in death.

Investigations conducted a number of years ago in Italy showed that bots within horses could be destroyed by administering carbon-disulphide capsules. This treatment has been tested by the United States department of agriculture and found to be very effective. A very important consideration in obtaining the best results is the matter of time of treatment, says the department. Carbon disulphide will remove many bots at any time of the year, but the greatest efficiency can be obtained in winter months, preferably December or January. Early winter treatment is advisable, because horses freed from the parasites early will pass the winter in better condition.

In the last few years a number of communities have attempted bot control by systematic treatment of all donkeys, mules, horses and colts. Results have been encouraging. Not only has the annoyance from nose botflies and other botflies been greatly decreased after a single year's effort but a general improvement has been reported in the condition and health of the horses. It appears entirely feasible, especially in regions where there are very few horses on pasture, to eradicate horse bots by a combination of the carbon-disulphide treatment and the application of washes for the destruction of the eggs. Every horse should be washed with a two per cent coal-tar creosote dip to destroy the young bots which remain dormant in the eggs. Thorough treatment of all animals in a community should be very profitable if continued two or three years. Reinfestation is not liable to occur except where untreated animals are brought in, as it is believed the flies do not travel more than a half mile.

WHEN TWO AND TWO MAY MAKE MORE THAN FOUR

It is frequently pointed out by the bureau of soils of the United States department of agriculture that the nation will have to depend upon the exhaustion of the soil for about one-third of its combined wheat, corn, and oats produced; upon crop rotation for another third; and upon the use of manure and commercial fertilizers for the other third. It is logical that cultivation aids both rotation and fertilization, that rotation aids in rendering fertilizers more effective, and that fertilizers more effective, and that fertilizers increase the value of rotation. Recent experiments in Illinois, however, bring out the fact that rotation and the use of fertilizers, when practiced together, may interact to the extent that their conjoint effects, as measured in terms of crop increases, may be not only equal to but greater than the sum of their separate effects.

The average yield of corn obtained without fertilizers and rotation in this particular experiment was 23.4 bushels per acre. The gain due to using fertilizers and lime was 9.2 bushels per acre, and the gain due to rotation alone was 27.8 bushels, or practically three times that obtained from the fertilizers and lime. The total increase effected by conjoining rotation and the use of fertilizers was 44.2 bushels per acre, or 7.2 bushels greater than the sum of their separate increases.

Other experiments have corroborated these results, which emphasize the importance of recognizing all three factors in striving for permanent soil productivity.

"After the birth of my little daughter I was very badly run-down. I could not think of going to a hospital, but grew steadily worse, being compelled to stay in bed two or three days each week. A friend of my sister's told of the good Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound had done her, and my sister bought me two bottles of it. I had not taken all of one bottle when I was up and able to do some work. I am truly a booster for Lydia E. DANIELSON

NEW MOOSUP BANK WILL OPEN THIS WEEK

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Nov. 23—Having been granted a charter, the newly organized Moosup Trust company will begin doing business at Moosup Tuesday or Wednesday. The new concern has taken over the private bank operated in Moosup by Everett E. Salisbury for many years and for the time being will do business in the quarters of the Salisbury bank. Meanwhile, the trust company having taken a long lease of quarters in the same building as that occupied by the Moosup central office of the Southern New England Telephone company, will make that ready for its banking rooms.

Thomas J. Seaton, who is with the Cranska mills at Moosup, is treasurer of the new trust company and will be in direct charge of its affairs.

The new bank has a capital of $50,000, fully subscribed. Steps for its organization were taken a number of weeks ago. The board of directors is made up of Charles T. Aldrich of Providence, Lucius Cranska of Moosup, Harry E. Richardson of Moosup, Bradford W. Danielson of Moosup, Thomas J. Seaton of Moosup, Irving W. Davis of Danielson, Thomas Hope of Moosup, Alfred Champagne of Moosup and F. W. Tillinghast of Central Village. Mr. Cranska the vice president and Mr. Richardson the secretary of the new bank, which is formed to provide Moosup with adequate and convenient commercial banking facilities.

Against the raiding of Killingly's forest lands by persons bent on getting Christmas trees without asking anyone's permission and contrary to law the selectmen of the town have taken action that will lead to the arrest and prosecution of anyone engaged in such an undertaking, it is hoped. A forest patrol will be established in the hope of apprehending offenders who have become so bold and destructive as to be a veritable nuisance. The Old Furnace park land, property of the town, has been practically denuded of small trees suitable for the Christmas season by vandals who have cut and slashed without consideration for property rights or respect for law.

An instance was related Monday afternoon of a man who took Christmas trees on a commercial basis last fall, cutting down four or five motor truck loads for transfer to and sale in Providence.

In passing, it may be mentioned that the worst raiding for Christmas trees is done by people who come into this territory from nearby cities. Last Sunday a number of Rhode Island machines were noticed with trees freshly cut down being carried on the running boards. Here is evidence that the plundering of other years is already underway, and before Thanksgiving. However, past experience has shown that the worst destruction is wrought from early December to the last few days before Christmas.

Killingly's selectmen are convinced that a real effort should be made to round up some of these forest raiders this season and will take steps to that end.

So large was the congregation at the funeral services for Mrs. Eva E. Hopkins, wife of George L. Hopkins, at the Foster Center church Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock that it was necessary to place chairs in the aisles. A prayer service had previously been held at the home of Mrs. Hopkins sister on Laurel Hill avenue in Providence, where she died. Rev. Gilbert B. Cutler of North Scituate conducted both the prayer and funeral service. Burial was in the Speare cemetery at Foster Center. The bearers were Oscar Blackmar, Gorge Randall, Providence, George P. Nichols and Ralph Nichols. A. F. Wood was in charge of the funeral arrangements. There was a wealth of floral forms and pieces.

There are some strange codes of ethics. Take, for instance, the case of a person who mailed from Norwich to W. A. Barnard here a bill fold that Mr. Barnard lost while on an Armistice day trip to Norwich to participate in the parade. Mr. Barnard advertised his loss in The Bulletin. Over and above that the bill fold contained papers by which the owner easily could be identified. Soon after The Bulletin advertisement appeared the bill fold came back through the mail, without the considerable sum of money it contained when lost. Mr. Barnard was glad of the return of the bill fold and his papers, but rather hoped to be allowed to fix the finder's reward. The finder, however, decided otherwise, and thereby established a reputation for being only partly honest.

Death came suddenly Monday to Andrew Kelley, a former resident of Hampton, who fell dead while raking leaves on the lawn at Pomfret school. Death, it was said, was due to heart disease. The body was removed to Putnam, after permission had been given by the medical examiner, Dr. S. E. Overlock, and later brought here in charge of Undertaker L. E. Kennedy. Mr. Kelley was 57, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Kelley, formerly of Hampton. He leaves a sister, resident in Providence.

Miss Laura Adele Ely, 82, died Monday at Dayville, where she had been staying for about three weeks. Previously Miss Ely had been making her home with Miss Alice Litchfield at Brooklyn, but went to Dayville after Miss Litchfield had been seriously injured by a fall here in Danielson. Miss Ely was a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Ely and lived a great many of the years of her life in this town. Her father was one of the pioneer dry goods merchants of Danielson, having established a store at what is now the St. James church property on Franklin street long over half a century ago. Later he did business for years in the original Hyde block, when the business center of Danielson was developing. Miss Ely was the last of her family.

Following services in Webster Monday morning the body of James Connell, a police officer, was brought here for burial in the family plot in St. James cemetery. Mr. Connell's people were former residents of Hampton.

Another freaky proposition that is engaging the attention of town officials is as to whether somone is actually taking puppies out into the woods and abandoning them to their fate—to be rid of them. An official of the town tells of finding two puppies in the woods, one starved to death, the other nearby in the last stages o starvation and dynig.

The killing of an Arctic or snow or Canadian owl at Plain Hill, the killing of another at South Glastonbury and the wounding of another at Quonochontaug, while Deputy Game Warden Gurdon E. Withey of this town reported seeing one in Brooklyn the past week has raised the question in the minds of many as to whether the presence of these visitors from the far north forecasts a season of extreme cold and heavy snows. Snow owls are uncommon in this territory. Some old-time hunters say they have roamed the woods for a life time without encountering one.

PUTNAM

PUTNAM CHRISTMAS FUND MAY AMOUNT TO $45,000

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Nov. 23—The Christmas fund depositors of the three banks of Putnam will soon receive their savings. A conservative estimate of the amount that will be paid out at this time will be about $45,000. This will be an increase over that paid out last year and the banks are well satisfied with the amount. While much of the Christmas fund money will be spent in the buying of gifts, as the purpose for its saving implies, quite a considerable amount of these savings will be put back in the banks, where the saving was made to be added to the account of the depositors. This has occurred each year.

The amount is perhaps not as large as in many cities the size of Putnam but in this city the Christmas clubs are still in their infancy. The number of depositors in the clubs has increased each year as have the individual amounts deposited. The release of this money as the holiday season approaches will be felt by the retail business of the city and will add to the general prosperity of the Christmas season.

Sylvio Mailliaux, 17, whose home is at North Grosvenordale stopped at the plant of the Putnam company on Mechanics street one day last week. On leaving, he saw a bicycle parked in the yard at the plant. He mounted it and rode home. The Putnam police were notified of the loss and located the bicycle in the woods near the boy's home. He was arrested and charged with theft. This morning in city court he was found guilty and paroled for one year in the custody of Probation Officer Peter Gardner.

Thomas H. deCoudres, president of the Putnam chamber of commerce, was at Hartford in attendance at the New England industrial conference which was held at the Hotel Bond in that city.

ANDREW KELLY DIED SUDDENLY ON MONDAY

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Nov. 22—Andrew Kelly, 55, dropped dead today while raking leaves on land of one of the buildings of the Pomfret school. He lived alone and was supposed to be in good health. Mr. Kelly was never married. A brother, James Kelley, lives at Mansfield Depot and a sister-in-law lives in Providence.

At the Second Congregational church this (Tuesday) afternoon, Miss Constance Russell will tell of a Pleasure Trip to Europe. Miss Russell has recently returned from a three months trip abroad. Mrs. Silas M. Wheelock will sing and Miss Gertrude Warner will play the cello accompanied by Mrs. Nelson Lown on the piano. Mrs. Herbert Johnson and Mrs. Harry Houghton will act as hostesses for the afternoon.

The annual union Thanksgiving service of the churches will be held on Wednesday evening at 7:30 at the Baptist church. This is the only union meeting during the year. Rev. Frank A. Fuller, a retired minister of the Congregational church who lives in Putnam will make the address.

This (Tuesday) evening, the monthly conference of teachers, committees and officers of the Second Congregational church school will be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. Richard Carpenter on South Main street. Rev. Nathan B. Burton of the Methodist church will address the meeting.

Miss Myrtle Liljegren of South Woodstock is at the Day Kimball hospital making a good recovery from an operation for appendicitis. She was formerly employed as bookkeeper at the hospital but is now occupying a similar position at the Grafton Massachusetts State hospital.

Miss Edith R. Goyette, a senior at the Putnam high school has been awarded a Remington gold medal for writing 56 words a minute for 15 consecutive minutes.

Six babies were examined at the well baby conference held at the high school auditorium. The nurses were Miss Vincent of Hartford and Mrs. Harry Torrey, the Red Cross nurse of this city, assisted by Miss Geraldine Frost.

W. Foster Schruder of Hartford has been in this vicinity for the past week. He has been making a forestry survey of the state reservation between Abington and Phoenixville.

It is rumored that there is a monstrous wildcat at large near Bark Meadow in the town of Pomfret. None of the local hunters have succeeded in securing it.

Miss Eleanor Egan of Main street has returned from a visit with Boston friends.

Edward Ellis of Willimantic spent the week end with his family on Farrow street.

Armand Auger of Walnut street is the guest of friends in New York city for a few days.

Mrs. Mary Curran of Hollister, Mass., is the guest of her daughter, Mrs. Thomas Duffey of South Main street.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Bevis of Providence street have returned from a visit with relatives at Mechanicsville, N. Y.

Max Goodrow of Middle street has gone to New London where he has accepted a position.

JEWETT CITY

NIGRELLI PLACED ON PROBATION BY COURT

(Special to The Bulletin)

JEWETT CITY, Nov. 23—In the town court Monday morning, Sam Nigrelli was placed on probation for one year and paid the costs of the court. Deputy Sheriff Dolan recovered all the money in Schwarts wallet, which was hidden in the cellar at Nigrelli's barber shop Saturday. The wallet was left in a chair by Schwarts in the Nigrelli shop and the temptation to hide it overcame the tonsorial artist's better judgment.

The latest thing in noctural parking atrocities is reported to the local police from Lisbon. A man living off the main thoroughfare on a little used side road, found, upon attempting to reach his home one night last week, a dark machine, parked partially in the right of way. No amount of horn blowing or strong talk would induce the lovers to move. So, Mr. Man, backed out, took a three mile detour and came home from the other end of the road.

At the meeting of Jewett City chapter of the American Red Cross held Monday evening a resolution was passed expressing the appreciation of the chapter to Robert Kamm, the aviator, who gave the use of his airplane to distribute the publicity matter for the annual roll-call. He also allowed the plane to be decorated with Red Crosses and pictures were taken by Alice A. Brown, the roll call chairman and the aviator, to be sent to national headquarters. This mode of publicity has never been done for the roll call in this state, as far as is known, and for two days 1200 information leaflets were distributed from the plane as it flew over the town. Saturday Mr. Kamm was assisted by Oscar Lamieux and Fred L'Homme. It was also voted to make Mr. Kamm an honorary member of the chapter.

The cottage prayer meeting on Friday evening in the south part of the town is to be held at Mr. and Mrs. Alex McCluggage's not McNicol's.

The Pachaug Community club is to meet this week on Friday evening.

Philip Ellsworth Dearnley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Kittredge of Milford, N. H., and Anne Kathleen Dearnley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Dearnley of Jewett City were married November 8th at the bride's home. The ceremony was performed by Rev. E. E. Scates. The wedding was very quiet on account of the mother's health, and it took place on the birthday of both the bride and groom. Mr. and Mrs. Kittredge went to Mr. Kittredge's home in Milford, N. H. He is superintendent of the Kittredge quarries there, and when they are closed down for the winter, Mr. and Mrs. Kittredge will go to Florida for their honeymoon.

MEDICINAL WHISKEY

With the wet and dry issue to the front in various states, with the referendums thereon recently engaging the attention of sight of them and with the efforts in behalf of modification of the Volstead law, what is going to be the reaction to the plans of Assistant Secretary Andrews of the treasury department in advocating the extension of permits to distilleries for the resumption of the manufacture of whiskey for medicinal purposes?

Secretary Andrews, who is in charge of enforcement work, explains that there are but about 15,000,000 gallons of such whiskey in warehouses of the country, that the consumption under the medicinal permits is from 2,000,000 to 3,000,000 gallons a year and that the continuance of this will mean the end of such whiskey in about five years. He also draws attention to the fact that it requires about five years for whiskey to properly age, so that if the manufacture of whiskey for medicinal purposes was resumed it would not be fit for use much before the time it is going to be required.

There is the alternative of importing whiskey for such purposes and there is also the contention that whiskey is not needed for such use. But it is to be remembered that it is permitted by law as a medicine and despite those who claim it has no medicanal value there are as many more who insist that it has.

Of course the getting of the right to resume manufacture will call for a contest, for it will be maintained that much of what is sold for medicinal use is consumed as a beverage. There would be a limit on production and the point is bound to be made that it is preferable that there should be the manufacture of American whiskey to the importing of stuff about which little or nothing is known. There should be no question about the character of medicinal whiskey.

The reopening of the prohibition issue will probably bring as quick a solution as any move under the existing act to provide for whiskey as a medicine after the next five years. Something must be done before the supply is exhausted and it is simply a question of which is the best method to pursue.

THE CHESTNUT TREE BLIGHT

A communication of much importance is that which has been sent to the department of agriculture by H. Laver of East Hartford concerning the chestnut tree blight, the checking of which has baffled all efforts, thus far.

As Mr. Laver has interested himself in this problem and given two and a half years' study to it, it would appear that there is something more than guesswork involved and even if he hasn't hit upon a dead sure cure and prevention it is to be hoped that he has turned thought and experimentation into a channel which may eventually reach the desired goal.

The chestnut trees, which once made up a large part of the wooded hillsides of New England and the forest lands of the east, have gradually disappeared. There are only a few to be found. For the most part they are weatherbeaten skeletons of once noble trees and gradually going to decay where they have been permitted to remain uncut and utilized.

Hitherto much dependence has been placed upon chestnut. The blight has made it necessary to seek other wood as a substitute and, in not a few instances to turn to substitutes for wood where possible. Thus there has been full recognition of the disastrous effects of the blight and its handicap upon the future, but despite all the research and study there has been found no means of checking it. The cause of it remains a mystery unless the East Hartford man has actually discovered it.

That he should consider it worth while to tell his story to the department of agriculture after his experiments indicates his faith, and he must have something in the way of facts to back it up. His theory is that the trees have been killed by infection they have absorbed from the ground, not by spores, and his remedy is a liberal use of lime on the ground about the trees. It is a simple remedy if it is effective, and yet in curing some of the great ills the simple remedy shines after its curative powers are discovered. Mr. Laver's discovery will not restore the lost trees, but if it is what is claimed for it it should provide the proper protection for new growth.

ROADSIDE MARKETS

Because the roadside markets did a business last year of $25,000,000 does not necessarily mean that it should have been doubled this year, or that it should experience an additional 50 per cent. increase next year. And yet there are large possibilities in this kind of marketing if it is done in such a manner as to carry with it the confidence of the purchasing public.

There is always a demand for fresh vegetables and products of the farm in their season. Such goods when observed growing or when seen displayed are a temptation. Getting them at the source is popular but it makes a big difference what the experience of the public has been as to how extensively it can be relied upon to continue.

When it is found out that roadside markets buy their stock in trade in the city there is no further interest in doing business with such stands. When it is found that such goods are not what they are represented to be the reaction is to give them the go by. When such markets tack onto the price instead of reducing it for cash and carry patrons interest among some may fade.

Those who do business at the roadside must realize and probably have long before this that they must deliver the goods and provide some real attractions for the trade if they are going to do as much business as they have been doing and get more. They know also that it is easy to get a blackeye from the misrepresentations practiced by the unscrupulous who set out to make big profits and then quit regardless of the effects upon others.

Such a source of income is one for the farmers on the much traveled highways to nurse and encourage instead of trying to overdo. There is competition, of course, quite the same as there is in farming and marketing under the usual methods, but the steady and lasting business is going to be established through fair dealings, the selling of good goods and those which are produced on the spot or the immediate vicinity. Trying to overdo a good thing is like killing the goose that lays the golden eggs.

THE HIGHWAY TOLL

The past week end was not such as to bring out as many automobiles for pleasure driving as many others earlier in the season, but there isn't a week end when traffic isn't considerable provided it doesn't rain, and there isn't a day when there can be a relaxation of the common requirements for safety.

For various reasons there was a frightful toll of deaths and accidents from a variety of reasons. There were many in New England states who had to contend with icy highways, always a ticklish task, and it was inevitable that mishaps should be numerous under those conditions, but trouble was abroad nevertheless where the traveling was good and many encountered it with fatal or serious results.

Whatever the reason for the accidents, it is inevitably the case that they might have been avoided had there been due observance of the rules of the road and the rights of others. Fast driving, trying to get out of the way of those with strong or no headlights, lack of care in crossing the street, all resulted in deaths and from the reports it would appear that all of them were needless.

The importance of highway safety, that which concerns the other fellow as well as self, cannot be kept too prominently in mind. Where there is neglect or a failure to drive at such a speed that the motor vehicle can be controlled in case of unexpected trouble serious consequences are too often the result. They have already been responsible for too many untimely deaths but in spite of such deplorable losses the number continues to multiply with startling rapidity, and the distressing part of it is that most of them might have been avoided by the exercise of a little care and the taking of fewer chances.

SHIFTING RESPONSIBILITY

Since the days when the dominions of the British empire were admitted into the league of nations it has been anticipated that some change must be brought about between the dominions and the empire. This has been accentuated since then by the extension of the right to dominions to send diplomatic representatives to Washington, a move which has already been made by the Irish Free State and decided upon by Canada.

By the new arrangement which has been sanctioned by the imperial conference it is recognized that Great Britain and the dominion are "autonomous communities within the British empire, equal in status, in no way subordinate to one another in any aspect of their domestic or external affairs, though united by common allegiance to the crown and freely associated as members of the British commonwealth of nations."

This represents the new relationship between the various parts of the British empire, with the governor general of the dominions representing the king and not the British government. The new rights are of course extended to all and while new and increased authority rests with the dominion governments, including the right to make treaties and have diplomatic representatives, they have shaken off the old dependence on the British Government for their decisions. It is a change that has been in the making for some time encouraged by the developments and the course of events and where there is a general agreement results ought to work out satisfactorily. Each dominion will henceforth bear a greater responsibility but only such as they have been anxious to assume.

HUSBANDS WHO NOTICE

"What do you think!" cried the lady of mature years tragically, trumping an ace of her partner's blithely. "I had my hair bobbed at last and my husband never noticed it!' There I was, all braced for being thrust out into the cold world and the front door slammed shut after me—and Harry went right on for two days reading me bits from the newspaper and saying, 'Let's stay home tonight and listen to the radio.' I didn't know whether to be relieved or heartbroken."

"You ought to know by this time," declared the lady, who also had been married for quite some time. "Any woman having a husband who has practically stopped looking at her doesn't know her luck.

"When you are just engaged I admit that it is thrilling to realize that six blocks down the street from you Edgar's keen eye has detected that you have on a new dress as you wait to greet him and that if you change your brand of nail polish from shell pink to rose color he immediately comments upon it. You have the satisfied feeling that if necessary Edgar could instantly recite the number of hairs in your golden head, and it goes without saying that if you do not smile happily once every six seconds he becomes anxiously excited and begs to know your secret sorrow! Discovering that she is so terribly important to another human being cheers any girl.

"This intensity of observation gradually shades off as a rule if a man is happily married, and presently the time comes when his wife could sit down to breakfast with her face blackened and he would never know it when he kissed her good-by and said, 'good-gravy-I'm-going-to-miss-my - train!' She is so firmly intrenched in his mind that he doesn't have to look at her. It is a proof of his heartfelt devotion!

"You know perfectly well that if a married man of 15 years' standing suddenly began saying 'how beautiful your eyes are today, dearie,' or 'you certainly look stunning in that beige color flat crepe, darling, the one with the diagonal tucks on it,' he would be in for trouble ahead. It wouldn't be natural, and whenever a husband sings off key or begins to canter when he has always paced, any intelligent wife is going to do a little investigating.

"Once in a while, just to prove the rule, a married man gets more and more noticing, as you might say, as time goes on, and you can't imagine what it means to his wife. There was Luella Gethers, a woman I knew with a husband like that, so I know what I'm talking about. If one of the rest of us would announce that she intended purchasing one of the new polkadotted frocks advertised that morning Luella would look wistful and say how she did wish she might have one, but that Oscar was so particular about her clothes and never wanted her to wear anything but plain solid colors.

"She always looked like a last year's bird's nest because it took Oscar so long to grow accustomed to new styles. New hats always are startling because they are so different, and whenever Luella attempted a new hat she usually ended with her old one, because Oscar liked her best in it.

"If a woman has to choose between that sort of smothering interest and the usual kind which is wholesouled but unseeing, she is, if she has good sense, going to be like a child which has to decide between a bag of chocolates and a three-pound book on the Einstein theory. Why, when you are 65 your husband will still have the same quaint notion that you are in the bloom of youth because that is the way you looked when he last critically observed you! I'll bet I know exactly what he said when you desperately called his attention to your haircut! He lowered his paper, blinked and then observed that it looked very nice, very nice indeed, no, it didn't look a bit queer in the back!' No, really, he didn't see that it made much difference in your looks, 'you always looked nice!' "

"That's just what the wretch said to the last comma!" agreed the lady with a grievance. "Maybe you're right, at that!"—Chicago News.

YOUR HEALTH

CARE OF SCHOOL CHILDREN

By Conrad George, Jr., M. D., Ann Arbor, Mich.

Member Gorgas Memorial Institute

Children who are attending school should have regular hours for meals and sleep. Parents who allow their children to eat candy, cookies or anything else at any time during the day without regard to their meals are unconsciously developing habits which are injurious to their children's stomachs and in course of time will impair their health.

The stomach is a very active organ for several hours after a meal. The food has to be churned and then digested juices which are normally formed in the stomach.

Consequently, the stomach, needs rest between meals that is impossible when a child is allowed to eat at any time during the day. Furthermore the child has no appetite at meal time, becomes ill-tempered when required to eat and cannot digest his food while he is in that condition mentally.

The stomach is best able to digest the food at meal time because the digestive juices are then being secreted.

A child should have plain, nourishing, easily digested and well cooked foods served at the proper meal time. The feeding of milk at the schools in the middle of the forenoon is a practice which should be discontinued.

The stomach is made to work at a time when it should be resting and the child has no appetite when the time comes for the noon meal. The child eats little or no breakfast with the exception of getting the milk at school later on in the forenoon.

School children frequently have no appetite for breakfast because they get up too late and try to eat in a hurry with the result that the food is not properly masticated nor digested. They should retire early at night and arise early in the morning. Their appetite will return for breakfast if there is plenty of time to eat it.

Children should not attend movie shows during the day time when they can play out of doors in the fresh air and sunlight. Such exercise stimulates the appetite and strengthens the muscles, and prevents such insidious diseases as tuberculosis and rickets.

Attendance at movie shows at night is also bad for children of school age because it keeps them up too late and excites their young minds with sensational pictures of robbery which keep them from sleeping soundly afterwards.

Children should have long hours of sleep which should be undisturbed by dreams incited by sensational films. It is no wonder that there are so many restless and nervous children who they get to bed late and have disturbed sleep afterwards. Without normal sleep no one can keep his health and strength.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

Canada is about to make the personal acquaintance of another member of the royal family, Prince George, the fourth son of his majesty, who is to cross the dominion on his way home from duty in the far east as a sub-lieutenant in the British navy. He is only one of the king's sons to make his whole career in the navy. The sea service is an exacting one, and it is inevitable that the sailor prince should be less well known to the public than his brothers. Physically, he is perhaps most like Prince Henry, his soldier brother, and is, indeed, an excellent type of the vigorous young English manhood so characteristic of the navy. He has the personal charm, the frank human sympathy, for which the prince of Wales is noted, and his popularity in the service to which he is devoted owes nothing to his rank. "P. G." as he is familiarly known, is himself too deeply imbued with the essential spirit of the service to have wished to stand on any other footing.

Stories That Recall Others

Relief

A 15 year old girl awoke one night and heard, much to her discomfort, the sound as if someone was shaking her window violently. Her hair rose on end for her fear of burglars was great. The sound continued until she thought the window would break, but at that moment she heard a shrill whistle. That further startled her for a moment but suddenly it dawned on her that her burglar was a Central Vermont freight pounding up the track with such a resultant vibration as to rattle most of the windows in the house.

Need for Scrub Team

The youngster who had entered this fall was watching his first football game. It was being played on a very muddy field and after a few downs the gridders were dripping wet. Before long the new observer commented to his neighbor. "Those fellows sure are muddy, aren't they?"

He received no answer, and so in a minute he ventured again: "Those guys certainly get muddy don't they?"

Again the neighbor was silent, and for a third time the freshman spoke. "I say," he blurted, "Why don't the scrub team get to work?" Answering bursts of laughter silenced the comments.

Make the Most of Books

By James Mosher Penniman, Litt. D

Great Truth in Little Space

Sometimes the poets compress their observations of life and of the working of the spirit of man into words which embody a great truth in a little space. "Jewels five words long" that on the stretch'd forefinger of all Time sparkle forever." Often the poets produce an impression or make a picture by the use of a single appropriate word, as when Tennyson says the cloud smoulders on the cliff. He is master of the art of calling up mental images by allusions to color, sound and smell, and he carefully chooses from his enormous vocabulary the exact word to produce the desired effect.

Lowell thought that the real literary genius stored up the apt or pleasing word, and Ruskin said, "he is the best poet who can by the fewest words touch the greatest number of secret chords of thought in his reader's own mind, and set them to work in their own way."

TRAFFIC

By the Albert Russel Erskine Bureau for Street Traffic Research University of California, Los Angeles

In final analysis the enforcement of traffic laws depends upon the willingness and ability of the courts to deal out intelligent and certain penalties. In the whole chain of traffic law enforcement there is probably no link that is weaker than the courts at the present time.

There are few cities that have been able to develop a consistent judicial policy toward traffic cases. The typical situation is characterized by long periods of comparative inactivity and laxity on the part of the courts, interspersed with periods of hysterical enforcement with abnormally heavy penalties.

There are few cities where more than a small fraction of the offenders who are cited to appear before the local courts for traffic violations are given any penalty. A pernicious system of political and personal pull defeats the end of justice in many places.

The most important thing that is needed in traffic law enforcement by the local courts is not heavier penalties but more certain penalties. With the proper coordination between the courts and the police there is no reason why more than a negligible proportion of the cases should escape without a fine.

The courts cannot be entirely blamed for much of the laxity that has crept into traffic cases. It is not uncommon for a single judge to hear as many as three or four hundred cases in the morning. Absence from business for several hours may be a much worse penalty than a substantial fine.

Whenever there are enough cases to keep one judge busy the greater part of the time a special traffic division should be established. The judge whose sole business in the hearing of traffic cases becomes more expert as his experience grows. With a traffic court it is possible for the judge to develop a consistent policy.

A new and valuable development in traffic court technique is to be found in the so-called traffic fine bureau as used in Detroit, Chicago and soon to be installed in Los Angeles. By this method it is unnecessary for an offender to go to court. He appears before the traffic bureau and pays the set fine which is indicated on his violation notification, is given a receipt and the transaction is completed within a minute. Fines become heavier for second and third offenses and accurate records are kept by the bureau of all violations.

In Detroit the system is very popular. It has freed the court for an intelligent consideration of the more serious cases, has reduced the amount of the individual fine, has eliminated delay, has made punishment more certain, and most important of all has made it possible to keep an accurate record of the constant and malicious violator.

"Flexible glass," a material produced in Vienna, Austria, is made by a chemical process of two cheap and common chemicals, formaldehyde and urea. It is as transparent as the best glass. It may be colored any desired shade or left colorless. It breaks much less rapidly than glass. It can be turned in a lathe, sawed with a saw, filed, punched and scraped with tools.

IS YOUR CHILD THIN AND WEAK?

Right Way to Put on Good Flesh and Make Them Grow Up Strong and Vigorous

As a body builder, an appetite creator, and to make weak, skinny boys and girls sturdy, strong and full of energy there is nothing like Cod Liver Oil—any physician will tell you that.

But it's vile, horrible stuff to take, and is apt to upset any stomach, so now doctors are prescribing and wise parents are buying McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets—sugar coated, and as easy to take as candy.

The son of George G. O'Brien of Mahwah, N. J., was thin and pale and did not get enough nourishment from his food. In a little over two months he gained eleven and one-half pounds, and feels and looks one hundred per cent. better.

Mothers, if any of your children are weak, thin or puny, give them these tablets, as directed for 30 days, and watch them gain flesh and health from day to day—they seldom fail—but if the unusual should happen and you are not supremely satisfied with results—your druggist is authorized to return your money.

Be sure—always—to get the original and genuine McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets—60 tablets 60 cents at Lee & Osgood's or any druggist in America. Thousands of boxes sold daily.

BURGESS BEDTIME STORIES

Interference

If you would clear of trouble steer,
With others never interfere.
—Old Mother Nature.

The little people of the Green Forest and the Green Meadows are not so different from we humans. Did you ever draw a crowd? Every one within hearing wants to know what it is about. It is just so withthe little people of the Green Forest and the Green Meadows.

Of course Old Man Coyote had heard the report of what had happened to Mrs. Grouse, and Old Man Coyote felt much the same as Reddy Fox did. He was clever enough to want to make sure that the hunter had found Mrs. Grouse after he had shot her. So, Old Man Coyote had started for the Green Forest shortly after Reddy Fox started. He hadn't found the exact place where the shooting took place as quickly as had Reddy, as of course Reddy was ahead of him.

Old Man Coyote had just discovered Reddy's tracks, and had lifted his lips in a little snarl when he heard Chatterer the Red Squirrel beginning to scold. Old Man Coyote lifted his head and listened. He heard Sammy Jay join in. Old Man Coyote grinned. "Brother Fox must be right over there," said he to himself. "I reckon Brother Fox is looking for Mrs. Grouse. I think I'll just run over there and pass the time of day with him. It may be that he can save me some hard work." Again Old Man Coyote grinned, and there was something very sly about that grin.

Reddy was doing his best to pay no attention to the racket which Chatterer the Red Squirrel, Sammy Jay and Blacky the Crow were making, but every once in a while he lifted his head nervously to look around. You see, he was fearful that somebody whom he didn't want to see might suddenly appear. The scent of Mrs. Grouse was growing stronger, and Reddy's mouth was watering more than ever. It was then that Reddy's fears were realized. A smooth voice said, "Are you having good hunting, Brother Fox?"

Reddy jumped to one side with a snarl and turned to face Old Man Coyote. Old Man Coyote was grinning. He had been watching Reddy, and he knew by the way that Reddy was running, and by the eager look on his face, that he was on a warm trail. He felt certain that that trail was the trail of Mrs. Grouse.

"It is none of your business," snarled Reddy, which of course wasn't polite at all.

"Oh," exclaimed Old Man Coyote, "isn't it? Well then, let me lend you my nose to help you find Mrs. Grouse. I see you have found her trail." Old Man Coyote put his nose down and sniffed when he said this.

Reddy Fox was beside himself with anger. "You keep away!" he snarled. "Mrs. Grouse doesn't belong to you; she belongs to me. I found her first."

"Oh," said Old Man Coyote, "so you have found her! In that case, suppose you give her to me." And suddenly Old Man Coyote jumped toward Reddy, and his eyes seemed to flash, and he showed all his throat, and altogether he looked so big and fierce that Reddy gave a frightened little yelp and turned tail.

Of course Old Man Coyote had

"It is none of your business," snarled Reddy known all the time that Reddy Fox didn't have Mrs. Grouse. Now, having driven Reddy away, he took up the trail himself and started on. All Reddy could do about it was to stand at a distance and tell what he would do to Old Man Coyote were he only a little bigger, all of which was, of course, a pure waste of breath.

Acid Stomach

"Phillips Milk of Magnesia"

Better than Soda

Hereafter, instead of soda take a little "Phillips Milk of Magnesia" in water any time for indigestion or sour, acid, gassy stomach, and relief will come instantly.

For fifty years genuine "Phillips Milk of Magnesia" has been prescribed by physicians because it overcomes three times as much acid in the stomach as a saturated solution of bicarbonate of soda, leaving the stomach sweet and free from all gases. It neutralizes acid fermentations in the bowels and gently urges the souring waste from the system without purging. Besides, it is more pleasant to take than soda. Insist upon "Phillips." Twenty-five cent and fifty cent bottles, any druggstore. "Milk of Magnesia" has been the U. S. Registered Trade Mark of The Charles H. Phillips Chemical Co., and its predecessor Charles H. Phillips since 1875.

PROPOSAL TO HAVE TOWN PLANNING BOARD FOLLOWS ZONING ADDRESS

After hearing an address upon zoning by Herbert S. Swan, secretary of the New York city zoning commission, Monday evening at the November membership supper of the chamber of commerce, the gathering voted that it was the sense of the meeting that a town planning board should be constituted here.

Corporation Counsel William H. Shields, Jr., explained that there is a legislative enactment providing that a town planning board may be elected by a town meeting, its membership consisting of the first selectman ex-officio, the superintendent of highways and bridges, if the town has such an official, and six electors, two of whom are elected every year for terms of three years.

The meeting was held at 6:15 at the Wauregan hotel with an attendance of 76, Swahn's orchestra playing for the dinner hour and Alex Pasnik acting as song leader.

President James L. Case welcomed the gathering and reported that the recent one-day membership campaign had resulted in 80 new members so that the chamber of commerce membership is now substantially over 400. He stated that the directors have prepared a programme of 16 planks for the coming year which will shortly be distributed to the members.

President Case called on H. D. Larrabee to give a report of the New England conference held in Hartford last week and Mr. Larrabee responded by telling of this remarkable meeting of representatives from all the New England states in which the addresses stressed the importance of co-operation. He mentioned the suggestions made by Governor Trumbull that New England should be "sold" more thoroughly to the school children and to the press and that the state should make appropriations for advertising the state. If New England has its troubles, they are of its own making, he said one of the speakers declared and the cure is in our own hands.

Mr. Swan was introduced by President Case to speak upon zoning and he began his remarks by declaring that zoning and planning are forward city movements. Cities that do not see this have not awakened to the fact that we are living in a motor age, that they must avoid dead-end streets and must lay out highways with as much plan and accuracy as a railroad layout. The great question of the day is "Where shall we park?" Traffic congestion is driving business from the big stores in the business centers to the small stores in outlying districts. Without a comprehensive town plan the community is digging pits for future trouble, and zoning is a protection in home ownership and an attraction to new residents.

Mr. Swan gave numerous instances of the application of zoning in cities and in response to a question from Max Hanover said that a comprehensive town plan would be much more valuable than just a city plan.

Secretary John J. O'Rourke inquired if zoning would go into the question of building and property lines, which Mr. Swan answered by stating that this was one of the first requisites with narrow streets for traffic thoroughfares. Mr. O'Rourke's question referred particularly to the case of large residence plots which may be built up by having houses placed flush up to the property line without regard to the location of neighboring houses.

Chief Howard L. Stanton questioned whether Mr. Swan was fully informed about the special conditions in Norwich, streets being accepted without building lines and inadequate water supply for fire protection. He said he thought the zoning law would have to be very flexible here, and he referred to legal complications in Baltimore and Cleveland over zoning. If beautification of the city were desired, it could be done, the chief said, by having better sidewalks in the residence districts.

Mr. Swan replied that in a California case the United States supreme court had absolutely sustained zoning and planning, but the trouble in Baltimore was that the city rushed ahead without getting an enabling act. Here, however, he said, we have all the power we need and the Connecticut courts have been as progressive as any in sustaining town planning.

Walter F. Lester commended the town and city fathers for their wholehearted support of the zoning plan which had secured legislation which made it possible for any town to formulate a town planning board and on his motion the meeting voted its approval of a town planning board for Norwich.

After a vote of thanks to Mr. Swan, the meeting adjourned about 8:30.

GAVE MINSTREL SHOW WITH DANCE FOLLOWING

A minstrel show and dance given Monday evening in the Sunday school room of Christ Episcopal church for the benefit of the church made an especially enjoyable entertainment for a good sized audience. The minstrel was entitled "Dress Rehearsal for Minstreshow," with scenario by Francis Gilman, lyrics by Mrs. Alice Wilson Bastine, piano accompaniment by Stanley G. Pierce and guitar accompaniment by Mrs. Bastine.

The cast was made up as follows: Interlocutor, Francis Gilman; Mammies—Mammy Allie from the Hudson valley, A. W. Bastine; Mammy Cassie from Tallahassee, Mrs. James Southouse; end men, Gus Lambert, Cliff Moody, Laurence Hamilton, Robert Moody; chorus, Milford Newbury, Laurence Hamilton, Cliff Moody, Robert Moody, A. H. Reynolds, Gus Lambert and Ted Lambert.

The programme was carried out as follows: Cuban dance, composed by Mrs. Bastine, danced by Miss Helena Crandall; dialogue, Friendly Doings, George H. and Francis Gilman; song, Bye Bye Blackbird, Cliff Moody; quartette, My Bonnie Leaned Over the Gas Tank, Cliff Moody, Milford Newbury, Gus Lambert A. H. Reynolds; Mammy duet, A. W. Bastine and A. H. Reynolds; Wild Nigger Bill, Gus Lambert; Man of Words, Milford Newbury; Rejected by Liza Jane, James Southouse; A Fat Little Fellow With His Mammy's Eyes, Mrs. James Southouse; Half Way Doin's, Francis Gilman; Red Headed Woodpecker, A. H. Reynolds. The choruses were Glory Land, Bring on Your Hot Corn and Sail Away.

Dancing was enjoyed after the minstrel programme.

FINED IN ONE COURT, NOW FACING ANOTHER

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence White of 11 Front street, Willie Clark, 20, Walter Genest, 21, and James Mather, 18, all of New London, were each fined $15 and costs in court at Ledyard Saturday morning when they were presented on a charge of breaking and entering and all but Mrs. White were presented in the New London police court Monday morning on a charge of theft and the cases continued until Wednesday under bonds of $300 each.

With the arrest of the five, a quantity of alleged plunder, consisting of a valuable shot gun, two revolvers, bed linen, pillows, blankets, quilts and turkeys was recovered.

Held under bonds of $2,500 for appearance in Ledyard before Justice of the Peace Walter Buckingham, the accused were represented by Attorney Frank Shea.

Following the disposal of the case at Ledyard, all but Mrs. White were taken into custody again by State Policeman Albright for presentation in the New London court. All four men are charged with stealing 100 gallons of gasoline from the trucks of the Eastern Dairies Co, garage in Howard street, between Sept. 28 and Nov. 22 of this year. Mather, Clark and Genest are also charged in a second count with the theft of seven and a half gallons of oil valued at $7.50.

On request of counsel for the accused the case was continued until Wednesday and bonds were fixed.

STONINGTON MAN APPEALS FROM LIQUOR CASE FINES

Appeal from fines totalling $300, costs of $22.50, and a jail sentence of 60 days, was taken by Manual Victoria of 30 Summit street, Stonington, when he was arraigned in Stonington town court Monday morning on two counts alleging violation of the liquor law. Victoria pleaded guilty to charges of keeping liquor with intent to sell, and maintaining a house reputed as a place where liquor was sold. Judge William A. Wilcox imposed a fine of $100 on the first count, with costs of prosecution added, and a fine of $200 on the second count, with a sentence of 60 days in the New London county jail.

Upon signifying his intention to file an appeal, Judge Wilcox fixed bonds at $1,000, surety upon which was furnished by the defendant's brother, Antone Victoria, also of Stonington.

Victoria's arrest came as the result of a raid on his home on the night of Nov. 13, by Patrolman William Ostman of Stonington and three deputies. The officers testified in court that they confiscated a quantity of liquor that tested 100 proof and 55 per cent alcohol.

Collision on Burnham Square

A Hudson machine owned and driven by Russell A. Clapp, Jr., of No. 40 Town street, was in a slight collision with a machine, Connecticut registration N-5970 at Burnham square Monday evening. There was but little resulting damage.

GAVE TRAVEL TALK FOR CENTRAL BAPTIST MEN

A very interesting talk on a two months European tour was given by Harrison C. Noyes as the feature of a supper meeting of the City Bible Class for Men Monday evening at the Central Baptist church. At 6:30 o'clock supper was served in Bushnell chapel the following menu being provided by Mrs. Henriette Tefft and her corps of workers:

Meat pie, mashed turnips, mashed potatoes, cranberry jelly, sweet pickles, biscuits, cake, ice cream, coffee.

At the close of the supper Toastmaster Shepard B. Palmer, president of the class, called the gathering to order. Brief remarks were made by Charles L. Stewart, Judge John H. Barnes and Edwin Hill. Fred Maples entertained with several humorous stories and then Mr. Maples and Frank Steinke led in the singing of Old Black Joe. During the supper a concert programme was furnished by the Sunday school orchestra and there was spirited singing of well known songs.

Toastmaster Palmer presented as the principal speaker, Harrison C. Noyes, who with Mrs. Noyes enjoyed a two months vacation tour of Europe last summer.

Mr. Noyes told of sailing from New York June 30th, and took occasion to thank all who sent notes and cards of greetings and well wishes which he received on sailing time. He said there were all kinds of amusements and diversions on the trip across the Atlantic. There were bridge parties, concerts, travel talks, lectures, etc., and the sea was as calm as a mill pond. Nine or ten days after sailing from New York the party of tourists landed in Portugal.

Mr. Noyes told of touring the city of Lisbon and of visiting the monastery of St. Jerome. From Lisbon the tourists went to Cadiz, Spain, and while in Spain Mr. Noyes told of attending a bull fight. He gave a very vivid description of the bull fight. From Cadiz they went by train to Seville, then to Tangiers and from there the tourists went to Gibraltar. A visit to Algiers was followed by a trip to Naples where they enjoyed an auto trip around the city. There was also a visit to Pompeii which greatly impressed Mr. Noyes.

Rome and Genoa were visited and then boarding a train the tourists were taken to Paris. Thence they went to Norway, and across to Edinburgh, Scotland. Back across the channel, Berlin and Hamburg were next visited and from Hamburg they went to Southampton, sailing from that port for home.

Mr. Noyes described in detail his visits to various monasteries and cathedrals in the different European cities, dwelt at length on the beauties of the marvelous paintings and statuary he saw in the different countries visited and spoke most interestingly of a visit to Loch Lomond, while he and Mrs. Noyes were in Scotland.

Mr. Noyes was heartily applauded at the close of his talk. The meeting adjourned about 9:45 o'clock.

CONNECTICUT ENTRIES IN NATIONAL HEALTH CONTEST

Catherine Tufts, 14, of Deep River and Charles Dimmock, 16, of Waterford, will leave Friday for Chicago to attend the national boys' and girls' club congress and to represent Connecticut in the national health contest.

In the state health contest held at Storrs during junior short course last July these youngsters each scored 100 per cent., examination being made by officials of the state board of health. Their friends hope that one or both of them will win national honors at Chicago.

The Connecticut representatives, while in Chicago, will visit the International Livestock exposition, the packing plants and a big farm machinery factory. They will be accompanied on the trip by Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Brundage of Storrs and Mrs. D. L. Tufts of Deep River.

DENIES PHILIP PLANT IS TO DIVORCE HER

Broadway is still seething with rumors that Philip Manwaring Plant, adopted son of the late Commodore Morton F. Plant and his bride of a year, Constance Bennett, stage and film beauty, have come to the parting of the domestic ways. The latest report is that Phil, who sailed from New York with his stepfather, Col. William H. Hayward, ostensibly for a hunting trip in Africa, has really gone abroad for a Paris divorce.

Connie indignantly denies this rumor, however, and states that she will leave for Paris on Jan. 29 to join Phil and that they plan to spend the winter together on the Riviera.

EXPRESS APPRECIATION OF REV. J. ELDRED BROWN

At the monthly meeting of the Norwich Ministers' association, which was held Monday morning in the study of Rev. Alexander H. Abbott, the 30th anniversary of its president, Rev. J. Eldred Brown, as rector of Trinity Episcopal church was noted by an expression of appreciation presented by a special committee consisting of Rev. J. Harlow Graham and, Rev. A. N. Foster, secretary.

This was adopted by the meeting as follows:

"On occasion of the observance of the anniversary of 30 years' service by the Rev. J. Eldred Brown as rector of Trinity Episcopal church the Norwich Ministers' association wishes to record its appreciation of his unfailing courtesy and integrity as a public spirited citizen and his sympathetic and fraternal contact with the several churches of the community. The dignity of his presence and the helpfulness of his counsel as president of the Ministers' association are warmly esteemed and in pleasure and pride it may be added that his labors have contributed to the higher life of Norwich and that we trust our community may be blessed by his continuance in our midst for many years to come."

GUILTY ON CHARGE OF EVADING RESPONSIBILITY

Found guilty of evading responsibility Jace Damico, 21, of Moosup, was fined $50 and costs at the Monday morning session of the city court. He was driving a touring car Thursday night about midnight near Taft's station and backed the car out into the middle of the highway just as a sedan, driven by George Meyer of Lisbon, and headed south, came along. A car parked on the right side of the road made it impossible for Mr. Meyer to clear the Damico car and the latter car backed into the side of the sedan, sending it against the parked car. Both the sedan and the parked machine were damaged.

Damico, instead of stopping, although several men who were nearby called out to him, one of them even running alongside of the car and another hanging to the spare tire, kept going. The number of his machine was secured and through the number the name of the owner was ascertained. A warrant was then issued for Damico's arrest. In court Monday morning Damico claimed that the reason he didn't stop was that he did not think there was any damage done, as it appeared to him as though the mudguards just touched each other.

Doesn't hurt one bit! Drop a little "Freezone" on an aching corn, instantly that corn stops hurting, then shortly you lift it right off with fingers. Your druggist sells a tiny bottle of "Freezone" for a few cents, sufficient to remove every hard corn, soft corn, or corn between the toes, and the foot calluses, without soreness or irritation.

9-YEAR OLD SON IS TO SERVE AS BEST MAN

BOSTON, Nov. 23 (AP)—Mayor Malcolm Nichols today announced that his son Clark H. Nichols, nine years of age, would serve him as his best man at his wedding on Friday afternoon to Miss Carrie M. Williams. Dexter P. Nichols, seven year old son of the mayor, will be ringbearer and Marjorie, his four year old daughter, will be flower girl. The ceremony in the Church of the New Jerusalem will be performed by the Rev. H. Clinton Ray, the pastor. Miss Williams will be attended by her sister, Miss Florence Williams. Miss Carrie Williams was a twin of the mayor's first wife who died soon after he took office.

LOTTERIES FLOURISH IN DENMARK; BAN BOOKIES

COPENHAGEN, Nov. 23 (AP)—In Denmark lotteries flourish. There are four, each of which is conducted under strict government control. About 15 per cent of the premiums are retained by the government, the remainder being distributed as prizes.

Lotteries and totalizators at races are the only forms of gambling allowed in Denmark. Book-making, for instance, is a criminal offence.

SUSIE THINKS PEOPLE HAVE MORE TO BE THANKFUL FOR THAN THEY ADMIT

With the approach of the Thanksgiving holiday Susie in her weekly letter writes of her idea of what people should be thankful for along with what she is thankful for herself. Her letter follows:

Dear Sports Ed.:

Well Ed. it's getting to the season of the year when us poor mortals either eats turkey or beans and offers our thanks to the good Lord for giving us one or the other. Say Ed. I wonder how many of these people what you hear always complaining about this and that ever stop to think how much they has got to be thankful for. Now there ain't a single soul what is so darned down on his luck that he ain't got something he can say thanks for. I ain't never seen nobody but what could be worse off than they is and believe me do they be thankful that things ain't no worse? No, they cuss around and think they is about as bad off as anybody could be. Well I guess that's human nature alright but if you just grin a little once in a while no matter if things do look pretty blue why things will look different.

I suppose they is a lotta grouches what will say that me being a girl don't know what I'm talking about 'cause I ain't had no troubles. Well maybe I ain't but I know a lotta people what has. Now take my grandmother, the one what died when I was a kid. Now Granny was pretty well along in years, most 90 when she left this world of woe, but she was the most cheerful soul right up to the last. She had rhumatics, was deaf and almost blind and she had only one tooth but she was happy. I remember one Thanksgiving I says to her "Gram, what you got to be thankful for?" "Well, Susie" she says, with a smile. "My rhumatics is bad, and I can't hear well nor can I see like I use to and besides I only got one tooth but I'm thankful I got that one tooth and don't have to have no store teeth." That's what I call grinning in the face of adversity.

What am I thankful for, you ask me? Well I'll tell you. I'm thankful I ain't got slapped in the face for some of the cracks what I have made about some things and people. Not that I intend anything mean but you never know how some folks is going to take a joke, if any. I'm thankful the old man has got a job so's we can have a alleged native turkey for Thanksgiving and don't have to eat no beans. I get them every Saturday night and warmed over on Sunday. I'm thankful I'm homely and ain't got a whole string of sheiks following me around. Taint every girl what is lucky like I am. I got the best dad and mother in the world along with a brother and a sister what can't be beat and I got a boy friend what thinks I'm a apple in his eye and not a quince. All of which I'm thankful for.

Say Ed. the most thankstull people what I run across lately is them telephone operators. I bet they say "thank you" more times a day than most congressmen say it in a year. I don't know what they say it for 'cause I think it ought'a be us what should give thanks when we gets the right number. Still I guess it comes kind of hard for some of 'em to say thank you at that. You know the other day a operator says "Thank you" when I gives her the number. I wasn't going to let her have nothing on me in perliteness so I says "You're very welcome, indeed." Well that operator comes right back and says "Don't try to be fresh, you ain't funny at all" Can you imagine that, and me trying to be perlite like she ought'a been. Well Ed. it takes all kinds of people to make up a world and a telephone office.

Say Ed I bet Tad Jones is thankful that the football season is over and he can go back to selling coal. Gosh I guess every Yale grad is thankful too but they is most thankful that Yale beat Harvard which was a grand ending of a otherwise bum season. I guess King Ferdinand is thankful he ain't footing the bills for Queen Marie's jaunt through the U. S. Wayne B. Wheeler oughta be thankful that there weren't any more states what voted on the wet referendum. Speaking of politics I guess Dick Freeman is thankful he was elected and I bet Milo Waters is just as thankful he wasn't elected no lieutenant governor. The fellow what holds public office may be setting in a bed of roses but they forgot to pick the thorns off the stems. Another feller what's thankful is Harold Robinson, our efficient tax collector because he's got 90 per cent of his collections and all he's got to worry about is that other 10 per cent.

I bet the feller what signs himself as "The Cloud Digger" is thankful people don't take his predictions seriously and don't check up on him. A lotta married men is thankful Suburban days and Dollar days don't come every week. A lotta wives would be thankful if they did though. I bet Coach Callaghan is thankful his team ain't going to play them Academy boys and get a perfectly good record all mussed up. Them people what live in Chicago ought to be thankful to the feller what invented the bullet-proof vest. Them people what live in Florida is thankful they don't live in California where there'r earthquakes and them people in California is thankful they don't live in Florida where the hurricanes grow. Then we what live in Norwich ought to be thankful we don't live in either California or Florida. Even if we do have to shovel snow in the winter time we don't have to pick ourselves up from under no fallen buildings or dig ourselves out of no holes where the earth has cracked open.

Well Ed old dear if we stop to think it over they's a lotta things we got to be thankful for and if we look at it right it ain't such a tough old world at that. You don't see nobody being so very thankful at the idea of passing out of the picture do you? Well I hope you enjoy the turkey if you're lucky enough to have one and I hope you give thanks for it. I bet you're thankful you don't get no more than one letter from me a week.

With thanks as ever,

SUSIE.

Piles Go Quick

Without Salves or Cutting

Thousands who have piles have not learned that quick and permanent relief can only be accomplished with internal medicine. Neither cutting nor any amount of treatment with ointments and suppositories will remove the cause.

Bad circulation causes piles. There is a complete stagnation of blood in the lower bowel and a weakening of the parts. Dr. J. S. Leonhardt was first to find the remedy and called his prescription HEM-ROID. Dr. Leonhardt tried it in 1000 cases with the marvelous record of success in 98 per cent. and then decided it should be sold by druggists everywhere under a rigid money-back guarantee.

Don't waste any more time with outside applications. Get a package of HEM-ROID from Lee & Osgood today. It has given safe and lasting relief to thousands and will do the same for you.

WINDHAM NOT TO PLAY ACADEMY ON THANKSGIVING

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Nov. 23—Feeling that there would be no advantage gained, other than financial, from a post-season game, Coach Thomas A. Callaghan of the Windham high school football eleven announced Monday that the invitation of Norwich Free Academy for a game in Norwich Thanksgiving day afternoon would not be accepted. The Norwich management was so notified. The school authorities and the members of the team are unanimous in the feeling that having now officially closed a well and hard fought schedule there is no reason to play "just one more" game which was not on the regular schedule. According to comparative scores Windham claims to have the better record and say they are entitled to the rating of eastern Connecticut interscholastic football champions for the fourth consecutive year. Nevertheless the Windham faculty and undergraduate management realize that the proposed game with Norwich would have proven a tremendous attraction but after carefully weighing all sides it was decided that the game with Manchester last Saturday should remain the curtain game of the season. This Tuesday the letter men will meet and elect a captain for next year.

Windham high school's football team will be highly feted by the Willimantic Rotary club at a banquet in the Nathan Hale hotel at 6:30 o'clock Tuesday evening. Special talks, music and entertainment have been arranged by the boys' work committee of the club, of which Dr. Michael D. Riordan is chairman. Principal Egbert A. Case, Coach Thomas A. Callaghan and others will be among the guests.

HAS WINDHAM A BETTER CLAIM TO TITLE THAN ACADEMY

In another column of this page there is a special item from Willimantic which states that Windham high school claims the football championship of eastern Connecticut because comparative scores show Windham to have a better team than the Norwich Free Academy. In looking over the past season's record of the two teams it is hard to see just where Windham bases her claims for the honors.

To begin with Windham has played seven games winning five and losing two, while the Academy has played eight games so far this season and has won five, lost two and tied one. This would give both teams a percentage standing of .778. As far as the championship of eastern Connecticut is concerned Windham has played only two of the teams in eastern Connecticut, Putnam and Chapman Tech. The Academy has played three teams from this part of the state, Bulkeley, Stonington and Chapman Tech. The only direct comparison is in the two Chapman games. Windham beat Chapman 14 to 7 while the Academy beat Chapman 14 to 0, which comparison favors the Academy. Windham beat Putnam 13 to 12, Putnam tied Plainfield 6 to 6, Plainfield lost to Chapman Tech 26 to 0 This is a rather round about comparison but it would seem to favor the Academy rather than Windham. Another comparative score which does not figure in eastern Connecticut football would favor Windham. Westerly, an out of state team, was beaten by Windham 6 to 0 and Westerly held the Academy to a scoreless tie.

The other games played by both Windham and the Academy were with teams in the western part of the state. With all things considered it looks to the average person as though it was a good tie for honors neither team being able to put forth any real positive claim for the title.

If Windham had consented to play the Academy then all doubts about the mythical title would have been settled

HARVARD OVERSEERS APPOINT COMMITTEE TO INVESTIGATE

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Nov. 22.—(AP)—The board of Harvard overseers today took official notice of the break in athletics between Harvard and Princeton by naming a committee to confer with the athletic committee and the student council "with regard to the present situation as it affects the university and alumni." The committee will report at the next meeting of the board.

At the same time President A. Lawrence Lowell and Howard Elliott of New York, president of the board, issued statements relating to mention, at a previous meeting of the board, of the policy contemplated by William J. Bingham, director of athletics, of playing football every year with Yale alone, and having no other fixed games on the Crimson schedule. Mr Elliott, after the Princeton-Harvard break, publicly urged the authorities of the two institutions to "get together" to come to a new understanding.

"In answer to a question, I stated at a previous meeting of the board of overseers," President Lowell said in his statement, "the policy contemplated by the director of athletics of playing football every year with Yale alone. No objection being made by any one, I concluded that no one had any objection thereto. I am now informed that some members of the board, not expecting immediate action, did not intend their silence to be construed as assent."

Mr. Elliot in his statement said:

"At the September 28 meeting of the board of overseers, there was an informal discussion about the football situation and President Lowell made a statement of the situation up to that time. Nothing was presented to the board for action. No vote was taken and the board did not either approve or disapprove any proposed plan for the future."

"GAMIEST TEAM I EVER HAD" IS JONES' COMMENT

NEW HAVEN, Nov. 23.—(AP)—The gamiest team he ever had, is the way Coach Tad Jones characterized the 1926 Yale eleven at the football banquet here tonight. Both Coach Jones and Captain Bunnell spoke highly of Captain-elect "Bill" Webster, of Shelton, Conn., and Bunnell praised the work of the coaching staff in the face of many obstacles.

Webster, next year's leader, was captain of the yearling eleven two years ago, and led his prep school team at Hotchkiss, where he prepared for Yale. Until his sophomore year he played at tackle, but last year and this, except for the Army game, he has played at guard. He was injured before the 1926 season commenced and played first this year in the Army game.

PENN WINS INTERCOLLEGIATE CROSS COUNTRY RUN

NEW YORK, Nov. 23.—(AP)—Led by its sophomore star, William J. Cox, who won individual honors in record-breaking time of 30 minutes 4 seconds, Penn State's harriers today dethroned Syracuse as varsity cross-country champions of the Intercollegiate A. A. A. A. The official point tally was, Penn state 44, Syracuse 46.

MAINE AND CONN. AGGIES TIE IN N. E. CONFERENCE

(Special to The Bulletin)

STORRS, Conn. Nov. 23.—In closing their 1926 seasons Saturday, one New England Conference eleven was victorious and two others went down to defeat. Connecticut Aggies defeated Rensselaer 26-6 at Storrs, Massachusetts Aggies was Overwhelmed by Tufts 45-13 at Medford, and New Hampshire lost to Brown at Providence by a 40-12 score. Maine and Rhode Island, the other two elevens in the conference closed their seasons a week ago. The conference season this year has proved once more the oft-repeated statement that comparative scores mean nothing in football, and many attempts to select the best conference eleven, or to award a mythical "championship," will be worthless. This can probably be best illustrated in an examination of the season's scores that show Maine beat Connecticut 31-0, the Nutmeggers in turn licked New Hampshire 7-0, and then New Hampshire completly upset the dope in defeating a supposedly stronger Maine eleven 14-7. Difficult indeed will be the task of any who attempt to select the best eleven in the New England conference in view of these scores.

Based on a percentage of games won and lost, the Connecticut Aggies and Maine have the most impressive records for the entire season. Each eleven played an eight game schedule, and each finished with a record of seven victories and only one defeat to mar what would otherwise be perfect seasons. Connecticut in eight contests scored 190 points as against 33 for opponents, while Maine in the same number of games scored 137 points to 33 for opponents.

After Connecticut and Maine, New Hampshire's record for the season looks best. The Granite stater's in eight contests won four and lost four, the best feat of the year being their turning back Maine. Then would follow Rhode Island and Massachusetts Aggies, each with records of six defeats and only one victory apiece to end what have been disastrous seasons.

Connecticut's record for the season which closed Saturday includes victories over Wesleyan, Massachusetts Aggies, Trinity, New Hampshire, Cooper Union, Rhode Island and Rensselaer, and one defeat at the hands of Maine.

Maine defeated Fort Williams, Rhode Island, Middlebury, Connecticut Aggies, Bates, Colby and Bowdoin, and lost to New Hampshire. For the third successive year, Maine won the state series, which involves Bates, Bowdoin, Colby and Maine.

New Hampshire's record, which is not as good as that enjoyed by the Granite stater's in recent years, includes victories over Colby, Rhode Island, Tufts and Maine, and defeats at the hands of Bowdoin, Springfield, Connecticut Aggies and Brown.

Massachusetts Aggies won a lone contest from Worcester Tech, and dropped games to Bates, Connecticut Aggies, Amherst, Williams, Amherst, Springfield and Tufts. It was the poorest season experienced by the Bay staters in a long time.

Rhode Island dropped games to Brown, Maine, New Hampshire, Lowell Textiles, City College of New York and Connecticut Aggies, and won from Worcester Tech.

Williams of Connecticut was the high scorer of the conference with a total of 15 touchdowns or 90 points.

The number of games won and lost by the conference teams for the season follow:

Team	W.	L.	P.C.
Connecticut Aggies	7	1	875
Maine	7	1	875
New Hampshire	4	4	500
Rhode Island	1	6	142
Massachusetts	1	6	142

HANLEY OFFERED COACHING JOB AT BOSTON COLLEGE

CINCINNATI, Nov. 22.—(AP)—Dick Hanley, coach of the Haskell Indians who, with his band of redskins is in Cincinnati, received a wire from Boston college today in which he was offered the position of head coach made vacant by the resignation of Major Frank W. Cavanaugh. Hanley declined the offer stating that he was satisfied with his position as coach of Haskell.

COLUMBIA AND COLGATE RESUME ATHLETIC RELATIONS

NEW YORK, Nov. 23.—(AP)—Resumption of gridiron relations with Colgate after a lapse of five years features Columbia's 1927 football schedule, announced today. The list of games:

Sept. 24, Vermont; Oct. 1, Union; 8, Wesleyan; 15, Colgate; 22, Williams; 29, Cornell at Ithaca; Nov. 5, Johns Hopkins; 12, Pennsylvania at Philadelphia; 24, Syracuse.

BILL WEBSTER ELECTED CAPTAIN OF YALE ELEVEN

NEW HAVEN, Nov. 23.—(AP)—William A. Webster, of Shelton, Conn., was elected captain of the Yale football team for 1927 at a meeting of the varsity eleven today. Webster has just closed his second season as a Yale football regular and has been one of the mainstays of the team, alternating at tackle and guard.

ALUMNI TEAM ISSUES CHALLENGE TO ACADEMY

The Alumni team, made up of members of the 1924 and 1925 Academy teams, wishes to challenge the Academy varsity for Thanksgiving day afternoon. The members of the Alumni feel that they should be given preference over an out of state team now that Windham has turned down the Academy offer.

Challenge Accepted

The Riverside grammar school accepts the challenge of the Elizabeth street school in Norwich for a game of football on Thanksgiving day, Nov. 26. Game to start at 2 p. m.

Grammar school lineup is as follows: Mitchell c, lg; Charles R. rg; Stanley K. lt; Stanley Bush, rt; Fred O. lg; Antonie B. rg; Michael J. center; Joseph Wolkoski, lhb; Nefty Sim, rhb; Joseph Perry, quarterback; Walter Bernol, fb; substitutes, Russel C., Hanna G.

BROWN'S MOST POTENT WEAPON DURING SEASON WAS FORWARD PASS

NEW YORK, Nov. 23.—(AP)—Brown has forward passed its way to football fame this season in a campaign which has seen most of the aerial attacks repulsed and the field goal called upon to decide an increasing number of college gridiron conflicts. The Brown passing combination of Mishel to Randall has stood out as the main offensive weapon of the Bruins, playing as conspicuous a part in their triumphs over Dartmouth, Yale and Harvard as have the "ironmen" qualities of the eleven regulars.

Colgate alone stands in the way of an unbeaten season for Brown and a claim to eastern as well as national championship honors. If the New York state eleven can stop the Mishel-Randall combination in the Thanksgiving day game at Providence it may break up Brown's victorious march. If, on the other hand, the aerial antics of the Bears are successful, "Mishel to Randall" will deserve a place in football annals along with such other famous passing pairs as Wyman-Baston of Minnesota, Prichard-Merrilat of West Point, Oberlander-Tully of Dartmouth and Friedman-Oosterbaan of Michigan.

Brown's brilliant use of the pass this year under the coaching of D. O. McLaughry, aided by Ed McMillan, Princeton's all-American center of 1925, has been all the more noteworthy because of the somewhat widespread collapse of the aerial game, as exhibited by other major teams. Last season, the pass was a decisive weapon in lifting Dartmouth to eastern honors but the Green's aerial efforts this year, lacking receivers such as Tully and Sago, have been broken up. Michigan, Alabama, Washington and Princeton also owed much of their 1925 success to the pass but the old-fashioned running game and the field goal have dominated the play in most of this season's big games.

Brown is only one of several major teams whose title hopes are at stake in concluding games this week. On Saturday the Navy stakes its hopes of an eastern championship as well as service honors in the battle with the Army at Chicago, while Notre Dame faces an unexpectedly tough assignment against Carnegie at Pittsburgh. Boston college, its slate marred only by a tie, comes to grips at the same time with its old rival, Holy Cross at Boston.

The Thanksgiving day spotlight, in addition to the Brown-Colgate fray, is directed at games of such traditional interest as Cornell-Pennsylvania, Syracuse-Columbia, Penn State-Pittsburgh and West Virginia-Washington and Jefferson.

YALE'S TOUCHDOWN NOT APPROVED BY CONN. BOARD

NEW HAVEN, Nov. 23.—(AP)—The decision of officials of the Harvard-Yale game Saturday, in the play which resulted in Yale's one touchdown, was disapproved by the members of the central board of Connecticut football officials, at their meeting here tonight.

With the ball in Harvard's possession close to its own goal line, and seven yards to go on a fourth down, Captain Coady punted well beyond mid-field, where the Blue receiver was stopped in his tracks. During the play Swits, substitute quarterback, had come onto the field, and play was disallowed. On Coady's attempt to punt on the next play, Yales linesmen broke through, blocked the kick, and Sturhahn recovered for the touchdown which won the game.

The Connecticut officials decided unanimously that either Harvard should have been given the ball where the Yale receiver was downed on the original put or, if the play were disallowed and the ball returned, Yale should have been penalized five yards for having 12 men on the field at a time.

MICHIGAN WAS NOT LUCKY SAYS MICHIGAN

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Nov. 22.—(AP)—Michigan defeated Minnesota Saturday because she was lucky? Say, listen—

All last week Benny Oosterbaan practiced the play that gave Michigan her touchdown. Even the day before the game he rehearsed it, schooled himself in its execution, running, scooping a low bounding ball and then dashing away with it.

Minnesota's fault during the season had been fumbling. The Michigan coaches pondered this and drilled the Wolverines in a form of play that would take advantage of every break of the game.

Thus, when Nydahl fumbled, Oosterbaan was there, ready for just such a break and prepared by training to make fast recovery and spring 55 yards for a touchdown.

Lucky? Listen further to what they are saying tonight on a gleeful Michigan campus.

The point after touchdown which won the game also was the hard-earned fruitage of careful preparation. Bennie Friedman knew, even before the Ohio game in which his toe delivered the winning kick, that a well-directed place-kick after touchdown, was apt to be the margin of victory over Minnesota. He concentrated on the kick.

Two Bennies, long before last Saturday, brought keen football intelligence to the problem of beating Minnesota. They decided what would be possible avenues to victory, and then they drilled arms, legs, body and mind to a perfection that would make execution successful.

Michigan lucky? Well, maybe. But they reason the other way here.

DUMMY DEFENSIVE PRACTICE FOR ARMY YESTERDAY

WEST POINT, N. Y., Nov. 22.—(AP)—Dummy defensive work against the Navy's plays featured the practice of the Army today in preparation for the service battle in Chicago Saturday. The drill lasted two hours with the aid of electric lights.

Head Coach "Biff" Jones had the varsity's full strength in action, with Harbold and Born at ends, Saunders and Sprague tackles, Schmidt and Hammack guards, Daly at center, Harding quarterback, Wilson and Cagle halfbacks and Murrell fullback. Kicking and passing drills occupied the backfield and ends, Murrell being joined by Captain Hewitt, Seeman, a guard, and Breninall, substitute end, in the punting practice.

Orders affecting the movement of the Cadets to Chicago were announced today. The football squad will leave here at 5:10 p m Wednesday, arriving in Chicago at 3:30 p. m. Thursday. The Cadet corps will depart in five special trains on Thursday morning, due in Chicago Friday at 9:30 a. m.

RAY YERRINGTON ELECTED CAPTAIN OF ACADEMY FIVE

At a meeting of the Academy basketball team held Monday afternoon Ray Yerrington was elected captain of the team for the 1926-27 season. The Academy opens the basketball season on Saturday evening at the Y. M. C. A. against the C. F. C. team of Norwich. It is expected that the next game will be against Torrington high, last year's state champions.

SPORT BRIEFS

In the early '80s the National league baseball teams played only three games in a week, as a rule, but the teams scheduled exhibition games to fill in and help defray expenses.

Cornell, a la Notre Dame, will have nearly three full sets of backs ready to carry on the attack against Pennsylvania in the annual Thanksgiving day game between these rivals. Head Coach Gil Dobie has ten experienced ball carriers in shape now.

William C. Prout, the Boston lawyer who now heads the American Olympic committee, is the first former Olympic athlete to be chosen president of that body. Prout was a star quarter-miler and junior national champion, having been a member of the 1908 Olympic team that went to London.

HORSE BACKED TEAM INTO PAWCATUCK RIVER

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I., Nov. 23—A team of a five-foot embankment face wall backwards into the waters of the Pawcatuck river this morning about 11:15 o'clock was the fate of a pair of horses attached to a large express wagon. The team was owned and driven by Harry Burdick of Downer street, Pawcatuck, who had driven back of the Barber Memorial and Porter-Loveland blocks to remove ashes from the rear of the ailing Rubber Co. block, at 23 High street. The driver had alighted and as the horses continued backing a quantity of loose earth was carried down with the horses as the wagon turned over with its wheels in the air and headed up-stream. Close by the wall was a considerable quantity of rubbish but a short way beyond the river was deep in which the gray horse was submerged to its head which continued to drop beneath the surface from time to time. Burdick sprang down on the overturned wagon and cutting the traces the horses were enabled to scramble ashore and proceeding a short way up along the river bank could be led ashore with no more serious results than a few bruises and a thorough wetting.

A crowd collected on the Pawcatuck river bridge to watch the horses struggling in the river. More collected on the river bank near the scene where Police Officer Robert M. Kessel endeavored to keep the increasing number of onlookers back. In the afternoon most of the wagon was fished out of the river in sections, but one smashed wheel and a tailboard remained stuck in the mud. The pole of the wagon was broken in its descent into the river.

Recorded in the office of the Westerly town clerk appears the following transfer: Nov. 23, Vilette S. Marr and Ethel D. S. Johnson to Frank Ferraro and Frances R. Ferraro a parcel of land with a dwelling house, known as 11 Dixon street, west of the parochial school of the Immaculate Conception parish, and formerly known as the David Franklin Stillman property.

On Friday at the rectory of Christ Episcopal church Miss Elsie Marie Frazier, a nurse of Wakefield, R. I., was united in marriage with Jack Edmund Bowler, superintendent of the Braid Manufacturing company of Peace Dale, R. I. The ceremony was performed by Rev. G. Edgar Tobin, rector of Christ church of Westerly, there being present at the ceremony Kathleen Champion and Ernest W. Champion.

Arthur N. Nash, grand master of Masons of Connecticut, returned to his Westerly home the past week end from a visit in Chicago, stopping off at New Haven to be present at the dedication of the $140,000 Masonic temple erected by Branch lodge, No. 54 in Westerville.

Judge William A. Wilcox of Pawcatuck held a session of Stonington town court on Monday morning in Borough hall in Stonington borough. Manuel Victoria, 50, of 30 Summit street, Stonington, was arraigned by Prosecuting Attorney George R. McKenna on two counts to which the defendant pleaded guilty. The first was the complaint of keeping with intent to sell, on which Judge Wilcox imposed a fine of $300 and the second, reputation, on which the fine was $100, the costs being $22.50.

Notice of an appeal to superior court was made by the defendant who was raided on Nov. 13th when Patrolman William Ostman found a five gallon jug, one quart bottle and a pint bottle full of moonshine. The analysis showed .55 by weight and .53 by volume, alcohol.

On Monday morning it was decided that no autopsy would be held on the body of John Pendleton of Potter Hill, which was discovered on Sunday forenoon nby William Green on Maxson street, in Potter Hill, and in which life was thought to have been extinct for 10 or 11 hours, by Medical Examiner Dr. Edwin J. Kneer of Hope Valley who gave permission for its removal.

Washington county Sheriff Fred T. Mitchell of Westerly carried on his investigation in the matter into the evening and reported tracing the movements of Pendleton from between 4 and 5 o'clock Saturday afternoon until shortly after 8 o'clock when it is believed he was last seen alive.

The investigation of the sheriff revealed the information that Pendleton had been seen in an automobile standing on the state road near the Coon garage shortly before he walked into the path of an automobile operated by George LHou

It was not learned who was operating the machine, but it is claimed a woman was at the wheel and a man was in the car it is thought Pendleton was taken into the car on the Westerly-Hopkinton road and got out of the machine where it was parked.

Sheriff Mitchell was in consultation with all the members of Pendleton's family last evening. He reported the facts of his investigation to Dr. E. J. Knerr of Hope Valley, medical examiner of the town of Hopkinton, this morning.

It appears from the examination of the body of Pendleton in the undertaking rooms of Leo C. Gaffney, Sunday afternoon that there were no abrasions on the body.

It is believed the death of Pendleton was not due to any injuries received when he walked in front of an automobile. The body was turned over to the family late Monday afternoon.

The annual roll call of the Westerly chapter of the American Red Cross being conducted in Westerly is falling behind the totals of a year ago according to announcement by Mrs. C. Byron Cottrell, who with Miss Elizabeth Haswell is superintending the work of the women's teams. At the present time the drive aptears to be about $1,000 behind the figures of last year, but Mrs. Cottrell points out that it is, of course, too early to make any prediction as to what the final results will be as some of the workers have yet to report on their enrollment and subscriptions for the work of the local chapter.

In some localities the results have been very gratifying, even surpasing those of previous years, but in others there has been a falling off.

The Kingston sitting of the November term of Washington county superior court with Associate Justice Arthur P. Sumner of Providence on the bench was concluded at the West Kingston county court house on Monday. Adjournment was taken to Westerly where the court will come in this (Tuesday) morning at 10:30 o'clock, for the criminal docket.

At the Monday session of court there were no criminal cases ready for trial, and there were no civil cases on the docket ready for today's session. Several criminal cases have been assigned for trial at Westerly.

In the case of State, Fred W. Bull, vs. John Bienkowitz, charged with assault with a dangerous weapon upon Howard Hazard of Shannock on Aug. 28, the defendant pleaded nolo to the indictment, and the case was continued to the next session of the superior court for sentence. Surety was furnished by Georgy P. Clark of Shannock in the sum of $4,000.

In the case of State, Warren D. Nichols, vs. Philip A. Brundage, an appeal from the Third District court on a charge of possession was defaulted on non-appearance of the defendant in court this morning.

After a number of cases had been called and defendants and counsel were not in court, Judge Sumner remarked, "We cannot be fooling around here waiting for attorneys to get ready. They ought to be here."

Among the criminal cases assigned to the Westerly docket are State, vs. James Miller, charged with obstructing an officer; State, vs. James Salimeno, nuisance; State, vs. Edward Liotta, two cases, one for possession, an appeal and the other a nuisance charge; State, vs. William Owen, and State vs. Thomas DiPola.

The case of State vs. Arthur Church, charging illegal sale, was continued to the next term of court.

NOANK

Noank fire company was called out Saturday night for the second fire in a week, for a fire at the railroad station on the roof. The blaze was started from a spark from a passing locomotive. The company made a quick run, the engine being driven by Phil Steele. Ladderman Deveau and Hoseman Ashcraft put out the fire with 10 gallons of chemicals. A crowd of 200 saw the firemen at work. Chief Park was in charge of the men.

The wind was blowing hard so the station was saved from a bad fire. The blaze was discovered by a woman living near, who telephoned to the company and the alarm was rung by Walter Wells. The damage was slight.

John Smith has left for a visit in New York with his son, Ira Smith.

Joe Butson was in Jersey City on Sunday.

Johnny Hines in "The Brown Derby" was in that picture and received a great hand from the crowd from Noank.

The Crushers football team went to Jewett City Sunday afternoon by automobile and was no match for the fast going Speed Boys losing 40 to 0. It was the worst beating they have received this season. The line of Jewett City boys was like a stone wall. A. Bracci for Noank made two great runs, one for 15 yards and the other 21 yards. K. Butson, star right half back, played a hard game for the Crushers. The Speed Boys have been playing great football and Noank considers it no disgrace to lose to a team that is out for the eastern Connecticut championship. Coach Bennett was not with the team as he was out of town. The team was in charge of Acting Coach Fred Philips. Flash McDonald, quarterback played the whole game; his leg bothered him some but he stayed in and filled his position.

Several members of the fire company went to Norwich Saturday to see Norwich Free Academy and Stonington High play football. But the touring car did not reach the Rose of New England, as it met with engine trouble near Gales Ferry. Jack Lawler worked on the car for two hours. The visitors lost the game, the first game they lost this season. When the crowd was coming back from the game some one said Norwich won 16 to 9, so everybody was happy and cheering. At 6.30 that evening the car came running slowly into the village, but everybody had a victory smile on. Others in the party were Millard De Biasi, Walter McDonald, Edward Ellis and Arthur De Biasi.

Jasper Murphy has been a caller in Norwich.

Miss Julia Miner has returned from a visit with Ashaway relatives.

A THREE DAYS' COUGH IS YOUR DANGER SIGNAL

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action: it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognised by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubes. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

STONINGTON

A harvest supper was given Saturday evening by the O. J. S. girls in the parlors of the Second Congregational church. The tables were effectively decorated in yellow. The supper was well attended. The receipts will be used to carry on winter work in the missionary line.

Samuel Stewart and family have moved from Railroad avenue to Main street.

A whist given in Fort hall, Water street, Saturday evening by a few prominent local women, was well attended and was a financial success.

Mr. and Mrs. P. J. Quilty have returned to New York after spending a few days in the borough.

M. J. Amoral, Jr., a patient in Westerly hospital, having recently undergone an operation for appendicitis, is getting along favorably.

A surprise party was given at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Bailey Friday evening for Miss Arline Bailey, it being her birthday. Miss Bailey is spending the winter in this locality to attend Stonington high school. The guests arrived about 8 o'clock during the absence of the young lady who had gone to a choir rehearsal with Miss Lenora Bailey. Upon her return she was greatly surprised to find the group of friends. She entertained her guests very hospitably. Those present included Phyllis Ehetfield, Gertrude Ollweller, Lenora Bailey, Edward Alto, Howard Briggs, Stanley Brainard. Refreshments were served.

The Stonington high school football team played Norwich Free Academy Saturday afternoon on the Norwich field, the game ending 16 to 9 in favor of Norwich.

Miss Eita Merritt, 75, who has been ill several months at the home of Mrs. Edward Monjoe, died Friday night. She has been a life-long resident of Stonington. She was born April 9, 1851. She was an active member of Calvary Episcopal church and had a Sunday school class for several years. The funeral was held Monday.

COLUMBIA

Columbia grange held its annual competitive program Wednesday evening. The meeting was open to the members of grange families, and a large audience was present. The contest was between the tall and short members of the grange. The "tall" program came first and consisted of a session of a country school, with speeches and songs by the pupils. Edward P. Lyman took the part of the visiting committeeman, and gave a short speech. The program of the "shorts" consisted of four numbers. The first was a comic duet between Raymond Lyman and Mrs. Elsie Collins, entitled The chorus from the kitchen. The second number was a session of the Columbia Sewing circle, the different members of which gave jokes relating to various members of the "talls". The third number was a song and tableau, Two little girls in blue and the last an exercise by several men and women entitled The good old days. The judges were Mrs. Carl Alord, Charles Pomeroy and John Bowman all of Echo grange, Mansfield. They decided in favor of the "shorts". The next meeting of the grange will be Dec. 1st, and at that time the traveling gavel will be presented by Killingly grange. This gavel has been traveling two years, and is to go to each grange in Connecticut, taking 12 years to complete its travels. Columbia grange will hold it 30 days, at the end of that time passing it on to a neighboring grange. This is the first grange in this section to have it.

WILLINGTON

Miss Dante Palmer is slowly recovering from her long illness.

Mrs. Nellie White is showing improvement since she returned from St. Joseph's hospital.

Miss Helen Rollinson has opened a Christmas shop at her home on Juniper Hill, which a few years ago was a pasture. Miss Rollinson of New York bought a few acres and built a bungalow amid birch trees and clumps of juniper. Artistic handwork, rugs made by cripples in Vermont and scarfs woven by blind children are on exhibit.

It matters but little what you think of a man, provided you don't think aloud.

POETRY

To the Boy

(Who goes daily past my windows singing)

Thou happiest thing alive,
Anomaly of earth!
If sound thy lineage give,
Thou art the natural birth
Of affluent Joy—
Thy mother's name was Mirth
Thou little singing boy!

Thy star—it was a'sun!
Thy time the month of May,
When streams to music run,
And birds sing all the day;
Nature did tune
Thy gushing voice by hers;
A fount in June
Not more the bosom stirs;
A freshness flows
Through every bubbling note—
Sure Nature knows
The strains Art never wrote.

Where was the human curse,
When thou didst spring to life?
All feel it less, or worse,
In pain, in care, in strife.
Its dreadful word
Fell from the lips of Truth;
'Tis but deferred,
Unconscious youth!
That curse on thee
Is sure some day to fall;
Alas, more heavily
If manhood takes it all!

I will not think of this—
It robs me of my part
In thy outgushing bliss;
No! keep thy glad young heart turned toward the sun:—
What yet shall be,
None can foresee;
One thing is sure—that thou hast well begun!

Meantime shall others share
Wild minstrel-boy,
As I, to lighten care,
The music of thy joy—
Like scents of flowers,
Along life's wayside passed
In dreary hours—
Too sweet to last;
Like touches soft
Of Nature, on those strings
Within us, jarred so oft
By Earth's discordant things.

—Elizabeth Clementine Kinney.

The Idler

I idle stand that I may find employ,
Such as my Master when He comes will give;
I cannot find in mine own work my joy;
But wait, although in waiting I must live;
My body shall not turn which way it will,
But stand till I the appointed road can find.

And journeying so His messages fulfill,
And do at every step the work designed.
Enough for me, still day by day to wait
Till Thou who form'st me did'st see fit to task,
A cripple lying at the rich man's gate,
Content for the few crumbs I get to ask.
A laborer but in heart, while bound my hands
Hang idly down still waiting Thy commands.

Jones Very.

HUMOR OF THE DAY

Many people depend on library books for important knowledge. Do not disfigure them. Washington tar.

Say, you kissed my girl at that party.

How could I know, I didn't have a flashlight.—Detroit News.

I've just purchased a Thesaurus.
You can't fool me. Those animals have been extinct for a million years.—Denison Flamingo.

Mistress (pointing out cobweb)—Haven't you seen this?
New Help—Yes'm. Something to do with your wireless, ain't it?—Christian Science Monthly.

I would like to give my uncle 100 of these cigars. Can you think of how I can give him even greater pleasure?

Yes. Only give him $0!—Pathfinder

Cook (to the other help)—You're more critical of what I give you to eat than the master and mistress.

Parlormaid—Not at all, but we're not afraid to tell you what we think of your cooking.—Boston Transcript.

He—What's wrong with the pie-crust? It doesn't half cover the pie.

Bride—Why, dearest, I asked your mother how to make them to suit you, and she said make the crust very short.—The Progressive Grocer.

Wyoming may become the Gobi desert of the United States. In search of the fossils of the gigantic mammals and reptiles of prehistoric ages, five universities this summer have sent scientists and students to delve into the rocks of practically every part of the state. Wyoming was once a huge sea, and recently there were uncovered a dozen fossils of huge prehistoric eels, 50 to 75 feet long. They resembled the fabled sea serpents. Huge fossils of animals of the Jurassic period in the Mesozoic era have been discovered in central, northern and southeastern Wyoming.

there was nothing so good for congestion and colds as mustard. But the old-fashioned mustard plaster burned and blistered.

Musterole gives the relief and help that mustard plasters gave, without the plaster and without the blister.

It is a clean, white ointment, made with oil of mustard. Gently rub it in. See how quickly the pain disappears.

Try Musterole for sore throat, bronchitis, tonsilitis, croup, stiff neck, asthma, neuralgia, headache, congestion, pleurisy, rheumatism, lumbago, pains and aches of the back or joints, sprains, sore muscles, bruises, chilblains, frosted feet, colds of the chest (it may prevent pneumonia), etc.

BUILDING OPERATIONS IN NORWICH

During the past week there were 10 building permits granted by Fire Marshal Howard L. Stanton for new building in the city. For three weeks previous no building permits had been issued, and it was expected that very little would be done as the cold weather and slack season is fast approaching. The largest project for which a permit was granted during the past week is for the remodeling of the building at No. 3 Water street for Max Sternlieb. Contractor P. F. Sweeney has been granted the contract and has already started work on the building.

Good progress has been made on local building during the past week and several contracts are well along. The foundation for the new garage on North Main street is laid as is the foundation for a new building on West Town street near the Franklin Dairy building.

The building permits granted during the past week are as follows:

To Otto Billicchi to erect a frame garage on Happy street for himself. The garage will be 11 x 18 feet.

To Amede Lusigman to erect a garage on Dunham street for himself. The garage will be 12 x 18 feet and of frame construction.

To Joseph Depollo to erect a garage at 137 Chestnut street. The garage will be of frame construction, 12 x 18 feet.

To P. F. Sweeney to make alterations to the house of Henry K. Armstrong at 24 River avenue. The roof will be raised 6 1-2 feet and carry up the side walls to the roof.

To Elkin Smith to erect a frame storehouse on White street. The building will be 24 x 52 feet. The building will be of wood frame and corrugated iron sides and composition roof.

To Zacher Bros., to build a new frame steeple on the German Lutheran church on Franklin street. The steeple will be of frame construction with copper deck.

To Gelfard Loskin to erect a three-car garage for B. Cohen at 62 Spring street. The garage will be 20 x 30 feet and of frame construction.

To John Kosinski to build a two-car garage on Golden street extension. The garage will be 18 x 20 feet and of frame construction with composition shingle roof.

To P. F. Sweeney to make alterations to the building at 3 Water street for Max Sternlieb. The entire front to the west side wall is to be removed and rebuilt with steel, cast stone and brick. There will be new plate glass windows on the street level floor. The interior will be supported with steel girders.

To P. F. Sweeney to erect a frame garage on Fountain street for Mrs. M. Illinger. The garage will be 20 x 20 feet with stone foundation.

REAL ESTATE SALES AND MORTGAGE LOANS

There were four sales of real estate in Norwich during the past week, as compared to nine sales for the corresponding week in 1925. The mortgage loans for the respective weeks were $23,550 and $56,100.

In New London during the past week there were six sales of real estate, exactly the same number as for the same week a year ago. The mortgage loans for the respective weeks were $65,000 and $7,800.

State Building Permits

A notable increase in building activity in Connecticut is seen when the record for the past week is compared with the like period a year ago. The total number of permits issued in the building centers covered by The Commercial Record during the past week was 421 against 320 for the corresponding week in 1925. The total estimated cost of construction was $2,-082,646 compared with $1,147,138 for last year.

New London

With 16 more permits issued by the council this week the total for the month was brought up to 48. Two more cottages, one two-family house, and four garages are included in the list of permits issued this week.

Ground has been broken for a new cottage at Colman street and Ashcraft road for Joseph G. Mondelci. The house will be of frame construction, 26 by 26 with a sun perch 6 by 26 and a garage 9 1-2 by 26 feet. Work has also been started on a two-family house for Mr. Mondelci in Ashcraft road. The two-family house will be of frame construction, 47 by 24 feet in dimension and of modern design.

A local builder has been awarded the contract for a cottage to be built for A. B. Simpson in Warren street. The new house will be of frame construction, 25 by 25 feet in dimension and of modern construction with all modern improvements.

Work has been completed on the transformation of the Lawrence and Memorial Associated hospital garage into a modern cottage. The new cottage, which is equipped with all conveniences and finished off with all new partitions and interior work will be used as a residence for the superintendent of the hospital.

Work has been started on a garage for Marius L. VanGelder in Addison street. Dimensions are 18 by 20 feet. Work will be done by the day.

The exterior work has been completed on a new concrete block store building of one story for Louis Margolis at 570 Bank street. Dimensions for the new structure are 14 by 28 feet. The store will be finished with a plate glass front.

The facade of the Crown theater in State street has been considerably enhanced by a new marquee completed this week for the Walter T. Murphy Amusement company. The marquee consists of longitudinal illuminated signs on each of three sides with an elongated circle over each of the three exterior circle blessing forth the name of the theater. More than 400 electric lights are located on the marquee, requiring an extra power service to be installed at the theater. At night the marquee is unusually attractive and adds much to State street's white way.

A hollow tile garage, 18 by 30 feet is being completed for Fitch D. Crandall at 252 Williams street. Plans for the new structure were prepared by a local architect.

A frame garage is being completed for Mr. and Mrs. Serafin Sanders in Bayonet street. The garage is 22 by 24 feet in dimension.

Extensive alterations are being made by the Standard Oil company to that company's service station located at Broad street and Connecticut avenue. The former gas station house has been raised and a larger one is being erected at the western end of the property. The driveways are being radically changed to conform with the location of the new gas house and future location of the gas pumps and other facilities of a modern gas station.

A frame garage, 18 by 20 feet in dimension has been completed for H. G. and G. M. Rockmont at 304 Crystal avenue.

Work is nearly finished on the exterior of the new addition being built to the building at 93 Main street for Emil Seifert. The new structure is of concrete block and brick construction 35 by 14 feet in dimension. The front will be finished with tapestry brick and a doorway and show window. The structure will be one story high.

A unique and attractive gasoline service station building is being completed by the standard Oil company at Main street and Crystal avenue. The new building which is 16 by 21 feet is in effect a miniature cottage of combined colonial and modern design. The property at that corner, recently leased by the oil company from the New Haven railroad has been filled in considerably, adding much space available for service and driveways. The station will rank with the best in the city for appearance and equipment when complete.

Work is being pushed on the extensive alterations and addition being made to the Hotel Royal at 57 Bank street, for Frederick Gavitt. The new work comprises an addition of brick construction, 4 feet by 28 on the west side of the building to provide two stores in place of the former single store besides a new entrance to the hotel office located on the second floor. New steel supports are being erected and the former single store partitioned be remodeled.

ed. The office of the hotel also will

The foundation work has been set for the addition being made for Joseph Berenbaum to the building at 86 Green street. The work consists of a new brick front to the three-story building that will bring the building line out to the sidewalk. The owner plans to alter the interior of the present building to provide a modern apartment house.

Work has been completed on a new brick front to the building at 135 North Bank street for Pawell Buckowski. The new front is 28 feet long and 27 feet high and is of tapestry brick. The ground floor is divided into two stores.

Building Permits

H. B. Prentice, cottage, Glenwood avenue, $6,000.

Morgan Touchette, additions, 71 Pequot avenue, $500.

W. H. Smith, addition, 24 Granite street, $600.

Johnson and Leeds, frame garage, 80 Maple avenue, $3,500.

E. Grann, cottage, Fairs Harbour, $12,000.

E. P. Dickenson, cottage, Konomoc street, $5,000.

T. H. MacWhinney, garage, 88 Oneco avenue, $400.

H. B. Prentice, garage, Glenwood avenue, $500.

Charles Sousa, garage, 48 Maple avenue $400.

Johnson and Leeds, garage, Thames street, $300.

J. T. Morgan, cottage, Sanders street $4,000.

Theodore Bodenwein, two frame dwellings and two stone garages, Norwood avenue, $12,800.

Leon N. Colby, alterations, 73 Riverview avenue, $250.

A. H. Brown, alterations, 642 Montauk avenue $250.

Joseph King, addition, 9 Denison avenue $700.

Thomas Terson et al addition, 317 Broad street $350.

Regina G. Gelvias, cement block garage, 80 West street, $1,000.

M. Emma Lincoln, alterations, 535 Main street, $1,500.

Number of permits issued for the week, 16; estimated cost of buildings, $50,816.

Stonington

New London architects are preparing plans for a hall in Stonington for the Portuguese society of that town. The building will be 40x60 feet, of frame and stucco, with a composition roof. There will be a vestibule, 12x15 feet.

Old Lyme

Alterations in the basement of the town hall at Old Lyme are to be made from plans. The basement will be changed for a two-car garage with a driveway for hose apparatus.

Lyme

Plans have been prepared for a residence on the Laysville road, Lyme, for G. Mulcahy. The house will be 44x26 feet, with an ell 18 x 28 feet. It will contain eight rooms in addition to the servants' quarters. There will be hot water heat, four tile baths and other conveniences. The porch entrances will be of quarry tile. The estimated cost is $36,000. Bids for the proposed construction will be received at once.

Westerly

Iron girders have been placed in position during the past week in the fourth floor of the light and power office building of the South County Public Service company at 45 High street. The cement has been poured for the third floor of the building in which conduits have been laid for electric light power and telephone wires. Work is being rushed to get a roof on the building, which will be at an elevation of 56 feet from the sidewalk, before severe winter weather sets in. In the front gable of the building, when completed will be an illuminated clock dial.

The commercial building at the corner of High and Canal streets, being erected by Samuel Nardone and company, will be of three stories instead of the two originally planned. A frieze of gray brick extends from above the store fronts to below the window sills of the second floor windows and above these red tapestry brick, similar to that in the United theater block, has reached a point above the window frames. Wooden beams for the third floor have been placed in position on the High street end of the ell shaped second and third story elevation and this part of the structure will become an apartment house. A derrick has been erected on the second floor, near the United theater building to handle the steel girders for the third floor.

Westerly Zoning Inspector Louis J. Rossi has issued the following zoning building permits for the third week in November.

November 15. Joseph Alanso Vega, 105 Franklin street. Henhouse 47 feet 6 inches by 40 feet, 500 feet from road on ten - acre tract.

November 15. John Beattie, 22 John street. Alter present shed into two-car garage, 20 feet by 20 feet, John street.

November 19. Biaggio Gingerella, 83 Oak street. Install two gas fine pumps, Socony, corner Oak and Tower streets.

Claflin Sale Well Patronized

About $90 retail buyers, from practically all parts of the country, yesterday attended the opening of the final clearance sale of Claflin's Incorporated. Buying was particularly active early in the day, and sales up to 1 P. M., were estimated by an important executive of the firm at $300,000. Fewer big orders were placed during the afternoon, but it was figured that at least $100,000 worth of additional merchandise was sold. Several single orders ranging from $2,500 to $10,000 were taken during the day. Buying of linens, blankets and handkerchiefs was especially active, due to the seasonal nature of the goods. A number of the linen orders called for case lots. Retailers also took dress and wash goods, domestics and remnants well, and the end of the week is expected to see all stocks pretty well cleaned up.

TRYING TO MAKE UP LAST $30,000 FOR NEW LONDON'S COMMUNITY CHEST

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Nov. 23—The promoters Community Chest, designed to obtain by subscription funds for the maintenance and support of the numerous charity organizations of New London, are encountering difficulty in obtaining the desired amount, $85,000, that it is said is needed to meet the expenses incurred annually in supplying funds for the various agencies that expend the money. Thirty thousand dollars is still needed in spite of the fact that the drive for funds has been in progress several weeks. At a meeting of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, Sunday afternoon, the meeting which was attended by a representative number of members, it was almost unanimously voted not to make a contribution to the fund, although that organization did so a year ago. The trainmen stated that a major portion of the railroad employes have made one contribution through solicitation by officials of the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad, and that to seek another contribution through their organization is asking too much of the members.

HARRY WATSON OVERCOME WHILE WORKING IN GARAGE

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Nov. 23—Harry Watson, 24, of 149 Union street, was found partially overcome by carbon monoxide in the garage at his residence Sunday, but because of the prompt discovery of the partially unconscious body and obtaining immediate medical treatment, Watson's life was saved. Watson went to the garage in the morning to make repairs upon his automobile and while engaged in the work he inhaled the gas fumes which brought about the poisoning. When an occupant of the house entered the garage, several hours later, Watson was found on the floor in a comatose state. He was rushed to the hospital and administered to. Today he was discharged.

The local police court never dealt with as many bummers at one session as it disciplined today. The number of accused persons was so great that benches were provided for them inside the rail that divides the court room. Monday has come to be "court" day most positively. Where all the accused persons come from is a mystery. They seem to drift in from outside the city as well as from the limits of the town. Today drunks showed up in large numbers, but there were many accused of other offenses. Two colored men from New Haven, of a low type too, were sent to the state reformatory, for holding up James Connell of Howard street and Stanley Harris, employes in a grocery store, who were delivering goods on Home street. The accused gave the names of William Emery and Edward Bruce. They demanded money from the clerks, but did not get any so they took canned goods from a basket in the custody of the clerks. The men represented that they were hungry, but they threw away the stuff they stole. After the session of the court the negroes chattered away like poll parrots and let it be known that the offense yesterday was not their first.

A gang of alleged thieves, accused of having robbed a house at Ledyard and to have stolen gasoline for the machine they operated, was held for trial tomorrow.

Stanley Roberts was charged with the sale of booze and was held in a bond of $1,000 for trial tomorrow. He was accused of having sold a pint of booze to George Ross, colored, who was arrested for maintaining a disorderly house at 39 Douglas street which was the resort of black and white disreputables. Ross was sent to jail because he could not pay a fine of $25. He was arrested Sunday evening and then accused Roberts positively of having sold him the booze for $2. Roberts resented the accusation, but Ross was then more positive than ever. Four white men, loiterers, were found in the Ross house. They were turned loose, after Ross had told stories on the witness stand that were manifestly untrue. His figures were especially badly mixed. A colored woman in the place declared that she went there to get money that Ross owed to her, but he succeeded in getting more money from her and with that he bought the booze.

A cottage at Ridgewood park, Waterford, owned by James Beran, was completely destroyed by fire of unknown origin early this morning, all its furnishings being burned also. The cottage had not been occupied regularly since last summer, but it is understood that it was occupied a part of Sunday. About 2:30 o'clock Patrolman Dennis Murphy, on duty at Ocean Beach, noticed flames leaping through the roof and communicated with police headquarters. A still alarm was sent to the central fire station and Deputy Chief Calvin Edmunds and several fire companies responded. When the firemen reached the blazing cottage it was doomed and because of inadequate fire-fighting facilities little could be done toward subduing the flames.

Mrs. Gustav Sonnenberg, of Norwich; C. Elmer Johnson, Worcester, Mass.; Mrs. Joan Gadbois and infant daughter; Mrs. James Woods and infant daughter, 3 Colt street, and William Geldie, 46 Pleasant street, patients at Lawrence-Memorial Associated hospital, were discharged Sunday and today.

Mary Chester, wife of Albert H. Lyon, a former resident of New London, died Saturday at her home at Jamaica Plains, Mass. Mrs. Lyon, who resided in New London many years, on Main street, was a teacher in the public schools of this city for about 20 years.

Stanley Weiczerok went home from his work at the Ship and Engine company plant and started a row with his wife. He drinks freely and that leads to trouble. Mrs. Weiczerok is the mother of three children. The prosecutor told the court that Weiczerok had been giving his wife $35 a week for the support of herself and the children and that he had deeded property he had to them. That did not satisfy a mother who had three children to support and as her husband earns some $48 a week, she wanted him sent to jail for abusing her. Weiczerok was fined $10 for the intoxication then sent to jail for ten days for the abuse of his wife.

Charles J. Kerridge, son of Rev. and Mrs. Philip M. Kerridge, of this city, and Miss Jessie Gilbert, of Coatesville, Pa., were married in that city last Friday afternoon. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Mr. Kerridge, father of the groom, assisted by Rev. Dr. Lamb, of Coatesville. The groom is employed in Coatesville and Mr. and Mrs. Kerridge will continue to make their home in that city.

John E. Corcoran, son of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Corcoran, of Fair Harbor place, and Miss Catherine A. Birmingham, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas C. Birmingham, of Vauxhall street, were married at St. Mary's Star of the Sea church at 8 o'clock this morning. The marriage was solemnized by Rev. Raymond J. O'Callahan and was witnessed by a large number of relatives and acquaintances. Dr. Donald M. Corcoran was best man and Miss Lucy M. Birmingham, sister of the bride, was bridesmaid. Mr. Corcoran is employed by the New London Ship & Engine company. He and his bride will reside on Fair Harbor place upon the conclusion of their wedding trip.

James Doherty, Waterford resident, who has been arrested numerous times, principally for breach of the peace and more specifically for alleged ill treatment of his wife, was arrested Sunday by state police from Groton barracks, charged by his wife with assault. He was presented in the Waterford town court this afternoon and disposition of his case, temporary, at least, was made by Judge Frederick Dimmock, who nolled the complaint when Mrs. Dimmock signified her willingness to withdraw her charges. Her decision to withdraw complaint against her husband resulted when Doherty agreed to pay his wife $12 each week for her support. Doherty was represented by counsel.

The funeral of Peter Leverone was held this morning at 9 o'clock at St. Mary's Star of the Sea church and was attended by a large gathering of mourners, including a delegation of members of F. L. Allen Hook and Ladder company. A high mass of requiem was sung by Rev. Michael Reagan. The bearers were Frank Briabric, Giam Musante and Antone, Joseph, John and James Leverone, uncles of Mr. Leverone. Burial was in St. Mary's cemetery.

Mrs. Margaret O'Connell, 56, wife of Michael O'Connell, of 256 Bank street, died at Home Memorial hospital Saturday night. Mrs. O'Connell had been a patient at the hospital but a few days, having been admitted there early last week for treatment for a complication of diseases, which originated with intestinal trouble. Mrs. O'Connell was born in Ireland and prior to moving to New London, resided in New Haven.

New London has one less restaurant today, bringing the number of eating places in this city to 66. The Canton restaurant, located for several years at the corner of State and Bank street, suspended business today, the proprietors deciding to do this owing to lack of patronage.

An automobile bearing Connecticut registration A-236, was stolen at Norwich this evening and the police of that city requested the New London police to be on the lookout for the stolen auto.

Swiftly the page-boy ran through the hotel shouting a name.

First the lounge was scoured.

"Mr. Zeddikowsky! Mr. Zeddikowsky!" he called, in the strange tone peculiar to page boys.

Just as the boy was returning the telegram to the clerk's desk, a voice from a settee asked

"What initial, please?"—Tit Bits.

COMMON COUNCIL HEARS OF $11,000 ZONING SYSTEM PLAN

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Nov. 23.—The city council transacted a full measure of business this evening, in a session that continued 45 minutes. During that time the council voted to buy the four wheel drive truck from Charles J. Ducy at a price of $1,500. Mr. Ducy paid for the truck some years ago when the council agreed to buy the truck through committee and then did not provide the cash with which to pay for it. The truck has since been in the custody of Mr. Ducy and he has had his money tied up in it.

Twenty-six permits for building were asked for and all were granted. Eight of the permits are for the erection of cottages or bungalows, the othe. being for garages or for additions and the enclosing of porches. Some objection was made to the erection of cottages on Thames street by L. Q. Raymond because the location of the building was not to the satisfaction of an adjoining property owner, but the objection did not stand, nor did a proposal to lay the matter over for a week that Mr. Raymond, the owner and the owner of adjoining property could come to some satisfactory agreement. All the permits were granted, as was one for three oil tanks on Hamilton street. There was no remonstrance or petition against the erection of the Raymond building, and as the directors of law of the city have all decided that a land owner can erect a structure where he desires on his own land, the objection to the Raymond building's location had no standing before the council.

The manufacturers of the automatic voting machines addressed the council by letter calling attention to the purchase of 10 voting machines last summer or early fall and expressing a desire to install the same and to give instructions to voters in the use of the machines, when the city is ready for such service.

The superintendent of schools asked for the purchase of readers for the schools at a bargain price. The city manager recommended the purchase at a cost of $445.50. That request was granted and the purchase of the books was ordered.

Upon the recommendation of the superintendent of streets, the council voted to refer to the committee on public works the purchase of a steam roller for use on the streets. The roller at present in use has a leaky boiler and to repair it would cost so much that a new roller is deemed advisable.

The city manager recommended that hereafter requests for hanging banners at State and Union streets be denied. The banners are apt to interfere with the power wires of the Connecticut company and to become tangled with the wires. The city manager's request was placed in the records.

It was voted to lay a sewer in Riverside avenue, at a cost of $601, estimated, the entire cost to be paid for by assessment of three abutting properties.

The planning board suggested the employment of Herbert H. Swan, of New York at a price of $11,000 to formulate a plan for a zoning system for the city. Councilor Streeter objected and said there was a second proposition on this matter, to cost $4,000. He asked that the matter be referred to the committee on administration, and it was so referred.

Councilor May called attention to the practice of parking autos on the sidewalk at Main and Richards street. He said the practice had become a nuisance that it interfered pedestrians and was destroying the with pedestrians and was destroying the ager call the attention of the police to the matter and to have the practice stopped. The matter was referred to the city manager.

Three applications for street signs were referred to the city manager with power.

Mayor Fox asked that garbage be collected from the business street at an earlier hour, saying that at present dust flew into door-ways and to stores and was an annoyance. He asked the city manager to report on the matter.

Councilor May suggested Jeremiah Colline' election to succeed William Gunn, Jr., as a member of the board of relief and Michael O'Connell to succeed Mr. Gunn as a member of the planning board. Mayor Fox objected to this procedure and said he had some 25 applications for appointment to these vacancies. He believed the names should go to the committee on administration and by that committe be reported to the council That action was taken.

The council met the trustees of the Chapman Technical school to consider appropriation for that school after the meeting adjourned.

The committee on public works and the finance committee also held meetings after the council adjourned.

CLARK'S FALLS

At the home of Mr. and Mrs. George A. Jones, Thursday evening, Raymond Maine, son of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Maine, and Edith Jones were united in marriage by Rev. Frank S. Robbins. A large number of relatives and friends was present. The ceremony was performed in the parlor which was decorated with laurel and flowers. Miss Mildred Jones was bridesmaid and Lewis Maine was best man. The bride wore a gown of white chiffon and volle and a bridal veil caught with white satin ribbon. She carried a bouquet of white carnations and smilax. The bridesmaid's frock was nile green silk and she carried yellow crysanthemums. A reception was held, continuing through the evening. Mr. and Mrs. Maine left for a wedding trip and on their return will reside in a newly furnished house on East street, Laurel Glen. They will be at home to their friends about Dec. 15. Sandwiches, cake, candy and coffee were served during the reception. The bride received many beautiful and useful gifts, also money. She received a chest of silver from her friends in the Ashaway Line and home plant, where she was employed, a vase from the Ladies' Aid society and a gold piece from the Jolly Workers club.

Mrs. John Davison was in Westerly Thursday.

Mrs. Frances Maine is recovering from illness.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Palace Theater

Douglas MacLean in Hold that Lion makes his farewell showing on the silver sheet today at the Palace. This is his latest contribution to the screen, and proves to be an unroariously funny film. Its entertaining value was evidenced by the general satisfying comments of the large audience on Sunday night. Co-featuring on the same program is The Dangerous Dude with Reed Howes, the bean brummel of the screen. On Wednesday only a delightful double feature program has been arranged, featuring Alberta Vaughn in The Adorable Deceiver, a pyramid of chuckles, a comedy of errors and a fantasy of smiles, and Hair Trigger Baxter, with Bob Custer, the acme of western entertainment.

Broadway Theater

It would be difficult to judge just which of the five Keith-Albee vaudeville acts, is the outstanding one, for the program that opened at the Broadway theater yesterday is just on continuous round of entertainment.

The famous Japanese artist, Prince Tokio, showed what is meant by real equilibrium dancing and foot manipulating.

Lee and Gladys followed with Odds and Ends all of which is done uncommonly well—each bit a high mark of entertainment.

Sam Shepard and Otillie Kaufman in Radio-Grams bring something new and novel to the stage with an assortment of songs and talk.

Dutts, Cavanaugh and Yohe, a trio of funmakers are above the ordinary and were a real hit in the "spot" position.

Cecile D'Andrea and Neale Walters in a miniature musical comedy called Bicrette make a splendid closing number to this bill of hits.

Roaring with drama like the surge the sullen, ice-bound seas that spelled doom for the straining schooner as she crashed crazily into the iceberg, and swinging to a whirlwind fight as the climax with a great brawler of a man battling his lighter foe while his life is caught in the cruel claws of a giant bear trap, The Isle of Retribution, one of the most spectacular and rugged pictures ever screened, is playing now at the Broadway theater. It behooves anyone who has not already seen this smashing show to "catch it" today before it departs for climes unknown. Edison Marshall's strong story has been admirably directed by James Hogan, and a wonderful cast is headed by Lillian Rich. Robert Frazer, Victor M'Laglen, David Torrence, Mildred Harris, Kathleen Kirkham and others give splendid support.

Pure Tea Guaranteed

One thing that the tea drinkers is positively assured of, irrespective of the quality of the tea itself, is that in this country it is pure tea. This fact is guaranteed by the government which maintains the standard of purity, and the law against the admission of tea that is adjudged to be unfit for consumption is strictly maintained. There is, to be sure, a wide gulf between the tea that is adjudged "fit of consumption" and good quality tea.

Appearances are often times deceptive as one garden's leaf looks like another's, and the quality of the leaf can only be determined by the flavor of the infusion. There is one thing upon which much depends, and that is the process of manufacture by which the inferior leaf, carefully treated, will yield a cup of better tea than a fine leaf badly handled in the factory. It is for this reason that special pains and extraordinary care is taken in the handling and testing of Salada tea, hence its great popularity everywhere in this country and Canada, where its sale exceeds that of any other packet tea. The quality, too, is exactly the same wherever sold or served.

The average consumer should know that it pays always to buy the higher grades of tea rather than the lower, not only for the more subtle flavor but for the greater yield of flavory liquid. When you consider that Salada will yield about 300 cups of tea to a pound, the infinitesimal cost of one-third of a cent, per cup, is almost negligible.

CENTER GROTON

The Y. M. C. A., represented by the secretary of the New London Y. M. C. A., Herbert W. Hicks, held a meeting at the school house Friday night for the purpose of forming a community club for the boys and girls and a gathering of friends and neighbors to help the club to instruct the children in industrial work. A committee of 11 was appointed to investigate and see what arrangements can be made to meet once a week for ten weeks to give the boys and girls good wholesome entertainment. The committee appointed was Mrs. Rowley and Mrs. Otis Gardener, the school teacher, Otis Gardener, D. L. Chesebro, Miss Amanda Allyn, Mrs. Edgar H. Kelley, Mrs. William A. Gray, Mrs. John R. Heley, Mrs. Emerson Whipple, A. C. Warren, and Mrs. Fletcher Daboll. This committee arranged to meet again next Tuesday.

Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Allyn, Miss Amanda Allyn, Mr. and Mrs. Edgar H. Kelley, Mrs. Daniel Davis, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Bailey, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Thompson, Mr. and Mrs. Ockeman Lawrence, Mr. and Mrs. Otis Gardner, D. L. Chesebro, Mrs. William A. Gray, Mr. and Mrs. D. Cerevolo, Albert Warren, Mrs. William Stark, Mrs. Ellis Gray.

Charles Thompson has purchased the Lizzie Colver place, consisting of a new house, store and 150 acres of orchard and wood land.

Miss Amanda Allyn has moved from Groton to the Ferguson place. Miss Allyn recently retired from school teaching after many years' service in the town of Groton.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Singing Orchestra for K of C. Dance

Dancers who like the kind of music that sets the feet moving and those who like to hear the snappiest of up to date music will enjoy a treat at the Knights of Columbus Thanksgiving eve dance at the state armory, under the auspices of Battery B, when Sullivan's singing orchestra of Milford, Mass., will be a big attraction. These famous harmonizers will make the event a notable one for the patrons of the dance for which the tickets are selling fast and a crowd that will fill the armory is anticipated.

Breed Theatre

There is charm and fervor, joy and pathos, comedy and just a little note of sadness in "The Waltz Dream," the UFA special which is now showing at the Breed theatre. The flavor of old Vienna is in the picture, and one has an intense longing to go to that gay city, where girls are blonde and gentlemen are men; where music and the luscious white wines of Grinsig blend to make happiness. Really, the film is enough to make anyone daft about Vienna.

Then, of course, the fact that Oscar Straus' operetta forms the basis of the story, and Oscar Straus' famous waltzes form its musical background, tends to make the evening at the Breed theatre thoroughly enjoyable.

As an added attraction on this program, complete motion pictures of the big Armistice day parade and celebration showing arrival of Governor Trumbull, the start of the parade at Barnham square and the reviewing stand at Franklin square will be shown.

In the line of march is shown every military, civic and fraternal organization as well as the float division, thousands of spectators who crowded the streets along the line of march were photographed and hundreds of faces were recognized. The film also shows the dedication of the captured gun and the exercises at Chelsea parade, in fact every event that took place in the Armistice day parade and celebration is shown which makes this picture a complete historical record.

NORWICH TOWN

Following out an annual custom under the general supervision of the president, Walter T. Camp, a large force of men representing members of the Norwich Rural association, inaugurated activities for the fall and winter season, Saturday afternoon, when the board walks for winter use were laid in various localities about town. From constant use during each winter, some of the boards have given out or have become in a condition beyond repair. For this reason it was impossible to cover quite as wide an area as in past years. However, the boards were laid as far as they would go, in sections where deemed most necessary. This covered a portion of the New London turnpike across the bridge as far as the Wattles homestead, through East Town street from Peck's corner, extending from the Johnson home part way up West Town street, several sections on East Town street, and a small portion of Washington street, just below Harland's corner. As property owners in a number of localities about Norwich Town have cement walks or stone pavements in front of their property, the boards are more or less scattered, but it was the aim of those in charge to do the best thing possible under the circumstances in behalf of the Rural association's interests.

Those who assisted President Camp included Leonard A. Hough, Attorney George Houghton Gilman, a past president of the association, Francis Gilman, Herbert L. Yerrington, George R. Fellows, Bartholomew Sullivan, John Mullen, John Dawson and Frank Skinner, the last mentioned loaning his auto truck to convey the boards from their summer quarters. Another generous person to aid was Charles Morgan Williams who as on previous occasions, donated the use of one of his large auto trucks. Julian L. Williams provided one of his men to drive it, Edgar Archambeault.

Hot coffee and doughnuts served by Francis Gilman, and Mr. Yerrington, proved a welcome feature of the afternoon for the helpers, who accomplished their part of the work with the aid of the auto trucks, making quick time.

During this week as in former years John Dawson is fitting and nailing the boards to make them secure. He is being assisted in the work by Noyes Chase.

About 60 attended the sale and supper of the Methodist Christian Endeavor society, held Friday afternoon and evening in the chapel of the Congregational church. The sale of garments and useful and fancy articles in charge of Mrs. William Weaver, assisted by Mrs. Arthur Fulton, netted a large sum, every department being practically sold out.

Five and ten cent mystery packages were in charge of Miss Doris Estelle Rose and Miss Isabel Gimbel, while Miss Florence M. Bennett sold supper tickets. This was in charge of Mrs. Richard Carter, who had the assistance in the kitchen of Mrs. Daniel Wheeler, Mrs. Susan Lillibridge, Mrs. Everett Rogers and Miss Beulah Rogers. The waitresses were Mrs. John Rogers and Misses Florence Brown, Edna Judson, Ruth Lathrop and Grace Mitchell. Mrs. Wellington Miner also assisted in a general way. The menu was meat pie, mashed potato and turnip, peas, pickles, rolls, cake and coffee.

Among those present beside the regular pastor, Rev. Albert E. Whitten, was a former pastor of the Methodist church, Rev. James P. Aldrich of Norwich, also Rev. Gurdon F. Bailey of the Congregational church. The evening was pronounced a success in every way.

Sunday morning at the First Methodist church, Rev. Albert E. Whitten took for the theme of his Thanksgiving sermon, "A Better Type of Christianity".

In the evening Rev. Mr. Whitten departed from the usual Christian Endeavor meeting and gave an address on "Paul Weeping and Paul Rejoicing."

In the course of his announcements, Rev. Mr. Whitten reminded his congregation of the union Thanksgiving service at the Methodist church Thursday morning at 10:30 o'clock, as did also Rev. Gurdon F. Bailey at the morning worship at the Congregational church. This service is for the public and all interested.

The Thursday evening prayer service of the Congregational church is to be omitted this week.

Nov. 2 Rev. Gurdon F. Bailey completed seven years of faithful and devoted service as pastor of the First Congregational church. In entering upon another year, it is the wish of his parishioners that the same sincere associations between pastor and people will continue to exist in the way of fidelity and helpfulness, in continuing the work of the Master.

At this church Sunday evening, Miss Ruth Sterry was leader of the Young People's Christian Endeavor service, when the topic was, How Praise God From Whom All Blessings Flow? Ps. 116: 12-19; Lk. 17: 11-19 (Thanksgiving meeting).

Miss Susan C. Hyde of Washington street is expected to return home today (Tuesday) after an absence of two weeks. Miss Hyde attended the several days' sessions of the woman's board of foreign missions at Worcester. The past week or more she has been the guest of her sister, Miss Gertrude Hyde, a member of the faculty of Mount Holyoke college, South Hadley, Mass.

Saturday evening representatives from Norwich Christian Endeavor union also representatives from New London Christian Endeavor union, met in conference at the home of Miss Jessie E. Hyde of Washington street, to formulate plans for a C. E. rally for the southeastern district of the state, sometime during December.

Mr. and Mrs. G. Avery Ray and daughter, Miss Ruth Ray of Springfield, who visited Norwich relatives over the week end, were callers Sunday afternoon at the Congregational parsonage on Rev. and Mrs.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

MARKETS AT A GLANCE

New York

Stocks strong: American Sugar highest 5thtree years.

Bonds steady: St. Paul issues strengthened.

Foreign exchanges mixed. Francs react.

Cotton easy; hostile government estimate.

Sugar steady despite heavy profit taking.

Coffee firm, trade buying.

Chicago

Wheat firm, unfavorable Argentine reports.

Corn easy; fine leaking weather west.

Cattle higher.

Hogs firmer.

INDUSTRIAL SHARES STRONG

NEW YORK, Nov. 23.—(AP)— High priced industrial shares led an upward movement in today's market although trading was largely professional in character. The buying in several groups, particularly sugars, textiles, tobaccos and chemicals, appeared to be a reflection of improved trade conditions, but in a few issues the rapid marking up of quotations suggested a drive against an over-crowded short interest. Sales were only moderate in volume.

There was no change in rates on call or time money or commercial paper, with plenty of funds available at the renewal rate of 4 1-2 per cent. The weekly statement of brokers' loans issued by the New York Federal Reserve bank showed an increase of slightly more than $6,000,000.

Cotton futures broke $1 to $1.50 a bale, following the publication of the latest government report indicating a crop of 18,399,000 bales, a new high record, but there was good trade buying on the decline, and the early losses were recovered, raw sugar futures were marked up to new high levels for the season in further reflection of recent restriction of the Cuban crop. Active wheat futures rallied 1 to 3 cents a bushel, and a sharp recovery also was staged by coffee futures.

Baldwin was run up over 4 points to 150, 1-2, the highest price in over five years during the morning, but lost practically all its gain on selling presumably inspired by another official denial by President Vauclain that the company's Philadelphia real estate had been sold. U. S. Steel common was one of the most active issues on the board, crossing 148 for a net gain of 3 3-8 points on the day. General Motors also was actively traded in, closing 1 3-8 higher at 138.

Nearly a score of issues attained new peak prices for the year, the list including American Sugar Refining, Commercial Solvents B, Consolidated Cigar, Consolidated Textile, Eureka Vacuum Cleaner, Federal Light & Traction, Philadelphia Co., and Universal Pipe preferred. Removal of selling pressure against Electric Refrigeration, which was associated with the recent announcement of a new bond issue, forced that stock down over 4 points to another new 1926 low at 34 7-8.

Railroad shares, with few exceptions, failed to participate in the advance, speculative enthusiasm for those issues being chilled, temporarily, by the unexpected decline in the net operating income of the Kansas City Southern railroad, the first to report for that month. Atlantic Coast Line recovered half of an early loss of 2 points on selling inspired by the announcement of new stock financing, the "rights" to purchase the additional stock being quoted around 17.

A sharp break of over 10 points in French francs to around the 3 1-2 cent level, half of which was later recovered, featured the irregular foreign exchange market. Demand sterling ruled 1-8 of a cent lower around $4.84 3-8, but most of the continental rates gained ground.

MOSTLY CLOUDY TODAY; CLEARING AT NIGHT

Norwich Bulletin

NORWICH, CONN., TUESDAY, NOV. 23, 1926

FULL ASSOCIATED PRESS DISPATCHES

The Bulletin.

Norwich, Tuesday, Nov. 23, 1926

THE WEATHER

Conditions

The disturbance that was central north of Lake Superior Sunday night has moved eastward to Quebec attended by snow flurries from the upper Missouri valley eastward over the lake region.

There will be snow flurries in the northern portion of northern New England and generally fair weather elsewhere east of the Mississippi river on Tuesday. However, the eastward advance of the Idaho disturbance will be attended by much cloudiness on Wednesday and rains are probable by Wednesday night as far east as the Appalachian region.

Winds

North of Sandy Hook: Fresh southwest and west and mostly overcast weather Tuesday.

Sandy Hook to Hatteras: Moderate southwest and fair weather Tuesday.

Forecast

Southern New England: Mostly cloudy Tuesday; fair Tuesday night; Wednesday increasing cloudiness; not much change in temperature.

Observations

The Bulletin's observations show the following changes in temperature and barometric changes Monday:

JUNIOR RED CROSS WORK FOR THE RURAL SCHOOLS

In the endeavor to have as many children as possible in the rural schools become interested in the work of the Junior Red Cross, the matter has been put in charge of Mrs. Walter M. Buckingham of Gales Ferry. With characteristic energy Mrs. Buckingham has taken up the project, her aim being to have every pupil a member.

Already the children in the two rooms of the Gales Ferry school have joined, the teachers there as in the other districts taking up the work with vigor. The schools in Lebanon, Canterbury, Preston City, Poquetanuck and Fort Point all have their Junior branches, well advanced in membership. The enrollment is to end about December 1st.

To become a member, it is merely necessary for a pupil to express the wish to join and to contribute any sum, from one penny up to twenty-five cents. To secure the interest of the children, each school which has its Junior Red Cross is to have an honor roll, also a membership button is to be given each pupil joining. The objects of the children's branch are of course the same in the main as those of the senior division.

FAVORS BLUFF POINT FOR STATE PARK SITE

Sentiment that was unanimous for acquiring the Gardiner property in Groton, better known as Bluff point, for a state park was disclosed at a meeting in New London Monday afternoon at the chamber of commerce offices. Out of town representatives were present from this city, Groton and Mystic.

Theodore Bodenwein of New London was made chairman and after a full discussion of the subject it was voted that the chairman should appoint a committee to interview the owner as to the possibilities of acquiring the property. There was an attendance of about 25 at the meeting.

Representatives from this city who were present were Arthur L. Peale, Charles D. Noyes, C. Edward Capperon, Mrs. E. W. Higgins, Miss Amy C. Cogswell and Henry B. Lyon.

Mayor William C. Fox of New London was elected vice president of the committee and James N. Hammond secretary.

FIVE DANIELSON MEN HELD IN JEWETT CITY

(Special to The Bulletin)

JEWETT CITY, Nov. 23—Five Danielson men, in age ranging from 16 to 60, were arrested tonight by Deputy Sheriff Dolan, following an automobile accident near Plunkett's in Lisbon. The whole lot, according to the authorities were intoxicated. The machine ran into a bank but nobody was hurt.

The driver was Hermenegilde La Jannette, 16, and those with him were George Bouin, Henry Delcourf, Robert Fields and James Laroque. They were locked up here for appearance before Walter Drew in Lisbon tomorrow morning.

FOUR HAVE VOLUNTEERED FOR BLOOD TRANSFUSION

Four volunteers for the blood transfusion needed for Thomas Bamford of Hanover had applied to the Backus hospital on Monday and all will be given the tests to determine whether their blood is of the right type to make it suitable for use in this case. It will take a day or two before this can be determined.

It was explained by a medical authority Monday night that there are four types of blood, one of which can be used in any case of transfusion, but if any of the other three types should be used for a patient whose blood was of dissimilar type, the result would be a very serious reaction and might even bring about the death of the patient.

MAKES $1,586.18 REDUCTION IN NEW LONDON SEWER ASSESSMENTS

Reduction of $1,586.18 is made in sewer assessments by Judge Allyn L. Brown of the superior court in a decision given Monday in the case of five appeals from the board of compensation of New London for assessments for a sewer in Pequot avenue. The board of compensation placed the total assessments on property owned by Joseph N. Lapointe, Nathan and Ruth Belcher, Henry R. Griswold, Jacob Jacobson and J. Harry Meadnis, at $3,-586.51. Judge Brown makes the total amount $1,994.33 in rendering judgment for the appellants.

In his memorandum of decision, Judge Brown says:

These five suits, all of which were appeals by neighboring abutting owners on Pequot avenue in New London, from the respective assessments of benefits against them by the board of compensation of the city in connection with the proposed construction of a new sewer through this avenue, were heard together by agreement of counsel. Although no two of the tracts of land concerned are alike, as is clearly pointed out by the briefs of all the parties, the fundamental question in each of the cases is identical, to wit—is the amount assessed against this appellant's property according to the special benefit resulting and its due proportion of the whole cost of the sewer?

That the formalities of laying the assessments were properly carried out, that the various tracts of land are of the size and ownership set forth in the several petitions, and that all of the tracts with the exception of that of the appellant Lapointe, will be benefitted to some extent is expressly conceded. Furthermore, while several of the appellants own land upon both sides of Pequot avenue, a street which extends along and in proximity to the westerly shore line of New London harbor, with the one exception to be mentioned below, no complaint is made of the assessments made against their land on the west or upland side of the avenue, but only as to those against the land on the easterly side thereof between the avenue and the water.

The undisputed evidence discloses that the city assessed all of the land of the appellants upon both sides of the avenue at the rate of $4.56 per front foot, except that an additional 25 feet was assessed at the same rate against each of the appellants Belcher and Jacobson because of their ownership of the corner lots where Keeney lane intersects the avenue from the west. Each of these appellants complains of so much only of the assessment against him upon land west of the avenue, and this is the exception referred to in the preceding paragraph.

While as counsel for the city well says in his brief, "It is immaterial what (rule or) system (of assessment) the board may adopt, provided property is not assessed more than it is benefitted and is not made to bear more than its just proportion of the cost of the improvement," the resulting assessment must satisfy these two requisites. Certainly the arbitrary addition of an assessment upon an extra 25 feet beyond such appellants' Pequot avenue frontage, as against each of the appellants Belcher and Jacobson for their respective corner lots, already served by the sewer in Keeney avenue, does not meet the above requisite of "just proportion." There is no evidence to warrant assessing these tracts at any higher rate than the other pieces of land on the west side of the avenue. The assessment as to each of these two tracts therefore should be modified by eliminating the item—"Keeney lane 25.0 ft. $114" in each instance, and each of such assessments is so ordered reduced accordingly.

The evidence makes clear that the practical uniformity—of substantial depth of lot, of surface above the sewer grade, and of natural availability for building purposes of the land in this vicinity west of Pequot avenue, does not exist as to the appellants' land between the avenue and the water. Except for the Lapointe property which I will deal with separately, this land east of the avenue is of relatively slight depth of lot, the distance between the road and the natural shore line varying from 24 to 70 feet. Furthermore but a relatively small part of the surface of it is at or above the street grade, most of it consisting either of a slope falling away to the water from 15 to 25 feet below, or of shore land close to sea level. Accordingly a large part of it lies below the grade of the proposed sewer.

In the light of the circumstances, briefly referred to above, and fully disclosed by the evidence, while the "front foot" rule of assessment as adopted by the city may well be said to have served as a sufficient tool for assessing the benefits against the land lying on the west side of Pequot avenue; I am satisfied that as applied to the land of the appellants on the east side, it has failed to effect "an assessment of a proportional and reasonable part of the expense of the public work in hand, upon the basis of special benefits," which the law requires. "All the circumstances, tending either to enhance or diminish the benefit received, must be taken into consideration." As contended in the appellants' brief "the assessment must reflect the consideration of the quantity, value, grade and other circumstances affecting each particular lot."

Applying as to the several vacant tracts in question principles to accomplish this result it is my conclusion that the amounts of the items of assessment as they appear on page 4 of Exhibit A, should be modified respectively as follows:

"Jacob Jacobson, east side, 171.8 feet, $782.41," changed to read "$503.52."

"Nathan and Ruth T. Belcher, east side, 193.8 feet, $882.73," changed to read "$538.76."

"Henry R. Griswold, east side, 118.7 feet, $541.72," changed to read "$314.56."

"Henry R. Griswold, east side, 44.2 feet, $201.91," changed to read "$125.37."

"J. Harry Meadnis, east side, 114 feet, $519.84," changed to read "$276.88."

Each of these assessments is so ordered reduced accordingly.

The question remaining to be dealt with relates to the assessments against the Lapointe property. As to this property the further facts are to be considered that it is already occupied by substantial structures served by a sufficient private sewer into New London harbor, connected with a system of piping in the building which could not be changed to discharge into the new sewer without great expense, and in no event to so serve the fixtures on the first floor which are below the grade of the proposed sewer. Taking into consideration these and all the other circumstances appearing in evidence, it is my conclusion that the amounts of those items of assessment as they appear on page 4 of Exhibit A, should be modified respectively as follows:

"J. N. Lapointe, east side, 50 feet, $228.00," changed to read "$68.50."

"J. N. Lapointe, east side, 92.5 feet, $421.80," changed to read "$102.78."

Each of these assessments is so ordered reduced accordingly.

While I am fully satisfied of the city's error in the assessments herein ordered modified, I am likewise satisfied that the officials acted in good faith, in applying a rule insufficient for the situation. Judgment for the appellants may therefore be entered, without costs.

$60,000 BID SECURES G. & S. STREET RAILWAY

The Groton & Stonington Street Railway Co., with all its equipment, which had been appraised last week at a total of $321,000, was bought at a public auction Monday at noon at the court house in New London for $50,-000, which was the only bid made. The bid was made by P. Leroy Harwood of New London, a member of the bondholders' committee of the Groton & Stonington Traction Co., acting as agent for that committee.

Attorney Lewis Crandall, clerk of court of common pleas and deputy judge of the local police court, a committee of sale, appointed by the superior court conducted the public auction which was not attended by many and the fact that but one bid was submitted manifested that there was little interest in the sale.

Reorganization Planned

The bondholders' committee of the Groton and Stonington Traction Co. consisting of P. LeRoy Harwood, Lucius E. Whiton, Charles Royce Bond and Charles E. Thompson, Jr., the latter of New Haven, now proposes to reorganize the company under the charter of the Groton and Stonington Traction Co.

This committee held the first mortgage bonds of $375,000 on the main line, which runs direct from the ferry line in Groton to the Rhode Island state line and does not include the so-called Mystic extension, which was abandoned several years ago. The bondholders' committee has now on deposit $372,000 of the $375,000 of first mortgage bonds. The road will continue on from the Groton ferry line across the drawbridge to New London. The Groton and Stonington Street Railway's line ended at the ferry line and the route across the bridge belonged to the Groton and Stonington Traction Co., which practically controlled the former.

$250,000 Bond Issue

It is now planned to issue $250,000 of first mortgage income bonds. The present bond holders will receive 50 per cent of the par value of the first mortgage bonds in new 6 per cent income bonds and will also receive 100 per cent of the par value of the common stock.

Interesting to note is the fact that eight or nine years ago, these first mortgage bonds could be purchased only at a premium, but like all other street railway companies throughout the country, the local company has met with difficulty in recent years.

Despite competition, the past two years has found the company running satisfactorily.

Robert W. Perkins, of this city, is president of the Groton and Stonington Traction Co., and the three directors are Mr. Perkins, Edward S. Day of Hartford and Attorney Charles B. Whittlesey, of New London.

Long in Litigation

Long litigation has followed the action of the first mortgage bond-holders to foreclose against the Groton and Stonington Street Railway Co. At one time Anson T. McCook, as state treasurer, trustee of the first mortgage bonds, was plaintiff and he was succeeded by State Treasurer Ernest E. Rogers, present trustee of the first mortgage bonds, and present plaintiff in the matter.

By the order of the superior court, in which judgment was entered for the plaintiff, the railway was ordered sold Monday, with Attorney Crandall appointed the committee of sale. The appraisers, Shepard B. Palmer, Samuel Anderson and Dwight C. Peck, all of this city, last week inventoried and appraised the railway at $321,000.

The inventory and appraisal contained the following items:

Right of way and other land, totalling about 44 acres—$12,000.

Track work, including ties, rails, joints, special work and road machinery, the main line of trackwks being 19 and 78-100 miles—$162,000.

Bridges, trestles, crossings, etc.—$27,000.

Overhead construction—$50,000.

Car house, waiting stations, office building, garage buildings, etc.—$40,-000.

Rolling stock, 13 passenger cars, two snow plows, one line car, one work car, three buses and one service truck —$30,000.

Built 26 Years Ago

The Groton and Stonington Street Railway Co., was organized more than 20 years ago. Thomas Hamilton, of Groton, was its first president and Costelo Lippitt, of Norwich, its first treasurer. Charles W. Comstock, Charles D. Noyes and Edward W. Higgins, former congressman, all of this city, secured the charter.

The first car ran over the tracks in December, 1904, and it was one year later when a trolley car reached Westerly by the company's line.

In 1913, the Norwich and Westerly Traction Co., a concern of the late Commodore Morton F. Plant, took over the common stock as part of its organization and in 1916 Commodore Plant paid off the preferred stock of $200,000 and cleaned it up, retaining the common stock, which is now owned by the Shore Line Electric Railway Co., an organization also owned and organized by the late Commodore Plant.

The Shore line is at present in receivership, with Robert W. Perkins, now president of the Groton and Stonington Traction Co., receiver. Commodore Plant operated the railway as long as he lived. It was only in recent years that the line was extended from the Groton ferry line across the Thames river drawbridge to New London. Then the Groton and Stonington Traction Co. was organized.

NOLLE RECKLESS DRIVING CHARGE AGAINST WOMAN

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Nov. 23.—Margaret Schaffhauser of Bushnell place, Norwich, was charged with reckless operation of an automobile in this city. Her machine was in contact with the auto of Fred A. Meek of this city and the Meek car lost a fender. He wanted Miss Schaffhauser to pay for it but the price fixed was deemed to be out of all proportion by Miss Schaffhauser, so she wouldn't pay. The case got into the police court and the parties told their stories to the judge. Frank Sonnheimer of Allen avenue, Norwich, was giving the girl instructions with her at the wheel at the time of the crash. They said that Meek came out of Federal street so rapidly that the Schaffhauser machine, a brand new car, could not avoid the collision. The question of right of way came into the case and then it was declared that Meek was so close that there was no chance to give right of way. Had there been no trolley car in the street perhaps the collision could have been avoided. The court nolled the case when the witnesses had been heard. It is understood that the parties will reach a settlement of the damages and that all will be satisfactorily adjusted.

JUDGMENTS ARE ENTERED IN COMMON PLEAS COURT

A number of judgments were entered by Judge Charles B. Waller at motion list of the court of common pleas in New London on Monday.

Judgment for $146.19 was given in favor of the City Coal Co., against William Kaplan of New London. The suit arose over a coal bill, which it was alleged the defendant owed the plaintiff.

An application to amend was granted to the plaintiff in the case of Frank W. Hewes against Edward Morgan.

Judgment in favor of the plaintiff in the amount of $350 was entered in the case of Franklin A. Chapman, of North Stonington, against John Hewetson, formerly of that place. The judgment was by default on Nov. 4, 1926. The plaintiff sought to collect for trees, which the defendant was alleged to have cut down on his property.

Leave to withdraw answer and file other pleadings, was granted the defendant in the case of Maggie Shitchy against Otto Anderson, Jr.

Y. M. C. A. Sunday Meeting

All seats were taken and quite a number had to stand at the 4 o'clock meeting at the local Y. M. C. A. gymnasium Sunday afternoon. After the hymn, the reading and prayer, a group of boys and girls from the county home, who were guests of the meeting, pleased the audience by singing a selection. Hugh Kinder rendered a vocal solo and furnished the music for the picture. The seven reel feature moving picture, "Druscilla with a Million," proved a most impressive screen story, with Mary Carr the principal character, taking the part of Druscilla. The picture abounded in pathos and heart touching human experience, where genuine love triumphed over cold selfishness. Between the reels, Secretary Edwin Hill gave a brief talk, speaking in part as follows: "This is the special season of the year when we are specially called upon to express our gratitude to our Heavenly Father for his most wonderful mercies. We should always be expressing gratitude to Him for his many blessings. We thank our earthly friends for simple gifts and yet, we so often forget or neglect to thank God for his gifts, without which we could not survive, he gives us food, shelter, health, friends and many other precious gifts; indeed if we were to attempt to count his blessings to us, we would be lost in the counting. Is it not true that most of our prayers are petitions for something, and very seldom do we put the thought of gratitude into our prayers? Let us thank God more and more for his continual gifts of his love and care, for "in him, we live and move and have our being." Lewis R. Church and William C. McKean acted as ushers at the service.

HEARINGS RESUMED IN BROCKETT VS. BROCKETT

Another hearing in the suit brought by Walter D. Brockett of New Haven against Clarence and Rosena Brockett, of Niantic, was held Monday at the New London court house before Attorney Charles L. Smiddy, a committee of the superior court to hear the evidence.

Walter Brockett seeks damages of $25,000 while Clarence and Rosena Brockett in a counter claim seek $70,-000, the entire matter arising out of the Giants Neck project in East Lyme, which was begun by the brothers years ago.

ALLEGES CRUELTY IN HER SUIT FOR DIVORCE

Ruth Blaisdell Bahr of New London brought suit in the superior court for divorce from Walter T. Bahr of Derby, whom she married June 28, 1923 and whom she charges with intolerable cruelty since Jan. 1, 1926. The suit is returnable in December.

CONTRADICTORY ESTIMATES GIVEN OF FALL AND DOHENY

At Trial on Charge For Conspiracy to Loot the Naval Oil Reserves in Elk Hills, Cal., Counsel For Defense Pictured Fall as a Man Who Had Given His Life to Public Service—Doheny Was Declared to Be a Patriotic Citizen Who Acted in the National Interest—Counsel For Government Pictured the Accused Men as Conspirators.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23.—(AP)—Occasional flashes of oratory by opposing counsel served to lift out of the humdrum the second day of the trial here of Albert B. Fall and Edward L. Doheny on charges of conspiracy to loot the naval oil reserves in Elk Hills, California.

For five hours, counsel for the government and the defense drew pictures of the 65-year-old former cabinet officer and the 71-year-old multi-millionaire oil man that were in as sharp a contrast as the vigor and the fire of the presentation.

Addressing the jury calmly and dispassionately, Owen J. Roberts required an hour to outline the case, as the government expects to present it by oral testimony and a great raft of official documents.

Frank J. Hogan, counsel for Doheny, traced the history of all of the transactions involved in the naval oil lease and contracts step by step, spending four hours in a vigorous and at times impassioned statement of what the defense contends the evidence will prove.

Doheny was described by Hogan as a patriotic citizen who acted in the national interest when he required his company to enter into the contract for the Pearl Harbor naval storage.

Fall was declared to be a man who had given his life in the public service and one who throughout all of the oil reserve negotiations acted in the best interests of the country and only with and by the consent of Secretary Denby and other high officials of the navy department.

The $100,000 transaction between Doheny and Fall loomed large in the statement of both counsel. Roberts said the loan was made after negotiations had been opened between Fall and Doheny for the Pearl harbor contract, and that, when the senate oil committee found out that Fall had spent this sum in improving his New Mexico ranch holdings, the former secretary "did not tell the truth about it, but tried in every way to conceal it."

Calling attention that nearly a month after the loan was made Doheny had advised the government his firm would not undertake the Pearl harbor development, Hogan insisted there had been no secrecy; that Fall had given his demand note; had used the money to buy ranch property, paying $10,000 in cash in the presence of witnesses, and making the other payments in the usual way.

Hogan insisted that the project for the storing of 150,000,000 gallons of fuel oil for the navy at Pearl harbor had originated with high naval officers after reports had come that the Japanese were planning to mobilize war vessels for attacks on the Philippines and the Hawaiian islands.

Government counsel emphasized the secrecy attending the awarding of the original contract to Doheny's company and charged this was a part of the scheme to defraud the government. Hogan countered with the declaration that secrecy had been requested by Theodore Roosevelt, Jr., then acting secretary of the navy, because confidential war plans of the navy were involved.

Defense counsel also said the evidence would show that the bids for the storage contracts were opened in the presence of competing companies and interior department officials. Roberts declared that the government would show that three oil companies had declined to bid because they did not believe such a contract was legal.

The government lawyer also declared that solicitors in both the interior department and the department of justice had held the scheme to be illegal. The jury was told by Hogan that the proposal had been approved as legal by the judge advocate general of the navy and that Captain John K. Robison, Secretary Denby's personal representative in oil matters, then went ahead to develop the plan.

Robison reinterested Doheny in the first contract Hogan said, by explaining in confidential detail the then threatened situation in the Pacific. After listening to the naval officer, Doheny, Hogan declared, agreed that his company would go in and agree to do the work without profit as a patriotic duty.

The contract as finally approved gave the Pan-American Petroleum company preferential rights in Elk Hills and it is the government's contention that this was all a part of the conspiracy by which the California oil man was to get possesion of the reserves.

When Hogan concluded, the government brought out from its first witness, George Otis Smith, director of the geological survey, that he and R. Foster Bain, director of the bureau of mines, had called to the attention of Fall at the time the contracts were being negotiated that there was a large ofer-production of oil which was sending down the price.

Dr. Smith estimated that the Elk Hills reserve contained 250,000,000 barrels of crude oil. He declared that wells drilled on adjacent land would drain some of this supply, but said the operation of these wells might make it more difficult and costly to get out some of the oil from the naval lands.

OTIS COTTON MANUFACTURERS MAY REMOVE TO THE SOUTH

WARE, Mass., Nov. 23.—(AP)—Adding to a length line of recent changes in the textile manufacturing situation in New England, the Otis company, of Ware today announced a plan for closing their plant here and removing manufacture to the south. The project will be submitted to the stockholders for ratification on December 6.

Reduction of manufacturing costs to meet southern competition was given as the main reason for the action taken by the directors. Within the last month a number of consolidations of textile companies have been made public, with economy in production as the basis, while in other instances plant machinery has been removed to southern units.

Recently the Nashua Manufacturing company purchased the plant of the Fremont and Suffolk mills in Lowell and details of a merger between the Pepperell Manufacturing company and the Massachusetts Cotton Mills were made public. Last month the Jenckes-Manville company of Rhode Island closed its Nourse mill at Woonsocket and moved the machinery to units already in operation in the south.

The Otis company normally employs 1,500 persons in the manufacture of awnings, denims, cotton suitings, cotton underwear, and other cotton products. Under the plan now submitted to the stockholders by the treasurer, Harry G. Nichols, the mills and other property here, including a number of tenements, would be sold, as well as the company's mills at Greeneville, N. H., part of the manufacturing would be removed to two modern plants owned by the company at Palmer, but the majority would be taken south.

THRREE MEN IN SILVER MINE KILLED BY CAVE-IN

NAPA, Cal., Nov. 23.—(AP)—Three miners are known to be dead and an undetermined number of others were believed to have been trapped when a cave-in occurred today in a shaft in the Corona silver mine, 15 miles east of Mount St. Helena, near here.

Reports indicated the cave-in was caused by a "missed hole" of dynamite which exploded when a drill was driven into it.

The two miners brought out dead were A. Leitch and R. Fairfull. They appeared to have been fleeing to the surface when overcome by after damp.

Slight hope that they are still alive was held out as, in addition to the heavy gas clouds in the workings, several small explosions occurred during the morning as well as this afternoon.

$25,000 FIRE IN FORMER WAREHOUSE POINT HOTEL

WAREHOUSE POINT, Nov. 23.—(AP)—Fire which started late last night did $35,000 damage to the former Hotel Brusie, a wooden building on Main street. The flames were brought under control at 1 o'clock this morning after several hours' work by the Windsor Locks and Warehouse Point fire departments.

One fireman was overcome by smoke and three others were slightly injured when a ladder broke. They were sent home.

GERMAN LIQUOR BOAT ORDERED RELEASED

NEW YORK, Nov. 23.—(AP)—The German auxiliary barkentine Carmen, seized 140 miles off New York, was ordered released today. It will be convoyed out of port tomorrow morning.

The German consul general of New York was ordered by the German embassy to investigate the vessel's seizure today.

The ship's papers were regular, a member of the German consulate told federal officials after examining them. The release followed.

It had been reported that there were 100,000 cases of whiskey aboard.

In Washington, it was said that the seizure of the vessel 140 miles from New York was regarded by officials of the German embassy as conflicting with the smuggling treaty of two years ago between the American and German governments. The embassy assumed that the Carmen was loaded in the free port of Hamburg, which is being used by British distillers for their shipments abroad, especially to Canada.

In shipping circles here tonight, the prevailing opinion was that the coast guard had mistaken the identity of the ship.

GIRL SCOUT EXECUTIVES HELD SESSION IN MERIDEN

MERIDEN, Nov. 23.—(AP)—The largest gathering of Girl Scout executives ever held in this state, was present at a conference held at the Winthrop hotel here in an all-day session today.

Mrs. Clifford Perkins, of Hartford, chairman, presided. An address of welcome was given by Mrs. Wells Rockwell, Meriden, and Mrs. Oliver Styer, Bridgeport, gave a report on the "world camp." Mrs. Jane Deeter Rippen, New York city, National Girl Scout director, and Mrs. Frederick Eddy, of New York city, chairman of the national eld department, gave addresses.

The next gathering of executives will be held in New Haven in February.

CONDENSED REPORT OF THE HALL-MILLS MURDER TRIAL

COURTHOUSE, Somerville, N. J., Nov. 23.—(AP)—Willie Stevens said that he was not present at the murder of Mrs. Mills and Mr. Hall and knew nothing of it.

James Mason, detective, said he placed his initials on a calling card kept separate from others, found at the body of Hall.

Fingerprint experts testified that the print on a calling card in evidence is not that of Willie Stevens.

Cross-examination of Willie Stevens to be continued tomorrow and fingerprint experts to be cross-examined.

TWO NAVAL SEAPLANES IN NON-STOP FLIGHT TO COLON

NORFOLK, Va., Nov. 23.—(AP)—Two giant PN-10 naval seaplanes left here at 4.18 and 4.36 p. m., respectively, today in an attempt to make a non-stop flight of approximately 2,200 miles to Colon, Panama. Each carried 1,500 gallons of gasoline and some difficulty was had in getting them off the water. The trip is expected to require about 25 hours.

Liquor Cases Occupy the Supreme Court

Decisions Concern Disposal of Vehicles Seized For Illegal Transportation of Liquor.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23.—(AP)—Cases from both the Atlantic and the Pacific seaboards were drawn up today by the supreme court to furnish examples of what can and cannot be done with vehicles seized for illegal transportation of liquor.

Deciding a case from Washington state, the court held that when 4 liquor-laden automobile is taken in under the prohibition law, the government cannot later invoke the drastic provisions of the old internal revenue laws in such a way as to deprive innocent owners of the vehicles, such as automobile companies selling on the installment plan, of all right to seek restoration of their property.

Another decision, in a case appealed from Rhode Island, dealt directly with the relationship between states and federal authorities when they both are concerned in a rum seizure. The court decided that the motorboy Ray of Block Island, captured by Providence police with liquor aboard, could lawfully be turned over to federal prohibition agents even though no federal officer assisted in the captrue.

At the same session, the court allowed an appeal in the case of the steamer Underwriter, designed to test the authority of the coast guard to make rum seizures outside the 12-mile limit, but refused to review the action of lower courts in sustaining seizure of the steam tug Esther M. Rendle of Boston, on a charge of towing a liquor-laden steamer into port. The Underwriter, an American vessel was taken 24 miles off Block Island, and her owner was overruled in the lower courts when he protested that the government had stepped outside its jurisdiction.

The court threw out two other appeals based on disputed features of the liquor laws. It refused to review a lower court decision by which the United States and Guaranty Fidelity company was overruled in contending that Herman C. Wechsler of New York, violated the law by bringing ethyl molasses alcohol into that port under bond for trans-shipment to Italy, and it also denied an appeal by Frank X. Kinsly, former chief of police of North Tonawanda, N. Y., and William A. Gillespie, who alleged their conviction for bringing intoxicants across the Canadian border was invalid because it was accomplished under the tariff law, and not the prohibition law.

QUEEN MARIA HAS SAID GOODBY OVER THE RADIO

NEW YORK, Nov. 23.—(AP)—Queen Marie's American tour came to a close tonight after another heotic day of sightseeing by land and water, and a radio speech in which she said goodby to hundreds of thousands.

She will sail for Paris tomorrow at 11 o'clock on the Berengaria.

Although the last day of the American visit was crowded with scheduled events, it nevertheless afforded Marie one of the most informal and restful periods of her tour. The opportunity to momentarily forget her royal position came during the few hours of her trip around the harbor aboard the tug Charlie White of the Standard Oil company of New Jersey.

Although the tug's work-day appearance was glossed over with new paint, flower-covered cabin walls and Rumanian colors, its informality was preserved by the arrangement of small tables in the cabin where the queen and her hosts lunched and chatted as they inspected the sky line.

Before the boat Marie met the directors of the oil company at its general offices, 25 Broadway, being greeted by Edward J. Sadler, who for several years managed the Rumanian branch of the concern.

PETITION PRESENTED BY COUNSEL FOR ELECTICS

BRIDGEPORT, Nov. 23.—(AP)—Judge John W. Banks today took under advisement a petition offered by Attorney W. F. D. Kilpatrick, counsel for a group of eclectics in which it was asked that the judge order State's Attorney William Comley to affix his signature to a mandamus action brought by Kilpatrick against some 1,500 physicians and surgeons in the state.

Attorney Kilpatrick placed his petition before Judge Banks during a recess of the superior court. He had unsuccessfully attempted to place the matter before Judge Banks on last Friday at the end of the court session and the judge then suggested that the matter be re-submitted.

DANBURY TROLLEY MEN HAVE GONE ON STRIKE

DANBURY, Nov. 24.—(AP)—Operatives of the Danbury Power and Transportation company's trolleys put their cars in the shed at midnight, and the strike commenced without incident. A meeting of strikers was to be held later in the morning, but no intimation could be secured as to any action in prospect. A. William Sperry, executive engineer of the company, was reported to have gone to his home in New Havan about noon yesterday, was reported to have been seen here during the early night, but could not be found by reporters seeking a statement from him

TEN MEN ARE ENTOMBED WITH THE MINE ON FIRE

LETHBRIDGE, Alta., Nov. 23.—(AP)—The McGillivray Creek mine, where an explosion early today entombed ten miners, is now on fire and Mine Inspector Johnston has ordered rescue teams not to go into the workings. Two bodies have already been recovered. Rescue workers located a third body but were unable to bring it to the surface on account of dense gas and recurring explosions. No hope is entertained for the eight men trapped in the mine.

It has been definitely established that there were 28 men in the slope when the first explosion occurred.

OBITUARY

Frank Butler

GREENVILLE, O., Nov. 23.—(AP)—Frank Butler, 76, husband of Annie Oakley, world famed rifle shot who died Nov. 3, died last night in Ferndale, Mich., a suburb of Detroit, relatives here were notified today. Butler's death occurred at the home of Mrs. Butler's sister, Mrs. Hilda Haines.

Eight chandeliers, lost from St. Paul chapel, in lower Broadway, New York, for 37 years, have been recovered and re-hung. One was found in the church garret and a long search revealed the others had been given away. They were returned.

J. Bock, secretary of the alliance of the big four studio and trade unions, stated that approximately 2,500 employes of Hollywood motion picture studios were preparing to leave their work Dec. 1 unless demands for discontinuance of the open shop are granted.

Aaron Waider, 16, who has been missing for several months, has returned to his home in Bridgeport, and relates a story of travel all over the southwestern part of the country and the northern part of Mexico. He returned, he said, when he wearied of "seeing America first."

C. Henry Reiker, former manager of Wylie's, Inc., of 254 Chapel street, New Haven, and who was found guilty of the theft of approximately $500 worth of china and glassware from the store, was sentenced to from one to three years in state's prison by Judge Edwin C. Dickenson in criminal superior court.

A Strike is Impending on Canadian Railways

Some 15,000 Employes Authorized to Quit to Enforce Demands For Increased Wages.

MONTREAL, Quebec, Nov. 23.—(AP)—A strike of 15,000 conductors, trainmen and yardmen on Canadian railways loomed tonight as a result of a ballot announced today authorizing a strike to enforce demands for increased wages.

The decision as to whether a strike will be called rests in the hands of the general committee of the Order of Railway Conductors and the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen, which will meet tomorrow.

Members of the unions rejected by more than the necessary two-thirds majority the award of a federal board of conciliation which dealt with their application for increased wages, S. N. Berry, senior vice president of the Order of Railway Conductors, announced this afternoon. The board's award refused the conductors, trainmen and yardmen a six per cent wage increase which the applicants desired to bring their earnings up to the level of similar railwaymen in the United States.

The figures of the ballot were not disclosed by Mr. Berry, who said that they had been sent to the minister of labor at Ottawa for his information.

Armed with the mandate of the men, the general committee of the two unions will convene here tomorrow morning to consider what action will be taken, in accordance with the constitution of the organizations.

ARRANGEMENTS FOR FUNERAL OF JUDGE JOHN J. WALSH

BRIDGEPORT, Nov. 23.—(AP)—All business in the Fairfield county court house will be suspended tomorrow in honor of Judge John J. Walsh, of the court of common pleas, who died Monday afternoon at his home in Norwalk after a brief illness. Lawyers and judges from all sections of the state will attend the funeral services to be held form his home at 9 o'clock and at 10 o'clock from St. Joseph's R. C. church, South Norwalk, where a solemn requiem mass will be celebrated. Burial will be in St. Mary's cemetery, Norwalk.

Chief Justices George W. Wheeler, of the supreme court of errors, heads the list of honorary pallbearers. Other members of the state judiciary are: Hon John R. Booth, of Danbury; Hon. Frederick W. Huxford, Stamford, judge of the court of common pleas, and at one time prosecuting attorney for Judge Walsh; and Hon. Edwin S. Thomas, of Norwalk, judge in the United States district court at New Haven.

Other honorary pallbearers are: Sidney N. Lockwood, Bridgeport, clerk in the court of common pleas; former State's Attorney Homer S. Cummings, of Stamford; former Senator Charles E. Williamson, of Stamford; former State's Attorney General John H. Light, of Norwalk; retired Judge James T. Hubbell, of Norwalk, former law associate of Judge Walsh; Harvey P. Hisell, of Ridgefield, collector of customs for the port of Connecticut and John J. Cavanaugh, president of the Crofut company, of Norwalk.

INGRATITUDE HURT LATE PRESIDENT HARDING

NEW YORK, Nov. 23.—(AP)—The ingratitude of his friends broke President Harding's heart, and "he died a martyr to that friendship," said John A. Stewart, president of the Republican League of Clubs, at a luncheon meeting of the organization today.

He felt it his duty, the speaker said, as a friend of the late president, to straighten out "the impression in certain quarters" concerning Harding's connection with "the scandals" during his administration.

The Alaskan trip, he said, was begun at a time when the president was on the point of breaking in major political issues with Secretary of the Interior Albert B. Fall. On his return he planned, the speaker said, to defend the Alaskans against exploitation and to champion a new "political gospel" at a meeting in New York to have been arranged by Mr. Stewart and Walter Brown of Ohio.

Stewart said that he suggested to President Harding that the appointment of Harry M. Daugherty as attorney general might be misconstrued by the people. The president, who had opened the subject, he said, insisted that even though there might be men who would make more practical appointees, he valued friendship above everything else, and would make the appointment

GREEN, THANKSGIVING PROBABLE IN NEW ENGLAND

BURINGTON, Vt., Nov. 23.—(AP)—Small boys of northern New England, who have been hoping for a "white Thanksgiving" have had their hopes dashed. It began to snow in upstate Vermont today, and for a while the local weather sharps felt sure that Thursday would be regular, old-fashioned Thanksgiving day, with the fields and hills blanketed with snow.

When the white blanket was an inch thick and spread all across northern and central Vermont and into New Hampshire, the sun came out and the snow vanished. Eastern and northern Maine had only light snow flurries. Such snow as there is in New England tonight was only to be found on the elevations and in the mountain notches.

At about the time the snow was melting the weather bureau at Boston predicted rain for Wednesday night or Thursday in both northern and southern New England.

SEATING POSTAL RATES SHIPPING BY FREIGHT

PORTLAND, Me., Nov. 23.—(AP)—Basing its action on the establishment of the postal zoning system and an increase of 275 per cent in the rates on second class periodicals, the W. H. Gannett Publishing company of Augusta will send tomorrow night from this port the first freight shipment ever to go by water from Maine to become second class mail matter at a re-entry port.

The shipment, which will be on the steamer Cumberland of the Eastern Steamship lines, will include 118,000 copies of the magazine Comfort, more than 10 per cent of the circulation of that publication. The shipment will be transferred to the Mallory line, at New York, taken to Galveston, and then sent by rail to Dallas, Tex., for distribution.

FAVORABLE TO HOOVER'S INLAND WATERWAYS PLAN

Program For the All American Deep Waterways From the Great Lakes to the Atlantic Seaboard Was Approved by the Mississippi Valley Association—Calls For Completion Within Five Years of 12,000 Miles of Nine Foot Waterway Channel at an Expenditure of From $120,000,000 to $140,000.

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 23.—(AP)—Endorsement of the "all American deep waterway" from the Great Lakes to the Atlantic seaboard at New York city, late today threw the influence of the Mississippi Valley association into the fight against co-operation with Canada and adoption of the St. Lawrence river as the preferred route.

Unanimously reported by a resolutions committee, the "all American route" was approved without debate. Wallace Dempsey, of Buffalo, New York, chairman of the house committee on rivers and harbors, who introduced the subject at yesterday's session, said the resolution would give an entirely different aspect to the fight in congress.

Another resolution called upon the government to add "new trade routes and additional service" to the American Merchant Marine, replacing existing equipment as it wears out with thoroughly modern craft and equipment that "will keep the American Merchant Marine abreast of competitors."

President Coolidge and Secretaries Hoover, Dwight Davis and Jardine were thanked for their "invaluable service" to the cause of waterways. The new national policy, restated by Secretary Hoover yesterday, assuring expenditure of $120,000,000 of $140,000,000 in the next five years in 12,000 miles of nine foot waterway channel, including 9,000 miles of the Mississippi system, was given extreme praise.

Chairman Dempsey described the "all American waterway" from the Great Lakes to the Atlantic seaboard, as 336 miles in length as compared with the 1,150 miles of the proposed St. Lawrence route.

Both routes, he said, coincide from Tonawanda, N. Y., through Lockport and Alcott on Lake Ontario to Oswego. At Oswego the "all American route" would go down the Oswego river to Oneida lake, then by way of a 40-mile enlargment of the barge canal which was formerly the Erie canal to the Mohawk river and thence to the Hudson river.

New York is preparing for this waterway by improving her terminals. Harbor space has been increased ten times in the last three years. Five hundred million dollars are being spent on the improvements.

AMERICAN AND CANADIAN ENGINEERS FAILED TO AGREE

OTTAWA, Nov. 23.—(AP)—American and Canadian engineers have failed to agree on a plan for the development of the Great Lakes-St. Lawrence waterways, the report of the joint commission made public tonight shows.

The American section proposes a full single-stage power development in which all the practical head available in that section of the river would be concentrated in one dam below Long Sault Rapids at the foot of Barnhart Island.

The Canadian section proposes the development of power at Ogden Island near Morrisburg, and at the Long Sault in a double-stage scheme.

The total installed capacity of the two plans would be: Single stage (American plan) 2,730,000 horsepower and double stage (Canadian plan) 2,619,000 horsepower.

The estimated cost of the development of power alone the St. Lawrence under both projects: Single stage $390,172,000; double stage $303,122,000.

The estimated cost of improving the St. Lawrence for navigation alone is $167,720,000, under either scheme.

The board estimated that the cost to restore the effects of Chicago water diversion would amount to $6,258,000.

FIND AGREEMENT VIOLATED SHERMAN ANTI-TRUST LAWS

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23.—(AP)—The agreement between Chicago manufacturers of mill work, contractors who install such work, and representatives of the Chicago carpenter's union, under which the latter would not be required to install non-union made mill materials, was held by the supreme court today to be a violation of the Sherman anti-trust laws.

In an opinion by Justice McReynolds, the court reviewed the action of the circuit court setting aside the conviction of the men involved, and said that court was in error in holding that the agreement was merely an arrangement under which union carpenters would not be required to work upon non-union made mill work.

Justice McReynolds declared the manufacturers had found their business seriously impeded by the competition of non-union mills outside of Illinois, especially in Wisconsin and the south, which were selling their product in Chicago cheaper than the manufacturers there, who employed union labor, could afford to do. The agreements then entered into was ascribed as a wish to eliminate this competition which was done.

MARITAL ENTANGLEMENTS OF CAPT. ARNALDO MARSON

NEW YORK, Nov. 23.—(AP)—Mrs. Grace Burch Walkup Marson will make no attempt to unlock the legal barriers separating her husband and her daughter-in-law from marriage.

The husband, Captain Amaldo Marson, former Italian army officer, and the daughtre-in-law, Mrs. Lyndon Walkup Burch, are under arrest on charges of violating the Mann act in San Francisco, where they eloped.

Mrs. Marson, said at her home here she would make no attempt to divorce the captain. Her son, husband of his stepfather's companion, declined to discuss his young wife's elopement. Before her flight, Mrs. Burch lived with her husband and two children in Yonkers, N. Y., where Mr. Burch was connected with an automobile concern. He declined to comment on his wife's statement that he would have consented to a divorce.

IMPERIAL CONFERENCE CONCLUDES SESSIONS

LONDON, Nov. 23.—(AP)—The imperial conference, one of whose outstanding accomplishments was the defining of the British dominions as autonomous communities within the empire, today wound up its sessions with the dispatch of a loyal address to Buckingham palace, declaring the premiers' fidelity and devotion to the crown.

The closing sessions were devoted to the formal business of approving the various reports made during the past five weeks and in making complimentary speeches on the cordial relations prevailing during the sessions.

The conference concluded its business this afternoon with a recommendation that the several governments of the empire should consider the necessity for "creating and maintaining an adequate chain of air bases for refuelling stations."

BEING TOUGH SAVED TURKEY FROM THE AX

LONDON, Nov. 23.—(AP)—Jim, the much traveled prize turkey who was sent last year from the Vermont farm of President Coolidge to make a Thanksgiving holiday in London, is just the luckiest gobbler on earth. For the second time he has escaped the chopping block and this time for good.

Jim was destined to grace the festive board of an American banquet in London last year, but was reprieved when the dinner was cancelled because of the death of Queen Alexandra. He was sent to a farm in Kent to fatten up for this year's Thanksgiving feast of the American society and now the chef of the Savoy says he's too tough! So Jim is going back to Kent and the danger of the ax is gone.

DISPUTES WITH MEXICO COMING TO SHOWDOWN

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23.—(AP)—Smouldering disputes with Mexico over application of her new laws to American oil and mining interests are drawing to a showdown.

On Jan. 1, foreign oil and land owners in Mexico must agree not to seek diplomatic protection of their home governments for their holdings, or, by the new laws, they must forfeit them to the Mexican government.

It is not expected that the foreign companies will do that and it is not expected that the Calles government will recede from its demand.

Without comment, the state department published today the hitherto secret correspondence with the Mexican government on the subject. The Calles government bluntly takes the position that Mexico is passing to a new ownership system of nationalization of natural resources which "requires" that old rights adjust themselves to new principles "in the general interests of the nation."

The American government, in brief, takes the position that without the assurances, given in 1923, that the new government in Mexico would respect foreign rights and property, recognition by the United States never would have been extended.

The Mexican government has been warned, between the lines at least, that diplomatic relations will be endangered if it deprives American citizens in Mexico "of the full ownership and enjoyment" of their property rights.

FRENCH AMBASSADOR BERENGER WITHDRAWS

PARIS, Nov. 23.—(AP)—Henry Berenger, French ambassador to the United States, today declined renewal of his appointment to that post in order that he might take up the cudgel for ratification of the American debt settlement which he negotiated with American Secretary of the Treasury Andrew W. Mellon.

"I regret to leave my post," he said to the Associated Press this evening, "but my task is now here to fight for approval of the settlement which I made in Washington."

Already there are five names mentioned as possibilities to succeed M. Berenger. Among these is Charles De Chambrun, minister to Athens, who is a descendant of Lafayette and is entitled to call himself American as well as French. Others are Robert De Billy, minister at Bucharest; Aime Joseph De Fleurieu, ambassador at London; Henri Simon, president of the finance commission and Andre Tardieu, French commissioner to the United States during the war.

M. Berenger asked the Associated Press to convey a message of thanks to the American people for their courtesy and cordiality to him during his stay in the United States.

A MUNSON LINE CLERK HELD FOR THEFT OF $67,431

NEW YORK, Nov. 23.—(AP)—Charged with having misappropriated $67,431 from the funds of the Munson Steamship company where he had been employed as a clerk since 1918, Hebart N. Cook, 38 years old, of Norooton Manor, Conn., was arrested today. It was announced at the district attorney's office that he had confessed.

The $67,000 shortage covered a period of three years, Assistant District Attorney Hastings said, adding that Cook, who has a wife and three children, told him he spent the money on "women and pleasure."

Mr. Hastings said he would ask $75,000 bail and would present the case to the grand jury probably tomorrow.

Cook was in charge of deposits for the company. When steamship company purseers at the end of a voyage turned in cash he was said to take sums from it and substitute checks which came to the company from customers in payment for freight. This made his deposits tally with the amount he received from the purseers. The checks were not credited for payment of freight, as they should have been.

JOHN J. HICKEY, PROMINENT DRUGGIST, DIED TUESDAY

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Nov. 23—John J. Hickey died suddenly at his home, of 226 Jackson street, at 5 o'clock this afternoon. Although not enjoying good health for some time past his death was untimely. Mr. Hickey was one of this city's leading pharmacists, having been engaged in the drug business at No. 84 Union street for the past 30 years, succeeding his father, the late John Hickey, in this connection. He was of kindly disposition, genial and possessing a most charitable nature. In his death the community loses one of its most valuable and sterling citizens.

Mr. Hickey was a member of Norwich lodge of Elks, a fourth degree member of San Jose assembly, Knights of Columbus, the Ancient Order of Hibernians and a very active worker in the St. Vincent de Paul society, a charitable organization of St. Joseph's parish, this city.

He was an ex-foreman of Montgomery Hose company No. 2 and a member of the Natchaug school building committee.

John J. Hickey was born in this city July 10, 1876, the son of the late John and Mary E. (Hickey) Hickey. On July 12, 1901 he married Mary E. O'Neill, daughter of the late Michael and Johannah O'Neill. Mrs. Hickey died seven years ago in this city. Besides one brother, Eugene E. Hickey, he is survived by four sisters, Mary E., Agnes G., Maude F. Hickey and Mrs. Rose L. Marrotte; also a niece, Mary Rose Savory and a nephew, Richard Savory, all of this city.

ROTARIANS ENTERTAIN WINDHAM'S FOOTBALL TEAM

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Nov. 23—The entire football squad of the Windham high school was royally entertained at the annual festival given the members by the Willimantic Rotary club in the Nathan Hale hotel this evening. There was much merrymaking and music and the boys were given due credit for their accomplishments and they in turn expressed their appreciation of the support given them by the Rotarians. The meeting was presided over by President James F. Bath and the program was in charge of Dr. Michael D. Riordan, chairman of the boys' work committee. Remarks were made by several of the boys, by Coach Thomas A. Callaghan, Justice George E. Hinman, Rev. Arthur S. Wheelock and others. John F. Ahern and Harry W. Standish were song leaders assisted by Max Heller of the squad. Other guests included Superior Court Judge Alfred C. Baldwin of Stamford and James L. Case of Norwich, Ernest Bottomley, manager of the local Woolworth store was greeted as a new member. Delightful professional entertainment was presented by Ernest Wardle of Hartford, a well known Scotch comedian. At the close of the meeting, the Rotarians and their guests accepted an invitation of Rotarian John R. Pickett to attend a theatre show.

BROOKLYN COMPANY MUST PAY NORWICH CONCERN

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Nov. 23—The jury panel was called in at the civil session of the Windham county superior court of the October term held in this city Tuesday to hear the case of Alfred Rooney vs. Charles Robitaille, both of Plainfield, in a suit to recover damages of $10,000 sustained in an automobile accident December 14, 1925 when the plaintiff alleges to have been struck and badly injured by a car driven by the defendant. Eighteen jurymen responded to the roll call and those selected to hear the case were: Windham, Morris W. Golden, William A. Costello; Ashford, Paul J. Whitehouse; Brooklyn, Fred F. Maynard; Canterbury, Henry Larkham, Robert Fletcher; Chaplin, Clifford M. Burdick; Eastford, Benjamin A. Bosworth; Plainfield, William H. Cantwell; Pomfret, Chester E. Badger; Scotland, Charles F. Brenn; Woodstock, Clarence Lyon.

Alfred Rooney, the plaintiff testified that he was crossing a highway in the village of Moosup on the evening of December 14, 1925 when he was knocked down by the car owned and driven by the defendant. He sustained a broken right leg at the knee which crippled him for life and he has been unable to continue at his work in the mill from which he received fair compensation. He alleged that he has lost $680 in wages and that the cost of medical attention and hospital bills amounted to several hundred dollars.

William K. Pike of Plainfield, a civil engineer, prodficed a map showing where the accident occurred. Dr. William Adams of Moosup testified to the nature of the injuries sustained by Rooney. He stated that the fracture was a bad one and due to its nature and also to the quite advanced age of the plaintiff the injury would bother him for a long time.

After the noon recess William K. Pike and Alfred Rooney were recalled Herbert W. VanCleaf was the next witness. Miss Helen B. Salisbury of Moosup, a stenographer, testified to what she saw at the scene shortly after the accident had happened. Dewie Shippee of Plainfield, a truck driver, testified that Robitaille's car was proceeding at a good rate of speed as it approached the spot where Rooney was struck down. Shippee said that Rotitaille was driving badly. Edward Eno who was in the car with Shippee corroborated this testimony.

Mrs. Elina Rooney, wife of the plaintiff proved the star witness for the plaintiff side. She testified at the condition of her husband after he had been in the accident. She said that he was unable to work and that his nervous state was such that he often broke down into a fitful crying spell. He seldom gets a good night's sleep. Mrs. Esther J. Campbell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rooney testified that she lived with her parents and that her father's condition was very poor. This closed the testimony for the day. The case will continue this Wednesday when an endeavor will be made to complete it.

Only two cases appeared on the short calendar Tuesday. The first was that of Joseph Connor and Sons vs. the Brooklyn Grocery company, motion for judgment in accordance with agreement. Attorney Bill for the plaintiffs stated that there was a balance of $71.66 due on a long standing bill of $114.43 and that an agreement that the balance would be paid up m.e several months ago had not been lived up to. Judge Baldwin rendered in favor of the plaintiff to recover balance through default.

The second case was that of Dora Collins vs. Peter W. Collins, alimony and hearing on motion to hold defendant in contempt of court. This case was continued until either this Wednesday or Friday. Court adjourned at 5 o'clock until this Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock when the jury will sit to continue hearing the Rooney-Robitaille case.

Theodore Worden, son of Mr. and Mrs. Rutherford H. Worden of Spring street and Miss Helen M. Howey, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John H. Howey of Windham Road, were united in marriage Monday evening by Rev. James G. Graham, pastor of the Congregational church at Windham Center. The groom was a member of the U. S. navy for several years and is now employed at the Jordan Buick company. The bride has been office assistant to Dr Michael D. Riordan. Both are popular local young people.

Mr. and Mrs. Bert C. Hallock returned Tuesday afternoon from a motor trip to Chicago, Ill., Ohio and other states, in which they covered over 3,000 miles. The Hallocks have been gone since October 1st, first going to Chicago where Mr. Hallock attended an ice cream manufacturers' convention. The entire trip was made without a mishap.

Miss Thacilla Sullivan, student at Bay Path institute, Springfield, Mass., is spending the Thanksgiving recess with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. E. Sullivan of this city.

Assistant Postmaster Daniel A. Sullivan is reported as making good recovery at St. Joseph's hospital where he underwent an operation a few days ago.

Miss Hattie A. Jacobs has been entertaining Miss Mary L. Gibson of Meriden, a former teacher at the Natchaug grammar school.

Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Mott of Pleasant Valley were their children, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Mott and two children of this city, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Mott of New York and Miss Susie Mott of Holyoke, Mass.

Miss Yvonne Vincelette and Charles Lafleur were united in marriage at a pretty ceremony solemnized in St. Mary's church at six o'clock Monday morning by the pastor, Rev. J. J. Papillon. A nuptial high mass was sung by Rev. Father Papillon. Ernest Lafleur, son of the groom, was best man and Miss Eva Chabot was maid of honor.

The bride wore a becoming gown of poudre blue Elizabeth crepe with hat to match and a coat of Hudson seal, trimmed with squirrel fur. The groom presented his best man with a ten dollar gold piece and the bride gave her maid of honor a like coin. The wedding party left immediately after the ceremony for Springfield, Mass., where breakfast was taken in a hotel. Mr. and Mrs. Lafleur will be at home to their friends at 216 Jackson street after December 1st.

Indications point to a quiet holiday in this city with but few public entertainments scheduled and all shops and factories closed for the day. The popular gathering place during the day will be about the family festive table. Members of the Willimantic Business Men's association, the banks and all the schools will halt all activity. The Holland Silk company plant will remain closed after this Wednesday night for the balance of the week, as will also the manufacturing department of the American Thread company. The finishing department, however, will resume operations Friday morning. There will be no city or rural mail deliveries made although the collection and despatching of mail will be carried out as usual.

This (Wednesday) evening a union Thanksgiving service will be held at St. Paul's Episcopal church. The sermon will be delivered by Rev. A. Stanley Muirhead, pastor of the Methodist church. Thanksgiving dinners will be brought into the homes of the needy by the Willimantic Welfare bureau workers. Masses will be celebrated in the morning at both St. Mary's and St. Joseph's R. C. churches.

Solange Frappier, four year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alderick Roberge Frappier, died at the home of her parents, 11 Ives street, late Monday night. Besides her parents she leaves several brothers and sisters. The funeral was held at the home with a service at 2.30 o'clock Tuesday afternoon. Burial was in St. Joseph's cemetery where Rev. H. C. Belec of St. Mary's church conducted a committal service.

Joseph Kusmierczak of 26 Yellow Row was in police court Tuesday morning on a charge of keeping his daughter, Sophia, 15, away from public school. The case was continued for two weeks by Judge Frank H. Foss after matters had been explained. The girl was graduated from grammar school in this city last year and had obtained an employment certificate from A. W. Buchanan, Sr., agent of the state board of education. Agent Buchanan stated that the girl has not been legally employed in that while she has been employed by several concerns and is at present working in Hartford she has not transferred her employment certificate with the state board of education. The case was continued on recommendation of Prosecutor Gaucher to allow time to carry out the technicalities.

General Secretary Albert B. Smith of the Y. M. C. A. announced Tuesday that the building would remain open for the reception of members on Thanksgiving day with the exception of from noon to three o'clock.

Notifications from the state motor vehicle department have been received at the police department giving the following information: Walter A. Scranton, 144 Spring street, operator's license suspended, dating from November 19; Delphis Brousseau, 297 Pleasant street, operators license suspended, dating from November 15; Ernest L. Doyon, 292 Ash street, operator's license restored, dating from November 17 and Edwin C. Ackley, 93 South Park street, operator's license restored, dating from November 19.

John Carey, aged about 45, formerly of this city, died at the Norwich state hospital Monday night. He leaves two sisters, Miss Abbie Carrie of Norwich and Mrs. Thomas English of Springfield, Mass., and two brothers, Daniel Carey of Norwich and Cornelius B. Carey of Springfield.

The average man is firmly convinced that he does 17 times as much for others as others do for him.

Life's Sunny Afternoon

"Grow old along with me,
The best is yet to be."

WITH her children grown up, the middle-aged woman finds time to do the things she never had time to do before—read the new books, see the new plays, enjoy her grandchildren, take an active part in church and civic affairs. Far from being pushed aside by the younger set, she finds a full, rich life of her own. That is, if her health is good.

Thousands of women of middle age say they owe their vigor and health to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Those who have learned through their own experience the merit of this dependable medicine are enthusiastic in recommending it to their friends and neighbors.

A woman in Nebraska was troubled with headaches for fifteen years. She writes, "I began to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I have felt my health steadily improving. Today, after taking your medicine for almost a year and a half, I believe I can say the headaches have left me for it is seven months since I had the last one. I am continuing the Vegetable Compound. I am feeling fine now."

This woman is the mother of six children with a large house to care for. Her name is Mrs. Adolph Bratke, 4316 South 13th St., South Omaha, Nebraska.

DANIELSON

HIGHLAND GRANGE TO ENTERTAIN QUINEBAUG

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Nov. 23.—Quinebaug Pomona grange, No. 2, is coming to this town on Saturday, Dec. 4, to hold its annual meeting and biennial election of officers. Highland grange of South Killingly is to be the host.

At the morning session, this being a fifth degree session, reports of officers, excepting those of the secretary and treasurer, will be made and officers elected. At noon a dinner is to be served.

Various interesting features are included for the afternoon session, opening at 1:30. These include a violin solo by Mrs. Mary Rose Munyan of Quinnatisset grange of Thompson and a vocal solo by Miss Alice Jordan of Killingly grange. State Librarian George S. Goddard of Hartford is scheduled for an address during the afternoon. Another address will be by Overseer Louis G. Tolles of the Connecticut State grange. Still another address will be made by Mrs. C. M. Haines, chairman of the home economics committee of the Connecticut State grange. Vocal solos by Mrs. Maud Keech of Killingly grange and Miss Katherine Byrne of Putnam grange, a whistling solo by L. G. Tolles and a violin solo by Mrs. Mary Rose Munyan will round out the program.

At the Goodyear community church last Sunday the music and sermon reflected the worship in accord with the Thanksgiving season. Rev. Charles A. Downs preached from the text Deut. 6: 12, "Beware lest thou forget the Lord, thy God".

Recent activities of the church included a choir rehearsal with Mrs. Joseph Green, meetings of the two Boys' clubs and a meeting of the Woman's club with Mrs. J. B. Child.

Following a custom of years standing, a small coterie of Killingly men will spend Thanksgiving day in quest of the great snowshoe rabbits that are to be found in some of the eastern sections of this town and across the border in Rhode Island. These big hoppers are commonly known throughout this section as white rabbits. They are much larger than the ordinary rabbit found hereabouts and much faster when they start racing away from a dog. Some hunters find hunting them ideal sport and not unprofitable in providing a fine table attraction if the hunt is at all successful.

Announcements were received Tuesday of the wedding at Dayville Monday evening of Miss Louise Edna Marchessault, daughter of Henry Marchessault of Dayville, and Wellington Ellsworth Bitgood, son of Frederick E. Bitgood of Danielson. Rev. Ignatius Kost performed the ceremony at St. Joseph's rectory. The newly married couple left Monday evening for a wedding trip to New York. Upon their return they will make their home in Danielson.

It appears there is a veritable invasion of snow owls in this section of eastern Connecticut. Arthur W. Loges reports being one of several persons who saw an owl of this species in territory on the north shore of Alexander's lake while he was working on his cottage there a few days ago. The Arctic visitor was of magnificent size and mein, and was the cause of a great commotion among crows that cawed and flew at the owl when he made off through the air. Old hunters regard it as strange indeed that so many of these owls, rarely seen in this section, are about this fall.

Officers will confer the first and second degrees on a large class of candidates when Killingly grange meets on the evening of Dec. 6. On Wednesday night of next week Killingly grange is to take the traveling gavel of Connecticut to Columbia grange in the East Central Pomona district. Lecturer Charles A. Downs has the presentation ceremony prepared and is also arranging a suitable program to be given in connection with the transfer of the gavel, which will have been in possession of every grange in the state when it completes its travels. A number of the members of Killingly grange are preparing to accompany the gavel on its pilgrimage to Columbia.

Killingly has an epedimic of measles. This was made known Tuesday morning by Dr. W. H. Judson, health officer of the town. It appears that the trouble dates from an Attawaugan child contracting the disease on a visit to a Rhode Island city and that having spread through the village in the northern part of this town it has now made its appearance in Danielson. Dr. Judson requests that parents keep their children in the house if they are ailing and to keep visitors out. The symptoms of measles are apparent cold in the head, especially suffusions of the eyes, dry cough without expectorations. Dr. Judson says that "while your child may have a mild case of measles, your neighbor's child may develop pneumonia and die. In case of sickness, call your physician early."

Inspections that have been under way in this town for weeks by a corps of representatives of the New England Insurance exchange are beginning to bar fruit. Notifications are coming through to property owners to make such changes as the inspectors hav deemed necessary in the interest of better protection saimst fir. These recommendations, which must be met to avoid advances in insurance rates, have largely to do with proper safeguarding of electric wiring equipment and electrical installations, with the removal of debris and other such precautions in the interest of safety.

Without ostentation, some of Danielson's people are planning today (Wednesday) to make Thanksgiving a happy holiday for some families that otherwise would be in need. Baskets of foodstuffs will be quietly brought to needy homes this afternoon, that there may be a feast tomorrow. While many centralize their efforts on making Christmas a cheerful time for the needy, there are those who do similar generous work at Thanksgiving time, and are grateful that the world knows nothing of their giving. Prosperous as is this community generally there are a few homes where there is real need and very little if any money.

Special evangelistic services being conducted, nightly this week by Dr. Milton Rees continue to attract large attendance at the Methodist Episcopal church. Throughout the past two weeks and during the current week interest in these nightly services have been well maintained and people have come from about every important section of the county to attend.

R. F. James of Willimantic has entered the employ of D. Blumenthal.

Native turkeys were being offered on farms here Tuesday at 75 cents per pound, the supply being very limited.

Thanksgiving day the postoffice will close at 10:30 a. m., though the lobby will remain open during the day. Only first class mail and newspapers will be sorted. Rural and city carrier service will be suspended for the day. Mails will be dispatched as usual.

Special sale of brick ice cream, 39 cents quart; other specials as well; look over our window; Mose the Druggist.—adv.

Harry C. Young, who has been very critically ill at the Day Kimball hospital in Putnam, was reported Tuesday as slightly improved.

Attorney Arthur G. Bill was in Willimantic Tuesday morning attending a session of the superior court.

Old-fashioned Thanksgiving dinner at The Laurel; make reservations now. —adv.

This is again the closed season for protected game birds, the hunting season of 1926, having closed Tuesday.

William A. Despathy of Lowell is here to spend the holiday with relatives.

There was a large attendance at a Thanksgiving whist party held Tuesday evening in the town hall under the auspices of St. James' parish.

In various institutions hereabouts on the holiday a bountiful feast will be served the inmates.

Excellent celery for Thanksgiving. H. C. Browne, Oak St. Tel. 47-3.—adv.

Awaiting necessary changes in lines by another company, the Danielson and Plainfield Gas and Electric company is delayed in furnishing electrical service to Hampton.

Quantities of pretty partridge berries are being brought in from the surrounding countryside for use in holiday decorations.

Numbers of teachers in Killingly's schools will leave this afternoon and this evening to spend the Thanksgiving recess with relatives and friends in various sections of New England.

Garrard B. Wiston, under secretary of treasury, is preparing to return to private life and there is every indication that the post will be offered to Representative Ogden L. Mills, of New York.

PUTNAM

FUNERAL TUESDAY OF THOMAS HANNIFAN

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Nov. 23—The funeral of Thomas Hannifan, 20, who died Saturday afternoon at the Vincent hospital, Worcester, was held this morning at St. Mary's church and was largely attended. The young man had resided here nearly all his life and had a large circle of friends. Cargill council, No. 64, Knights of Columbus, of which he was a member, sent a large delegation and fellow employes of the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad company were present in large numbers. Mr. Hannifan left the Putnam high school in 1923 and since then has been time keeper on the local work train. He was one of the most promising baseball players on the team of that year and it was thought that his rugged constitution would enable him to conquer the malady with which he was attacked several months ago. He had been a patient at St. Vincent's hospital for several weeks and although he had steadily declined the end came unexpectedly, death occurring while his relatives were on the way from Putnam to visit him. He is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Timothy, two brothers and one sister. A solemn requiem high mass was said by Rev. Charles H. Bedard, pastor of St. Mary's church, this morning and burial was in St. Mary's cemetery.

The Shippe Hill Gun club held its first annual turkey day shoot at Fred Wells farm on Park street. Mike Coleman received first prize, while Fred Wells and Frank Lamondy tied for second and Sayles and Laboresiere for third place. The club is planning to affiliate with the National Rifle association, so that they can hold team matches this coming winter.

Emilio Crecio, 6, of Battey street, was struck Monday by an automobile driven by one of the clerks of Oscar Dugas. The boy was taken to the Day Kimball hospital where after an X-ray it was found that both bones of the right leg were broken below the knee.

Miss Gertrude Burns, a nurse at the Day Kimball hospital, who had been suffering from a fracture of the skull and other injuries, sustained by a fall down the hospital stairs about three weeks ago has so far recovered that she was able to leave the hospital for her home in Worcester.

On Monday evening, Dec. 6th, the Men's club of the Second Congregational church will have the opportunity of hearing Dr. Rockwell Harmon Potter, pastor of the First Church of Christ at Hartford, Conn. Dr. Potter will speak on the subject, The Church in Relation to the World's Citizenship. A supper will be served by the Ladies Social circle. It is expected that about 100 men will be present.

A whist was given Tuesday afternoon at the Knights of Columbus hall by the Catholic Ladies Welfare council. It was the first waist of the season and was well attended. The prize winners were: First, Mrs. Alcide St. Onge, second, Mrs. Levi Cesautels; third, Mrs. Harry E. Porrey. These whist parties are to continue throughout the winter and the proceeds to go to the relief of the poor of the city.

GALES FERRY

At Sunday morning worship in the Methodist church Rev. Wilfred D. Hamilton was assisted in a Thanksgiving service by two resident ministers, Rev. George H. Wright and Rev. Allen S. Bush. Rev. Mr. Wright offered the prayer of Thanksgiving, Rev. Mr. Hamilton read Gov. Johnathan H. Trumbull's Thanksgiving proclamation. Responsive scripture on Praise and Thanksgiving was read by Mr. Bush and the congregation; Rev. Mr. Bush also read President Calvin Coolidge's proclamation for Thanksgiving. At the offertory, O, Clap Your Hands, Turner, was sung by the choir. The story talk, for the boys and girls, given by Rev. Mr. Hamilton was most interesting. The theme for his sermon was, Where Are You Thanksgiving Day? The text was St. Luke 17:17. And Jesus answering said. Were there not ten cleansed? but, where are the nine? Nine failed to give thanks, the preacher said, for the great mercy of cleansing, impressing upon his hearers, the duty and privilege of Thanksgiving for unspeakable gifts.

At the church school at noon, a responsive Thanksgiving service by Supt. C. E. Colver and the school preceded the lesson study. Rev. Mr. Hamilton read two short poems, Thursday's Thanksgivings, and What, Am I Thankful For.

At the Sunday evening service, stereopticon pictures were shown of Java, The Garden of the East. Rev. Mr. Hamilton read the lecture.

DEAF HEAR INSTANTLY

Amazing Invention Brings Immediate Relief to Those Who are Deaf

A wonderful device which enables the hard of hearing to hear all sounds as clearly and distinctly as a child, has been perfected by the Dictograph Products Corporation, Suite 2736, 220 to 224 West 42nd Street, New York City. There is no waiting, no delay, but quick, positive, instantaneous results — you hear instantly. So positive are the makers that everyone who is hard of hearing will be amazed and delighted with this remarkable device; the famous Acousticon, that they are offering to send it absolutely free on trial. No obligation whatever. If you suffer, take advantage of their liberal free trial offer. Send them your name and address today.—adv.

Her Hair Fairly SPARKLES Now!

The woman who knows what to do after waving her hair doesn't fear the effect of hot irons. Nor of frequent washings. A few drops of Danderine—on comb or towel—and the hair is soft and lustrous, and behaves beautifully.

A bit of Danderine rubbed lightly into the scalp, is the one sure way to dissolve every particle of dandruff. But a few drops more make a dressing that is simply marvelous. A sheen that rivals brilliantine, and no grease!

Any permanent wave or water wave lasts much longer and looks much nicer when Danderine is used instead of water to "set" the wave.

PLAINFIELD

A one-night bazaar is being planned for early in December at the Central Village Congregational church. Several from here plan to attend.

The Plainfield public schools will close today (Wednesday) for the Thanksgiving recess. At the high school two periods and the weekly assembly will be held.

Various local people enjoyed an airplane ride Tuesday afternoon. The plane landed on the ball field.

The sixth church conference will be held in the Congregational church here Wednesday, December 8th.

Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Bradford of Boston and Leon Frink of Winter Park, Florida, sent checks for the bazaar, as they were unable to attend. Mrs. George Whitney of Worcester, who visited here recently, left a sum of money to apply on the recent bazaar given in the Congregational church.

Mrs. George H. Thomas is being congratulated as composer of a poem entitled "Armistice Day."

Monday, November 29, the Christian Endeavor nominating committee will meet at the Congregational church.

GOSHEN

Deacon J. V. Thomas and Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Jones will entertain the Thomas family group on Thanksgiving day.

Mr. E. H. McCall, E. H. McCall, Jr., and Dorothy McCall will meet with Mr. and Mrs. Royce McCall for Thanksgiving dinner.

Mr. and Mrs. James R. Case will entertain the Randall group at their home in Danbury.

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Randall entertained at dinner on Sunday Mr. and Mrs. Frank E. Hyde and Miss Clara Hyde of Lisbon and Mr. and Mrs. Walter A. Hyde and son Ellsworth of Jewett City after which they all attended church service and listened to a fine sermon by Rev. Stanley Sellick.

A senior Thanksgiving service was held with the Liberty Hill church on Sunday evening.

Rev. Stanley Sellick has been appointed to canvas New London county and adjoining counties in the interest of the new church at Storrs.

Miss Hilda Tilton spent the week end with Mr. and Mrs. Waldo in Lebanon.

Miss Clara Gillette attended a meeting of the League of Women Voters last Wednesday in New London.

The Ladies' Aid society met with Miss Annie Gillette on Wednesday, Nov. 17th and perfected plans for the supper and sale to be held early in December.

William G. Thomas was able to attend church service Sunday after an absence of ten weeks.

Miss Dorothy McCall, with two girl friends from New Britain, drove down to spend the week end with E. H. McCall in a car owned by one of the young women. They returned Sunday evening to New Britain.

Plans are progressing for the Christmas pageant to be given at the church at Christmas time.

MISTAKEN FOR WAITERS, GERMANS CHANGE UNIFORMS

BERLIN, Nov. 23 (AP)—Republican simplicity in diplomatic dress has failed to work out in the young German republic.

After eight years the danger of diplomats being mistaken for waiters became so real that president von Hindenburg and the cabinet passed an order allowing German envoys abroad, the foreign ministry and the secretary of state to wear a semblance of the gorgeous old monarchist uniforms at state functions.

Under Secretary of State Karl van Schubert was the first to blossom out in the new navy blue garb with a double-tailed frock, gilded buttons and a peaked ostrich-plumed hat. Wearing of the new uniforms is discretionary.

—that's the new Chandler Message!

THOUSANDS of people seem to have the impression that Chandler is a high-priced car—simply because Chandler looks expensive, and because so many Chandlers are owned by families of wealth.

This is all very complimentary to Chandler, but let's get the facts straight. The new prices of the 1927 Chandler closed models now start as low as $995 and do not go above $1795, f. o. b. factory. The latter price is for the new Chandler Big-Six 7-passenger Sedan!

And these new Chandler models are the finest—the smartest—the best-performing Chandlers ever built—all equipped with Chandler's "One Shot" system of centralized chassis lubrication; an air cleaner; an oil purifier; 4-wheel brakes; thermostatic water control; self-adjusting spring shackles—a list of advantages as long as your arm!

Don't jump at buying a car until you take a trial spin in a Chandler.

THE COMING WINTER

The first snow of the winter of 1926-27 has come, that is there was a flurry which started everyone talking about it and it must of course go for the first snow of the season.

Those well schooled in weather lore probably gave expression to the fact that the first snow coming on the 23rd meant that number of snow storms this coming winter, and, yet there are those who contend that it cannot be rated as a snow storm unless it is possible to track a goose in it. Nothing like that has as yet happened this fall.

But whether there was a snow flurry, or a snow storm, it was impossible to escape the predictions concerning the character of the winter which can be expected to produce something more than a snow flurry. There are those who have already directed attention to the fact that animals have an unusually heavy coat of fur, that is some of them have, that birds from the far north are coming into this region in considerable numbers to get away from the heavy snows and the cold of their usual wintering places and that inasmuch as this is the winter following the year without a summer we can prepare for cold, cold and more cold.

A few more days and it will be possible to get a new slant upon the probabilities from the breast bone of the goose and turkey, while hunters should, if they haven't, size up the quantity of nuts which the squirrels have stored away for winter use and offer their opinion in accord therewith. But those who are staking their reputations on their predictions of a cold winter are being challenged by those who depend upon the way the wind was when it crossed the line to furnish an average year, those who have found caterpillars with only a thin fur coat and others who have observed wild geese flying north during the month of November.

There is no harm in pinning up the prognostications as they are made and comparing them with the weather that is experienced. It is an interesting winter sport. That we'll have winter is a foregone conclusion and it is wise to prepare for it in the customary manner. There'll be cold days and mild days, snowy days and icy days, thaws and freezes and by next spring there'll be a chance to compare it with those which have gone before. As for the severity of it we shall be in a better position to tell about a month and a half after ground hog day.

WHERE MACHINES ARE NEEDED

Not until within a few days has it been known definitely what the result of the election was in Providence and the third congressional district of Rhode Island that was held November 2. This was because of the close vote and the errors that were found in the count when checked by the board of canvassers and the state returning board, which have been at work upon the ballots.

It was a case where the mayor of Providence was elected by 171 majority in a total of nearly 58,000 votes and where the congressman was chosen by 457 votes in a total of over 58,000 votes. In both instances the votes were close, but in both instances there were many changes in the count from that originally given due to errors of various kinds such as characterize the hurried counting of ballots and the endeavor to interpret the intention of the voter.

Providence is one of the cities which can appreciate the importance of installing voting machines. Had they been used it would not have been kept in a state of uncertainty for more than two weeks after the election as to the outcome of the contest. It would not have seen the switching of votes from one candidate to another because the counters had done this or had not done that when making the original count. It would not have experienced the proclaiming of one candidate as elected only to have it develop that his opponent had been really chosen. It was not solely the mayor and the congressman in whose cases the recount was concerned. But it was one of those situations which can be expected at any time, and there were revealed those mistakes which go with the existing method of voting and counting at any election.

When it is impossible to get an improvement over such conditions they must be tolerated and the best made of the situation, but when it is possible to eliminate the uncertainty, to produce accurate and early results such experiences ought to serve as the best kind of a demonstration that the antiquated method should be abandoned quite the same as the adding machine has displaced the long, arduous and uncertain job of totalling long lists of figures.

RESTORING THE CONSTITUTION

It was almost a century ago, back in 1830, that the then secretary of the navy suggested that the Constitution, familiarly known as Old Ironsides, be disposed of. It was a case where much money was needed to maintain it, but public spirit would not listen to such a course. Its preservation was demanded and as the result it was restored and through successive reconstruction is today a much treasured relic of our early navy.

Contrary to the effort of 1830, Secretary Wilbur of the navy department is today asking the nation to save the grand old ship from the junk heap. This is in accord with previous appeals within the past year or two. The ship has deteriorated to the point where much money must be spent upon it. New timbers are needed and the work that needs to be done will probably require as much time and more money than the construction of the original frigate. But the sentiment is now just as keen as it was 96 years ago for its preservation and the appeal is made in recognition thereof with the additional knowledge that while there have been public contributions made to a fund for doing this work the amount received is thus far totally inadequate.

The idea was advanced some time ago that it would be a fine thing for the school children of the country with their pennies to rebuild Old Ironsides. It has met with some obstacles but with the sanction of congress to accepting such gifts there has now been received something like $225,000. The amount required is short about $150,000 and it is in behalf of this that the secretary of the navy is setting forth the situation and asking for contributions.

It is the time to save the Constitution and it will be saved. Funds permit of the beginning of the work of reconstruction. There will be a response of the patriotic if the school children are unable to reach the goal, for it is to be remembered that when it comes to serving historic and patriotic purposes the opportunity is one that is bound to awaken a response from those who are especially concerned in just such work.

A TOWN PLANNING BOARD

Where other cities have been obtaining benefits from zoning Norwich has been doing nothing but looking on and noting the effects elsewhere when the need exists in various ways of securing the advantages of zoning in the Rose of New England.

Since the session of the last legislature it has been possible for Norwich, in common with other communities, to create a zoning or a town planning board for the purpose of dealing with the particular problems of this municipality. What seems to be an initial step is that which has been taken by the local chamber of commerce in voting that a town planning board should be created here.

Every city or town has its own peculiar problems in connection with such work and that is true of Norwich, but they will not grow any less by waiting. On the other hand the longer the delay in getting about the establishment of desirable changes the easier it is going to be. It is by better understanding the problems that they can be met or overcome. The naming of a town planning board must be done in a manner fixed by law but once named it can wrestle with the situation, determine what ought to be done, what can be done without trouble and get forth what action is certain to encounter trouble.

The chamber has acted wisely, it is believed, in giving its endorsement to the town planning board idea. Its purpose is apparently to give encouragement to making a start and it is to be hoped that it means the beginning of an effort that will result in providing the advantages through zoning for Norwich which have been obtained and are being obtained in other places.

AUTOS USED IN CARRYING LIQUOR

When the supreme court maintains that automobiles carrying liquor, on which tax has not been paid can be seized and forfeited to the government under the existing prohibition law it places a new and impossible obligation upon automobile [illegible] Owners in fact can be made to lose their cars through acts of others of which they have no knowledge whatever and which they are powerless to prevent.

Probably such enforcement would be tempered in certain cases with due consideration for the circumstances, but the decision has nevertheless given to the bootleggers and rum runners a suggestion upon which they can be expected to act with alacrity.

If cars can be seized and forfeited when caught with liquor in them the cue for the rum runners is to use cars in which they have no financial interest. If they can't hire cars because it is suspected that they will be used for such purposes they may be disposed to steal cars for that kind of work. The owner is helpless under the circumstances, knows not where his machine is, has no means of warning the users not to employ it for carrying liquor, and yet if it is so used it will be done heartlessly and if it is seized his car may not be worth recovering or the law may prevent him from regaining possession of it.

The possibilities of hardships under the new ruling may be subject to exaggeration. Possibly no court under the circumstances would go the limit and yet it may have difficulty in determining who is trying to aid the rum runners and who is actually telling the truth. There are twists of the prohibition law which can be escaped by keeping away from danger, but in this particular instance there seems to be no chance for self protection.

THE STRING OF BEADS

"I've been shopping and I'm tired," sighed Loretta as she sank into a comfortable chair. "The world and his wife are downtown and they're all of them buying new hats. I wish you could see some of these short, fat women in the new wide-brimmed hats."

"Don't threaten me!" exclaimed her brother. "I'll see them all too soon, anyhow. After all, though, I don't know, slim women in the cloche hats—is that what you call these squashed-down things that hide everything but a woman's nose and chin?"

"I believe so," said Loretta absently. "I met Edna downtown and we had lunch together, her treat."

"You have a neat way of getting free meals," laughed her brother. "Seems to me that every time I hear about you going shopping somebody takes you to lunch. A snap, I'll say."

"I've taken her twice lately," declared Loretta. "She was telling me about a motoring trip she took with some cousins somewhere or other, I've forgotten just where she did say. Any how, it was a wild and wooly country and there were so few hotels they had to camp along the way. Once, when they were away out in the woods they were held up."

"Seems to me they had all the comforts of home," said her brother. "But what's the idea of taking a long and expensive motor trip just to have experiences they might have here any day for nothing?"

"Edna said that it was in a dark spot in the woods and the setting was just like that of a movie," Loretta went on. "She didn't have any money with her, but her cousins lost nearly $200."

"I can't imagine myself that rich!" said her brother. "Didn't Edna lose anything at all? Doesn't seem quite right that she shouldn't when she was the guest getting a free ride."

"Well, she came near losing some beads she was wearing," Loretta continued. "It seems she wears that string a good deal because they were left to her by somebody or other as a remembrance. She had done this friend a favor long ago and the woman said she wanted her to have the beads, so they were sent to Edna after the woman died. Edna said it had always amused her because she had to send on a dollar in advance to pay somebody for sending them to her, postage and all that, I suppose, and she considered that the sender had made a little profit on the transaction. They were pretty beads, though, cream color and quite dainty, and she said she hated the idea of letting any old holdup men have them."

"Oh, they got them, did they?" asked her brother. "I thought you said she didn't lose anything? Or maybe it was only money she didn't have, something like me?"

"She said the biggest and worst-looking one of the bandits reached in to take her purse and she let them have it without saying anything because it was perfectly empty," said Loretta.

"I know how she felt," sighed her brother.

"When she saw the awful-looking fellow was looking at her and her beads longingly," Loretta went on, "she suddenly remembered those beads and how fond she was of them, but she knew they'd get them sooner or later, so she decided to give them to the man herself."

"And so," Loretta continued, "she reached up and unfastened the clasp and held out the string to the man. She told him they were all she had and that she'd paid a whole dollar for them just the month before."

"I can imagine his face!" laughed her brother. "He certainly must have been disgusted."

"Edna said he was," said Loretta. "She said he was so mad when she laid the beads in his hand that he threw them on the floor of the car and went off with her purse. She said she didn't dare pick them up until the men had been gone a long time, and then she almost wept to have them back again. You see, she was afraid the fellow would know that they were real pearls!"—Exchange.

YOUR HEALTH

The Hypochondriac

By Charles E. Kiely, M. D., Cincinnati O. Member Georgas Memorial Institute.

Everyone is familiar with the man who only "imagines" he is sick.

When he reaches the doctor's office certain things become apparent. First his physical condition is either entirely good or his organic disabilities are trifling and quite incapable of producing the symptoms he recounts. Complaints are all sensations and so incapable of actual disproof.

It is significant that hypochondriacal complaints are almost always of a type defying actual disproof. It is obvious that these patients wish to be sick. They frequently leave the doctor who dares to hint they are not the pitiful victims of serious organic disease.

People want to be sick because, by and large it either gets them into something they want or out of something they dislike. The something wanted is usually sympathy. There are few humans who do not like it. There are some whose craving is abnormal. The things disliked are uncountable. Any human duty may be disagreeable and sickness always has been a valid excuse for neglecting duties.

Two extremes must be avoided in getting such patients righted. The first is, of course, too much sympathy or actual encouragement in their belief. The other is to treat them as mere fakers.

They are quite sincere even when they are plainly exaggerating. It is even possible they feel all the apparently nonsensical burnings and drawings and pressures they recount.

Bitter accusation of faking surely sends the hypochondriac to another and another doctor till he finds one who will agree with his own opinion; and usually he is backed by some relatives, more or less convinced, that he has some obscure disease, which will be discovered, when the physician, skilled enough, is found.

But the cure will come when he is brought to see that he is not a liar and a faker rather a man sincere but in error. One cannot correct a mistake until he knows it to be one and is shown how he made it. The doctor's task is to show the hypochondriac where he is mistaken and how he has fooled himself.

Hypochondriasis like many mental diseases is but an exaggeration of mental faults seen in all of us. We laugh at small boys who develop stomach ache at school-time; but when a child repeatedly evades his duties by ill health it is time to find out whether any organic trouble exists. If it does not the child must be shown, in all calmness and kindness, that such dodges are shameful. The parent will break up a dangerous tendency which, if neglected may become so fixed by the merciless shackles of habit that in manhood it cannot be altered; and thus save the child from a life of inefficiency.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

This is the sixty-seventh birthday anniversary of Cass Gilbert, president of the National Academy of Design. Mr. Gilbert is one of the eminent leaders of the architectural profession in America. He designed the great Woolworth building, the new customs house and several other monumental structures in New York. The state capitols of Minnesota, West Virginia and Arkansas, the public libraries of Detroit and St. Louis and the general plans for the universities of Texas and Minnesota also are among his accomplishments. At the Chicago World's fair he was a member of the national jury for fine arts, and at the Paris international exposition of the jury for architecture. Mr. Gilbert is a native of Zanesville, O., and received his early education in the schools of that city and of St. Paul. Subsequently he studied for his chosen profession at Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

Make the Most of Books

By James Hosmer Penniman, Litt. D.

Helps Us to Cherish the Ideal

The inspiration and delight derived from familiarity with the best poetry is one of the most precious results of culture. More than any other work of man poetry helps us to cherish the ideal ad we look to our ideals to counteract the hardness of our daily life, to strengthen and uplift us. To read a great poet for a few minutes every day raises one out of the commonplace. Matthew Arnold, who was one of the hardest worked men of his time, used to read a 100 lines or more of the Odyssey before he went to bed. He said that "Good poetry does undoubtedly tend to form the Soul and character; it tends to beget a love of beauty and of truth in alliance together; it suggests however indirectly high and noble principles of action, and it inspires the emotions helpful in making principles operative," and he added, "We have to turn to poetry to interpret life for us, to console us, to sustain us."

If the dinner is a failure a woman can always blame it on something the grocer sent.

Where Mrs. Grouse Was

In time of stress, the quick of wit
Are those who prove themselves most fit.

—Old Mother Nature.

The little people of the Green Forest and the Green Meadows often have to act quickly. They do not have time to think things over. They must do something at once and it must be the right something, or they will not live. So they act by what is called 'intuition.' Intuition is a queer sounding word, but it means simply knowing just what to do without having to think about it.

When the terrible gun banged behind Mrs. Grouse she felt one of her wings become useless. It had been struck by some of those shot. It was a dreadful feeling—that feeling that she could not move that wing. But as she fell to the ground her wits were working, and she wasted no time in thinking how dreadful it was that touched the ground she was on her feet and running as fast as those legs of hers could take her, and that is pretty fast. And as she ran she did her best to keep ferns and bushes between that hunter and her.

As you know, the hunter saw her running and shot at her on the ground. This time he missed her wholly, but at the shot Mrs. Grouse fell and fluttered her wings for a moment. The hunter ran forward to pick her up. But when he got there Mrs. Grouse was nowhere to be seen.

Now Mrs. Grouse has a wise little head. Instead of scrambling to her feet and keeping on running, she had crept under some young hemlocks, and there she had flattened herself close to the ground and had kept perfectly still. If she had run, the hunter would have heard her and would have been able to follow. As it was, he trampled around useless for a while, and finally gave it up. He didn't dare to stay there to hunt very long, for he was afraid that Farmer Brown, or Farmer Brown's Boy might have heard those shots and would come to see who was hunting there. He had seen the signs warning against hunting in the Green Forest and he knew that he had no business there.

As soon as the hunter was out of the way Mr. Grouse came back looking for Mrs. Grouse. She joined him at once. She told him that she couldn't fly, and of course Mr. Grouse felt dreadfully. "What are we going to do, my dear? What are we going to do?" he kept saying over and over.

"We've got to find a safe place for me to hide in, and then if anybody comes near, you have got to lead them away," said Mrs. Grouse.

So they started at once with Mrs. Grouse in the lead. Mr. Grouse, following behind, left the fresher scent. Presently Mrs. Grouse stopped. "Now, my dear," said she, "you go on. I'm going over in that hollow log. It is just big enough for me to squeeze into, but it isn't big enough for Reddy Fox to get into. If Shadow the Weasel doesn't come along I shall be quite safe there for a while. I'm not feeling very well, and I just can't run

"Now, my dear," said she, "you go on"

much longer. That dreadful gun hurt me."

Mrs. Grouse jumped up on the top of a little stump at one side of the path. From this she jumped as far as she could and then ran a short distance until she came to the hollow log. Into this she crept. Meanwhile Mr. Grouse had kept on. So it was that when Reddy came along he missed the place Mrs. Grouse had turned aside; and it wasn't until he came back so carefully that he discovered the trick that had been played.

Of course it didn't take Old Man Coyote long to find that hollow log and to find that Mrs. Grouse was in it; and also to find that there wasn't any possible way for him to get at her. But he didn't lose his temper. "You'll have to come out some time, Mrs. Grouse," said he, "and when you come, I'll be waiting right here for you."

Little Talks on Thrift

LAGGING AT SOME POINTS

Notwithstanding our rapid progress in the realms of science, research and invention, we are still lagging behind in the United States in some phases of thrift. Certain forms of waste permeate nearly every branch of our business activity.

In the field of production and distribution, in which we surpass all other nations, of the world, there is a tragic amount of waste. One estimate, for example, places our annual waste of coal at 750 million tons; of water at 50 million horse power; of oil at 1 billion barrels; of lumber at 5 billion cubic feet.

Our department of commerce estimates that the annual waste in transportation equals half a billion dollars, for which, it is said, the shipper is largely responsible.

These are indeed heavy penalties to pay. They involve many difficult problems, but we cannot give too much consideration to this uneconomic situation. There must be a full awakening of public consciousness to the need of eradicating this gigantic waste in industry.

There are numerous evidences, however, of progress, and all efforts along this line should meet with hearty public approval and support. It was encouraging to note that at a recent meeting of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers, it was brought out that various bodies of experts are working toward glaring forms of industrial waste and lost motion.

Credit for the greatest strides is given to the engineering profession. Railway officials are said to hold second position in this movement. The electrical industries are third; the automotive industries fourth and the construction and building trades fifth. The federal government plan of simplified practice has also been of valuable assistance.

When we have checked these wasteful methods and practices great benefits will be felt by all classes of workers; the farmer will receive a larger portion of the consumer's dollar and our standards of living will be still further improved.—American Society for Thrift.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Close of Pastorate at East Killingly

Mr. Editor: My last month in East Killingly was very full of duties any minister of the gospel may expect to have. I officated at a wedding and five funerals; also attended several religious and social services. On Saturday, Nov. 12, 1926, a community social, with Putnam Heights talent called "A Matrimonial Advertisement and Its Secret," was held. The comedy was well rendered. Local talent read and sang. All did credit to their parts. The East Killingly Social Cornerites generously remembered Mrs. W. D. Hetherington. The friends in church and community presented me with a purse of money, and the Sunshine band came forward with a very generous gift. The congregation on Sunday morning, Nov. 14, was quite large and attentive, while the "farewell" in the evening brought out the largest crowd ever (so old inhabitants say), assembled in the Union Baptist church. They came from far and near. Two ministers were present, Rev. G. Chambers (a Baptist), and Rev. C. E. Drake (a Methodist), and both took part. Rev. Drake made a few remarks in which he had words of praise for the retiring pastor, and expressed the hope that some church nearby would procure my services.

Frank Congdon on behalf of many, many true Americans presented me with a sum of money in token of their friendship for me, and their faith in the principals I have always upheld. I thanked all present for their kindness and expressed my heartfelt gratitude toward every person who in any way had contributed or aided in making such a harmonious ending to a 34 months' pastorate.

Yours truly,
W. D. HETHERINGTON.

Stories That Recall Others

The Pot and the Kettle

The following conversation was heard on the chilliest of mornings recently on central wharf.

Myrt and Gert, themselves clad with the minimum ounces of chiffon met the ubiquitous Tillie-boy minus a hat.

Looking for Jo...

A middle aged woman was looking rather worried as she walked back and forth a number of times along a New London street. Becoming more depressed she gained enough courage to ask a passerby for the solution of her problem. "For goodness sakes, where is the jail?" she asked in a loud voice, attracting the attention of a number of people on the street at that time. Believing that he was talking to someone who wanted to see a friend there the passerby told her where the jail was.

"Thank you very much," said the woman, "our car is parked down near there and I just couldn't think where it was."

WAUREGAN HOUSE SALE RECALLS EARLY OWNERS AND MANAGERS

When the sale of the Wauregan hotel building to Harry M. Land at an approximate price of $300,000 was consummated within the past week by the Parker-Davenport company, it gave some index of the increase in real estate values since the hotel was erected in 1853-1855 at a cost stated then to be $50,000, exclusive of the basement.

From the start the hotel business there had its ups and downs, as the records show, and it may be said of it that the first fifty years were the hardest, with frequent changes in management and several changes in ownership. It was not until the hotel came under the management of Henry B. Davenport, associated with Frank E. Parker as lessee, that the business began to hit the upgrade and became established as the substantial and up-to-date hotel property which has been its record since 1890.

Files of The Bulletin and records of real estate transfers at the town clerk's office reveal some of the history of the earlier years of the hotel property.

It was built by an association of Norwich business men, who erected it on a site where some of the earliest dwelling houses at the "Landing" had been built, this name being the early designation for the part of the city near the river. Several wooden buildings, occupants of the spot for more than a century, and their foundations sunk below the level of the sidewalk, were demolished to make way for the hotel, which was a five story brick building with iron balconies around it.

When it was formally opened on Feb. 13, 1855, it was under the management of Norris and Weeks and it continued under the management of Thomas Norris for the first twelve years of its history. On April 9, 1857 the Wauregan Hotel association took title to the property from Archa P. Willoughby, Edward Chappell, Albert H. Almy and Horace Walker, adding to this an adjoining piece of property from John W. Stedman on Feb. 21, 1866, at a price of $8,500, as named in the deed from Stedman.

The Wauregan Hotel association ownership continued till April 29, 1872 when the property was sold to Henry Bill and Gurdon Bill, the price of $56,500 being named in the Gurdon Bill deed.

In the meantime the management, under leases, had changed several times, Job Jennes & Son, who came here from the Rye Beach house, New Hampshire, succeeded Norris in the management from April 1, 1867, but in September, 1870, sold their leases and the hotel fixtures to Charles F. Simonds of Northampton, Mass. Mr. Simonds stayed only until May 25, 1871, when he sold out to C. W. Johnson, then running the American house. In February, 1876, while Johnson continued as manager and lessee, under the Bill ownership, there was $25,000 spent in improvements in the property, but Johnson left on the first of April that year and the furniture was auctioned off ten days later.

For a while the hotel remained closed, but Dwight Doolittle took a lease on it in July that year and after repairs had been made and the equipment restored the hotel was reopened on Sept. 5, 1876. Mr. Doolittle continued as manager for six or eight years, building up the business, and was succeeded by Wm. K. Shew, who conducted the business for a few years. His management was succeeded by that of Ober and Leland and this firm by Frank E. Parker, who, with H. B. Davenport, had a lease on the property when it was sold by Gurdon Bill and the estate of Henry Bill, deceased, to Charles F. Simonds on Nov. 4, 1891. At that time Simonds gave back a mortgage of $54,000 to the Bill interests.

Mr. Parker and Mr. Davenport continued to be associated in the management of the hotel and on Dec. 8, 1905, after the death of Simonds, Mr. Parker bought the hotel property from the Simonds estate, and on Nov. 6, 1906 the Parker-Davenport company was incorporated and Mr. Parker sold the hotel property to the corporation, the incorporators being Mrs. F. E. Parker, Mrs. Fannie Parker and H. B. Davenport, the last named being the active manager of the hotel.

On May 7, 1915, a reorganization of the company was made, Mr. Parker withdrawing. A new corporation was formed, consisting of H. B. Davenport, J. C. Bland and M. E. Jensen. The hotel from that time on was conducted under the personal management of Mr. Bland until June 1920, when the hotel was leased to the Knott hotel management which since has conducted the hotel and which still holds a lease on the property.

Some years ago an annex was built on the hotel on the Broadway side and many improvements were made to the property between 1906 and 1912. In 1913 the present fine lobby and entrance was constructed. The property has a frontage of 80 feet on Main street and 144 on Broadway. The land contains 18,000 square feet and the floor space in the hotel is 73,000 square feet.

The hotel with its addition on Broadway includes besides the hotel property, the following stores: The Cranston Co., A. J. FitzGerald, Wauregan barber shop, The Lyons company, Geo. G. Engler's drug store and the Maurice Sample shop.

RECITAL ON NEW ORGAN AT ST. JOSEPH'S, OCCUM

The organ recital given Tuesday evening at St. Joseph's church, Occum, where Rev. F. R. DesSureault is rector, and Joseph Downes, organist, had a large attendance of the parishioners and friends from nearby towns. Mr. Downes played with understanding and a facile technique, bringing out the beauties of the new organ. In the Fanfare by Dubois and Fughetta by Lemagre, his playing was most sympathetic and musicianly in rendition.

Mr. Downes had the assistance of his teacher, Henry La Fontaine, who, as always, gave a most finished performance; his beautiful trained voice showing most effectively in his individual numbers. George Guile played two violin obligatos with fine musicianship and excellent tone, especially in the largo, the combination was effective and appealing.

The occasion was the opening concert on the new organ purchased by the rector. The instrument is a fine one, sweet-toned and capable of varied requirements. Priests from the surrounding parishes were present, and assisted in the benediction that closed the program.

Rev. U. O. Bellerose and Arthur DesSureault rendered a most pleasing duet between the concert and benediction and at the benediction Walter La Fontaine assisted in the singing.

The following was the programme:

Fanfare	Dubois
Reverie in E flat	Nagler
Fughetta in D minor	Lemaigre
Mr. Downes
O Cor. Amoris Victima	Panofka
Ave Maria	Schubert
Henry LaFontaine

MASQUERADE DANCE WILL HELP WAR ORPHAN FUND

A masquerade dance for the war orphan fund of Rose of New England auxiliary, No. 40, I. O. B. B., was given with great success Tuesday evening, resulting in a substantial addition to the fund which the auxiliary uses for the support of a little ten year old girl, Bertha Jonas, in Dieburg, Germany.

The costumes worn were of unusual beauty and variety, making it a hard task to decide the prize winners, but the popular vote gave the following each a $2.50 gold piece; most beautiful costume, Indies', Macia Bruckner; most beautiful, men's, Stanley Henschel; most original, Alex Pasnik. The ball room was elaborately decorated, the committee having had the assistance of Max Hanover for this feature.

In an entertainment programme that was provided there was a graceful Polish dance by Miss Helena Crandall, with Mrs. A. H. Manes accompanist, and several fine vaudeville numbers by performers from the Broadway theater who gave their services, those appearing being Shepard & Kaufman, Al Butts, Leo and Gladys.

The music for dancing was by Thumm's orchestra and the committee in charge consisted of Mrs. David Trachtenberg, chairman, Mrs. Abraham Curland, Mrs. Alex Pasnik and Miss Marcia Bruckner, who expressed gratitude for the helpful spirit shown on the part of the public in the object for which the masquerade was given.

Motored From West Point

Lieut. and Mrs. Howard L. Peckham motored from West Point, N. Y., on Wednesday, and are guests of Mr. Peckham's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Franklin E. Peckham for Thanksgiving day, and the week end.

NEW COMMANDER COMES TO SUBMARINE BASE

Captain Adolphus Andrews, U. S. N., who returned Saturday from the international arms conference at Geneva, where he was naval advisor to the American delegation, arrived from New York Monday and went at once to the submarine base, where he formally took command, succeeding Captain E. J. King, who left the base last August to become skipper of the U. S. S. Wright.

Captain Andrews was accompanied by his wife and two children. The family has taken up residence in Quarters "C" the big white house opposite the submarine base golf links, which has been vacant since Captain King's departure. The new commander of the base, who was formerly master of the presidential yacht Mayflower, was expected to go to Washington immediately upon his return to this country to make his report on his report on his work at Geneva in person to President Coolidge. Instead, however, Captain Andrews arrived on Saturday on the liner George Washington, remained over Sunday in New York, and then came on to New London. He will leave for Washington to make his report after he has arranged his affairs at the base.

With the arrival of Captain Andrews, Commander E. F. Cutts, who has been in acting command since Captain King left, became base executive officer. The rest of the base personnal, for the present, at least, remains intact.

LOST THAMESVILLE PIG FOUND ACROSS RIVER

What was considered a remarkable feat by its owner, Edward Neiderman of 338 West Thames street, Norwich, was the performance of an eight weeks old pig. The pig, one of a litter of six, was born and reared at a farm in Ledyard conducted by Mr. Neiderman and the other day received injuries to his hind legs and could not navigate. The animal was brought in a truck to Mr. Neiderman's home in the West Side section of the city and housed in a pen in a barn with a fencing about 30 inches in height.

The pig was fed and cared for by Mr. Neiderman and recovered the use of his hind legs in a short time. On Friday morning when he went to the barn to give the pig its feed, it was found that the animal had disappeared. Looking about the place Mr. Neiderman found the tracks of the animal and followed them to the Thames river, where they were lost. An advertisement was filed with The Bulletin in the lost column.

Mr. Neiderman was notified this week by the state hospital that a pig had been found and picked up near the hospital, the description tallying with that given in the advertisement in The Bulletin. Mr. Neiderman went to the hospital and claimed the pig, advancing the opinion that the animal had swum the Thames river, which at that point is about a quarter mile in width, and was headed back to his birthplace in Ledyard.

DRIVER WITHOUT LICENSE IS FINED IN COURT

Found guilty of operating a machine without a driver's license E. Tyler Rogers of this city was fined $25 and costs in the city court Tuesday morning. Mr. Rogers' machine figured in a collision with a Norwich and Westerly bus at Union square Monday evening and when it was learned that he had no driver's license he was ordered to appear in court Tuesday morning.

A non support case against Nicholas Bakalaga was continued until Wednesday morning. Bakalaga was supposed to have appeared in court Monday morning but he failed to show up. Monday night he was taken in charge by the police and as he could not furnish a bond was held over night.

Two local men were in court on breach of the peace charges. Both were fined $10 and costs.

No Jury Business for Superior Court

There were none of the jury cases that had been assigned for trial in the superior court here Tuesday ready for trial so that the clerk of the court, George E. Parsons, had court opened and adjourned to Wednesday by Deputy Sheriff George H. Stanton. There are several court cases assigned for today (Wednesday).

LIONS GIVE TURKEY DINNER FOR 40 BOYS

The Norwich Lions club entertained 40 grammar school boys at a Thanksgiving turkey dinner Tuesday noon at the Wauregan hotel. It was the occasion of the weekly meeting of the Lions club, the meeting being held Tuesday this week instead of the regular day, Thursday, President William A. Anderson presided. Herbert Corey and Dr. K. K. Markoff were the song leaders, John Egan presiding at the piano. The boys were serenaded by the Lions and in turn lustily cheered their hosts. Each member of the club entertained one boy at dinner. Members and the youthful guests met in the lobby of the hotel and in formations of twos marched to the dining hall.

An abundance of favors were provided by Earl Taggart; kazoos, fifes, ocarinas and other noise makers were donated by Max Hanover; balloons were furnished by Abe Agranovitch. The meeting opened with the singing of America and this was followed by the serving of the turkey dinner. The song programme included the singing of Barney Google by the boys. Four prizes were offered for the most pleasing solos by the boys.

Then followed a group song by William Frisbie, Earl Taggart, Charles Frink, William A. Anderson, Louis Fontaine, Abe Agranovitch, Abner Schwartz and Joseph French which made a hit with the boys. Jean Kiefer entertained by singing a French song.

Dr. Kopeland K. Markoff assisted by Earl Taggatt looked after the needs of the boys. Dr. Markoff led their parade around the dining hall, amidst an outburst made by the noise-makers given the boys as favors.

Another group of Lions, Herbert Corey, Thomas Savard, Joseph Panek, Edward Rich, Max Hanover, Abe Agranovitch, William A. Anderson, Abner Schwartz and Dr. Markoff entertained in group singing. The band of fellowship was extended to James F. Quinn, owner of the New England Chemical company of this city, owner of the New England Chemical company of this city, Mr. Quinn being introduced by President Anderson.

Rudolph Henschel introduced his boy guest, Homer Bonville, who as in the past several years thanked the Lions in behalf of those present for the enjoyable time provided by the club, Homer, a boy of about 12, said:

"President Bill, and Fellow Lions: Again I have the extreme pleasure of partaking of your hospitality and I know that all the boys present voice my sentiments.

"I know that you are a great bunch of Lions and have shown all of us boys how loudly you can roar all year round.

"We boys again thank you for this wonderful dinner and wish you success and prosperity for the coming year, and hope that you do big things, and that we may have the pleasure of being with you again at your next Thanksgiving dinner."

The singing of the Star Spangled Banner brought the meeting to a close. The committee in charge of the arrangements for the special dinner comprised Earl Taggart, Benedict C. Pullen, George Maddan, Edward Carpenter and Louis Fontaine.

Each boy was called on and each responded to his name, giving the name of the school he attends. To show their appreciation of the boys being present the club members gave the Lions' roar. The boys present included: Joseph Pillar, John Agilaco, Tony Agilaco, Northa Rizzuto, Domenic Farace, Angelo Ledone, Frank Caldarola, Nicholas Angelopoulos, Chas. Leone, Raffe Capriloco, Fabian Coville, Sidney Graff, Aldo Canow, John Wilson, Thomas S. NEW HUDSON BROUGHAM TOTAL LOSS BY FIRE

A new Hudson brougham belonging to A. Chester Brown of Salem was burned Monday night as Mr. Brown was driving it near the pavilion at Gardner lake and was a total loss by the fire. Fortunately the machine was insured against fire.

The fire broke out near the rear of the machine, it is understood, and Mr. Brown succeeded in checking it to some extent but it burst out anew and made the new car a total loss.

CONNECTICUT AGGIES HAD ONE OF BEST SEASONS IN FOOTBALL HISTORY

(Special to The Bulletin)

STORRS, Conn., Nov. 23.—When the Connecticut Aggies defeated Rensselaer here last Saturday, they brought to a close one of the most successful seasons ever enjoyed by a state college football eleven. Seven of the eight contests played were won by the Nutmeg Agrarians, in the course of which 170 points were made as against 33 for opponents. On the percentage basis of games won and lost, Connecticut's record for the season equals Maine's, and both elevens stand out as having the best records among the elevens of the New England conference.

The Aggie 1926 season was successful not only for its string of victories, but also because it saw the making of the most powerful offense in the history of Connecticut Aggie football, and an unprecendented development of green material. So marked was development of green material that even if fewer games were won, the season could be considered a success. But happily from an Aggie standpoint, victory and the increase in playing ability of the green men seemed to go hand in hand.

When the season got under way in September, Coach Dole started work with what was the largest grid squad since he came to Storrs in 1925, and a squad that with the exception of five veterans, was probably the greenest he has ever had. Yet development was rapid, and Connecticut won the first game on the schedule with Wesleyan by a 13-0 score. Massachusetts Aggies followed a week later, and in that time the weakness at ends apparent in the Wesleyan game was overcome, the Connecticut forward wall working as a unit to smother the Massachusetts offense and win 12-6. The score fails to indicate the Nutmegger's superiority in that encounter, for inaugurating a policy followed consistently throughout the season, Coach Dole sent in as many substitutes as possible once his team scored twice, and it was on a second eleven that the Massachusetts team scored.

Connecticut received its first and only setback at the hands of Maine a week later, when at Orono, Me., the Pine Tree Staters won 21-0. From then on, however, victory rested with the Aggies on the gridiron. Trinity, New Hampshire, Cooper Union, Rhode Island and Rensselaer all fell before the onslaughts of Captain Daly and the victories, in each case were decisive and by large scores.

Particularly gratifying to Aggie followers in the season just closed has been the impressive showing of the men playing their first season of varsity competition. A year ago the freshman eleven failed to impress, chiefly due to a lack of backfield drive, and it was the concensus of opinion here that little help could be expected from the sophomores this year. As the situation worked out, however, the last year's freshman players returned in larger numbers than ever before, and as sophomores they played a very prominent part in the season. Sayers and Wilson, among the sophs, won regular tackle berths, and their playing has been of an outstanding nature. Callahan, who from the start of the season has filled one of the end positions, has developed into an excellent receiver of forward passes. Three other ends who should be mentioned are Kennedy, a junior, who teamed up with Callahan at the other end, and Schildgren and Peck, both of whom have developed rapidly as substitutes. Mention should also be made of Calcurcio and Gilman, a fast and aggressive pair of substitute guards, who in another season will probably fill the gaps left vacant by Eolin and Lorentsen. Gillette, who like Kennedy is a junior trying for the team for the first time, showed development as a tackle, and he can be considered a strong contender for a regular berth next year.

Among the backfield men playing their first season of varsity competition, Williams has of course been outstanding. Standing at present the second high scorer in the East, with 90 points to his credit, he was ever a source of trouble to the defensive play of opponents.

Among the less experianced backfield men there has been a rapid development that makes prospects for the next two seasons look promising. Knaut, who played quarterback for the yearlings last season, came along fast this year to win a regular berth on the varsity, where he shaped up well as an interferer and defensive player. Mention should also be made of Hewitt, who as an end on the frosh eleven failed to show, but in the backfield showed well as a ball carrier, forward passer, and defensive man. Powers, another soph back, also displayed a fast pair of feet in later games on the schedule, and he can be counted on as a good ball carrier for the next two seasons. All in all, there has not been a football season at Storrs in a long time that has seen such a marked development among supposedly green men, and Connecticut Aggie followers cannot help but feel optimistic as the view approaching seasons at the state college.

The Connecticut Aggie summary for the season follows:

Connecticut 13, Wesleyan 0.
Connecticut 12, Massachusetts Aggies 6.
Connecticut 0, Maine 21.
Connecticut 34, Trinity 0.
Connecticut 3, New Hampshire 0.
Connecticut 66, Cooper Union 0.
Connecticut 33, Rhode Island 0.
Connecticut 25, Rensselaer 6.
Connecticut 190. Opponents 33.
Seven victories. One defeat.

ARMY, BROWN AND PENN RULING FAVORITES THIS WEEK

NEW YORK, Nov. 23.—(AP)—Wall street betting commissioners have made the Army a 6 to 5 favorite over the Navy for the annual service gridiron classic in Chicago Saturday although the midshipmen have not been defeated while the Cadets lost to Notre Dame.

The largest wager reported at these odds was one of $6,000 to $5,000.

On four of the outstanding eastern football battles Thanksgiving day wagers were reported at these odds: 7 to 5 on Brown against Colgate, 6 to 5 on Syracuse against Columbia, 6 to 5 on Pennsylvania against Cornell, even money Pittsburgh against Penn state.

ARMY HOLDS LAST PRACTICE BEFORE CLASH

WEST POINT, N. Y., Nov. 23.—(AP)—Army held its last long gridiron session today before the struggle with Navy in Chicago Saturday. The varsity again stopped the defense against Middie formations, consistently smashing the efforts of Team B as it reeled off Navy plays.

The individual work of Coach "Biff" Jones and his staff with the guardians of the front line of defense showed clearly today as the Cadet linemen broke up plays that pussled them yesterday. "Tiny" Hewitt, Trapnell and Murrell booted long spirals for almost an hour and "Light Horse" Harry Wilson tried his hand at placement goal kicking.

The possibility of Murrell displacing Captain Hewitt in the Army backfield grew today. Murrell's kicking distanced that of his leader and his speed and shifty open field runing probably will force Hewitt from the starting lineup. Cagle, a former Minnesota star, bore the brunt of the ball carrying in the signal work today, displacing Trapnell, who is finding difficulty in regaining his halfback post from the brilliant westerner now that serious injuries suffered in the Syracuse game have healed. Harding drove the team at quarter with Wilson completing the ball-carrying quartette. The line was unchanged with Born and Harbold on the ends, Sprague and Saunders in the tackle berths, Hammach and Schmidt at the guards and Daly center.

The squad will leave here tomorrow at 5:10 p. m. for Chicago, arriving there at 8:30 p. m. Thursday, a light drill is planned before the take-off. Definite arrangements for the transfer of the corps of 1,300 Cadets will be announced tomorrow.

PLAINFIELD PLAY FALL RIVER THIS EVENING

Forty minutes of typical nip and tuck basketball in what will undoubtedly be the hardest played game of the season will be witnessed tonight at the Plainfield Community house when Scottie Higgins and his Fall River team will try to retrieve the odds held against them by the Plainfield Town team.

Out of the three games played last season Plainfield won two and the visitors will come with reinforcements in an attempt to even up matters. Some changes have been made in the roster of the Fall River club and several players will make their initial appearance on the Plainfield floor. The Plainfield and Fall River game tonight is regarded as a real tidbit in the schedule of games and every contest between the clubs has been responsible for record attendance and the fans from surrounding places. In anticipation of a capacity audience similar as at the recent games, the management has arranged a fast preliminary game between the Buddies and the St. Joseph of Willimantic who will take the floor at 8 o'clock sharp. The regulars will go on at 8:45 with the following lineup:

Plainfield: Dissinger and Normandin, forwards; Norris, center; Benson and Stavinsky, guards; Madden and Martell, utility.

Fall River: Scottie Higgins and Degman, forwards; Boothroyd, center; Hibbert and Giolin, guards, Mooney, utility. Archie Moeller of Taftville will referee.

NORDICS OPEN SEASON ON THANKSGIVING DAY

The Taftville Nordics will open their basketball season on Thanksgiving afternoon when they play the Baltic Independents in a game at the Parish hall, Taftville, preliminary to the big game between the Taftville Celtics and South Manchester.

The Nordics during 1925 established a very creditable record, piling up 19 victories against only five defeats against some of the fastest basketball quintets in Eastern Connecticut, and are anxious to meet any teams in the state in their class during the coming season.

For the past few weeks these youngsters have been practicing with the Celtics and have developed into a smoothly working machine like team. They are to play all of the preliminary games at the Parish hall during the coming season where the followers of the chalked courts will have an opportunity of looking over this promising bunch of youngsters.

Following is the probable lineup which will start against the Baltic five on Thanksgiving day: Houston and "Lefty" Dugas forwards, Archibald center, and Heap and Brown guards, with Mathewson and several others in reserve as subs.

Any team desiring games with the Nordics are requested to notify the sporting editor.

METRO SPORTS WRITERS PICK ALL-BIG THREE TEAM

NEW YORK, Nov. 23.—(AP)—Concensus of metropolitan newspaper opinion gives Princeton and Yale each four players on an all-big three football team for the 1926 season. The remaining three positions go to Harvard.

Sturhahn and Richards, Yale linemen; Davis, Princeton, captain and guard; Caulkins and Slagle, Princeton, backs, were unanimous choices. The concensus:

VANCOUVER CLUB REFUSES TO POST $5,000 GUARANTEE

VANCOUVER, B. C., Nov. 23.—(AP)—Refusal of the Vancouver Lawn Tennis club executive committee to post a $5,000 guarantee for the appearance here of C. C. Pyle's troupe of professional tennis stars headed by Suzanne Lenglen has resulted in disruption of plans for their appearance in the Pacific northwest, it was learned today. This decision, probably will necessitate cancellation of scheduled appearances in Seattle, Washington and Victoria, B. C.

The first world's championship tournament at 18.2 balkline was held in Paris in 1903. Maurice Vignaux, George Sutton and Louis Cure tied in games won, but Vignaux was awarded the emblem on a grand average of 33.33.

C. F. C. FIVE OPENS AGAINST ACADEMY SATURDAY

For over a month the C. F. C. football team has been holding regular practice in anticipation of the opening game with the Academy five on Saturday night. The scene of this contest will be the Y. M. C. A. court and a large crowd is expected to be on hand to cheer, whichever team they choose, to victory.

Coach Davis has put his team through severe workouts in order that they might be able to withstand the Academy's hard offensive attack. The lineup is the same that has played together for the past two years. Capt. Armstrong has made himself conspicuous in practice by having found the art of locating the basket with the steadiness of a veteran. His guarding companion, Brown, has shewn that he has not lost any of his ability as a player and it might be said—if such a thing were possible—that he has improved in both guarding and shooting. Ludlow, the veteran center, is holding down his position in fine style besides making an impassable trio with Brown and Armstrong in the guarding game. Lambert and Laffin swell have kept their places as forwards, but both have increased their shooting ability.

In the last two years the C. F. C. quintet has won four-fifths of its games and last year made a score of nine victories out of ten starts, besides piling up 490 points to their opponents' 228.

The manager is booking games for the coming season and all teams who are willing to play amateur rules and would like to have a date on the schedule, please write to Leddie C. Pitt, 177 Broadway, Norwich.

Cohen and Lee Matched

NEW YORK, Nov. 23.—(AP)—Two of New England's foremost contenders for welterweight boxing honors, Georgie (Kid) Lee of Worcester, Mass., and Meyer Cohen of Holyoke, Mass., were matched here today for a ten-round contest at Boston, Dec. 2.

ARMY-NAVY AND BROWN-COLGATE GAMES CENTER OF INTEREST THIS WEEK

NEW YORK, Nov. 23.—(AP)—Lighting the gridiron sky in a farewell flash of ancient rivalry, old foes of the eastern football arena will battle in five colorful closing games on Thursday.

With the mid-west claiming the Army-Navy classic for the first time, football followers in the Atlantic seaboard sector will see the campaign virtually ended in Thanksgiving day struggles between Columbia and Syracuse, Pennsylvania and Cornell, Pittsburgh and Penn State, West Virginia and Washington & Jefferson, Brown and Colgate. Another pair of traditional rivals meet Saturday when Holy Cross clashes with Boston college.

Interest will be focused in the attempt of unbeaten Brown to smash through Colgate for a record of ten straight victories and a strong claim on eastern as well as national honors. There will be big outpourings at the other struggles, however, with the spell of a winning streak hanging over one team in each of the contests.

In the Penn State-Pittsburgh melee, the batallions of Bezdek appear to be faced by a veritable "defeat complex". The Nittany Lions have won only one of their last 13 games against the Panthers. The break in Pittsburgh's long reign occurred in 1919, when Penn State triumphed by 20 to 0. In the next two games, the Lions held their rivals to scoreless ties, but in four subsequent struggles, Pittsburgh won decisively. In each of their last three games, the Panthers have rolled up twenty or more points, while in six years Penn States has scored only one touchdown.

Columbia, facing the powerful Syracuse brigade here, has not succeeded in turning back the Orange since their modern series was inaugurated in 1901. Their closest approach to a victory was a 6-6 tie in 1902. Last fall the metropolitan eleven was beaten 16 to 5, but this year the team has been braced by an unexpected triumph over Cornell. Despite the fact that Syracuse is expected to have its strongest line-up on the field since the Army battle, with "Whippet" Carr returning to his backfield post, Columbia prospects appear brighter than at any time since 1902.

Colgate's drive against Brown will be launched from a background of five successive failures to overthrow the Bruins, although last year Eddie Tryon and company held the Providence eleven to a tie at 14-14. In their four previous games, Brown emerged with victory.

Pennsylvania's victory stretch in its series with Cornell extends only through 1924 and 1926, but in the thirty two games they have played, the Quakers have drawn off their forces twenty four times in triumph, while one game ended in a tie. Coach Lou Young's clean slate against eastern foes is basis for the Philadelphia eleven's position as favorite, but many critics look upon the struggle as a toss-up.

Washington and Jefferson will seek to wipe out the sting of two overwhelming defeats at the hand of the West Virginia mountaineers, who won last year by 19-0 after piling up forty points the year before. On the basis of their records, the teams appear well matched, with perhaps a slight edge conceded the Presidents.

ARMY-NAMY DINNER DANCE PRECEDES THE BIG GAME

CHICAGO, Nov. 23.—(AP)—Seventeen hundred girls were jubilant tonight because they have been bidden to a dinner dance on the eve of the Army-Navy football game at Soldiers field Saturday and the twenty thousand other young women are disappointed.

The list of feminine guests at the ball, which will be Chicago's major social gesture to the cadets and midshipmen here for the service classic was made public today.

About a thousand of the girls were invited at the specific request of the student bodies at West Point and Annapolis. The rest of the students asked the committee to invite Chicago girls for them at its discretion. Every state is represented in the guest list.

The thousand cadets and almost twice as many midshipmen will come to Chicago on special trains Friday morning, a day behind their football squads. Each school's contingent will have a downtown hotel for itself.

The cadets will be luncheon guests of the Marshal Field department store Friday noon and 3,584 guests will devour two and a quarter tons of turkey and proportionate amounts of other foods. Howard P. Savage, national commander of the American Legion, will be toastmaster and Vice President Charles G. Dawes the principal speaker.

Friday afternoon will see the dedication of Soldiers field, with cadets and midshipmen parading down Michigan avenue to the field.

But far from the sound of revelry will be the football squads, one quarter at the South Shore Country club and the other at the Hotel Windermere, along Lake Michigan's southern border.

FUGAZY OBTAINS RIGHTS TO POLO GROUNDS FOR BOXING

NEW YORK, Nov. 23.—(AP)—Humbert (Jack) Fugazy, ambitious Italian promoter, announced today he had obtained exclusive boxing rights at the Polo grounds for 1927, thereby establishing himself more firmly than ever as rival of Tex Rickard in the "big time" fistic circuit.

Fugazy used Ebbets field, the Brooklyn baseball park, for two of the 1926 season's outstanding fights, Delaney-Berlenbach and Wills-Sharkey.

The Italian promoter makes no secret of the fact that he is an active rival of Tex Rickard in the bidding for the chief outdoor pugilistic plum of 1927, including a heavyweight title bout with Gene Tunney defending his newly gained crown. Fugazy now has two of Tunney's leading challengers under contract, Jack Sharkey, the conqueror of Wills, and Jack Delaney, the light heavyweight champion.

Fugazy still is angling for an indoor arena to rival Rickard's Madison Square Garden.

ACADEMY-BULKELEY GAME PICTURES EXCEPTIONALLY GOOD

Coach Earle E. Brigham and Captain Brewer of the Academy team, together with the sports editors of the two local papers were invited to a private showing at the Breed theatre of the film of the Academy-Bulkeley game. This picture was filmed by Joseph F. Reed of New Haven who used a telescopic lens for the actual plays on the field. The picture is an exceptional one, very vivid in detail and very clear cut.

It shows close-ups of the individual members of the Academy team and coach and close-ups of the cheering sections of both the Academy and Bulkeley, the Academy cheer-leaders and band. The Academy touchdown is clearly shown as well as the forward pass that led to the only score of the game. The only thing lacking in the picture is the close-ups of the Bulkeley team. This was not an oversight on the part of the cameraman but is due to the superstitiousness of Coach Canty of the Bulkeley team who absolutely refused to have his team filmed either as a team or individually.

"HAIR-GROOM"
Keeps Hair Combed, Glossy
Well-Groomed all Day

"Hair-Groom" is a dignified combing cream which costs only a few cents a jar at any drug-store. Millions use it because it gives that natural gloss and well-groomed effect to the hair—that final touch to good dress both in business and on social occasions. Even stubborn, unruly or shampooed hair stays combed all day in any style you like. "Hair-Groom" is greaseless; also helps grow thick, heavy, lustrous hair.

GAS COMPANIES TELL PATRONS HOW TO COOK

Many gas companies in Connecticut are today aiding housekeepers and particularly the "newly wedded" ones to solve their cooking problems through their home service departments, according to the Connecticut committee on public service information. The Norwich gas and electric department is in this line of service. Some of the gas companies have completely equipped demonstrating kitchens and lecture halls, while others employ home service experts to furnish advice on cooking and home economy. All of this service is furnished gratuitously to patrons of the company who desire it.

Every gas company receives and answers daily requests for information on the cooking of various foods. The home service experts employed by the company keep in touch with various recipes and determine the best of them for the company's customers. New brides, it has been found, are particularly keen on learning the best and newest methods of preparing foods and especially to learn recipes for making bread. Besides aiding the housewife in her cooking, many of the home service departments have added advice on the arrangement of the family budget.

The home service movement was begun among the gas companies of the United States four years ago by Philmer Ewes who now heads that department in the New Haven Gas Light company. Ninety-two companies now have fully equipped demonstrating halls, while many others employ cooking experts whose duty it is to furnish advice to all customers who seek it.

TO DISCUSS ADVISABLE CHANGES IN GAME LAWS

The advisability of the revision of several sections of the state fish and game laws and the incorporation of new restrictions will be discussed at a conference to be held in the hall of the house at the state capitol December 10. Sportsmen, farmers, trappers and others interested in the conservation of wild life have been invited to meet with the state board of fisheries and game at this time to discuss problems and policies it is probable that the conference will draw up resolutions for submission to the general assembly. The conference will be held at 10 a. m., with the probability that there will be an afternoon session, according to notices sent out this week.

Among the subjects to be discussed are the advisability of changing the bag limit upon any of the game birds or quadrupeds, the advisability of having a closed season of one or two years for grouse, the question of permitting hen pheasants to be killed, the desirability of rest days other than Sundays during the open season for game, the regulation of shipment of poisons, such as the poison capsules used in killing foxes and other fur-bearers; the prohibition of the sale of striped bass less than twelve inches long and the closed season and size limit on calico bass.

In connection with these regulations on the killing of pheasants it is probable that the question will be raised as to whether more freedom should be allowed on private preserves on which the pheasants have been reared and propagated at the expense of private clubs or individuals.

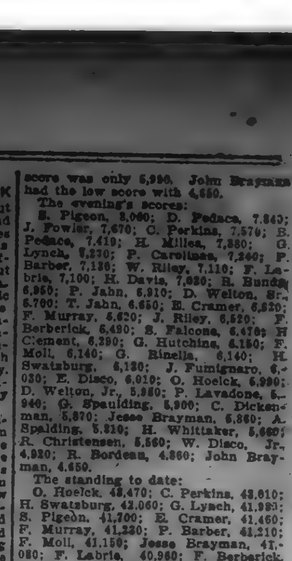
First Snowflakes Seen

For a brief time Tuesday morning about 11 o'clock there was a light flurry of snow. The flakes were the first that have been observed in the city this season.



Not a Mere Slogan

Lucky Strikes are distinctively different. Why? "IT'S TOASTED." This is not a mere slogan, but a costly and added process.

To begin with, Lucky Strikes are made of the world's finest Turkish and domestic tobaccos, properly aged and perfectly blended.

In addition, toasting for 45 minutes improves Luckies in three ways:

1. Finer Flavor. Toasting for 45 minutes develops the hidden flavors of the world's finest Turkish and domestic tobaccos.
2. Smoothness. Toasting for 45 minutes removes all "bite" and harshness, hence never any throat irritation.
3. Freshness. Then the tobacco is suddenly chilled. This seals the flavor in and insures constant freshness.

The added process of toasting brings extra goodness which accounts for the growing popularity of Luckies.

"It's toasted"

That's Why Luckies Taste So Good

WESTERLY

WORLD WIDE GUILDS HELD RALLY SOCIAL

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I., Nov. 23—Rally day for representatives from World Wide guils of churches in eastern Connecticut and South county, Rhode Island, was held this evening in the parlors of the First Baptist church on Broad street with an attendance of 150. The World Wide guild of the First Baptist church, Mrs. Edwina K. Pendleton, president, was the host. Mrs. Adah O. E. Alger being the chairman of the committee of arrangments. At 6:30 o'clock a supper was served as follows to the attending representatives:

Baked Fresh Ham
Mashed Potatoes Mashed Turnips
Cranberry Sauce
Rolls Cake Coffee

Among those taking part in the program were Miss Mildred Davidson, the financial secretary of the World Wide guild, who is spending two weeks in Rhode Island, and Miss Wing, state secretary of the World Wide guild of Connecticut. Guild songs were sung during the evening's program.

GENERAL NOBILE WILL VISIT WESTERLY TONIGHT

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I., Nov. 23—General Umberto Nobile, who commanded the Italian dirigible "Norge" on the North Pole flight from Spitzbergen to Teller, Alaska, when the Amundsen-Ellsworth north pole expedition had the services of the distinguished Italian designer and navigator, will be a visitor in Westerly this Wednesday evening. At the invitation of Italian-American residents of Westerly General Nobile will come to lecture on his Arctic voyage. He will arrive in Westerly from Providence, where he has been since the first of the week, on the west bound Shore Line express, due at the Westerly station of the New Haven road at 6:34 p. m. A reception committee of Westerly Italians headed by the Westerly band, C. O. Gavitt, director, will be on hand to receive and greet the famous Italian general.

In the first jury case tried at the Westerly adjournment of the November term of superior court for Washington county on Tuesday morning before Associate Justice Arthur P. Sumner a disagreement was reported in the action brought, State, vs. James Miller, who was charged with the obstruction of an officer, Chief Brown, in the performance of his duty. It was reported that the jury stood nine for acquittal. The case was appealed from the Third district court where Judge Williams adjudged the respondent guilty and sentenced him to pay a fine of $15 and costs. The action grew out of the arrest of James Campbell of Mystic who was arrested for the operation of an automobile in Hopkinton on Broad street, Potter Hill, near the junction of Maxson street on Oct. 10th, 1926 at about 6:30 o'clock in the evening. When Chief Brown returned to the scene in Potter Hill after taking Campbell to the Westerly police station, Miller was charged with interference with the officer when he was searching the Chevrolet touring car for liquor.

When court opened in the case of a criminal appeal Jennie A. Hickley was thrice called into court to save her bail and a capias was ordered to issue for James J. Collins

In the case against James Salimeno of Westerly charging possession of intoxicating liquor for beverage purposes and an indictment on "keeping of a common liquor nuisance" the defendant pleaded nolo to both complaints. Sentence was deferred on recommendation of Mr. Jackvony and to the satisfaction of Chief Thomas E. Brown of the Westerly police.

Continuance was granted to next Monday in the case against William H. Owens of Voluntown, Conn., on a charge of driving an automobile while under the influence of liquor Aug. 16 last. Owens was arrested in Saunderstown.

Funeral services for Mrs. Joseph T. Grills, were held Tuesday morning at 8:30 o'clock from her late home, No. 16 Narragansett avenue, requiem mass being celebrated at 9 o'clock at the Church of the Immaculate Conception by Rev. Henry Bruno, S. M. Music for the mass was in charge of Mrs. Frank Ahern and at the recessional Martin S. Spellman sang, Beautiful Land on High. Burial was in Jordon cemetery, Waterford, Conn., where the committal service was read by Fr. Bruno. The bearers were John, Henry and Leo Grills, Thomas Albamonti, Hodge Metiveer and Angelo Gencarelli.

Miss Iva Irene Roode, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles J. Roode of Pawcatuck, was united in marriage Saturday with Ernest Palmer of Voluntown, the ceremony taking place at 5 o'clock in the afternoon at the home of the bride, Rev. E. P. Mathewson of Hopkinton officiating.

SLOVAKS IRKED BY TAXES UNDER CZECH UNION PLAN

Although the Slovaks have formed a working agreement with the Czechs in the Czechoslovak parliament they are much opposed to the tax policy of the state. Slovak farmers did not like to pay taxes while they were citizens of Hungary, and have not learned to like to pay taxes to their new government.

During several years the government did not press the collection of taxes. On the books of the state the back taxes accumulated. Now Czechoslovakia is cutting a little finer on receipts and expenses. The Czech currency has been kept stabilized for several years. An effort is being made to collect back taxes and round off the budget. Collectors have been told to get busy and bring the laggards before the courts. But the tax men are not having any easy time. Some Slovak farmers met them with pitchforks. Slovaks in the towns are also reluctant to pay up. In Tyrnau, the shopkeepers have decided not to settle. As a sign of protest against taxation they closed their shops for a few days.

The fact that babies of the Chippewa tribe are less subject to rickets than white babies is attributed to the Indian children being more frequently exposed to direct sunlight than white babies.

CHINESE NEWSPAPERS CARRY NO REPORTERS

PEKING, Nov. 23 (AP)—China, the scene of perhaps the most ancient effort at newspaper publication, is trudging along in the rear of modern journalistic development.

For instance, the papers have editors, but no reporters. Such news as it not furnished by the scores of subsidized native agencies and a dozen foreign purveyors just filters in to the papers or is furnished by retained underlings in government officers, military hearquarters, teahouses, restaurants, and theaters. Occasionally an editor will "cover" an event, but nothing approaching American methods of news gathering obtains in China.

Besides leading daily editorials generally dealing with some phase of current political or military affairs, lesser editorials appear in odd corners of the various sheets and frequently are appended to news stories.

Foreign news, unless it has a bearing on China or Chinese interests abroad, arouses little interest. The papers cater to the native fondness for gossip and spicy tidbits of local news, and to a lively sense of humor. In the larger centers, illustrated supplements and special editions are being attempted. Cartoons are popular forms of expression, and in at least one instance a woman's page has been developed.

Although relieved from old imperial restraint, publishers are still subject to official domination. Within recent months one editor was shot apparently out of hand, for offending a military official by his writings.

A Chinese newspaper usually consists of one to four or five sheets, divided into four inch horizontal spaces and printed, with further vertical subdivisions, in columns of type. The reading is from top to bottom and by columns of characters from right to left.

Posters and billboards long have satisfied the native desire for publicity and the utility of the newspaper in that direction is slow in gaining recognition. Such advertisements as appear in the more progressive centers deal largely with theaters, teahouses, lotteries, patent medicines, cigarettes, banks and exchange shops. Full page and classified advertisements are nonexistent away from foreign patronage and direction.

Subsidy by policital and military interests is an accepted fact in Chinese newspaperdom, with the exception of a few journals.

When some people get busy it is always in connection with something that is none of their business.

STORY OF VAUDEVILLE IS STORY OF CYCLES

NEW YORK, Nov. 23 (AP)—Vaudeville programs since America's first organized variety performance a 100 years ago have reflected, and sometimes anticipated, the life and fashions of the times.

They promise for the present to "go Spanish," the Keith-Albee exchange reports. And there is a French "craze" just around the corner. The vaudeville managers find these fads profitable, because of the theater-goers' desire for something new or novel.

The story of vaudeville from its establishment in this country at the old Lafayette theater on December 18, 1826, has been a story of cycles. Their average life has been about four years, although in many instances the best acts of a mode became more or less standardized. Thus the piano act, the song and dance team, the monologist, and the comedy sketch are familiar features of the modern program.

Sometimes an event furnishes the motif for a new mode in vaudevilic, and sometimes it is an outstanding personality. Of the former were the cycles of the Irish, German, Jewish, Italian, blackface and "rube" comedians. Each type had its heyday as the Irish, the Germans, and the others successively became factors in American life.

Personality entered into vaudeville fashions when Lydia Yeamans Titus decided to do her songs and impersonations in variety. She decided her husband Fred Titus, should play the piano for her. For a long time the act had the field to itself. Then came a veritable landslide of piano acts. Maurice Barrymore was another personality who marked a turning point in the history of variety.

BUDAPEST FINDS FIRST KNOWN "RADIO" CROOK

What with new broadcasting stations appearing all over Europe and long-distance tests with America, Budapest has developed a radio thief.

Police on the Andrassy Ut, seeing a man carrying a suspicious-looking bundle, stopped him and asked for a look inside. The man dropped the bundle, hit one of the policemen and ran. He was caught after a hot chase.

In the police station he made a confession. His plan, he explained, was to examine roof tops for antennae. When he discovered an intake the rest of his work was easy. First he drummed lightly on a window pane with his fingers. If the people inside were not listening to a program some one would be aroused by the tapping and would approach the window. Then the thief would slip away. If no one came he would open a window, slip in and make his haul.

He said when a program was on, every one in the household, even the cook and the maid, would be listening. By using the radio method he had robbed many apartments.

POETRY

The Highways

All day long on the highway
The King's fleet couriers ride;
You may hear the tread of their horses sped
Over the country side.
They ride for life and they ride for death
And they override who tarrieth
With show of color and flush of pride
They stir the dust on the highway.

Let them ride on the highway wide,
Love walks in little paths aside.

All day long on the highway
Is a tramp of an army's feet;
You may see them go in a marvheled row
With the tale of their arms complete;
They march for war and they march for peace,
For the lust of gold and fame's increase,
For victories sadder than defeat
They raise the dust on the highway.

All the armies of earth defied,
Love dwells in little paths aside.

All day long on the highway
Rushes an eager band,
With straining eyes for a worthless prize
That slips from the grasp like sand.
And men leave blood where their feet have stood
And bow them down unto brass and wood—
Idols fashioned by their own hand—
Blind in the dust of the highway.

Power and gold and fame denied,
Love laughs glad in the paths aside.
—Louise Driscoll.

Out Of His Heart

The world is blind, it only sings
The praise of poets, masters and Kings!
Their work, their words, their deeds of flame
Win all the fame!

So let my voice ring out for one
Who has no fame for great deeds done.
He spins no song, he rears no dome;
Out of his heart he builds a home.

He rules no realm, he's more than King;
A woman's joy his harvesting!
He spins no song, he rears no dome;
Out of his heart he builds a home!
—Edward Childs Carpenter.

Grocer: Well, I mislaid the pound weight, so I weighed it by the pound of chops you sent me yesterday.—The Progressive Grocer.

Johnson—So your baby is ill? What' his ailment?

Jackson—The doctor said it was rickets, but from the noise it makes I'm pretty sure it's rackets.—Cincinnati Times-Star.

"You have developed a strange admiration for this pugilist."

"I can't help it," answered Miss Cayenne.

"Do you know anything about prize fighting?"

"No. But his literary style is so graceful!"—Washington Star.

A certain busy hardware merchant, whose time is worth money, has a good method of dealing with barbers. As soon as he is seated in the chair he says: "Cut the whole three short."

"What three sir?" asks the barber.

"Hair, whiskers and chatter," replies the hardware dealer.—Good Hardware.

A fair young thing walked into a Lawrence (Mass.) drug store and told the clerk to fix up a dose of castor oil and to mix something with it to take the taste away, says the Boston Globe. The clerk went to the rear of the store, and coming out again asked the young lady if she would like a glass of soda. She accepted the invitation and drank the beverage. Then she asked: "Where is the castor oil?" The clerk smiled triumphantly and said: "You've taken it. I mixed a fearful dose with the soda." The girl turned pale, sank into a chair and gasped: "Heavens, I wanted it for father."

NORWICH DRIVER HELD BLAMELESS WHEN NEW LONDON BOY IS INJURED

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Nov. 23—A motor truck owned by the Consolidated Rendering company, of Norwich, and driven by Edward H. Ross, 173 Hinckley avenue, Norwich, struck Michael Petrovsky, 12, of 306 North Bank street, this afternoon on Douglass street. The boy suffered bad lacerations of the left leg and is now a patient at Lawrence-Memorial hospital, where it was stated that while the injury is a painful one, it is not necessarily serious. No blame for the accident is attached to Ross. After the boy had been taken to the hospital the police ordered Ross to drive his truck to platform scales to determine whether the truck was carrying a load in excess of that allowed by law. It was proven that the truck, which is of five tons capacity, was loaded with a cargo of 4,100 pounds.

The boy had been riding a bicycle and rode through Douglass street where he went beside an auto that was parked on the south side of the street. While sitting astride of the cycle and hanging to the mudguard of the parked auto, the truck driven by Ross and headed towards Main street came along. Just as the truck was passing the motionless auto, young Petrovsky lost his grip of the automobile, fell against the truck and was thrown to the ground, his leg coming in contact with the heavily laden auto and ripping open the flesh beneath the right knee. Motorists and pedestrians went to the boy's assistance and an effort was made to procure medical aid as the wound was bleeding freely. When a physician could not be obtained the police were notified and Patrolman George Cockell in the speed auto responded. In the meantime the hospital ambulance had arrived. Carlisle Avery, of Main street, took the boy in his automobile to the hospital.

REVERSE GEAR WORTH $475 SOLD AS JUNK FOR $8.04

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Nov. 23—Morris Lampert a well known resident of this city, stepped into trouble when he took as abandoned iron some material he found on land near the railroad freight house. Among the articles which Mr. Lampert gathered up and soon after sold to a junk dealer was a reverse gear used on motor boats. The price he obtained for the lot of iron and steel was $13.70, and for the gear only $8.04. But the material taken was the property of Elisio Minucci and the latter now a claim for it or the equivalent of it in cash. Complaint was made to the prosecutor and proceedings were begun. Today the matter got into the police court. It was represented that the junk taken was on land that was not used that there was an abandoned building on the premises and that these circumstances led to the taking of the gear. Lampert admitted that he had no right to trespass on the land, nor was he warranted in taking what he did take, but he believed the material had been abandoned. The owner of the reversing gear claimed that new, it was worth some $475. It had been in use three years and had been in a boat that was burned near the Ship and Engine company plant. To get it out of the destroyed craft Mr. Minucci worked day after day and he did not propose to have the gearing taken by another. After a long conference by counsel for the parties in interest a settlement was reached and the case was nolled.

Just as the police contended, Sally Herbert, alias Sally Lewis, Douglass street negress of 28, who finished a 60 days' sentence at the county jail here last Saturday, was the person who attacked with a knife Adolphus Leon, negro, of 25 Douglass street. Today before Leon was discharged at Lawrence hospital, Leon made a confession to the police that the Herbert woman was his assailant and not an unknown white man, whom Leon had steadfastly accused of attacking him. When the police were notified by the hospital authorities that Leon was about to be discharged, Sergeants Nelson Smith and John Cavanaugh went to the hospital and after a short grilling, the negro admitted that he had lied from the start as to his attacker and declared that the Herbert woman did the cutting. He said that the woman entered his home and that he was suffering with pains in his back at the time. He obtained the services of the woman to apply liniment to the parts affected and it was while this was in progress that the couple engaged in an altercation. The Herbert woman finally seized a knife that was on the kitchen table and attacked Leon, thrusting the blade into Leon's neck and back. Then she escaped. Leon berated the woman because she had remained away from him while he has been a patient at the hospital.

The police have been on the lookout for the Herbert woman since the assault upon Leon, but she has not been located. It is the belief of the police that she is being secreted by acquaintances or else has left the city.

Mrs. Howard A. White, 30 Montauk avenue, this afternoon communicated with the police, stating that a man was in her apartments and refused to leave. Sergeant John Cavanaugh went to the White residence and found a man there who had been drinking, but who was not intoxicated sufficiently to arrest. He was ordered from the house and given warning that if he returned there he would be given accommodations in a cell at police headquarters.

The state police, Groton barracks, are seeking the whereabouts of Albert Terry, employed by Meyer Feddham of Thames street, Groton, for they believe if they locate Terry they will recover Feddham's Chevrolet automobile, which disappeared with Terry last night. About 2 o'clock Terry drove the automobile, with his employer as a passenger, to New London to permit Feddham to make a purchase. When Feddham came out from the store neither Terry nor the automobile could be found. Feddman reported the loss of his automobile to the state police and the state police and municipal authorities throughout the state have been requested to be on the lookout for Terry and the car.

Patrolman Lawrence Fardy in making his rounds on Howard street last night discovered the show window of the grocery store, formerly conducted by A. Watchinsky 30, smashed and reported at police headquarters that stock had been removed from the window. The store was attached a week ago by Deputy Sheriff Manuel J. Martin, but it is not believed that any of the stock was removed, for it was made known today that the window has been broken a long time.

Another automobile was stolen last night from the vicinity of Meridian street, where many automobiles have been taken the past two months. Harold Sarrent, of Thames View, Waterford, an employe in a garage, parked his auto on Church street, near the corner of Meridian street about 8 o'clock. At 10, when he returned the car was missing. The police here and the police at Norwich, Westerly, Middletown, New Haven and Hartford as well as the state police at Groton and Centerbrook were notified of the theft of the auto.

There was a larger number of applications for permission to build, before the city council at its meeting Monday evening than have been presented to that body in a long time. Of course the great majority contemplated the erection of garages, some of artificial stone and others of wood, but there were applications for a few cottages also, indicating that there will be employment during the winter in some degree. Mechanics have been favored with fair weather during the fall and now the outlook is for work in abundance.

The south side of Starr street has been provided with re-laid gutters so that there will be no stagnant water there in the future. The work is an improvement to the street.

The old-time turkey raffles seem to have passed with the saloon for there is none of that pastime announced here with Thanksgiving but a couple of days away. In the days of the public cafe there were a score of such times announced and many a fellow went to his home Thanksgiving eve with a turkey, a goose, or a pair of chickens.

The three young men who robbed the Eastern Dairy company of about $25 worth of gasoline, as claimed by the state, will come to trial in the police court tomorrow. They have been in jail since Monday because they were unable to furnish bail bonds of $300 each. They do not seem to realize the seriousness of their predicament, but they are likely to come to their senses tomorrow.

Miss Kathryn Lord, daughter of Mrs. Oscar G. Lord, of Saybrook, a student of Bay Path institute, Springfield, Mass., is spending the holiday vacation at her home. Miss Lord is pursuing studies in the teachers' training course.

William Keenan, United States Coast Guard destroyer Fanning, state pier, a patient at Lawrence-Memorial Associated hospital, was discharged today.

The body of Mrs. Mary Chester Lynn, a former resident of New London and former teacher in the public schools of this city, whose death occurred at Jamaica Plains, Mass., Saturday, was brought to New London today. This afternoon at 1:30 o'clock funeral services were held in Beckwith Memorial chapel, Cedar Grove cemetery, Rev. J. Romeyn Danforth, pastor of the First Church of Christ, officiating. Burial was in Cedar Grove cemetery.

Raymond B. Scribner has sold a house and lot on Bolles avenue to Ella M. Silva.

City Manager William A. Holt today appointed another special constable. The latest appointment is made to William P. Leary, employed at the Empire theatre and the appointee is given power of arrest at the theatre.

The New London police have been requested to be on the lookout for Albert Cruesia, who escaped from Norwich State hospital last night. Cruesia is 36, weighs about 170 pounds, is five feet, six inches in height, dark complexion and brown hair.

A stray pig was found on Meridian street last night, the animal roaming aimlessly about when it was observed by a garage employe, who took charge of the pig, placing it in the garage.

An ice cream truck became disabled on Bank street this morning, becoming stalled at the junction of Howard street and on the tracks of the Connecticut company. Trolley traffic was held up 30 minutes until a roller-jack was secured and used to get the truck off the iron.

"RATIONAL AMERICAN LEGION" ORGANIZER IS WANTED

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Nov. 23—The police this evening were seeking the whereabouts of M. D. Breen, alleged to have represented himself as the district organizer of the "Rational American Legion." He is seeking funds for membership in the organization without having obtained authority to do so from City Manager William A. Holt and in accordance with the provisions of the city charter, City Manager Holt ordered that Breen be questioned to determine whether his organization was a bona fide one and his authorization for soliciting money determined, should he be located. The police are in possession of a certificate, which was issued to one "M. D'Elia" and which entitled "D'Elia" to membership in the alleged organization. The certificate, which is signed by Breen as organizer and J. C. Heesey as general secretary, was issued today, and bears the following wording: "This is to certify that M D'Elia is admitted to membership in The National American Legion, a voluntary association of American citizens devoted to upholding the law fostering the ideals of American liberty, campaigning for the enactment of sensible laws and the lowering of taxes, opposing the enactment of freak laws and levying needless taxes, seeking the repeal of useless laws now on the statutes and particularly to petition congress to modify the Volstead prohibition enforcement act to permit of the manufacture, sale and consumption of beer and light wines under government control." The organization is reputed to have its head offices in Washington, D. C., and with district office, at 153 West 42nd street, New York. The slogan of the organization is "Let the Law Respect the Citizen and the Citizen Will Respect the Law."

The name of "M. D'Elia" does not appear in the city directory, but there does appear the name of "N. D'Elia," who resides at 57 Elydenburg avenue.

PETER BLIFFERT DEAD— CIVIL WAR VETERAN

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Nov. 23—Peter Bliffert, 86, died suddenly last night of heart disease at his home on Pequonoc road, Groton. He was born in Germany, but had resided in Groton practically his entire life. He was employed as a stone-cutter by J. Frank Salten, of Groton. Mr. Bliffert was apparently in sound health yesterday, but during the evening he suffered a heart attack and expired almost immediately.

Mr. Bliffert was born in Prussia, Oct. 15, 1840. He came to this country at the age of 19 and resided in New York until the outbreak of the Civil war. He enlisted with the New York cavalry, Second Artillery, a unit among the first to go into action. Mr. Bliffert participated in several engagements of minor importance. Later, in the battle of Alexandria, Va., he was wounded by a bullet and was taken back to the lines where he underwent hospital treatment for several weeks. Upon his recovery he again went into action and fought for the remainder of the war.

Returning north after the close of the war, Mr. Bliffert made his home in Groton, where he married Julia Daly, who survives him.

Surviving Mr. Bliffert, besides his widow, are two sisters, Mrs. Annie Bradford of Eastern Point, and Mrs. Katherina Gerhard of Groton; a brother, John Bliffert of Cowesett, R. I., and several nieces and nephews.

Chester H. Beebe, of 26 Hope street, driver of one of the busses operating between New London and the submarine base, was arrested by Patrolman Clarence Martin this afternoon charged with reckless driving, upon complaint of Frank Houck, of Bartlett's road, Waterford. He will be presented in the police court tomorrow morning. Houck stated that he was driving his automobile on Main street, near Hallam street and that the bus crowded him to such an extent that the pleasure auto came close to being wrecked.

The funeral of Mrs. Margaret O'Connell, wife of Michael O'Connell, was held this morning at 8 o'clock at St. Mary's Star of the Sea church, the solemn mass of requiem being celebrated by Rev. Raymond O'Callahan, with Rev. William J. Fox deacon and Rev. Michael Reagan sub-deacon. The body was forwarded to New Haven where burial took place this afternoon.

Commissioner of Motor Vehicles Robbins B Stoeckel this afternoon ordered the driver's license of Nicholas Andrelli, 30 Montauk avenue, recently suspended, returned to the owner.

A still alarm was received at fire headquarters this evening for a supposed fire in Hudson-Essex automobile service station, on Church street, but other than an apparent defective boiler, no danger was found by Deputy Chief Calvin Edmunds and firemen. The cellar was filled with steam and a great quantity of water was on the floor, but no fire was found.

Herbert A. Turner, expressman, residing on Fitch avenue, lost his pocketbook containing between $30 and $90 and an endorsed check for $40 this afternoon, but when he reported his loss to the police he did not know where he had lost the pocketbook and money. An hour afterwards a girl named Simonowitz residing on Bank street, who had found the wallet, returned it to the owner.

The New Haven police this evening requested the New London police to be on the lookout for a Buick sedan, stolen in the former city about 6 o'clock. The car is of 1927 model and carries Connecticut registration—50399. The New Haven police also reported the theft of a Ford touring car, but it was later recovered.

Michael Cosgrove, Hartford fireman, who committed suicide by leaping in front of a train at Hartford Sunday, is remembered by members of the firemen who participated in the Firemen's parade in New London last August as having awarded the prize for being the handsomest fireman in line.

There is some mystery about the fire that occurred at the Messer property in Ridgewood park a few nights ago. Watchmen were on the property, still the fire occurred, but from what cause is not known.

The fire department has had a relief from duty of late in that the services of the members of the department have not been called for. The Niagara apparatus was called to Sound View Monday night to fight a fire and to Ridgewood Park the night before, but aside from that there has been little demand for the firemen of late.

Brainard Masonic lodge met this evening for work in the fellowcraft degree. On the 1st of December the degree team of Brainard will go to Norwich to work the Master Mason degree in full form for Somerset lodge. It is likely that a considerable number of the lodge will go with the team.

Character is the inside decoration of man; reputation is the whitewash on the outside.

PUT YOUR HENS IN LAYING TRIM

This Guaranteed Way

Go to any dealer named below and get enough Dr. Hess Poultry Pan-a-ce-a to last your hens 30 days.

Mix one pound Pan-a-ce-a with every 50 pounds of mash. Then see the change come over your flock; see the combs and wattles begin to turn red, listen to the song, scratch and cackle — that's when the eggs begin to come.

You get more eggs—or you return the empty container to the dealer and get your money back.

Costs little to use: One egg pays for all the Pan-a-ce-a a hen needs for six months.

For Roup: Use Dr. Hess Roup Tablets.

Sugar firm, Cuban buying.
Coffee higher, favorable Brazilian markets.

Chicago

Wheat easy, disappointing export demand.
Corn steady, smaller country offerings.
Cattle firmer.
Hogs lower.

STOCK PRICES HIGHER

NEW YORK, Nov. 23—(AP)—Stock prices worked higher today under the influence of easy credit conditions which stimulated pool activity and covering operations by professional traders who had sold for the decline. Trading was in fairly heavy volume for a holiday week, but public participation was still on a small scale.

The fact that several issues were being elevated to new peak prices for the year while others were breaking through to new low levels indicated that buying was of a discriminatory character. Barring some definite change in the business situation, speculative opinion, judging from commission house advices, seemed to be leaning to the theory that so-called "selective markets" are likely to prevail for some time as there appears to be nothing which another big "bull" movement could be based, and nothing which could be used as the groundwork for a sharp general decline. Meanwhile, activity centers in issues which hold promise of special dividend, merger or earnings developments.

Baldwin, which has held the center of the speculative stage for a week or more, was in free supply for a greater part of the session, getting down to as low as 143 5-8, but a sudden outburst of buying in late trading sent the stock soaring above 149 for a net gain of nearly 2 points on the day. Commercial Solvents B made the most spectacular individual gain, soaring over 15 points to 237 and then yielding to 233 on realizing. LaClede as scored an extreme gain of 210 points South Porto Rican, 5, and Phillip Morris, Rutland Railroad preferred, United Fruit, U. S. Cast Iron Pipe and Manati Sugar preferred, all 4 points or more.

Among the two dozen issues to attain new peak prices for the year were American Sugar Refining, Cudahy Packing, Columbia Gas (new), Consolidated Cigar, Eureka Vacuum Cleaner, Federal Light & Traction, Granby Copper, Great Western Sugar, Liggett & Myers B, Public Service of New Jersey and Texas Gulf Sulphur. New York Canners broke over 3 points to a new low coincident with the omission of the dividend. Moon Motors, Chandler-Cleveland preferred, Hayes Wheel, Electric Refrigeration and Worthington Pump also touched new minimum prices although early losses were reduced or converted into new gains in some instances.

Rails showed a tendency to move upward on the publication of a few October earnings statements, making favorable comparison in gross and net with October of last year. Special buying of the Rock Island issues, which touched new highs, revived rumors of dividend action next month. Chesapeake & Ohio was heavily sold just before the close, presumably in reflection of speculative disappointment that no extra dividend was declared.

Call money held steady at 4 1-2 per cent. all day. Time money was reduced from a flat 4 3-4 to a 4 5-8 per cent. basis. Commercial paper rates were unchanged.

Commodity markets were irregular. Active wheat futures declined about a cent a bushel and cotton futures declined about 50 cents a bale. Raw sugar advanced 1-8 of a cent a pound to a new high record, and coffee prices were slightly better.

A further reaction in French francs, which carried them back below the 3 1-2 cent level, was the principal development in the foreign exchange market. Demand sterling was slightly firmer around $4.84 1-2, but most of the continental rates showed slight recessions.

CLOUDY, WARMER TODAY; FAIR TOMORROW

Norwich Bulletin

1766 1926

NORWICH, CONN., WEDNESDAY, NOV. 24, 1926

FULL ASSOCIATED PRESS DISPATCHES

The Bulletin.

Norwich, Wednesday, Nov. 24, 1926

THE WEATHER

Conditions

The northeastern disturbance is central east of New Foundland and a disturbance that developed over the northern Rocky mountain region Monday has moved rapidly eastward to the Lake Superior region with increased intensity. Pressure is high from the Gulf of St. Lawrence and Nova Scotia southwestward to the Gulf of Mexico.

The Lake Superior disturbance will continue to move rapidly eastward and probably will cause light rains Wednesday or Wednesday night almost generally in the Washington forecast district. This disturbance will be preceded by rising temperature Wednesday and will be followed by generally fair and colder weather Thursday in the Atlantic

Winds

North of Sandy Hook: Increasing southerly and increasing cloudiness Wednesday, light rain Wednesday night.

Sandy Hook to Hatteras: Increasing southerly and fair weather Wednesday.

Forecast

For southern New England: Increasing cloudiness and warmer Wednesday followed by light rain Wednesday night; Thursday fair and cold-

TAFTVILLE

A meeting of the Sunbeam class was held Friday evening at the home of Miss Lena Martin on Norwich avenue. Four new members were voted into the class.

The Ladies of St. Anne gave a well attended supper followed by cards at Parish hall Saturday evening. This was one of the social evenings in a series of carnival nights being given by the auxiliary societies of the Sacred Heart church for the benefit of the parish. Strings of electric lights strung across Merchants avenue made attractive outside decorations.

The monthly Rockrock Childs Welfare conference is to be held Friday afternoon at the Red Cross rooms. This conference which is under the auspices of the United Workers of Norwich is fast becoming most helpful and instructing to the mothers of small children. Many take advantage each month to have their children thoroughly examined by a physician and weighed and measured by the nurses in attendance.

Assistant Postmaster Edward V. Murphy has announced that the hours at the local postoffice on Thanksgiving day will be from 7 to 8:15 a. m.; 12 m to 1 p. m. and 6 to 6:30 p. m.

The members of the Dramatic club who are working to present a minstrel show held a meeting Tuesday evening at Ponemah hall. The cast which is working on the three act comedy met at the same hour in the Red Cross rooms.

A meeting of the standing committee of the Taftville Congregational church was held Tuesday evening with the chairman, George H. Young, presiding.

The weekly meeting of the Community Sewing club was held Monday evening in the Red Cross rooms in the Ponemah building.

NORWICH TOWN

Mrs. James H. Albertson of New York, arrived in Norwich Tuesday for a visit at the home of his brother-in-law, Edwin C. Gay of Julian terrace. Mr. Albertson will spend the holiday at the home of his brother-in-law and will arrive this (Wednesday) evening.

Mr. and Mrs. George A. Peck and family of Norwich Town motored to Westchester Sunday. They were accompanied by Mr. Peck's mother, Mrs. Theodore D. Peck, who was returning home, after several weeks' visit with her son's family. Mr. and Mrs. Peck and family will be Thanksgiving guests of Mrs. Peck's sisters, Miss Fannie Smith and Miss Rose Smith, in Colchester.

Mr. and Mrs. John Peck (Martha Waterman) of Stowe, Mass., were guests last week at the home of the Misses Hyde, of Washington street.

Friends of Edwin F. Sage of Sachem Plain road, were pleased to greet him Monday, he having recovered sufficiently following a serious surgical operation at Backus hospital, less than a month ago, to be able to walk out. Mr. Sage returned home from the hospital a week ago Sunday

SULLIVAN IS INSPIRING HOLY CROSS CHEER LEADER

(Special to The Bulletin)

WORCESTER, Nov. 23—Edward J. Sullivan of Norwich, Conn., has the honor of being voted one of the most active and yell-inspiring cheer leaders who ever led team support at Holy Cross college.

The present group of five cheer leaders was selected from a large number of candidates and is headed by Timothy J. Murphy of Pawtucket. The Norwich youth is a senior, and is also president of the Norwich club of Holy Cross college.

Success never comes to a man who is afraid to face failure.

FROM LYDIA E. PINKHAM TO HER GREAT GRANDDAUGHTER

Have you ever heard a grandmother say, "Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound? Why, my mother and I took that fifty years ago." In some families the fourth generation is learning the merit of this dependable medicine.

From the days of the polanaise to the days of the radio, mothers have given this famous remedy to their daughters. The happy schoolgirl of today, like the demure maiden of the 1870's, knows she can rely on Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

ADVISES LIFE MEMBERSHIP DRIVE FOR AGRICULTURAL SOCIETY FUNDS

A report recommending a drive for life memberships to raise funds to take care of the indebtedness of the New London County Agricultural society was accepted at a meeting of the society in the town hall Tuesday evening. The report was made by Frank T. Maples, chairman of the sub-committee appointed to consider ways and means of securing funds for the society's treasury. The meeting was presided over by President Charles P. Bushnell and was called to order at 8 o'clock.

Mr. Maples presented the committee's report which is as follows;

Your committee after holding several meetings, beg to report;

That the unsold bonds of the society to the amount of $2,100 have been marketed and the money is now in the treasury.

Also a note, $2,800, has been drawn and endorsed by four members, which as soon as the executive committee authorize the endorsement of the president and treasurer, will be deposited for discount.

The committee recommend that a drive for life membership and for funds be inaugurated directly after the annual meeting in December next.

The proposition made by John D. Avery whose letter was read at a previous meeting, that is, for each bond holder to release to the society the interest soon due on the amount of each bond up to $300 dollars for one year is recommended.

A suggestion was considered whereby holders of $10 and $15 tickets be asked to pay the difference between these amounts and the current price of $35 for life members, which while aiding the society very materially, the holders would automatically enjoy the full privileges which the higher priced tickets give.

Your committee strongly recommends a canvass both for the voluntary assessment of the bond interest; the revalueing of the life membership tickets, the drive in December for life members and a canvass for funds in February next.

Most respectfully,

FRANK T. MAPLES.

Chairman of the sub-committee.

At a meeting of your committee held in the town hall on Monday evening, November 15, 1926, the foregoing report was unanimously adopted by the committee.

FRANK T. MAPLES.

The report as read by Mr. Maples was unanimously adopted without discussion after which the meeting adjourned.

MORE TUBERCULOSIS "DON'TS" FOR THE GENERAL PUBLIC

In the hope that the general public may appreciate the value of team work in the fight to eliminate tuberculosis from human society these "don'ts" for the early symptoms of tuberculosis have been published:

Don't think that because you know of no cases of tuberculosis in your own family the tubercle bacillus is a respector of persons. He is not.

Don't think that because you are fat and husky your chronic cough and "tired feeling" cannot be due to tuberculosis. It may be.

Don't think that if you spit a little blood it comes from the nose or throat and not from the lungs. Find out.

Don't think that you can wear out your cough and tired feeling. If it is caused by tuberculosis, it can't be done.

Don't think there is any sense or reason in not consulting a doctor because you are afraid he will tell you that you have tuberculosis. You are fooling yourself and killing your chances for cure.

Don't think that although you have a persistent cough, general "tired feeling," loss of weight and appetite, night sweats or chills, et cetera, that you haven't got tuberculosis. Be examined by a good doctor or go to the nearest lung clinic.

Don't think of the doctor who examines you fails to require you to remove your clothing from the chest you have had a fair examination. You have not.

Don't think that if you have been given a cough medicine and a tonic there is nothing more to be done. There is.

Every Tuesday afternoon a chest clinic is held at No. 9 Washington street, under the supervision of the state sanatorium. At this clinic all cases which can not afford the fee of a specialist are given free examination.

MAKING APPEAL FOR RED CROSS MEMBERSHIP

The officers of the Norwich chapter of the Red Cross are depending upon the generosity of those to whom the appeal for membership will be presented either through the mail or by a personal approach at the banks, so that as a result a more extensive program of activities may be outlined for the coming year. The sizes of the program of service will be limited only in extent by the resources made available through the membership campaign now in progress. It is hoped by the local officers that every one will become members and have a personal pride in the fact that it is their Red Cross, as most of the money obtained is used to alleviate needs which present themselves right here in our own community.

The American Red Cross cannot fail. The charter granted by the United States congress says, not that the Red Cross may, but that it must perform certain services. And it always does! When you as a member of this humanitarian organization pay your yearly dues you help carry out the tremendous duties required of it. Read below the varied activities the Red Cross undertakes in its mission of human mercy. What better way can you spend a dollar?

In the past 45 years, it has expended $50,000,000 for relief work following disasters. During the current year it has directed or participated in relief work in 90 catastrophes.

Since the armistice it has expended $57,020,000 for services to the disabled veterans of the World war and to the men of the regular army and navy. It is now assisting an average of more than 75,000 disabled veterans and their families each month.

To more than 349,000 soldiers, sailors and mariner on active duty it continues to give the same supplementary volunteer relief and home service it gave during the World war.

Abroad it represents the American people in works of mercy when great catastrophes cause abnormal suffering. It was the agent of America in extending relief to victims of 28 disasters in foreign lands during the past year.

It maintains an enrolled reserve of more than 48,000 nurses available in emergency to the army, navy, U. S. public health service and veterans' bureau, and for service in epidemics.

Within the year an average of 832 Red Cross public health nurses have aided in the care of the sick, guarded the health of children and fostered understanding of personal and community hygiene.

35,000 women, girls and boys have completed courses in home hygiene and care of the sick under Red Cross direction the past year. More than 422,000 have received this instruction since the activity was initiated.

Through its nutrition service it helps promote individual and community health by teaching the principles of a sound nutrition; 113,000 children and 5,000 adults have been taught the importance of proper use of foods the past year.

More than 29,000 men, women and youths have received training in effective methods of rescuing and reviving the drowning; 20,000 completed the Red Cross course in first aid during the year.

In 535 communities the Red Cross chapter is the only family welfare agency.

In the Junior Red Cross more than 5,500,000 enrolled school children are learning the value of service to others. With the children of 40 other countries they are creating bonds of friendship and understanding.

It was the agent of America in extending relief to victims of 28 disasters in foreign lands during the past year.

STORRS COLLEGE GRAD TO WED COS COB GIRL

A special Tuesday to New York papers stated that the wedding of Miss Julia Agnes Loughlin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Timothy Loughlin of Cos Cob, and Hartford Webb, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard C. Webb of Greenwich is to take place in St. Catherine's Roman Catholic church, Riverside, Thursday morning at 10 o'clock, Rev. Nicholas P. Coleman, the pastor, will officiate. A reception will follow the ceremony at Ferncroft inn.

Miss Loughlin is a graduate of Greenwich high school and the College of New Rochelle, and Mr. Webb is a graduate of Connecticut state agricultural college at Storrs.

TRUCK BROKE AXLE IN FRANKLIN SQUARE

A motor delivery truck of Powers Bros., which George S. Powers was driving, had the right rear axle break while passing through Franklin square Tuesday evening about 6 o'clock. While coming over Laurel Hill avenue, with a heavy load in the truck two rear tires had blown out and Mr. Powers was obliged to drive the rest of the way to the center of the city on the rims. The strain and jar eventually resulted in the broken axle.

The disabled truck was taken out of the way by a wrecker.

WATER COMPANY MANAGERS HAVE DIFFICULT TASK

Managers of Connecticut water companies are often called upon to make decisions which require considerable tact in order to maintain the Connecticut committee on public service information, the water company manager always seeks to find the happy medium and by so doing usually pleases the greater part of the company's customers.

For instance, when chlorine is used to purify the water supply and to safeguard the public health, the water may take on somewhat of an unpleasant taste, and he is accused of doping the water. Yet if he neglected to use the chlorine he would be denounced for disregarding public safety. The same is true of the use of copper sulphate which is used to kill vegetable growths in the reservoirs and to remove odors and disagreeable tastes. When that chemical is used he is accused of killing off the fish in the water. If he did not use it, however, there would be numerous complaints about the taste of the water.

If the manager limits the use of lawn sprinklers, he is called a grouch, yet the same people who hurl that epithet at him would use worse ones were a shortage of water permitted to result. If he bans the public from the watershed areas which he must do to insure the purity of the supply, some people put up the cry that the watershed woodlands are public property and should be open for their use. The watersheds are not public property, however, and if trespassing were permitted, disease would break out and the manager would receive the blame.

PROVIDING MORE PROTECTION FOR CONNECTICUT FORESTS

Connecticut's forests will soon have the latest and most efficient form of protection, according to E. B. Calvert, chief of the weather forecasting division of forest protection, in Washington, D. C., in an interview at New Haven. Mr. Calvert is in New Haven in connection with the establishment of the new Adirondack and New England branch of this service.

"Over 250,000 acres of the fine forest land were burned this year," said Mr. Calvert, "and in the west, about 35 per cent of it was the result of lightning; the rest being the outcome of "human agency" of some sort—accident or undue carelessness in times of particular danger.

"It is the job of the weather forecasters who co-operate with the forest rangers, to tell them, and everyone else, of the coming of an unusually bad period. Sometimes an almost complete lack of humidity will so dry up the underbrush that it is well-nigh explosive. When these conditions are combined with high wind, the most extensive precautions are taken.

"Mills and logging works are actually closed down, and in their own interests the lumbermen spend several days at a time on the alert as potential fire-fighters. 'Slashing', or the burning, as required by law, of the branches and waste parts of felled trees, is omitted during the bad days. The government spends about $10,000,000 every year in the states of California, Oregon, Washington, Idaho and Montana, to protect the forests.

"Connecticut has not the same danger from lightning, because here most of the storms are accompanied by rain, but the number of people who can do damage is greatly increased, and dry spells are just as dangerous one place as another.

"F. C. Crombie has been put in charge of this district, with headquarters in Boston. He will work in close co-operation with the foresters, and in the New Haven district, for instance, with Leonard M. Tarr, who forecasts the weather."

TWO ARE CANDIDATES FOR CLERK OF BILLS

Frederick A. Scott of Plymouth and Milton C. Isbell of Ansonia will both be candidates for appointment as clerk of bills of the 1927 session of the general assembly, it was said Tuesday. The salary for this position was increased from $2,500 to $4,500 in 1925 on the assumption that the clerk of bills would do some work in the period between sessions of the legislature on revising the general statutes.

Alfred C. Baldwin of Derby, clerk of bills in 1925, was appointed to the superior court bench, however, and was unable to do this part of the work. The appointment of the clerk of bills and engrossing clerk are made at a joint meeting of the judiciary committee and the committee on engrossed bills. Mr. Scott, engrossing clerk in 1925, is a former speaker of the house, while Mr. Isbell, who has been law clerk of the judiciary committee for several sessions, is a judge of the city court of Ansonia.

PROSECUTION IS SPEEDING THE FALL-DOHENY OIL CASE

Claim is Made That Doheny Advanced $100,000 to Fall After Negotiations For Leases of the Elk Hills Naval Reserve Had Begun—Prominent Witnesses, Besides Edward B. McLean, Publisher of the Washington Post, Included Senator Walsh, Montana; Senator Lenroot and Josephus Daniels, Secretary of War in the Wilson Cabinet—Prosecution Lawyers Dwelt Upon the Efforts of Fall to Conceal From the Senate Committee the Source of the $100,000.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24.—(AP)—The searching finger of the prosecution pointed swiftly today to some of the most vital spots in the government's criminal conspiracy case against Albert B. Fall and Edward L. Doheny.

Then abruptly it was halted as it moved to perhaps the most important point of all, the testimony of the multi-millionaire California oil man before the senate oil committee that he advanced $100,000 to the former interior secretary after negotiations for leases in the Elk Hills, California, naval reserve had begun.

Counsel for the government offered this testimony in evidence and instantly defense counsel objected. The jury was excused and after the battery of legal talent directing the case had conferred with Justice Hoehling at the bench argument on the question went over until court reconvenes Friday.

The defense bases its objection on a special statute which it claims prohibits the use in a criminal prosecution of testimony given by an accused man before a congressional committee except that a charge of perjury be brought as a result of that testimony.

Special counsel for the government declined to disclose their hand in advance of the presentation of their argument as to why the testimony is admissible. They were careful to have all of the official record of the testimony sworn to and corrected by the official shorthand reporters before offering it.

Before their rapid presentation was halted temporarily, prosecution lawyers had developed the dramatic story of the efforts of Fall to conceal from the senate committee the source of the $100,000, carrying the story down to the point where he asked his personal friend, Edward B. McLean, publisher of the Washington Post, to subscribe to an untruth.

Besides McLean, prominent witnesses today included Senator Walsh, Democrat, Montana, prosecutor of the senate inquiry; Senator Lenroot, republican, Wisconsin, a member of the oil committee and Josephus Daniels, secretary of the navy in the Wilson administration.

The millionaire publisher's testimony furnished the thrills of the day to which the brief examination of Senator Walsh came as an anti-climax. As the dignified, stern-faced Montanan took the witness chair, the crowd that packed the court room became tense in anticipation of a long direct and cross-examination of the man who persisted in the oil inquiry until a scandal that rocked the capital was developed.

If such a dramatic chapter of the trial is in store, lawyers on both sides deferred its writing, for Senator Walsh was asked only a few questions in reply to which he stated that he caused to be called the meeting of the oil committee on January 24, 1924, at which Doheny testified he was the real source of the $100,000 which Fall used to enlarge his New Mexico ranch holdings.

This meeting was called the senator said, at the personal request to him of Gavin McNabb of San Francisco, Doheny's personal attorney. There was no cross-examination and then government counsel laid the ground work for offering Doheny's testimony.

Preceding Senator Walsh to the stand, McLean produced correspondence passed in early November, 1921, in which he declined a proposal of Fall to interest himself in ranch holdings adjacent to those of the former interior secretary. They addressed each other as "Ned" and "Albert".

Shortly after that Fall called on the publisher personally and persuaded him to advance $100,000 in checks against Fall's personal note which was to be called within ten days unless McLean decided to go into the ranch proposal. Before that period expired, McLean said, Fall returned the checks, explaining he had obtained the money "from another source."

The scene was changed abruptly to Atlantic City where McLean met Fall at the latter's request early in December, 1923, when the senate committee was on the trail of the money Fall had turned over to the Harris heirs for their ranch property.

The publisher testified Fall asked him if he remembered the transaction involving the checks and when answered in the affirmative inquired whether McLean objected if he said he had obtained $100,000 in cash from him. No objection was interposed.

Florida was the next meeting place between Fall and McLean the time being early in January, 1924, when Senator Walsh went there and obtained McLean's statement that he had not advanced Fall cash. Before Walsh took his testimony, McLean said he had two conferences with Fall and was told to tell the facts.

At the second conference, the publisher said the former interior secretary showed him a message which Fall said he was going to show to Doheny in Los Angeles and which stated that McLean was to testify, but the facts would come out, that he (Fall) might be called, but that names not necessarily be disclosed.

"What did you say?" demanded Senator Pomerene, of government counsel.

"I said, 'I'll be damned'," the publisher replied amid a titter of laughter which the court bailiff quickly suppressed.

Before McLean was called, Senator Lenroot had told of a visit which he and Senator Smoot, republican, Utah, another member of the senate oil committee, had made to Fall at the Wardman Park hotel a day or two before Christmas, 1923, at which they were informed McLean was the source of the funds.

Senator Lenroot, who then was chairman of the senate committee, said he had gone to see Fall at the request of Senator Smoot, had found him with a trained nurse in attendance, and had urged him to appear before the committee and tell the source of the funds.

At that time the committee knew about a $100,000 transaction, but Senator Lenroot said Fall told them he had taken $100,000 in cash west from the Wardman Park. He also quoted Fall as saying the whole thing was a private transaction, but that he would tell all about it except the name of the man who loaned him the money.

Before developing this long line of testimony, the prosecution put into evidence the payment by Fall of $91,-500 to Will Ed Harris and other heirs to the Harris ranch for that property, including a first cash payment of $10,000 in $100 bills.

Correspondence and official documents read into the record showed that Fall and Doheny had negotiations about storage of naval oil at Pearl Harbor, Hawaii, before Doheny loaned Fall the $100,000. Doheny writing Fall under date of November 23, 1921, in which prices for storing the oil were quoted.

On the next day Fall wrote Captain J. K. Robinson, in charge of oil questions for the navy, suggesting that additional leases be given to Doheny's company under a lower royalty than then obtained because the Pan American company was "losing money" on the first leases for fourteen off-set wells in Elk Hills, signed in the summer of 1921.

Before the leases for those 14 wells were written, Fall had written to the Pacific Oil company of San Francisco, that it was the policy of the government not to have any more drillings in the California reserves, than those necessary to prevent drainage of the reserves by private wells on adjacent territory.

SQUABBLES THAT MARRED THE TOUR OF QUEEN MARIE

NEW YORK, Nov. 24.—(AP)—In spite of Queen Marie's departing statement that "every moment in America was a happy one," she left behind her a trail of impaired friendships among those who through personal loyalty squabbled over how best to serve her.

Disagreement at the outset of her transcontinental jaunt remained unhealed, despite the queen's repeated employment of the diplomatic acumen for which she is famous abroad. In public utterances as well as in personal contact, the queen demanded friendships which she said might seem strange to others.

The first disturbance came in New York soon after Marie's arrival, when it became known that half of the proceeds of a Metropolitan opera performance by the Lois Fuller dancers, which the queen attended, were to go to Miss Fuller. An upheaval in New York society among patrons of the performance was followed by disclosure that the queen's itinerary linked up several cities where similar performances were to be given. The same performance had already been presented for the queen once previously at the sesqui-centennial exposition in Philadelphia. However, the ballet was never presented again, although Marie had planned to attend a performance in Atlantic City, had she not curtailed her trip.

At Vancouver trouble arose over the published statement of J. A. Ayers, Ford representative charged with supplying the royal visitor with automobile transportation, that Ford was supplying this transportation, and "incidental expenses of the trip," to the tune of $500,000. He was dropped from the train at Seattle. Subsequently, on the queen's return to New York, he was restored to favor, and accompanied the Princess Ileana on her moto trips to Tuxedo and West Point, and was present to bid the party farewell upon its sailin.

CAMPAIGN EXPENSES FILED WITH CLERKS OF HOUSE

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24.—(AP)—The biennial deluge of campaign expense filing overtook house clerks today when more than half of the members certified expenditure statements as required by law.

The expense accounts by states include:

Connecticut: Fenn, $1,186; Freeman, $502; Tilson, $500; Merritt, 1,535.

Massachusetts: Treadway, $476; Bowles, $1,405; Foss, $472; Rogers, $3,440; Andrew, $335; Connery, $736; Dallinger, $175; Tinkham, $950; Gallivan and Douglass, nothing; Luce, $400; Frothingham, $1,082; Gifford, $88.

Vermont: Brigham, $250; Gibson, $116.

BINGHAM FOR PERMANENT GOV'T IN VIRGIN ISLANDS

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24.—(AP)—A permanent form of government for the Virgin Islands is proposed in a bill to be introduced by Senator Bingham, republican, Connecticut. The measure grants rights of citizenship to the 26,000 natives; a bill of rights and an organic act; permanent non-appliance of the coastwise shipping laws; and virtually makes St. Thomas, the capital, a free port.

Continuance of the tax on sugar exported to the United States is recommended in the act.

The islands were purchased by the United States from Denmark in 1917.

LISBON, Nov. 24.— [illegible] small ships foundered [illegible] were in danger as a result of [illegible] seas caused by violent storms which swept the cost of Portugal.

BUCHAREST, Rumania, Nov. 24.—(AP)—Former Crown Prince Carol is to be warned by ex-Premier Bratiano, it is reported in the Press, against any thought of returning to Rumania in hope of regaining his right of succession to the throne, which he renounced last January.

BRISTOL, England, Nov. 24.—(AP)—From the platform where his father, Joseph Chamberlain, made his last public speech 21 years ago, Sir Austen Chamberlain, the British foreign minister, declared that in time of stress and trouble the seven self-governing nations of the British empire would stand one and undivided before the world.

ROME, Nov. 24.—(AP)—The sacred Rota tribunal has begun proceedings in the plea for annulment of the marriage between William Marconi, noted wireless inventor and the Honorable Beatrice O'Brien, dauhter of the 14th baron in Chiquin. The couple were married in 1905, and the marriage was dissolved in 1924. Three children were born of the union.

MOTHER GAVE BLESSING AFTER SPANKING BRIDE

CAMDEN, N. J., Nov. 24.—(AP)—An old fashioned spanking, tears, smiles, forgiveness and reunion with her husband of two days were experienced within two hours in the detention room of the Camden city hall today by a 15-year old bride.

The spanking was administered by Mrs. Margaret Scott, of Port Jervis, N. Y., mother of the former Frances E. Scott. It was prompted by the girl's refusal to return home.

With her husband, Russell Blessing, 21, of Philadelphia, the young bride had been detained since Monday night. They had been married a few hours earlier in Elkton, Md.

The bride's mother arrived here today with Steven Campbell, assistant chief of police of Port Jervis, prepared to press a charge of abduction against Blessing and to take his wife back to the New York town.

"What do you mean by running away, young lady?" inquired the mother. "Come, you're going back home with me."

"I am not," declared the girl.

"I love Russell and I am going to stay with him, and if you force us apart, I'll run away again, or I'll kill myself."

"You'll what?" exclaimed Mrs. Scott as she approached the girl, swung her daughter over her knee and spanked her. Blue eyes, filled with tears, fashionably shod feet kicked up and down and blonde bobbed locks shook defiantly.

A few minutes later Mrs. Emma Blessing, mother of the bridegroom arrived to visit her son. Then the two mothers and the newly weds went into council. Frances stuck to her ultimatum and the mothers gradually relented, finally giving their blessing.

MURDER AND LOOTING BY CHINESE PIRATES

HONGKONG, Nov. 24.—(AP)—Chinese pirates have murdered and looted aboard another passenger vessel in Chinese waters. Twelve of them, posing as passengers on the steamer Waihoi, bound from Kongmoon for Yuenkong, attacked the ship's officers and Chinese soldier guards on Nov. 21, killed a number of them, ran the vessel ashore and robbed the passengers.

On the Waihoi was Father W. A. Fletcher, of the Maryknoll mission, and seven Canadian nuns. They were not only robbed of their personal possessions, but spent two and a half days cooped up in a narrow stateroom. Even the shoes worn by the priest and the sisters were taken. They were otherwise brutally treated, and on their return to Kongmoon it was found that four of the sisters were in a serious condition.

After the Waihoi was abandoned by the original gang of pirates, other pirates boarded the vessel, leaving it a virtual wreck, but giving no aid or assistance to the passengers who had been made prisoners. Eventually the pirates fled to the hills, taking all the food and medical supplies with them.

BORAH DOESN'T VISUALIZE ANY BREAK WITH MEXICO

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24—(AP)—While bleak official silence met every attempt to disclose the Washington administration's intentions in the Mexican crisis, Senator Borah of Idaho, chairman of the senate foreign relations committee, today published his views on the situation, declaring his disbelief that there "is going to be any break with Mexico."

The state department's position was that Mexico had agreed to the publication of the oil and land law correspondence and that spoke for itself. On the other hand, however the Idaho senator said after reading the correspondence that he had not found "any threat of any ultimatum."

Senator Fess, republican, Ohio, and Senator Norris, republican, Nebraska, also issued brief statements. The Ohioan said if American rights in Mexico are placed in jeopardy "we should sever relations," but he added that so far "they are not placed in jeopardy." Senator Norris declared he did not believe the "stern attitude of the state department was justified."

RAINS CAUSE LANDSLIDES IN ALPS MARITIMES DEPT.

NICE, France, Nov. 24.—(AP)—Landslides caused by recent torrential rains have wrecked the mountain villages of Roquevilliers and Belvidere, in the Alps maritime department. At least 40 persons perished.

The principal destruction was at Roquevilliers where a vast avalanche of earth, rocks and mud, extending over a half of a mile, swept down on the village with its 1500 inhabitants. The entire village has been evacuated, and 30 are known to be dead at this place. Some houses undermined by a torrent from the Vesubie river, fell shortly before the others were crushed by the slide.

JEWELRY VALUED AT $2,500 WAS STOLEN IN HARTFORD

HARTFORD, Nov. 24—(AP)—Jewelry valued at $2,500 was stolen early this morning from the jewelry shop of George Greenwald at 32 Asylum street by a thief who broke a hole through a show-window. The theft was discovered by Officer E. R. Gosselin at 4:50 a. m. The policeman said he had previously passed the place at 2:45 a. m., and found the window intact. Detective Sergeant James H. Moriarity was detailed to investigate the theft.

Fail to Make Non-Stop Flight to Colon, C. Z.

One Navy Seaplane Forced Down on the Isle of Pines—The Other Found in the Caribbean Sea.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24.—(AP)—The PN-10 No. 1, missing navy seaplane attempting a non-stop flight from Norfolk, Va., to Colon, Panama, has been found, the navy department was informed tonight.

Although the message, which was received at 11.10 p. m., tonight by the navy, did not mention the fact, all four members of her crew are believed safe.

The cruiser Cincinnati found the machine with a connecting rod broken on her starboard engine at 9.25 p. m., on the Caribbean sea, 213 miles south of the Isle of Pines, between the Isle and Old Providence Island, the next to the last leg mapped out for the flight.

The exact position of the plane was given as latitude 17.54 and longitude 82.24.

Late unofficial computations by naval officials placed the distance traveled by the PN-10 No. 1, at about 1,440 miles, although earlier tabulations, on the basis of a 1,600 hop from Norfolk to the Isle of Pines, would have given her a non-stop flight of approximately 1,713 miles, 247 short of the 2,000 laid out for the complete journey, and 28 shy of the record of late Commander John Rodgers.

The plane was picked up 22 miles west of the line of flight originally laid out and after a sweeping search had been ordered several hours earlier by the navy department.

CONDENNSED REPORT OF THE HALL-MILLS MURDER CASE

COURTHOUSE, Somerville, N. J., Nov. 24.—(AP)—Henry De La Bruyere Carpender was called as a witness but had answered only a few preliminary questions when a legal tangle ensued over the admissibility of the testimony. The decision went over.

Another discussion came on the fixing of a time for cross-examination of fingerprint experts, the defense wanting the program for today followed while the state sought postponement. Announcement was made that the cross examination will begin Friday morning.

Defense moved admission of alleged navy and marine corps records of Henry L. Dickman, state's witness, decision being reserved.

Court adjourned until Friday morning.

BOY FATALLY CRUSHED UNDER WHEEL OF TRUCK

NEW BRITAIN, Nov. 24—(AP)—Caught under a truck where he had gone to pick up fallen potatoes, and then pinned beneath a wheel when the truck stopped suddenly, five-year-old Joseph Septra received internal injuries from which he died before reaching the hospital. The driver of the truck, Thomas Rigney, of Hartford, was held under bond of $1,000 for his appearance tomorrow morning on a charge of criminal negligence. While Rigney was delivering potatoes at the house of a neighbor of the boy's parents, Joseph crawled under the truck. Not seeing the boy when he came back, Rigney started the truck, but stopped so suddenly when he heard the screams of other children that a wheel stopped on the boy's body.

GILT EDGE BEVERAGE COMPANY IS BANKRUPT

BOSTON, Nov. 24.—(AP)—The Gilt Edge Beverage company of Lawrence was today petitioned into bankruptcy in federal court here by four creditors, all of Lawrence. Claims were filed by the Gilt Edge Warehouse company for $18.00 0for rent; Emil M. Tuchert for $3,300 for labor and materials; the E. W. Pitman company for $3,650, and the Lawrence Gas and Electric company for $21.61.

These creditors charge the beverage company paid $910 to the O'Brien Brothers on Aug. 26 while insolvent and in preference to other creditors.

Official Canvass of the State Election

Of the Enrolled Vote 63.76 Per Cent Cast Ballots—Middlesex County Made Best Showing.

HARTFORD, Nov. 24.—(AP)—Connecticut cast 63.76 per cent of the enrolled vote of the state in the November election, according to the official returns of the Nov. 3 voting made to the secretary of the state and officially canvassed today. In 1922, the last previous "off year" election, 74.66 per cent of the registered vote was cast, while two years ago, with the added interest of a presidential election, 83.23 per cent of the registered vote went to the polls.

The official returns show pluralities for the republican candidates voted on throughout the state ranging from 88,643 for United States Senator Hiram Bingham to 87,092 for Comptroller Frederick M. Salmon who had the greatest margin of any of the candidates.

Middlesex county made the best showing in the percentage of the registered vote cast, 75.61 per cent of the electors in that county going to the polls. Tolland county ranked 74.79 per cent. Fairfield county was the only one of the eight counties where the vote cast fell below 60 per cent of the number enrolled, the figure for that district being 58.96 per cent. Figure for the other counties are: New Haven, 67.02; Litchfield, 64.37; New London, 68.13; Windham, 63.05; Hartford, 61.12.

The socialist state ticket had on the average a few more than 100 votes more than the 1 per cent of the total vote necessary for them to retain their place on the ballot in the next state election. Helen B. Gilman, socialist candidate for secretary of the state, and the only woman candidate for a major state office led the socialist ticket, receiving 3,216 votes, twenty four more than were cast for the socialist candidate for governor who ran second.

There were 27 votes cast for candidates for state offices who had not been nominated, according to the official returns, two or more votes of this character appearing in the returns of every county except Litchfield and Tolland where voters without exception refrained from writing in names for state offices.

The statements of the presiding officers at the polls to the secretary of the state show a decrease of 5,895 in the number of enrolled voters in the state from the number eligible to vote in the presidential election in 1924. Although 25,00 new voters were made in October for the state election, many of these were persons who had changed their residence within the state. The remainder of the shrinkage is accounted for by the practice of registrars of voters in being more careful in removing names of voters who have died, moved from their towns, or lost their franchise through conviction of crime, in "off years" when registrars are less busy than in the presidential election years. Returns from the moderators at the election this year show a voting population of 477,805, compared with 440,-810 in 1922, th last off year, 483,700 for the presidential election in 1924 and 483,808 for the special election for United States senator in December 1924.

PERNICIOUS ANAEMIA WAS FATAL TO LEONID KRASSIN

LONDON, Nov. 24—(AP)—Despite the heroic efforts of Lord Dawson, the king's personal physician, to save the life of Leonid Krassin, the soviet envoy died today in the old czarist embassy from pernicious anaemia. In his death British officials see the passing of an abate diplomat who was expected to do much toward re-establishing the relations of Russia with the western nations.

The body will be sent to Moscow, where the "economic dictator" will be honored with a state funeral.

Leonid Krassin was an influential figure wherever he served and although his full ambassadorial status was not recognised by the British government, he was accorded all the diplomatic courtesies. He possessed a powerful personality and was looked upon by the British foreign office as a responsible diplomat, to whom reason and common sense as well as business acumen appealed.

NOTICES FOR CEREMONY OF THE TALL CEDARS

WATERBURY, Nov. 24—(AP)—Notices of the annual ceremony of the Tall Cedars of Lebanon, a side degree of the Masonic order, to be held here on December 4, have been sent out. This city is headquarters for the single lodge of the order in this state, with thousands of members. The ceremony will open in the evening with a parade, and later a large group of candidates will be taken into the order.

Let Us Give Thanks

For peaceful vales that lie between
The hills bathed in unclouded light.
For harvests with their golden sheen,
The earth's increase that greets the sight;
We thank Thee, Giver of every true
And perfect gift that fills our days;
Our vows to Thee we now renew,
And lift the voice in tuneful praise.

But let not too much thought of self
Obscure and hide the ones in need,
In other lands where pride and pelf
Are placed above the kindly deed.
We thank Thee for the generous store,
The fruited boughs, the golden grain;
Nor shall the stranger at our door
Knock in distress, and all in vain!

—Alonzo Rice.

EXPLANATION FROM ROME OF MARRIAGE ANNULMENT

Sentence of the Roman Catholic Holy Tribunal of Rota Was Based on the Fact That the Now Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont Had Coerced Her Daughter, Consuelo Vanderbilt, Into Marriage With the Duke of Marlborough—Previously, by Dire Threats, the Mother Had Torn Consuelo From Her Youthful Sweetheart.

ROME, Nov. 24—(AP)—Annulment of the marriage in 1895 of Consuelo Vanderbilt and the Duke of Marlborough was based on evidence that the young society girl, then but 17, was torn from an American sweetheart and forced into the Marlborough marriage by her mother, now Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont.

The sentence of the Roman Catholic holy tribunal of Rota, as made public today, states that Consuelo's mother, herself admitté dbefore the examining body that she had commended her daughter to marry the duke.

The name of Consuelo's youthful sweetheart was given simply as "Rutherford."

On one occasion, the sentence says, the then Mrs. Vanderbilt threatened that if Consuelo eloped with Rutherford, she would kill him on the first occasion and would be imprisoned and hanged for the crime, her daughter being thus responsible for the tragedy. At another time Consuelo's mother declared that she would die if her daughter did not marry Marlborough.

The decision of Rota also reveals that Consuelo's mother, fearing at the last moment that her daughter might refuse outright to marry the duke, placed a person at her door to prevent anyone from approaching or speaking to her. The Duke of Marlborough himself told the examining body that scarcely twenty days after the marriage Consuelo had told him that she married him only because she had been compelled to.

All these circumstances, the sentence found, indicated that Consuelo did not have the necessary liberty to contract a valid marriage and that consequently an annulment was justified.

The first sentence concluding in favor of annulment of the marriage was given by the diocesan court of Southwark on February 9th, 1926. The defender of the bond, as prescribed by Canon law, appealed to Rota which re-examined the entire case, ascertaining the following "facts":

Consuelo Vanderbilt, aged 17, was secretly engaged to Rutherford. Her mother, on learning it, strongly opposed it, wishing to find for her daughter a husband with a splendid name. Having met the Duke of Marlborough in London, she thought she had found what she was looking for and for this reason invited him to her summer home in Newport. The duke went there in September, 1895, and remained a fortnight.

On the eve of Marlborough's departure for a tour of the United States he asked for Consuelo's hand. Consuelo, the evidence said, burst into tears and tried to convince her mother to "consent to have her refuse." All her efforts met with a denial by the mother who, on the day after the duke's departure, announced the engagement of her daughter to him in the newspapers.

Marlborough returned a few days before the date of the marriage which occurred on November 6, 1895, being performed by a Protestant minister.

Two children were born, but ten years after the marriage, the couple separated. Their divorce occurred in 1920, both afterwards remarrying.

"Proof of the nullity of the marriage was given by uniform depositions of all of those interested or participating in the circumstances which led to the marriage," Rota's sentence said. Consuelo declared that "her mother tore her away from her sweetheart, intercepted their letters, caused continuous scenes, stated that she would die if Consuelo did not marry Marlborough and affirming that she had no right of choosing her husband but had the duty to accept the husband chosen by her mother."

"These statements were confirmed by all the witnesses, including the husband," the decision says, adding that Marlborough admitted that exactly twenty days after the marriage his wife told him that she had married him only because her mother had compelled her. Consuelo's mother herself confirmed this version, stating that she had forced her daughter to marry the duke, not begging her to do so, but commanding her. Similar statements were made by Mrs. Tiffany, Consuelo's aunt, and Mrs. Lucy Jay.

WINTHROP RUTHERFURD CONSUELO'S SWEETHEART

NEW YORK, Nov. 24—(AP)—Winthrop Rutherfurd, a descendant of Peter Stuyvesant, last Dutch governor of New York, was the young American with whom Consuelo Vanderbilt was in love when she married the Duke of Marlborough in 1895, says the New York World.

"Yes," the World quotes Winthrop Rutherfurd as saying, "some 30 years ago I knew Miss Vanderbilt and I was one of her great admirers."

Mr. Rutherfurd now is the owner of a 1,000 acre home in New Jersey and another at Aiken, South Carolina and is landlord likewise of numerous tenements on the East Side in New York.

The official report of the annulment proceedings before the Roman Rota reveals that Consuelo's mother, Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont commanded her 17-year-old daughter to marry the duke and broke up her love affair with the American to whom she is reported to have been secretly engaged.

At the time he became an admirer of Consuelo Vanderbilt, Rutherfurd was about 30. He was over 6 ft. tall, an athletic figure and was considered handsome.

Before Consuelo's engagement to the duke was finally announced by her mother, says the World, it was rumored that Rutherfurd at least once had asked her to marry him, but it was not known until now that they were ever engaged. His attentions to her at the time were generally noticed.

For seven years after the Marlborough-Vanderbilt wedding, Rutherfurd remained a bachelor. In 1902, when he was about 40, he married Alice Morton, the youngest daughter of Levi P. Morton, governor of New York in 1894. Mrs. Rutherfurd died in 1917. In 1923 Rutherfurd was married for the second time to Miss Lucy P. Mercer.

POSSIBLE SUCCESSORS TO AMBASSADOR BERENGER

PARIS, Nov. 24.—(AP)—Three authentic counts today were leading in the field of possible successors to Henry Berenger as French ambassador to the United States.

The decision of M. Berenger yesterday not to accept reappointment to the post, but to devote his energy toward the ratification of the American debt settlement made in his name, has resulted in much speculation in political circles as to his successor, with the three members of the nobility well in the lead.

Count Robert De Billy, minister to Rumania and a cousin of Edouard De Billy, members of the French mission to the United States during the war, has precedence as far as the diplomatic service is concerned, and will be named if the natural order of promotion is observed.

Count Charles De Chambrun, minister to Greece and a descendant of Lafayette, is second on the list. He was born in Washington. The third is Count Francois De Jean, former councillor at the French embassy in Washington and now director of American affairs in the foreign ministry.

"COLLEGE BOOTLEGGER" SENTENCED IN NEW HAVEN

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Nov. 24.—(AP)—Ernest Erickson, known as a "college bootlegger" and who boasted that his arrest would bring him the one-half of the student trade he did not already have, was fined $200 and costs and sentenced to 30 days in jail in city court today. When he was arrested Nov. 18, the police seized his $16,000 stock of liquors. Erickson was convicted on a charge of violation of the liquor laws and on a charge of transporting liquor. He was bound over to the superior court under bonds of $1,000.

Erickson was arrested near the Yale buildings after a complaint had been made by the mother of a student that he was peddling his wares in the students' rooms. When arrested Erickson was carrying a sample case containing about 12 quarts of liquor.

NEW EVIDENCE GLEANED IN LYNCHING OF NEGROES

COLUMBIA, S. C., Nov. 24.—(AP)—The finding of new evidence implicating members of the mob that lynched three negroes at Aiken last month, and definite action within a week or ten days in the investigation was indicated today by Governor McLeod.

The new evidence is said to implicate additional participants in the lynching who had not been mentioned in the affidavits. The lynchings occurred Oct. 5, Bertha, Demon and Clarence Lowman, alleged slayers of a policeman, being taken out of the jail and shot to death.

HOW PRESIDENT COOLIDGE WILL SPEND THANKSGIVING

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24—(AP)—Thanksgiving is not expected to be exclusively a holiday for President Coolidge.

If he follows his custom of past holidays, he will go to his office for a short time in the morning and it is understood he plans to spent several hours in the afternoon at work on his annual message to congress.

The President and Mrs. Coolidge, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Frank W. Stearns of Boston, who are house guests at the white house, will attend union Methodist services at the Metropolitan Memorial Methodist Episcopal church during the morning. The four will have Thanksgiving dinner at the white house in the evening when a 34 pound turkey, presented by Governor Baker of Missouri, will grace the table. Four other turkeys are in the fee box, so the traditional Thanksgiving fare will not be lacking at the executive mansion. Three were sent from Mount Pleasant, Ohio, and one from Ipswich, Mass.

Although the president is a member of the First Congregational church, he is to depart from custom, and attend the Methodist services upon invitation of Bishop William F. McDowell of Washington, who will preach the sermon. Several members of the cabinet and other high government officials also plan to attend.

CANADIAN R. R. EMPLOYES STILL DEBATING STRIKE

MONTREAL, Que., Nov. 24.—(AP)—Representatives of conductors, trainmen and yardmen adjourned a five-hour closed door session today, after failure to reach a decision on calling a strike on Canadian railways.

The conference will be resumed tomorrow.

Although leaders of the organizations represented evaded newspaper men, it is understood many representatives favored waiting before calling a strike until the question of United States rates of pay is disposed of Dec. 1.

The contention of the men is that railroad work is harder in Canada and pay lower than in the United States.

JERRY THE POLE GUILTY OF FIRST DEGREE MURDER

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Nov. 24—(AP)—Jerry Gedsium, alias Jerry the Pole, was found guilty of murder in the first degree by a superior court jury here tonight. The crime carries a penalty of death in the electric chair, but the defendant greeted the verdict with a rooked grin and amazed "Can you imagine that?" to the courtroom at large as the jury filed out.

Gedsium was convicted of the murder of Edward C. Rose, 19 year old messenger of the Central Trust company of Cambridge in a payroll hold-up here on September 23, 1924.

ROBITAILLE CASE WILL GO TO JURY ON FRIDAY

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Nov. 24—The testimony in the case of Alfred Rooney vs. Charles Robitaille, a damage suit for $10,000 which is being heard before a jury in the Windham county superior court was completed today. The plaintiff side rested in the forenoon having started and gotten in most of its evidence Tuesday. Wednesday morning after the jury had been polled at 10.15 o'clock, the plaintiff was recalled and he repeated his statement that the accident happened on the evening of December 14, 1925 at 6.15 o'clock and that a street light was burning near the scene in the village of Moosup. Rooney was struck down and injured by a car driven by Robitaille, Attorney W. A. King, who with Attorney Harry Back represented the plaintiff, offered a carbon copy statement made by the defendant in his report to the state motor vehicle department of the accident filed on December 16, 1925. Engineer William R. Pike and Mrs. Alfred Rooney were also recalled to the stand.

Charles Robitaille, the defendant, testified that he was a resident of Moosup at the time of the accident. He had driven a car for four years. He said that on the night in question he left his home at 6.10 p. m. to go to the Moosup post office. The lights of his car showed 50 feet ahead. Suddenly he saw Rooney directly ahead, when, he alleged, the man stepped into the highway from the rear of a parked car. Robitaille said he applied his brakes and that he was on the right side of the road. When he assisted Rooney he stated that the latter exclaimed that "It was my fault. I should not have been in the road."

Edward Eno of Moosup said that Rooney was lying about the center of the road when he and Dewie Shippee, a plaintiff witness, passed the scene in Shippee's car. Both went back and gave assistance.

Arthur Russell of Sterling testified to having seen Rooney being picked up after the accident.

Henry J. Bessette, first selectman of the town of Plainfield stated that Rooney had worked for the town during the months of September and October until November 6 at the rate of four dollars a day, for which he had received $200. The rebuttal testimony closed at 11.15 o'clock when Judge Baldwin ordered a short recess before arguments by attorneys were to begin. During this recess a conference of the parties interested and the attorneys, King and Back for the plaintiff and Howard C. Bradford for the defense, was held but no settlement reached.

When court reopened Judge Baldwin addressed the jury and explained that in as much as it was probable that the arguments would be lengthy as well as his charge to the jury, he would adjourn court until Friday morning at 10 o'clock. Judge Baldwin also took into consideration that the day was the eve of a holiday and that the jurymen were possibly anxious to be released temporarily.

Returning to her home at 37 Quarry street from the Willimantic cemetery at 1.30 o'clock Wednesday afternoon, where she had gone to place flowers on the grave of her son, Mrs. William E. Jackson, wife of County Detective William E. Jackson, was stricken with a weak spell and the Hudson brougham which she was driving collided with a telephone pole on Mansfield avenue. Mrs. Jackson was thrown forcibly against the steering wheel by the impact and she sustained painful injuries on her chest and arms and minor cuts about the body. The accident occurred opposite the Vandemag Manufacturing company plant. Mrs. Jackson was taken to her home and a physician summoned. The front part of the car was quite badly damaged and it was hauled to a garage.

A two story and one half brick dwelling house owned and occupied by Christopher Mannick and family on Holbrook avenue and was badly gutted by fire which broke out from an unknown cause while the occupants were away shortly after two o'clock Wednesday afternoon. David Mannick, father of Christopher Mannick and resident of the neighboring house, was working out of doors when he noticed a blaze in an upper room. In answer to a telephone call three pieces of apparatus from Engine company No. 1 under command of Fire Chief Henry J. Kelly responded. Despite the fact that three lines of hose were played on the blaze and the pumper truck was put into operation to increase the water pressure. The firemen had to fight hard for over half an hour before getting the stubborn blaze under control. The fire was fanned by a stiff breeze which swept over the barren ridges in the vicinity. The entire roof caved in throwing a mass of burning debris onto the second story flooring. The rooms on the first floor were soaked with water. Mr. Mannick stated that he carried insurance on the building but none on the contents which he considers a total loss. The electric wiring proved to be correct and as there was but a very low fire in the furnace in the cellar it is thought that rodents might have started the fire in some manner. Mr. Mannick recovered a sum of money that she had left in the building.

Mrs. Carl Israel of Whiting street entertained Tuesday afternoon in honor of her son, Jay Burton Israel's fifth birthday. The rooms were decorated in pink and yelow. Favors were distributed, games played and refreshments served. Present were, Stanley Ballon, Sydney Horwitz, Richard Bartlee, Raymond Beller, Franklin Prague, Norman Prague, Charles Dondero, Jr., Burton Prague, Billie and Burton Israel, Frances Prague, Lois and Margie Kilburn, Mary Rae Dondero and Marjorie Mills.

Police Chief Thomas F. Grady stated Wednesday that there would be no inspection of applicants for motor vehicle drivers' licenses at police headquarters today (Thanksgiving day). An officer of the Stafford Springs state police barracks will be on duty for that purpose Friday from 8 a. m. to 5 p. m.

Nine tables were in play at an enjoyable whist held in the Al Pierre ballroom Tuesday night under the auspices of the W. B. A. of the Maccabees. Prize awardments were made as follows: First, Mrs. Minnie Flynn; second, Mrs. George Anthony; consolation, Mrs. Mary Rathburn. Mrs. Ida Grady received the door prize.

Henry Sypher of 9 Maple avenue who has been at his home recovering from an illness which caused his confinement in a government hospital has suffered a relapse and this week returned to the United States naval hospital at Brooklyn, N. Y. for further treatment. Mr. Sypher was in the U. S. navy during the world war.

That a few extra men at the Engine company, No. 1 headquarters on the fire department would not do any harm was evident shortly after two o'clock Wednesday afternoon when a telephone call for assistance was not answered because all members were out fighting the blaze at the Christopher Mannick residence on Holbrook avenue. The still alarm came in from the home of Peter Turansky at 71 Manners avenue where waste papers set near the furnace in the cellar caught afire. Men who were working in the neighborhood formed a bucket brigade and extinguished the blaze with pails of water before any damage was caused.

Rev. A. Stanley Muirhead of the Methodist church preached a Thanksgiving sermon at a largely attended Thanksgiving service of local Protestant churches held in St. Paul's Episcopal church Wednesday evening. A union choir and the Methodist quartet rendered selections.

Engine company, No. 1 was called out at 9.30 o'clock Wednesday morning for a small blaze in the basement of the building at 923 Main street owned by Jackson & Sumner and occupied by the D. & R. Motor Company. No damage was done.

Many Thanksgiving dinners have been distributed to needy families in the city by groups of students from the Willimantic normal school.

At the second of series of whists held at St. Paul's Parish house Tuesday evening, Mrs. William S. Johnston won first prize and Mrs. William E. Higgins the consolation. Refreshments were served.

Mr. and Mrs. P. S. Hills of The Ridges have as Thanksgiving day guests, Mr. and Mrs. N. N. Hill, Norman Hill, Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Williams Miss Lillian Hill and Mr. and Mrs. Wyman Hill of East Hampton and Miss Ida Madrah of Winsted.

Miss Violet Carom of Manchester, N. H., has been guest of the Misses Gertrude and Therese Girouard.

Mrs. Bert L. Hicks entertained a sewing circle of the Sorority of the Methodist church at her home Tuesday afternoon. Mrs. Earl F. Wellington was guest.

NOANK

Capt. Rowell Lamb, of the boat Earl has found the black fish gone and having fished all day with his mate, Edward Morgan found only 70 lbs. of fish to be caught. Capt. Lamb said the season is over for the black fish and has been a poor one—no weather to fish, the wind blowing three and four days a week. The other men will soon haul their boats out for the winter. The Earl will be hauled out at Rathbun's ways.

Herbert Reeves, while working at the shipyard Tuesday and near the shore getting out plank, saw a large hair seal, if was near the rocks on shore. The seal looked hungry and tired and if he had a rope he could have caught it as a cowboy lassoes a horse. It is the first time a seal has come in so close to the village. About this time each year the seals are seen off Mouse Island and Mystic Island.

Boat Maybe has two Noank boys in charge, Capt. Walter Palmer and Cook Hadley Fitch, on a 1500 mile trip. "To see the south by boat," was their slogan. A post card has been received from them by Neil Morrison that the boat had arrived safely in Baltimore, Md., and both are feeling fine. The cook was a little seasick and after a few days in that port they will go on their way. The weather has been good although one day was rough, so the water came aboard and the pumps were in use for one hour.

Mrs. Elizabeth Palmer and Miss Annie Duboll have gone south to spend the winter.

Today Thanksgiving the stores and post office will close for the day. The schools are closed from Wednesday until Monday. Many young people have planned to attend the football game in Westerly between Westerly High school and Stonington High. The game will be played Thanksgiving morning.

Word has been received in the village from F. King in India by Alfred Ballertina, his cousin. The former is making a trip around the world and has been in 17 different countries so far. He was in France in the World war. His hobby is roaming the country. He will work his way on boats or highway, although he has money to pay his way. One of his friends bet him he would not make India and if was so that if he lost this friend was to receive a pair of shoes.

Two new poles were put in on Riverside avenue by the Southern Telephone company of Mystic Tuesday. One has a light on it so the people on that street can see so they won't walk off the wall. It is the darkest street in the village and a light was badly needed there. A while ago money was raised by the Village Improvement association to have lights set up.

Boat Marion and Dorothy is having a new cabin put on at the north dock by Capt. Tom Tinkerman, also the mast is being painted.

DANIELSON

DANIELSON BUSINESS MEN SEVER CONNECTIONS

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Nov. 24—Announcement was made Wednesday afternoon of the dissolution of the partnership of Charles S. Francis and William M. Franklin, proprietors of the Palace laundry here since January 1, 1916, they having taken over the business from its founder Ira D. Martin, now resident in Florida. Mr. Franklin will continue as sole proprietor of the business. The transfer of Mr. Francis' interests inludes the real estate on Center and School streets, where the plant is located.

Mr. Francis, a civil engineer by profession, is completing arrangements for making new business connections with an architectural concern. For several months past he has been engaged as an inspector of the construction operations underway at the high school here.

At St. Joseph's church in Dayville Tuesday morning at 9 o'clock Miss Katherine Brennan of that place and John Welch of Attawaugan were united in marriage by Rev. Ignatius Kost, who also was celebrant of the nuptial mass. Miss Catherine Casey was the bridesmaid and Terrance Brennan, Southbridge, the best man, he a brother of the bride.

The bride's gown was of pink georgette trimmed with silver and she wore a black satin picture hat and acrried a bouquet of bridal roses. The bridesmaid wore green georgette. Her hat was a picture model in black and her bouquet of pink roses. Music for the mass was by Mrs. Philip Phansuf, organist, and Hugh Carragher, violinist, of Danielson, one number by Mr. Carragher, being O, Promise Me. Mr. and Mrs. Welch left during the day for their wedding trip. A number of members of the Danielson Girls' club attended the wedding.

What motor bus transportation has come to mean was indicated Wednesday afternoon by the heavy passenger lists carried by the through lines routed over the Danielson route between Providence and Hartford. Capacity passenger lists were being carried and the big coaches were loaded down with the luggage of the travelers. On some of the lists trips additional coaches had to be passed into service to carry all of those who were anxious to get to their destinations for the holidays The coaches have cut deeply into the passenger business of the steam lines in this territory.

At Holy Trinity church in Pomfret Wednesday morning Rev. George J. Donahue was celebrant of a high mass of requiem for Andrew Kelley, who fell dead Monday while raking leaves on the lawn at Pomfret school. Relatives and friends at the service were representative of Pomfret, New York, Providence, Mansfield and other communities. Burial was in St. James' cemetery, Danielson. The bearers were Patrick Kelley, John Noon, both of Providence, Edwin Looney and Martin Dooley. Louis E Kennedy was in charge of the funeral arrangements.

At the undertaking rooms of L. E. Kennedy Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock a funeral service for Miss Laura Adele Ely was conducted by Rev Harding W. Gaylord of the Westfield Congregational church. Burial was in Westfield cemetery, friends acting as bearers.

The First Ten Minutes After Death was the subject of Dr. Milton Rees at the Wednesday evening union services at the Methodist Episcopal church. This morning (Thanksgiving) there is to be a sunrise service at 6:30. The subject for this evening is Destiny. On Friday afternoon there will be a Grandmother's Talk to Girls. Friday night a Sunday school night service is arranged, God's Call to the Young.

Charles R. Hale, Hartford, chairman of the committee on markers for soldiers' graves of the state organization of Sons of Veterans, has been in Danielson this week co-operating with Sidney R. Bard in searching cemeteries in South Killingly. East Killingly and the Mashentuck district that are inadequately marked. Seventeen such graves were located. This work has been going on for some time and will be continued until every grave of a soldier, insofar as it is possible to identify these last resting places, shall have been marked with proper stones.

Danielson has no general and special plan for the observance of Thanksgiving, yet the day will be a real holiday here. Late trains, busses and private cars brought many visitors here Wednesday to remain over the holiday, to join in family reunions, to visit with friends and to enjoy such diversions as the community offers. Much of the old spirit of Thanksgiving has been preserved in Danielson. There is little of the hurly-burly present day celebration of the feast in this community.

Plans for the mill to be erected in Albany-Decatur, Alabama, for the Connecticut Mills company, with a big plant here, will be ready for inspection and approval early in December. The architects have been fully appraised heretofore as to the detailed requirements for the new structure. Building operations are expected to be underway soon after the first of the year and the plant ready to receive machinery in May. Construction of this southern plant will not affect the operation of the Danielson plant, which will continue to operate for years.

The trapping season is underway. Few sense the fact that there are hardy souls in Killingly and surrounding towns who spend many weeks of the late fall and winter seasons in trapping through the surrounding country. Surprising to a great many, too, is the quantity, quality and variety of pelts that this part of eastern Connecticut yields. Mink, otter, fox and skunk are among the valuable furs taken within a very few miles of Danielson and there are various other varieties that bring good prices in the raw furs market. This business runs into thousands of dollars every year and is a chief source of yearly income for a considerable number of persons.

Herbert Hoover's inland waterways plan recalls the glamourous proposal of a politician now passed to his reward of a New London-Worcester canal through Danielson. And, actually, there were some people who believed that thing.

It is estimated that Danielson people to the number of 50 will be in Providence this morning to witness the Brown-Colgate football game, and the great majority of them are Brown rooters.

Our very best weather sharps were predicting on Wednesday afternoon a green Thanksgiving for Danielson, this at great variance with the white Thanksgiving of yester years and the first skating of the season on this holiday.

Many were those who assembled at the state armory here just before midnight Wednesday for a Service battery dance that continued until 4:30 this holiday.

Seventy tables of players participated in the St. James' parish whist party at the town hall Tuesday evening.

Modernly appointed 7-room cottage, all conveniences, large shop, buildings in excellent repair, property including 16,344 sq. feet of land, for sale on Cottage St. Apply to W. C. Witter.—Adv.

Included in the mail of Wednesday were many Thanksgiving souvenir cards from those who think of their friends and send them greetings upon the occasion of an outstanding holiday.

The only session of the town court this week was held Wednesday morning, when a young man was fined for reckless operation of an automobile.

It has been suggested that citizens can help stop raids on Killingly's forest lands by those who seek Christmas trees by immediately upon sight reporting the numbers of the cars used by people engaged in such raids.

A matter of great satisfaction to his many friends is the reported slight improvement of Harry C. Young, dangerously ill at the Day Kimball hospital in Putnam.

Today is being observed as a general holiday in Danielson, with mills, banks and the great majority of the business places closed for the day.

Schools of the town of Killingly closed Wednesday afternoon until Monday. Meanywhile there will be no sessions of the evening school, which will resume its sessions next week.

After the regular business meeting of the Putnam lodge of Elks held in their rooms last evening, Exalted Ruler A. Newton Vaughn introduced the speaker, George B. Thayer of Hartford, father of Charles T. Thayer of this city, who had kindly consented to tell of some of his experiences while travelling on foot in foreign countries. During the war Mr. Thayer was connected with the Y. M. C. A. work in France and did not do as almost every one did, spend all of the government allowance, but saved as much as he could and found on returning to the United States that he had enough in a Paris bank to adopt twelve orphans for two years. He returned last spring from a visit to his adopted children and was able to seen eleven of them and he told of the pleasant hours spent with them.

Mr. Thayer held the close attention of his audience while he related many interesting incidents of his travels. He is 74 years old, with broad shoulders and looks the picture of health. Putnam lodge felt honored in having Mr. Thayer with them.

ACADEMY CLOSES BRILLIANT SEASON AGAINST THE ALUMNI TEAM TODAY

The Academy will ring down the curtain on its most successful season in years this (Thursday) afternoon at the campus when a powerful Alumni team will furnish the opposition.

A large crowd is expected to witness the local high school eleven in their last game of a season which has brought them much fame and gained for them a tie with Windham for eastern Connecticut championship honors. The Willimantic school had held this much coveted pinnacle for three consecutive years.

The Alumni squad should give the Academy a stiff battle throughout and run the string of consecutive defeats handed to the school team by the ex-stars to three years for in 1924 and 1926 the Alumni won from the regular team by scores of 13 to 0 and 6 to 0, respectively. The Alumni team will be picked from the following: Gus Mullen, former star tackle of the Middlebury college eleven, Marty Gilman, prominent on the Conn. Aggie varsity during the past season and who will without doubt be a regular there next year, Pheno Tombari, of the Conn. Aggie freshman squad, Sterrill Chase, former star end, Norm Courbois, stellar quarterback in '25, Bill Clabby, Paul and Phil McNamara, Polsky, Milecki, Stefano, Jack Hendricks, Ken Connell, Johnny Haslam, captain in 1924, Steinman, Charley Hagberg, Bill Semple, Carpenter, Harry Waters, Schlefer and others who have made a name for themselves while performing for the Academy on the gridiron in years gone by. The majority of these men have been actively engaged at football during the fall and should be in good condition.

Coach Brigham of the Academy will without doubt start his regular eleven that played practically the entire Bulkeley game and helped give the locals their first victory over their ancient rivals in five years. Several of the scrubs also will probably see service during the game but the local mentor would prize a victory over the Alumni, which by the way, which be the first in three years. But just as they broke a record of consecutive defeats by whipping Bulkeley this year the varsity intends to come out on the long end of the game this afternoon and thereby close the season in the right fashion.

The probable starting Academy line up is as follows: le, Hussey; lt, Mish; lg, Fidell; c, Schwartz; rg, Gulomb; rt, Kahn; re, Greene; qb, Williams; lhb, Labenski; rhb, Marks; fb, Capt. Ed. Brewer. These are the eleven Bulkeley conquerors, that is they played the majority of the game and of these but three are scheduled to return next season so for eight, Hussey end, Mish tackle, Fidell and Gulomb guards, Schwartz center, Jim Williams, Labenski and Brewer today's game will be the grand finale as far as their appearance on an Academy football team goes.

The kickoff is scheduled for 2.00 o'clock sharp and the sidelines are expected to be jammed for the opening whistle.

FALL RIVER HANDS FIRST DEFEAT TO PLAINFIELD

(Special to The Bulletin)

PLAINFIELD, Nov. 24—Balked in their effort to rush the ball and basket a goal in the final minute of play the Plainfield Town team went down in defeat before their ancient rivals of Fall River by a thrilling score of 33 to 31, here tonight.

With the home team leading in the first half by a score of 18 to 14 the Fall River avalanche broke loose about the middle of the second half with both teams finding the going rough. The individual brilliance of Scottie Higgins of Fall River was responsible for the score that spelled the initial defeat for the Plainfield club this season. In the final minute of play with only one basket needed to tie the score the frenzied Plainfield stands roared for victory but it failed to materialize. Both teams were at par throughout the game. WESTERLY AND STONINGTON IN THANKSGIVING CLASH

Westerly high school football eleven meets the Stonington high school team this Thanksgiving morning on the Westerly athletic field off High street in the return match and their final game in the Eastern Connecticut-Rhode Island Interscholastic Football league. Coach Rogers declares that although the Stonington players average more weight than the W. H. S. players, yet his players make up in speed what is lacked in weight. At the Stonington game played on Armistice day at Owen field, Stonington borough, the largest throng ever to attend a football game in Stonington witnessed Stonington's defeat by the score of 20 to 7.

SUIT AGAINST TOMMY DONAHUE IS POSTPONED

NEW HAVEN, Nov. 24.—(AP)—Hearing of the suit of Sam Goldman, manager of the New Orleans boxer "Pal" Moran against Thomas G. Donahue, state boxing commissioner, was postponed today in U. S. district court, until Dec. 22 at Hartford because it seemed impossible to hear all the witnesses in the time available after the case was called.

According to the complaint in July 1924, "Pal" Moran boxed at Weis park under a contract obligating him to fight to the best of his ability and providing that he should receive 37 per cent of the gate receipts. Claiming that Moran had not made a good showing, it is alleged, Chairman Donahue refused to give Moran the money, amounting to about $3,000. It is for this, and costs that the suit was brought.

A number of men prominent in boxing and sports circles in the state were present to testify on one side or the other.

BASKETBALL SEASON OPENS AT DANIELSON TONIGHT

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Nov. 24—Basketball, hard on the heels of the close of the football season, comes into its own tonight with the opening game of the season in the town hall, the Danielson town team meeting up with South Manchester for the initial contest. The visiting aggregation is really representative of Cheney Brothers and is known far and wide as speedy, capable and in every way fully up on the game. Their lineup will include Faulkner and Pentland, forwards; Anderson and Cervine guards and "Tiger" Boyle at center. Danielson will play a speedy quintet with "Teddy" Reeves and Stanley Keech forward, Lionel Poirier and E. Gaudreau as guards and the powerful "Bill" Armington at center. It should be a game!

CHICAGO PREPARES FOR ARRIVAL OF SERVICE TEAMS

CHICAGO, Nov. 24—(AP)—Chicago bloomed today with flags, bunting and "no parking" signs as the Army and Navy football squads entrained for the city to meet Saturday in the first service game ever held west of the Alleghenies.

The two squads arrive tomorrow afternoon and on Friday morning, 1,940 Midshipmen and 1,115 Cadets will follow them into the city to share in dedication of Soldiers field Friday, and to attend the football game Saturday.

An alderman presented to the city council today, a resolution memorializing congress to move either the military or the naval academy to a city on Lake Michigan near Chicago, and his gesture epitomized the eagerness with which Chicago awaits the two-day spectacle.

TAFTVILLE CELTICS WILL OPEN THEIR BASKETBALL SEASON THIS AFTERNOON

Everything is all set for the opening game of the season at Parish hall, Taftville, this afternoon, when the fast South Manchester team comes to play the fast Taftville Celtics in what should be a fast game, as both teams boast of a fast lineup. Manager Hunt of South Manchester said that he is sure that his team will take the measure of the local team in the opening game but Manager Raymond of the local team declared after Tuesday night's practice that the boys seemed in first class shape and should start this season with a win.

The lineup for South Manchester will be: Vaulkner at right forward with Pentland of the fast Co. G team at left; Wiley will jump around center with Cervini of the Recs and Anderson and Sumerick at guard. This team is without a doubt one of the best in South Manchester.

Taftville Town team will be represented by Mondi Normandin, Emerald Hash, and star of the Plainfield Town team at right forward, with Rabbit Gauthier of last year's team as his running mate. Les Pingree will hop around at center. Although a youngster this boy should give a lot of trouble to opponents during the coming season as he is one of the surest shots on the team. Walt Coady of last year's Baltic team will be at left guard with Yerrington or Enos Eccleston alternating at right guard.

There will be also a fast preliminary game at 2.30 between the Nordics and the fast Baltic Independents. This game should be a thriller as there is plenty of rivalry between these these teams. So far the fans will all be able to see the game as the management has taken down the price of admission for this game as it is up to the fans to come and help support the boys who are doing their best in bringing to Taftville the fastest teams in the state. Hartford Aetna, Danielson, Meriden, Middletown and Hartford Rubber works are already on the schedule. John H. Murphy will do the refereeing for the coming season.

ACADEMY BASKETBALL TEAM OPENS SEASON ON SATURDAY

The Academy basketball team will open its 1926-27 season on Saturday evening at the Y. M. C. A. playing surface against the fast C. F. C. team of this city. This game will be largely a test game for the Academy and all recruits will be given a chance by Coach McKeon. The Academy team is developing fast with such promising material as Capt. Yerrington, Butch LaCroix, Fenton, a former St. John's Prep player, Ducky Jackson, formerly a player with Central High of Los Angeles, Covey, Cimikoski, Kelly, Prokop, Stevens, Sheriden, Pepin, Sullivan, Lynch, Braumann and a number of others who will report after the football season.

The Academy Five will hit some rough going early in the season for after the C. F. C. game this week the team goes to Torrington to clash with Torrington High, holders of the state basketball title. Last year Torrington went to Chicago to play in the national interscholastic tournament. On Dec. 14th the team plays either Suffield or New Britain and then follows games with Middletown, Bulkeley of Hartford, Windham, Public High of Hartford, Weaver of Hartford, Crosby of Waterbury, Pomfret Prep, Choate and a number of other high schools in the state. The Academy is also in the interscholastic league with Stonington, Chapman and Westerly.

This is the Academy's first year in basketball and the future of this great indoor winter sport depends largely on the support the student body and the public gives the team.

NAVY TEAM LEAVES FOR BATTLE WITH ARMY

BALTIMORE, Md., Nov. 24—(AP)—Navy's grid squad, 45 strong, left here at six o'clock tonight for Chicago. Two special trains carried the players, the coaching staff, headed by Coach "Navy Bill" Ingram, rubbers, cheer leaders and a delegation of 25 Midshipmen.

It will be the duty of these men, headed by A. B. Scolee, of Kansas City, Kans., to decorate three of Chicago's hotels, the headquarters of the Navy players, of the Middy regiment and of the army delegation, with the naval academy colors. Blue and gold streamers, placards and ribbons are to fly from "every post in Chicago" it was claimed, so that the men on arrival, "will not be lonesome for navy atmosphere."

The party of nearly 100 left Annapolis at 4:55 amid the thundering cheers of the Midshipmen, who have yet another day at the academy before they entrain for the scene of Saturday's clash with West Point.

ARMY ADVANCES TO BATTLE WITH NAVY

WEST POINT, N. Y., Nov. 24—(AP)—Army football players were advancing upon Chicago tonight in a special train which took the squad, its coaches and trainers out of West Point late today. They are due in the mid-west city tomorrow afternoon for their annual service battle against Navy on Saturday.

An hour devoted to brushing up special plays, signals and kicking constituted the final practice. The men then boarded the train cheered by the 1,200 Cadets, who will follow the team into the west tomorrow.

Head Coach Jones announced every player was in top physical condition.

The Cadets will take their rifles to the game for the first time in history to participate in a Chicago parade and at dedicatory exercises in the stadium Friday afternoon. They also will be accompanied by their band of 100 pieces.

Brigadier General M. H. Stewart, superintendent of the military academy, accompanied by Major Sherburne Whipple, post adjutant, accompanied the players.

KILLINGLY AND PUTNAM IN ANNUAL CLASH TODAY

Killingly high school's football team will close its 1926 season this (Thanksgiving) morning in a game with its traditional rival—Putnam high school on Quinebaug field here at 10:15. Killingly has played valiantly this season, though scoring no startling triumphs over its rivals, and likely will play better against Putnam than against any other team this season. The student body of the school will be on hand to cheer and otherwise encourage the team, and Putnam high also will have the support of a large corps of rooters.

Short-Wave Power

Senatore Marconi has explained how he and his engineer, Capt. Round, have succeeded in sending wireless messages by day to the Argentine by the use of power of only one-fifth of a kilowatt and a wave length of 15 meters.

This important discovery, for which Senatore Marconi gives his engineer full credit, brings appreciably nearer the day of world-wide commercial wireless telegraphy.

"It opens the way for a 24-hour service with any part of the world at a much cheaper rate than has hitherto been possible," he said, "because much less power will be necessary.

"Recent discoveries have improved the old idea that to get nearer distances it was necessary to use longer wave lengths and high transmitting power. It has been known for a long time that by using a 60 or even a 40 wave length one could get the Argentine practically all night, but not by day.

"We had indications that a shorter wave length would go through better by day, and we tried it with very satisfactory results.

"The discovery in the more important from a commercial point of view because it opens up greatly increased facilities for communication during the business hours of the day."

The tests made by Capt. Round at Chelmsford revealed the existence of certain qualities in the ether that may be utilized by the use of short wave lengths and much less transmitting power, to communicate over distances covering the whole globe.

Wool from Waste

A new yarn with the warm, soft feel of lamb's wool now is being made from the waste product of the artificial silk industry, says Popular Science Monthly. United States department of commerce officials hold out a great future for the new fabric, which already is being manufactured in the United States as well as being imported from Italy, where it started. The new "wool" is shimmery and dyes in beautiful colors. Combined with real wool in making serge and other goods, it improves its appearance, as silk does.

COLGATE-BROWN GAME WILL BE ONE OF THE FOOTBALL FEATURES FOR TODAY

NEW YORK, Nov. 24.—(AP)—The Thanksgiving day football feast in the east promises to be as sumptuous as ever. Five choice gridiron dishes, all highly seasoned with tradition and flavored with keen competition, are ready to be served.

The choicest of tomorrow's entrees is the battle of the Brown Bear to turn back the threat of Colgate, keep its slate clean and thereby clinch an outstanding claim to sectional as well as national championship honors. It is the most significant item of the holiday menu but from the point of view of color and traditional interest it holds no advantage over such outstanding contests as Pennsylvania-Cornell, Penn State-Pittsburgh, Syracuse-Columbia and Washington and Jefferson-West Virginia.

Approximately 350,000 fans will witness these closing classics, the east's last grand gesture on the gridiron for 1926. The crowd at Franklin field, Philadelphia, for the Cornell-Penn battle alone is expected to top 80,000 and set a new eastern record for attendance, as well as receipts. The tickets are $5 this year, the same as the erstwhile "big three" scale, for the first time.

Brown, Pennsylvania, Syracuse, Pittsburgh and Washington and Jefferson have been established slight favorites in the five major games. Their records on the whole have been a bit more consistent and impressive than those of their rivals but the margin conceded by expert observers seems upon too convincing. Games involving such traditional rivalry have a habit of upsetting the "dope."

It would be a distinct upset, however, for Brown's "iron men" to meet defeat even though Colgate figures to give the Bear the keenest grapple he had had. Brown's well-knit defense and its versatile attack, featuring Mishel's passes to Randall appear to have an edge but it will take all the defensive cunning of the Bear to stop the hard running of such Maroon backs as Mehler and Shaughenessy.

Pennsylvania's faster and more deceptive backfield attack will be pitted against the crushing force of Cornell's off-tackle slants at Franklin field. Both have sturdy forward walls to offset them but Penn has a decided advantage on the ends. Thayer and Singer as wingmen. The expert toes of Paul Scull, Penn backfield star, and Emerson Carey, Cornell captain, field goal kickers extraordinary, may play a decisive part if the game is closely fought.

A decisive victory for Pennsylvania would entitle the Quakers to high eastern ranking, inasmuch as their only defeat so far came at the hands of Illinois.

Washington and Jefferson, which gave the unbeaten Lafayette team its keenest tussle, is confident of making a strong finishing flourish at the expense of West Virginia. Syracuse, with Carr again in the backfield, figures to have a slight edge on Columbia, while Penn State and Pittsburgh, after erratic campaigns, seem closely matched.

Tomorrow's principal games and last year's scores:

Cornell at Pennsylvania 0-7.
Colgate at Brown 14-14.
Syracuse-Columbia at Polo grounds 16-6.
Penn State and Pittsburgh 7-28.
Washington and Jefferson at West Virginia 0-19.
Villanover at Muhlenberg 28-9.
Hobart at Rochester 17-6.
Gettysburgh at Franklin and Marshall 3-0.
Maryland at Johns Hopkins 7-7.
Vermont at Springfield 0-6.
Thiel at Grove City (Pa.) 0-7.
G. Washington at Catholic Uni. 0-20.

SPORTING NOTES

(By The Associated Press)

Ty Cobb says his big regret is that he never took up football.

Twenty years ago there were no athletic societies of any kind in Bulgaria; now there are about ten large organizations, with branches in all the principal towns.

Jose R. Capablanca, the world's chess champion, knew the moves of the game when he was five years old and at the age of 11 he was able to hold his own in contests with experts of the Havana Chess club.

What "Honeyboy" Finnegan would like to know is whether he is a champion or whether he is not. After his defeat of "Chick" Sugge the Massachusetts boxing commission bestowed the featherweight title on "Honeyboy", but the New York boxing commission says the Boston battler must perform some more before he is entitled to the crown.

The sun in which the great American autumn game of football has been basking for the last few weeks will begin to set on Thanksgiving day; it will disappear entirely two days later with the great Army-Navy game in Chicago, leaving nothing more to end the year's history except the selection of the numerous all-American and all-sectional teams and a few specially arranged contests in which some of the Pacific coast teams will be pitted against rivals from the east and elsewhere.

The 1926 football season will be long remembered at Brown university as the year in which the Bruins scored successive victories over Yale, Dartmouth and Harvard.

The Princeton football squad will be shot to pieces by the graduation next spring, as 13 of the players who took part in the Harvard and Yale games this year will receive their sheepskins next June.

Only twice have the Army-Navy football games resulted in a tie. The first time was in 1905, when the teams battled to a 6-6 deadlock at Princeton and the second was in 1923, when the contest ended in a scoreless tie.

Cold figures show very conclusively how far Harvard has fallen from the place she once occupied in the football sun. During the last two years she has lost as many games as she did in the 12-year period from 1903 to 1920. In 1908, 1910, 1912, 1913, 1914, 1919 and 1920 the Crimson was unbeaten.

The Thanksgiving day game of Cornell and the University of Pennsylvania marks the 33rd clash between these grid foes, the first game being played in 1893. Of these games Pennsylvania has triumphed on 24 occasions, while the Red and White has seven victories to its credit. In 1906 the teams battled to a scoreless tie.

It's a long way off but Tex Rickard doesn't think the next heavyweight title bout, with Gene Tunney defending his crown, will draw anything like the $2,000,000 "gate" at the battle of the sesqui-centennial. As a matter of fact the promoter is willing to wager it won't go over $800,000. He doesn't figure Tunney comparable to Dempsey as a drawing card.

Bill Cox, new intercollegiate cross-country champion, is ambitious to duplicate the feat of John Paul Jones of Cornell in winning the eastern barrier classic three times. Cox is a sophomore at Penn State and thus has two more years of varsity competition ahead of him. Jones was victorious in 1910, 1922 and 1912.

The 1927 gridiron calendar looms rich in intersectional flavor. Notre Dame, whose annual test with the Army has become a New York classic, also takes on the Navy so that the service elevens may each have a chance to solve the Rockne magic. Princeton has booked Ohio State to fill the place left vacant by Harvard on the Tiger schedule. The Crimson will entertain Indiana and Purdue, two members of the "Big Ten". Syracuse has signed up again with an old rival, Nebraska, while Pennsylvania and Chicago will continue their intersectional combat.

The Brooklyn Robins, getting the jump on other major league rivals, already have completed most of their plans for their flight south next spring. Clearwater, Fla., again has been chosen as the training camp and exhibition games already have been booked with the St. Louis Browns, Cleveland Indians and New York Yankees, besides the Mobile, Birmingham and Atlanta clubs of the Southern association.

Herb Joesting, the battering-ram fullback of the University of Minnesota, stands out conspicuously as a contender for all-American honors in a season which had produced few satellites of the calibre of such 1925 backfield stars as Grange, Nevers, George Wilson, Tryon, Flournoy and Slagle. Injuries to Slagle, the Princeton ace, and to "Whippet" Carr of Syracuse put two of the east's all-American contenders out of the limelight.

"Mike" Wilson, Lafayette's sophomore halfback, holds the eastern scoring lead with the highest total of points rolled up in this sector by any player in many years. His 120 points represent 20 touchdowns and more than one-third of Lafayette's team aggregate of 330.

The arrival of Paolino, the Spanish heavyweight, from South America tomorrow will add a new and colorful figure to the joust to decide an opponent for Gene Tunney. Variously styled the "woodchopper of Spain" and the "tiger of the Pyrenees," Paolino will find plenty of rivals among such contenders as Sharkey and Maloney of Boston, Munn of Nebraska, Persson of Sweden, Diener of Germany and Berlenbach of New York.

Alfred Goullet, who has won more six day bike races than any other rider, will have the youthful Freddy Spencer, former American champion, as a partner in an attempt to come back in the Madison Square Garden grind, starting Dec. 4. Goullet has been out of the game a year. He has won eight of the six-day races in the Garden.

Wilbert Robinson will not continue in the dual role of manager-president of the Brooklyn National league club next season. He has not yet resigned his presidential duties but it is expected to do so before the club's spring meeting and to devote his entire time to piloting the team on the field.

With a Cold Towel

By flicking the chest with a cold wet towel a physician in Calcutta recently caused a patient to resume breathing after 15 minutes of complete cessation of respiration, absence of heart and pulse at the wrist.

Conquering Leprosy

The report of the British Empire Leprosy Relief association for 1925 states that leprosy was formerly regarded as incurable, but recent researches have led to the discovery of methods of treatment which, if given at a sufficiently early stage, cause the disappearance of all signs of the disease. It is now certain that leprosy can be eradicated from any country where adequate arrangements are made for the proper treatment of all persons contracting the disease.

Ethyl esters, obtained from the oil from the ripe seeds of the southern Indian tree, have been used for a new treatment, but it has been found that the pure oil from seeds of the tree is as efficacious, and it is therefore possible to obtain the treatment at one-tenth of the former cost.

Research is still going on, and great things are expected from the combination of these compounds with certain metals. Contrary to the general belief leprosy is not very infectious, and under good sanitary and climatic conditions infection is practically unknown. The realization that early stages of the disease can be cured has brought far more patients to be treated, as formerly they never came until the disease had run its course for about five years. On the lowest computation there are 300,000 lepers in India and other British possessions, and the real number is probably far greater. Favorable reports continue to be received of the beneficial results of the new treatment.

What Is Meant By "Buying In Perfect Safety"?

People prefer to patronize a store whose policy of square dealing is a matter of certainty. There one can buy with absolute confidence.

A few of the old pioneer merchants of America had the foresight to see the advantage of pledging honest merchandise and square treatment. About the time that two of America's greatest merchants, Marshall Field in Chicago and John Wanamaker in Philadelphia and New York, started in business, the founder of our business also began to serve the people in this section.

All three of these men brought to the business of selling, the same measure of integrity and square dealing expressed by Wanamaker in this statement—

From haggle and barter—to fixed fair prices.
From tricks of the trade—to open square dealing.
From the customer beware—to the customer be satisfied.
From obscure price marks—to accurate price marking.
From advertising bombast—to accuracy in word and print.

The solid business foundation upon which we have progressed for ninety years is still standing. Remember this when you wish to buy coal, lumber and building supplies.

THANKSGIVING DAY

Throughout the length and breadth of this country today there will be the observance of Thanksgiving. It is the day on which the people of this country stop to consider and give thought to the many blessings that have been received, to the bountiful crops, to the advantages under which we live and the general conditions which call for the extension of thanks to the Giver of all good things.

It is the big day of the year for family gatherings and happy reunions when the best that the larder affords is brought out and those from far and near gathering about the festive board in ancestral and other homes, and in Norwich the day would not be complete if there were no opportunity in the evening to go out and witness the burning of barrels, though this custom, peculiar to the Rose of New England, has undergone marked modification in the last quarter of a century.

Thanksgiving as observed in this country was established by the Puritan fathers, who were truly grateful for their preservation and their ability to sustain themselves in this new land during most trying circumstances. They not only recognized the oversight that carried them through their hardships but they insisted upon expressing their thanks. That early observance has long since developed into an American institution.

But what a contrast between the conditions of those early colonial days and those of today right here in New England. Unquestionably they had cause for thanksgiving if we will but look about and give recognition to them. Our expressions need not be confined to today, but we may well respond to the state and national proclamations and make today a day of general thanksgiving. It is an excellent habit to count and not overlook your many blessings.

ZONING IS VALID

In the past some handicap to zoning has existed because there was a disposition to oppose it and the fight against it has been carried into the courts. Such protests against it have gone to the highest court in the land and by a recent decision by the United States supreme court the regulation of the height, area and use of buildings and the designation and segregation of residential and other districts by municipalities is a "valid exercise of authority."

This is a decision that has been awaited with much interest. It sets at rest those contentions that cities have been going beyond their authority and stimulates the hope in many that action which is much needed but long delayed will now be taken for the relief of objectionable conditions.

Norwich is one of the cities which has displayed some interest in zoning. The decision comes at a time when endorsement has been given to the idea of a town planning board by the chamber of commerce. Other communities have progressed to the point of putting zoning into effect and are getting the benefits of it, but the hope exists that it will not be long before Norwich will get into line and iron out some of the undesirable conditions which are known to exist and which nothing should take care of.

Zoning is new but so are the present day traffic regulations. Both are the result of changed conditions. There was the time when neither was required, but in the changes that come with the years the need of both has been impressively set forth on many occasions. While perfection may not exist under the traffic regulations the situation is much better and safer than it would be if there were none, and what is true in that direction is open to realization under the institution of zoning regulations. Because it may offer some complications is not a sufficient reason for sidetracking it. The quicker it is done the easier it will be to eliminate the obstacles and prevent the piling up of conditions which are objectionable and ought not to be.

BERENGER'S RESIGNATION

In one sense the resignation of Ambassador Berenger comes as a surprise for it was only a short time ago that he was prevailed upon to return to this country in that capacity for the purpose of endeavoring to bring about a change in the Mellon-Berenger plan for debt settlement. In another there is no surprise for Ambassador Berenger was apparently prevailed upon to return here against his will and when pressed to undo the work that he has done and sanctioned he was unwilling to tackle it. His resignation therefore means that some other will try, to bring about alteration in the terms before the pact is submitted to the French parliament.

Ambassador Berenger made a most favorable impression in this country. His efforts were successful to the extent of getting very reasonable terms for France and he negotiated an agreement that would have been of much benefit to the country had it been ratified. When Premier Poincare declares for changes he is bidding for delay and through that hoping that this country will make even greater concessions, although apparently overlooking the fact that there is a strong feeling in this country that we have been too liberal already.

But inasmuch as the French leaders refused to endorse the agreement that was negotiated it was too much to expect that their negotiator would be willing to return and declare that what he had done was unsatisfactory and unjust to France after he had previously declared otherwise.

The situation is as Ambassador Berenger states, his mission is accomplished. It is time for another to represent French sentiment and to see whether the unfavorable reception given to the Berenger agreement will bring greater leniency on the part of this government. For the stability of the French franc it would have been much better had the negotiated agreement been ratified. It is a matter which has been hanging fire too long already and the longer it is allowed to go undecided the more unfavorable the reaction.

MEDICINAL WHISKEY

It was inevitable that the dry forces should display their opposition to the manufacture of more medicinal whiskey in this country, but it seems a bit surprising that they should urge the buying of such liquor in other countries to the exclusion of the domestic product, the American grain used in making it and American labor.

It doesn't appear that if the manufacture of medicinal liquor to the extent of 2,000,000 gallons a year should be authorized that the situation would be as bad as it is today. Now it is decidedly uncertain what kind of whiskey is being obtained although it may be bought as the real thing and paid for on that basis, but tests which have been made of warehouse whiskey kept for medicinal purposes show much adulteration, so that whiskey is sometimes whiskey and sometimes whiskey and water when purchased.

As the law stands the sale of whiskey for medicinal purposes is legal. It is regarded as a needed medicine and that being the case it is important that pure and unadulterated whiskey should be available for such purposes. Just why we should rely upon a foreign product, foreign manufacture and foreign labels is difficult to understand when the work can be done right here in this country with as great if not greater safeguards than at present and with less excuse for the bringing in of the foreign made whiskey.

The fear of the drys is that such proposed manufacture will lead to an increased violation of the law, but there certainly can be no greater opportunity than already exists. In the opinion of the government authorities there would be less chance and the expense of enforcement would be greatly reduced.

QUEEN MARIE'S VISIT

Queen Marie has come and gone. In a period of 10 days she has covered a considerable part of the country, seen many of our institutions and had a chance to observe how things are done in this country.

She came for the purpose of directing greater attention to her country Rumania, and it has been freely said, though denied, that it was for the purpose of stimulating a loan to Rumania. What may develop in that direction rests with the future, but there is no question but what Rumania would welcome the chance to obtain funds in the United States.

In various ways Queen Marie has made a good impression and she must acknowledge that for a barnstorming tour she has been shown many favors and some unusual attention. That there should have been some unpleasant features to mar her western trip will probably be forgotten. It isn't often that the people of this country have a chance to observe royalty in the way they have during the queen's visit but in view of the nature of the visitation it has struck not a few as a bit peculiar that a tour of that character should have been so extensively commercialized.

Without a doubt the visit will awaken a greater interest in Rumania and Rumanian affairs, although there are things which Rumania has done or failed to do which have given it much publicity which such a tour can hardly be expected to eradicate. The queen in her hectic trip hasn't seen the hair of America. Perhaps there'll be a chance for another visit under different conditions.

HER REAL NAME

The extremely good-looking young woman in the black and white sports skirt and the white knit sweater strolled leisurely along toward Lincoln park.

Running a few feet ahead of her, then frisking back again, was a small collie——probably not more than a few months old. The girl called him Prince, but he did not seem much taken with the name. Once in a while, in a voice too low to be heard by any but the acute ears of the collie, the girl tried another name—softly— with many a self-conscious glance about her, although no one was around.

Then the sharp little ears—white, with a black patch on the left one—would stand up from the dog's head and his tail would wag eagerly. But most of the time, especially when anyone was passing, the girl called him Prince.

Lincoln park was still fairly deserted, for though it was Saturday afternoon the hour was a little too early for the regular crowds.

The girl and the dog must have been walking for a long time, because they sat down to rest almost at the entrance to the park, close by the statue of Lincoln.

"Let's stay here a while, Prince," the girl remarked, heaving a little sigh as she opened her book.

The collie lay down at her feet, contentedly. To all appearances he was very familiar with that particular part of Lincoln park. He cocked an ear in the direction of the North avenue entrance and waited patiently.

Several persons passed by, men and women alike casting glances of admiration at the girl. She had taken off her crocheted straw hat, and the breeze, which was considerable, blew her bobbed curls freely about her face.

Suddenly, as she sat deeply engaged in her book, the collie gave a short, snappy bark, and dashed away.

"Prince, Prince," called the girl, starting up in annoyance. "Prince, come right back here!"

But Prince, as we have said, did not seem to appeal to the collie as being a suitable name. Certainly he could not have cared much about it, for, without even deigning to bark a response, he dashed on.

The girl was preparing to follow when a young man appeared carrying the dog.

"I believe," said he, raising his hat as the collie jumped from his arms, "I believe this is your dog?" The young man smiled. An appealing smile, straight into her angry blue eyes.

"It is," snapped the girl, ignoring that smile, although it certainly seemed that she might have very properly returned it. "Come here, Prince," she called, walking proudly away.

The collie barked a sharp reply; thumped his tail on the ground several times, and moved over closer to the young man's feet.

"Prince! You bad dog! Come here this minute." The girl was furious.

The young man stooped down a bit and patted the dog's head. "Stay here, old man," he whispered. Then, straightening up again, "Go ahead, Prince," he said in louder tones. "Can't you hear her calling you? Go on."

"Perhaps," stated the girl, coming closer, "if you were to walk away from him——"

The young man bowed. "I'll try it," said he, still smiling. He turned and moved slowly off toward Clark street entrance. At the same time, the girl started away in the opposite direction. "Come on now, Prince," she called commandingly.

The collie stood up, shook himself, and trod after the young man.

"You've trained him to do that!" accused the girl, as the young man came back to her again, the collie at his heels.

"Don't be silly, Helen," the young man admonished. "You've had that dog from the day I gave him to you. Almost two months now. How on earth could I have trained him—"

"You had him first, didn't you? Prince——"

"If you'd call him by his real name maybe he'd listen to you," suggested the young man, taking a handkerchief from his pocket and wiping his face. "Just because you and I had a little fuss about nothing you think you can go and change a dog's name and make him like it. Now listen to me, Helen. If you want that dog to follow you you've got to let me come along, too. And call him by the name we gave him—"

"Come on then, Cupid," coaxed the girl softly. And then, blushing, "I guess you'll have to come, too, Jim."

"Looks like it, Helen," grinned the young man, stooping down a second to pat the collie.—Exchange.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

Frank L. Polk, who has been re-elected president of the National Municipal League, is an eminent New York lawyer who has given much of his time to the public service. Mr. Polk is of an old Tennessee family. One of his grandfathers was Bishop Leonidas Polk, who won fame as a leader in the Confederate army. Mr. Polk is a Yale A. B. and a Columbia LL. B. He began to practice law in New York city in 1897, and within seven years had been made a member of the state civil service commission. In 1913 he became corporation counsel of the city of New York; and there President Wilson picked him out and summoned him to Washington to become counselor of the department of state and later the undersecretary of state. In 1920 he resigned and resumed his law practice in New York.

Biography

Great poetry is the expression of the spiritual life, not of the poet merely but of the poet in his capacity of forth-teller of what is divine and universal in human life. History deals with the life and actions and motives of men in a particular age and treats of human achievements and relations, and of their causes and effects. Both poetry and history are in a sense impersonal, being concerned not so much with individuals as such, as with the ideals toward which or the ideas with which men live their lives and do their work. It is biography to which we turn for the most intimate and detailed personal knowledge of a particular great man who may have been the poet whose lines have met response in every heart or the writer whose mind has guided a nation. As dealing with life itself biography may well be regarded as one of the important divisions of literature. It may be and usually is found to belong in both classes, the literature of knowledge, and the literature of power. There is a directness about a great biography that causes us to feel personally acquired with the subject of it.

Stories That Recall Others

Mother a Republican

Along about the middle of the afternoon election day two politicians came rushing frantically to the door.

"Mrs. X. come quick. You have only a short time in which to vote."

"Oh, I don't believe I can leave home just now."

"But you must," replied the helpers. "Your vote might mean the election of a democratic governor."

"No, you have the wrong party. I'm a republican and my vote will not be needed."

No Place Like Home

Billie, age seven, and his mother were going on an overnight visit to the former's aunt. Mother was careful to instruct her son in the things he should and should not do.

"No, Billie," she said, "for goodness sake, don't begin to ask for something to eat as soon as we get there."

Billie promised he would not. He carried out his mother's various instructions during the journey and apparently was getting along fine. After the arrival at the aunt's Billie grew restless.

"I tell you, mother," he said, coming over to his mother who was seated in a chair conversing with the aunt, "I do wish I was home eating something."

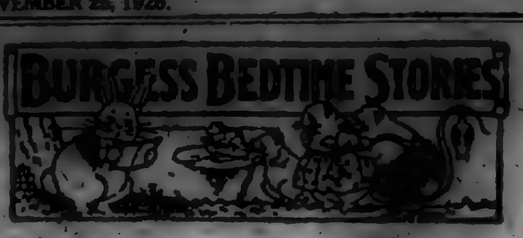
BURGESS BEDTIME STORIES



The Thanksgiving of Mrs. Grouse

Big or little, rich or poor,
There's something to be thankful for.
—Old Mother Nature.

Poor Mrs. Grouse! She was safe for the time being, but what should she do when she came out of the hollow log? No wonder that Old Man Coyote hadn't lost his temper when he found he couldn't reach her in there. She would either have to come out to get something to eat, or starve to death. All Old Man Coyote had to do was to wait until she came out. And she knew well enough that if Old Man Coyote should go away Reddy Fox would be sure to take his place. It certainly was a hard position to be in.

But Mrs. Grouse is not one to borrow trouble. She believes in making the best of the present, and for the present she was safe. It would be time enough to worry when she had to worry. So she settled herself to be as comfortable as possible. She wouldn't come out that day anyway, and if Old Man Coyote wanted to wait he would have a good long wait.

Nothing happened to Mrs. Grouse during the night. In fact, she had a good sleep. The next morning she awoke hungry, but she couldn't make up her mind to venture out to get some food. She felt right down inside that Old Man Coyote or Reddy Fox, or perhaps both, were hiding close by. So she did her best to swallow her hunger, which you know isn't at all filling. By and by she heard Mr. Grouse. He was talking to her from a distance. He was up in a tree. He told her that Old Man Coyote was hiding where he could spring out at her the moment she left that hollow log. So once more she said to herself that she would starve to death before she would go out. After what seemed like a long, long time, she heard heavy footsteps outside. She listened to them and a little hope came to her. They sounded like the footsteps of Farmer Brown's Boy who was a friend. Still, they might be the footsteps of the hunter with the terrible gun. So Mrs. Grouse didn't dare move.

By and by she heard Mr. Grouse..

Now it was Farmer Brown's Boy. His mother had told him of having heard two shots over in the Green Forest the day before, when he and Farmer Brown had been away; so this morning he had started early for the Green Forest to make sure that no hunters were there on this day. You see, it was Thanksgiving day, and he knew that many hunters were afield with their terrible guns. Besides, he wanted to see if he could find any signs of what happened the day before.

Now the eyes of Farmer Brown's Boy are sharp. He doesn't miss much. He saw the feathers from the wing of Mrs. Grouse and he knew by this that the hunter had hit Mrs. Grouse. Then he began a patient search. Perhaps the hunter had killed Mrs. Grouse, and perhaps he had only wounded her. Well he knew how often this thing happened. So he started to make a patient search all about in that neighborhood. If Mrs. Grouse were only wounded, he wanted to find her and try to do something for her. Twice he stepped over the very log in which Mrs. Grouse was hidden; but the next time he came that way he noticed the open end. He stooped over and looked in, for he knew that a wounded Grouse would pick just such a place to hide.

At first Farmer Brown's Boy saw nothing. Then he discovered two bright eyes away back. "Ha!" said Farmer Brown's Boy, "you were wounded after all." And he put in his arm and drew Mrs. Grouse out. He held her gently and very carefully looked her over. His heart had been heavy as he reached for her, but now it grew lighter. "I don't think you're much hurt this time," said he, "but you can't fly and you can't be left in the Green Forest. I'll just take you home and care for you until these wing feathers are grown again."

So it was that presently Mrs. Grouse found herself in a most comfortable pen, from which she could not get out and where no enemy could reach her; and before her was spread a Thanksgiving dinner of buckwheat. She was alive and safe, and in her heart she knew that sooner or later she would go back to the Green Forest. So in her heart she gave thanks.

TURKEY DINNER ENJOYED AT GERMAN SHOOTING CLUB

The members and their friends of the German Shooting club enjoyed a delicious turkey supper Wednesday evening at their clubhouse in Lisbon, six tables being served by a bevy of waitresses. The hall was attractively decorated with streamers and following the supper dancing was enjoyed, the music being furnished by the ideal orchestra of Taftville.

The supper was prepared and served by the members' wives, who, with the waitress and committee, are responsible for the success of the affair. The chairman of the committee was Henry Gley and he was assisted by Norman Boehm, Edward Meyer, Jack Ely and Charles Meyer. Constables Potter and Joubert offered their services for the evening.

ARRESTED ON CHARGE OF DRIVING UNDER INFLUENCE

After his machine had bumped into a Ford sedan driven by Pierre J. Theve of Warren street, Edgar Newton Hoy, a petty officer, U. S. N., was arrested by Sergeant John H. Casey on a charge of driving while under the influence of liquor. His case will be disposed of in the city court. The accident took place on Franklin street Wednesday evening.

Feast of Chanukah

Chanukah, the feast of dedication, likewise known as the feast of lights, will be ushered in by the Jews on Tuesday evening, November 30th. The festival lasts for eight days, and is one of great joy and gladness.

In modern times the festival has assumed more and more the character of a children's celebration, a period of great joy, marked by the playing of games and the recounting of the great deeds of the Jewish heroes and martyrs of the past.

Catholic Women's Club Memorial

Wednesday morning at 8 o'clock there was a very good attendance at a memorial mass requested by the Catholic Women's club of St. Patrick's church for all departed members of the society. The mass was sung by the rector, Rt. Rev. Msgr. M. H. May. Officers of the society, led by their president, Mrs. Thomas J. O'Rourke, were at the service. During the mass the solos were sung by Roderick F. Sullivan. At the conclusion of the service Henry J. LaFontaine played "Beautiful Land on High."

WEDDING
Ames—Ayer.

Monday evening at seven o'clock Miss Alice May Ayer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Ayer of Preston, and John Elliott Ames, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Ames of Norwich Town, were united in marriage at the parsonage of the Preston City Congregational church by Rev. George Clark, pastor of the church, of which the bride is a member.

Only members of the two immediate families were present to witness the ceremony, the single ring service being used. The young people were attended by Miss Delsie Ames, sister of the groom, and Raymond B. Ayer, brother of the bride. The bride was charmingly gowned in a blue silk dress with old rose trimmings and wore a large picture hat to match. The bride attended Norwich Free Academy and for the past three years has been employed by the United Workers at the Rock Nook home, as a nurse. Mr. Ames attended Windham high school and is employed by the state highway department in North Stonington.

The happy couple left town later in the evening for an extended honeymoon. They will be at home to their many friends after December 1 in North Stonington where a newly furnished apartment awaits them.

SPECIAL THANKSGIVING FARE TO BE SERVED AT NORWICH INSTITUTIONS

Thanksgiving will be observed, as usual, in the various hospitals and institutions of the city and town. Special programmes and menus are being arranged by the heads of the institutions for today (Thursday). Through generous response by the school children of Norwich the Family Welfare department of the United Workers has been enabled to supply 135 families with baskets containing Thanksgiving dinners. To date, in addition to contributions of food $80 in money has been received by the committee and more contributions are anticipated.

The children took their donations to the schools Monday where they were packed in barrels. Tuesday morning the barrels were collected and taken to the Max Sternlieb store on Water street where the baskets were filled by the committee.

The barrels were donated and delivered at the schools by the following:

Disco Bros.; City Market; A. T. Otis & Son; S. P. Allen; Mrs. John Ford; Thomas McMahon Co.; P. H. Ethier; R. F. Smith; C. Eugene Saunders; Buckley Bros.; People's Store; Bachem Provision Co.; John Jordan; Mrs. Spaulding; J. Feldman; Hathaway's Market; Berkman Bros.

The barrels were collected at the schools by the following, free of charge:

Bishop school, Hartley & Gallup; Yantic school, Berkman Bros.; Taftville school, People's Store, Inc.; East Great Plain, Elizabeth street and Mt. Pleasant street, Carpenter Mfg. Co.; Norwich Town, Broad street and the Falls, Saxton Bros.; Laurel Hill school, Thermos Bottle Co.; Smith avenue, People's store; Occum, Totokett Co.

The collections from Broadway, Boswell avenue, Broad street and Hobart avenue schools were made early Tuesday morning.

Those who served on the committee in charge of the filling of the baskets were:

Miss Julia C. Corcoran, Family Welfare Worker, and the Family Welfare committee; Miss Nancy Lucas, chairman; Miss Marion L. Bishop, vice chairman; Miss Edith M. Bliss, secretary; Mrs. Archibald Mitchell, 4th; assistant secretary; Miss Cecil Crowell, Miss Sarah Armstrong, Mrs. John H. Barnes, Mrs. Morris L. Bergstresser, Mrs. Fitch A. Dolbeare, Mrs. Gardiner Greene, Mrs. John D. Hall, Mrs. Warren L. Chaffin, Miss Ella Norton, Miss Martha Osgood, Mrs. Robert W. Perkins, Miss Mary A Porteous, Miss Alexandrine Trumbull, Mrs. William P. Wade, Mrs. Robert C. Johnson, Miss Anna Zukowski, who substituted for Miss Jane Bill, who was unable to be present.

On Wednesday the baskets were delivered by the following who donated the use of their machines for this purpose: Mrs. Archibald Mitchell, 4th, Miss Mary Porteous, Mrs. Morris Bergstresser, Mrs. F. A. Dolbeare, Miss Jane Bill, Miss Marion L. Bishop, Mrs. William P. Wade, Miss Margaret Sayles, Mrs. Robert Johnson, Miss Nancy C. Lucas.

The committee was assisted by Boy Scouts in making the basket deliveries, Mrs. John H. Barnes had charge of the arrangements for delivering and collecting the barrels.

Norwich lodge, No. 430, B. P. O. E., distributed Wednesday evening 100 baskets containing the fixings for an ideal Thanksgiving dinner to needy families whose names have been submitted to them. In the baskets will be fresh pork, potatoes, onions, turnips, sugar, coffee, tea, milk, crackers, bread and butter.

The committee in charge of this work comprises, Lawrence E. Miller, James Osten, Felix Callahan, Judge Nelson J. Ayling, William S. Murray, Charles W. Cassidy, Walter Carrigan, Nicholas J. Doyle, William Fitzgerald and Rudolph Rienchel.

The matron of the Sheltering Arms, Mrs. B. W. Beckwith, through the kindness of G. Wyman Carroll, will serve a roast turkey dinner to the 11 members of the family and the seven workers. This will be the first Thanksgiving dinner served in the new home.

At 2 o'clock a special Thanksgiving dinner will be served at the almshouse, where the family numbers 42 men and women. There will be the usual Thanksgiving squash and mince pie and fruit cake to top off the dinner.

The 66 children at the New London county home will enjoy a roast turkey dinner. The Laurel Hill Parent-Teachers association are sending favors for all the children.

There are 17 men and one woman at the New London County jail and they will enjoy a special dinner. The menu will include: Roast spareribs, mashed potatoes, mashed turnips, boiled onions, gravy, mince and pumpkin pie, oranges and apples, cigars.

An unusually attractive menu will be served the patients and employes at Uncas-on-Thames Thanksgiving day. The menu will be as follows: Fruit cup, roast turkey, giblet gravy, dressing, mashed turnips, candied sweet potatoes (southern style), celery, olives, cranberry jelly, pumpkin pie, coffee, tea.

At the Norwich state hospital for the insane the 2,032 patients will be served the following menu: Fricassee chicken, white and sweet potatoes, creamed onions, cranberry sauce, coffee, mince pie. The menu to be served the 350 employes will be as follows: Stuffed roast chicken, mashed potatoes, sweet potatoes, creamed onions, cranberry sauce, celery, pie, coffee.

All the food has been raised on the institution farm, even to the chickens. The annual masquerade and dance will be held at the Riverview club and Thanksgiving night will witness the usual big bonfire of barrels.

Miss Lucy G. Abbott, superintendent of the W. W. Backus hospital is arranging for a roast turkey dinner to be served at the hospital at noon, to the patients, nurses and employes. Grace Episcopal church, Yantic, and the First Congregational church, Norwich Town have donated cake and the Greeneville Congregational church has donated cranberry sauce to the donation committee of the Woman's auxiliary of the hospital.

At Rock Nook children's home, the 35 children and eight caretakers are to be given a nice turkey dinner furnished by the Home, with extras added by the members of the committee. The tables are beautifully decorated, there are dainty place cards, and favors of paper caps and small baskets filled with candy are at each place.

The fine turkeys, four kinds of vegetables, cranberry sauce, etc., with mince and squash pies have been provided. After a run and play out of doors, at 4 o'clock the children are to have a party, with fancy cakes, fruit, nuts and candy.

Before bed-time, those little children who wish will have bread and milk. The children regularly consume 32 quarts of fresh milk at breakfast and supper, besides having milk without cream with their dinner.

SOCIAL WORKERS HEAR MENTAL HYGIENE TALK

Dr. Frank Morris, who is the professor of psychology at Connecticut college, was the speaker Tuesday afternoon before the meeting of the Social Workers council of New London and Windham counties, which was held at the Colt street school in New London. His topic was "Mental Health."

The first step in achieving mental unity should be a basis of sound physical health with plenty of recreation and play, said Dr. Morris, who emphasized the dependence of mental health on a normal instinctive and emotional life. To attain this normality, he stated, certain fundamental human needs must be provided for.

"First: There must be adequate food. Second: There must be companionship; our social or gregarious instinct helps us in preserving mental unity. Third: There is need for love or affection, so strong that one may lose ones self in devotion to some one else. In a few cases this is expressed by devotion to some cause. Fourth: There is need for mastery or accomplishment so that one may be able to say "This one thing I can do better or at least as well as anyone else."

"These four things are elementary, but one other thing is necessary." Dr. Morris stated, "and that is a dominating purpose. This is essential to good mental health. Drifting is always disastrous. People must have some special interest and the interest must have continuity."

Dr. Morris concluded his talk by emphasizing the value of a definite job as the important thing in the attainment of a dominating purpose—making for mental unity.

Miss Betsey Mitchell of this city, president of the council, conducted a short business meeting which followed the address and tea was served by the girls of the school who had prepared for their guests boutonnieres of red berries and laurel, tied with a Thanksgiving seal.

SUMMARY OF BUSINESS OF NEW ENGLAND COUNCIL

A summary of the New England Council, which was held last week in Hartford, with 1,200 delegates from all parts of New England, including representatives of Norwich manufacturers, merchants, bankers, public utilities and the chamber of commerce is given in the November letter to the chamber of commerce as follows:

The manifest spirit of this large representative meeting was that of a firm determination to conquer the economic problems of New England, and to keep in New England her strong leadership in commerce, agriculture and industry.

New England is the oldest industrial section of the union. She is meeting the vigorous competition from younger industrial sections. She proposes to show to the world the strength of her industrial leadership; the high quality of her workmanship; her power and transportation resources, both domestic and foreign, within her confines; the wealth and culture of her citizenry; her superior educational facilities; and the great natural beauties of our section of the country.

Within the confines of New England territory comprising some 65,000 square miles, lives approximately 7,000,000 people; the most densely populated industrial section of the union. There is a good market, right here at home, for the products of New England industry. The conference brought forth three important things to develop this great market.

First: New England manufacturers should produce materials that meet with popular favor. Styles are ever changing in these days of ours and this condition must be met by our industries.

Second: New England merchants should carry New England made goods whenever possible, giving preference to our products over those made in other sections. New England values are as good, at least, as those coming from other sections.

Third: New England people should buy New England made products when possible. There is no valid reason why goods made in other sections out-sell those made in our town.

We must remember that the bugs of New England industry is more important to us than is that of industry located elsewhere. Nor are we provincial in doing this. The success of the Californian industry is due, almost entirely, to the fact that goods made in that state are given preference by the buying public to those made elsewhere, and California is not the only section where this is a fact. The criticism that New England manufacturers are not keeping pace with modern ideas in manufacturing was refuted. The number of New England industries which are spending huge sums of capital each year in research work; in advertising; in securing advance information concerning new styles and methods, was a revelation to those who heard the facts. The majority of our New England industrial leaders are keenly alive to the demands of the times, and the factors concerning plant equipment, research work, advertising, and plant organization, are being investigated continuously at a huge annual aggregate expense to New England industry.

There is every reason why we of New England should be loyal to our section and fully patronize our own products. Our manufacturers are removed from the sources of raw materials. Transportation costs are, of necessity, higher than those located nearer the sources of supply. Our section is the oldest industrial section of the country. This means that large amounts of capital must be expended to modernize plant equipment and buildings.

This fact remains, however, 2,000,000 people live within an area comprising but 65,000 square miles. Herein lies a wonderful market for New England products. It is up to each and everyone of us to buy New England made goods when possible. Other sections are doing this—why not we of old New England?

Last year the New England Council raised $50,000 to carry on its work. This amount came from each of the six states according to a quota. On the last day of this great conference it was an inspiration to see state after state, through the state councils, announce that each would double its quota, so that $100,000 was pledged by the six states to carry on the work of the council for 1927.

SIXTEEN PLANKS IN PLATFORM FOR YEAR

Sixteen planks bearing upon matters of important community interest are in the chamber of commerce's programme for the year which has been built from suggestions made by the members and adopted by the board of directors as prepared and recommended by the committee appointed for that purpose. The committee consisted of S. B. Palmer, chairman, G. E. Johnson; A. F Libby; E. O. Rodier; C. E. Smith. The following are the planks:

Agricultural Affairs — Investigate possibilities for maintaining and assisting the New London County Agricultural society; co-operation with the New London County Farm bureau insofar as possible to assist agricultural interests.

Aviation Field—Continue investigations for the establishment of a local field.

Building Code—Continue efforts for the adoption of a revised code with effective supervision for its enforcement.

Community Chest—Continue efforts to educate and focus public opinion on this question.

Community Advertising and Community Spirit—Prepare and issue descriptive information concerning Norwich; advertise Norwich in every possible manner; endeavor to create and promote a loyal public spirit for Norwich.

Equitable Taxation—Foster and promote the adjustment of local taxes on an equitable basis as soon as possible.

Educational Affairs—Foster and promote greater attendance at night schools for studying the English language; investigate possibilities for an evening high school; investigate possibilities for a local trade school; investigate possibilities for conducting naturalization classes for citizenship, under the supervision of the town school board.

Industrial Affairs—Endeavor to secure new industries; assist in every possible manner our local industries; foster and promote an industrial survey for Norwich; investigate possibilities for a local industrial exhibit.

Mercantile Affairs—Foster and promote local mercantile business; endeavor to interest local merchants to conduct their establishments on a high ethical basis.

Municipal Affairs — Investigate the possibilities for the establishment of an executive board of health; investigate possibilities for the establishment of an executive town and city finance board; investigate possibilities for reviving time for making city appropriations, with the end in view that such appropriations might be made earlier in the year so that the various departments can start work at the beginning of the spring season.

Membership—Arrange for membership meetings; endeavor to secure new members.

Public Recreation—Investigate possibilities for municipally owned playgrounds and athletic fields; foster the promotion of an adequate public recreation programme.

State Park—Co-operate with other civic organizations, here and elsewhere in eastern Connecticut, for a state beach reservation for the people of eastern Connecticut.

Streets and Comfort Station—Foster the rebuilding and repairing of necessary thoroughfares in the city and town; investigate parking problems; investigate need for a supervised comfort station for men and women.

Solicitations—Investigate and promote protection of inexperienced investors from questionable stock selling schemes, warn the public against donations or subscriptions to unknown or properly authorized solicitors; investigate the justice and the practice of advertisements in all special printed programmes.

Zoning—Promote and endeavor to make effective the zoning law in Norwich.

Each year the chamber builds a programme of special activities for the organization. Other questions and matters will naturally become a part of the activities during the year from time to time and all committees will be appointed as soon as possible so that reports can be made to the membership of action taken and results obtained.

SEVEN SOUND VIEW COTTAGES WERE BURNED

Sound View, a summer resort in Old Lyme, with its 200 cottages, was threatened by a disastrous fire which, starting shortly after 10 o'clock Monday night, swept along the waterfront, destroying seven cottages. Two of the cottages were owned by Frank Adams, two by A. Palaskowski and one by M. F. Mahoney, all of Hartford.

It was in one of the Adams cottages that the fire started but the house was untented and the cause of the blaze has not been determined. The wind was blowing strongly from the northwest when the flames were seen shooting from the Adams cottage by Costa Entos and Postmaster Dexter of Old Lyme, who were motoring nearby. When residents of the colony arrived on the scene it was apparent that the entire waterfront section was in grave danger. A hurried call to New London brought the Niagara Engine Co. from there about 11 o'clock and by that time apparatus hastily summoned from Old Lyme and Niantic was being used to augment the volunteer Sound View forces. Shortly after midnight the wind shifted to the north and the fire fighters were able to get the blaze under control. The firemen were forced to get their water from Long Island sound and the Niagara pumper played a prominent part in pumping gallons of water onto the blazing cottages.

All of the cottages destroyed were small frame structures and the total damage was estimated at about $20,000. Much of the furniture in the cottages was carried to safety by the firemen and volunteer assistants before the flames destroyed the houses.

Small Fire on Roof

At 11:51 o'clock Wednesday night the fire department responded to a telephone call for a fire on the edge of the roof on an unoccupied house at No 217 North Main street. Two cans of chemical were used to extinguish the blaze. The damage was small. The cause of the fire is not known.

STORRS HENS SHOW GAIN IN PAST WEEK

With but one exception all breeds in the Storrs laying contest continued to show still further improvement in the matter of production last week. White and Buff Rocks eased off a little, but Rhode Island Reds, White Wyandottes and Leghorns all came across with enough stuff to more than make up the deficiency. Considering the contest as one big unit of 1,500 birds, the net result was a gain of 600 eggs over the previous week's production, and a gain of over 1,000 eggs as compared with the corresponding period a year ago. Total, for all pens was 4,873 eggs, or a yield of nearly 45 per cent. All the contestants and the management as well are started over the start that has been made.

R. W. Davis & Sons, and their Barred Rocks from Rockland, Maine, headed up the list with 67 eggs. This is hitting it off at the rate of nearly 90 per cent., and is certainly about all that can be expected of any group of hens at this time of the year. It may be added that in general, Barred Rocks have been a little slower in getting under way, but certainly this Maine pen is shelling out eggs to suit the most fastidious. From what follows it will be noted that eight other pens all laid within two eggs of each other. It is hard to picture a much closer race. Hall Brothers from Wallingford, Conn., created a rather unique situation by having their pen of Rhode Island Reds tie with their pen of White Leghorn, and both of them tie with Reds owned by Globus Poultry Farm, at Attleboro, Mass. These three pens tallied 55 eggs each. White Wyandottes entered by the Locusts at West Cornwall, Conn., John Z. La Belle's pen of Reds from Baltiouville, Conn., and Broadview Farm's pen of Leghorns from Winsted, Conn., all tied with 54 eggs each. White Rocks entered by E. A. Hirt from South Weymouth, Mass., and Kerr Chickeries' pen of Leghorns from Trenton, New Jersey, tied for fourth position with 53 eggs per pen.

The scratch grain formula now used in connection with the contest consists of equal parts by weight of wheat, cracked corn, and whole corn. The first two are mixed together while the latter is fed separately. The whole corn is fed principally at night between 9 and 10, when the birds are getting their extra evening meal. No oats have been included because they are believed to be more valuable when germinated.

The leading pens in each of the principal varieties are as follows:

Barred Rocks.

R. C. Packard, Brockton, Mass.	102
Edgar Stoughton Wapping, Conn.	97
R. W. Davis & Sons Rockland, Maine.	91

White Rocks and Buff Rocks.

E. A. Hirt (White Rocks) S. Weymouth, Mass.	144
S. Bradford Allyn (White Rocks) Holliston, Mass.	98

White Wyandottes.

Winlay White Wyandottes Colebrook, Conn.	127
The Locusts West Cornwall, Conn.	122

Rhode Island Reds.

Globus Poultry Farm Attleboro, Mass.	162
Wallceton Farm Westford, Mass.	157
Hall Brothers Wallingford, Conn.	155
Harold G. Colt West Hartford, Conn.	148

White Leghorns.

Ruehle's Sunnyside Farm Pleasant Valley, N. Y.	153

WALKING ADMIRAL AT 70 CLIMBS LOFTY MOUNTAIN

Of a native of Windham county, Rear Admiral Charles Fremont Pond, the Berkeley, Cal., News of Oct. 30 says:

The city's "walking admiral" Rear Admiral Charles Fremont Pond, who has just celebrated his seventieth birthday has returned from another hiking expedition which this time took him up a 13,000 foot mountain peak, after a 150-mile jaunt over snow passes in the High Sierras.

A mere nothing, he smiles, as he recalls other recent and longer trips he has taken. Meanwhile his friends marvel at his stamina, as they have been marveling since 1918 when the "Walking Admiral" or at that time more properly Rear Admiral Charles Fremont Pond, reached the age limit in Uncle Sam's navy and was retired.

Retirement was just a bit of navy routine to Admiral Pond, and he declined to "stay put." His friends will testify that he has covered considerable territory on foot as many miles, possibly as would favorably compare with the distances he covered aboard battleships.

Admiral Pond, who served under Sampson in Cuba and spent 46 years of his life as a naval officer, tramped back into Berkeley recently after a walking trip in the Kern and King river canyons in the most precipitious region of the High Sierras. A year or so ago the veteran naval officer chalked up 500 miles when he walked from Lake Tahoe to Yosemite and continued through the surrounding country.

Returning this time, Admiral Pond had a complaint to register. The burros carrying the hikers' pack experienced great difficulty crossing the snowy passes.

"After this my pack goes on my back, I'll be hiker and burro too, and will make better time," he claimed.

With Fremont Morse, Admiral Pond was the first to make a survey of the coast of Alaska in the inaugural survey of 1882. They were aboard the coast and geodetic survey steamer Bassler and had many unusual experiences, one of which was the climb up Tired Mountain in Alaska, the story of which Admiral Pond related to his dinner guests at his birthday party Tuesday night at Cloyne Court.

Admiral Pond was born in Brooklyn, Windham county, Conn., in 1856. He graduated from the U. S. Naval academy in 1876, served during the Spanish-American war and then made many government coast survey trips. He superintended the landing of the Trans-Pacific cable at Midway Islands in 1903. In 1915 he was commander-in-chief of the Pacific reserve fleet and previous to that was stationed at Mare Island navy yard.

He was retired in 1918 after a most unusually active career.

He is a member of the Bohemian, Sierra and Press clubs of San Francisco and still makes the long jaunts each summer with the Sierra club.

His birthday was marked by the reunion of his comrades on last summer's trip in the High Sierras including Professor Joseph Le Conte, Miss Helen Le Conte, Miss Mary Elizabeth Plehn, Miss Mary Isabel Wocker, Joseph Le Conte, George Stewart McMasters, Willard Grinnell and Ansel E. Adams.

LEGAL NOTICES

AT A COURT OF PROBATE HELD at Norwich, within and for the District of Norwich, on the 18th day of Nov., A. D. 1926.

Present, NELSON J. AYLING, Judge.

In re application for appointment of Conservator of Sophie L. Hoover, of Norristown, Pa.

Iva Harrington of Norwich, Conn., appeared in Court and filed a petition, alleging that she is a sister of said Sophie L. Hoover, a non-resident incapable person, owning property and estate within the jurisdiction of said Court, and praying that a Conservator be appointed over said property and estate, as on file more fully appears.

Whereupon, it is Ordered, That said petition be heard and determined at the Probate Court Room in the city of Norwich, in said District, on the 2nd day of December, A. D. 1926, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon, and that notice of the pendency of said petition, and of said hearing thereon, be given by the publication of this order one time in some newspaper having a circulation in said District, and also by mailing copy of said notice, postage paid, by registered letter, directed to Sophie L. Hoover, Norristown, Pa., respectively, each at least five days prior to the date of said hearing, and that return be made to this Court.

NELSON J. AYLING, Judge.

The above and foregoing is a true copy of record.

Attest, HELEN M. DRESCHER, Clerk.

AT A COURT OF PROBATE HELD at Norwich, within and for the District of Norwich, on the 24th day of Nov., A. D. 1926.

Present, NELSON J. AYLING, Judge.

Estate of Nelson W. Wheeler, late of Norwich, in said District, deceased.

The Administratrix exhibited her administration account with said estate to the Court for allowance: It is therefore Ordered, That the 28th day of Nov., A. D. 1926, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon, at the Probate Court Room in the City of Norwich, in said District, be, and the same is appointed for hearing the same, and the said Administratrix is directed to give notice thereof by publishing this order once in some newspaper having a circulation in said District at least three days prior to the date of said hearing, and make return to the Court.

NELSON J. AYLING, Judge.

The above and foregoing is a true copy of record.

Attest, HELEN M. DRESCHER, Clerk.

GAS THIEVES IN NEW LONDON GET FINES AND THREE GO TO JAIL

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Nov. 24—A group of gasoline thieves was disciplined in the police court this morning—James Mather, Willis Clark, Walter Geneet and Clarence White. The last named was fined $50 and each of the others got $25. Jail sentences were imposed in all the cases except that of White, and he escaped because he is the father of an infant which with his wife he has to support. His case was the most aggravated of the lot perhaps, but at this season of the year Judge Prince tempered justice with mercy, Geneet and Clark are said to have come here from Willimantic some months ago with an idea that they could secure work. They made an attempt to get employment but evidently were not successful. They drifted about and being idle the Evil One found occupation for them. They were charged with stealing gasoline from the New Haven Dairy company, planning the theft and using the gasoline for an automobile that afforded them the means of getting around the city. Besides visiting the dairy premises they went to the fruit store of Adel & Co., and there are said to have made a haul also. White was represented by the prosecutor to have been in trouble at New Haven, Hartford and at Meriden and to have had a revolver in his possession on one occasion. Mather was put through a brisk examination by Officers Cavanaugh and Smith and he broke down and gave the information that enabled the state to prove its case. The officers mentioned, with State Policeman Albright lay in waiting for the gang during several hours at night, concealed in an ice cream box truck, a refrigerator practically. They were rewarded with their catch and that was what they desired.

NATHANIEL S. KEENEY TYPE OF OLD-TIME FISHERMAN

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Nov. 24—Nathaniel S. Keeney, 78, an old fisherman, for three generations a resident in the harbor section died at the residence of his daughter, Mrs. Frank S. Hubbard, in Meriden, last night. Mr. Keeney was as vigorous as an oak till comparatively recently. For sixty years or so he had followed the fishing business and when he could not seek the finny tribe in the waters hereabouts he bought them in the wholesale market and sold them from boats at the wharves here and in Norwich, making weekly visits up the river, where he built up a profitable trade. He disappeared from this city months ago and no one but his relatives knew where he had gone. His death today made known that he had finished his career. In his youth Mr. Keeney was an oarsman when the boats used were such as whalemen manned, when they sought the biggest fish that swim.

Wasily Slepica has discovered that selling liquor of more than one half of one per cent, alcoholic content is a very expensive business when detection comes to the seller. The information was gained in the police court this morning when a fine of $150 was imposed on Slepica for selling a drink to Constable Kiley, who is assisting the police in their efforts to put a stop to violation of the Volstead law. Mr. Kiley was sure of his ground when he sought to make the purchase, for he had Police Sergeant Hick and Patrolman George Perkins on the outside looking in while he bought the stuff. The Slepica place is a restaurant close to the police station where it would not be supposed any booze was to be obtained. Kiley went in and ordered an eyeopener. He got what he called for, and in the view of the policemen. The latter walked in while Mr. Kiley was in possession of the liquor and when he was about to dispose of it down his throat. Slepica was on his job all right and grabbed the tumbler of liquor out of Kiley's hand, taking it to a sink in a kitchen at the rear of the place and dumping it at the same time opening a faucet that started a deluge of water. Sergeant Hick followed and secured enough of the liquor to disclose what it was and on that evidence he prosecuted Slepica. The latter set up a defense that he did not sell liquor that would intoxicate, but instead served his patron with ginger ale. Judge Prince decided that the defense was not a sufficient one and imposed the fine, which Slepica paid with the costs of his trial.

George Brown, a colored man from Mohegan Hill, town of Montville came to New London and sopped up so much booch that he was found intoxicated. George expressed a desire to get back home and said that though he did not have the cash to pay a fine he would like to be allowed to do that during the month. Judge Prince was amused with the unique idea that Brown advanced, so he allowed him to go to Montville on a suspended judgment.

Adam Dombrowski, a freight trucker was charged by his wife with intoxication and a breach of the peace in assaulting her. Adam has four children of the intelligent and well behaved sort and they were to suffer if he was sent to jail, or if he was even fined for he has not the means of spending money in that way. All the facts were presented to the court. Judge Prince imposed a sentence of twenty days in jail and suspended the execution of judgment for a period of a year, leaving the penalty hanging over Dombrowski.

Driver Beebe, in the employ of the Connecticut Coach company, was driving along Main street yesterday when Frank Houck, was on his way to his home operating an automobile also. The vehicles passed in Main street near Hallam street where there is not sufficient space for two autos to pass when a trolley car is on the iron. That being the case the auto of Houck was crowded upon the sidewalk. He complained to the police as Beebe passed to the left of the trolley car. That act was clearly a violation of the law and Houck so regarded it. As he put it, "How is it that the driver of a bus can do what I cannot do in passing along the street?" It was disclosed that Beebe has been a bus operator many years and has never had any trouble. He admitted that there was not sufficient space for a bus and an automobile of the ordinary width to pass between a trolley car and the sidewalk. Houck did not desire prosecution, but he did not want his rights defined by the court so he made the complaint against Beebe. The prosecutor was content to have the facts submitted to the Connecticut Coach company and to the motor vehicle department for adjustment, and to them it was referred. The prosecution was withdrawn.

The funeral of Peter Blifford was held this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at his residence, 84 Poquonoc road, Groton. The burial service was read by Rev. William J. Fox, pastor of Sacred Heart church, Groton. Burial was in Col. Ledyard cemetery, Groton.

The New London police this afternoon were requested to be on the lookout for Joseph Truckas, 54, who escaped from Norwich state hospital this noon. Truckas, whose home is in Bridgeport, is described as being about five feet 11 inches in height and weighs but 130 pounds.

An automobile owned by Attorney Frank L. McGuire was parked for a brief time on State street, near Washington street, about 8:30 o'clock this morning. While Mr. McGuire attended to an errand the auto was entered by a thief and a suit case belonging to Mrs. McGuire was stolen. The case bore the monogram "W. F. McG." It has become almost a daily occurrence for thieves to operate on Church, Meridan or State streets, where automobiles are stolen or crooks enter parked cars and steal whatever they find. Of more than a score of automobiles looted in those streets of late, only one arrest was made and that one was in New York.

A pile of rubbish in the rear of the Klinck building, 226 Bank street was discovered ablaze by Patrolman John Courtney this morning. The officer communicated with police headquarters and a still alarm was sent to fire headquarters. Niagara Engine company responded and extinguished the fire with a small quantity of chemicals.

Helen Borkman, 15, daughter of Mrs. Anna Borkman, 45 Fourth street, is missing from home. The girl's mother has requested that the police assist her in a search for the daughter and should she be located out of the city to cause her arrest. The girl disappeared yesterday morning about 9:30 and since then her whereabouts have remained unknown to her mother. Mrs. Borkman went to police headquarters last night when the daughter did not return home and furnished the police with a description of the girl. She is described as being about five feet, five inches in height and weighs about 112 pounds. She is slim of build, has blue eyes and brown bobbed hair. When the girl disappeared from home she wore a light tan coat, black tam, trimmed with silver bands, black pumps and either a black silk or navy blue dress. The girl has a sister, Mrs. Harold H. Thornelle, 4 Terry street, Rochester, N. Y., and it is barely possible that she has gone to that city. Inquiry is being made there.

Louis Sousa, 21, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Sousa, of 47 Eastern avenue, died yesterday at Uncas-on-Thames, Norwich, where he had been a patient for three months. He was born in Portugal in 1905 and came to this country at the age of 15 with his parents. At the time he was taken ill he was employed by the Thames River Lumber Co., in this city. Besides his parents he leaves five brothers, Clarence, John, Arthur and Manuel of this city, and Joseph of Panama and three sisters, Mrs. Alice Collins of Washington, D. C., and Carolina and Helena Sousa of this city.

James Marion, six, who is being cared for by a resident of Willetta avenue, strayed away from home this morning and the police were requested to assist a search for the boy. He finally returned to his home, and when he put in an appearance he had a bicycle, not his own. His caretakes informed the police of the return of the boy and that he had a bicycle in his possession, which would be returned to the owner when he made known that the cycle was his property. At the police station tonight no one has reported a bicycle stolen, or missing.

Residents in the block at 22 Montauk avenue, reported to the police this evening that an automobile had been parked in front of their house 24 hours and that the owner of the auto was unknown to them.

Albert Cornell, a former resident of New London, who is under arrest at New York and for whom a warrant has been issued by Acting Prosecuting Attorney Jerry J. Hollandersky, charging him with bigamy, will be given a hearing on a technical charge of breach of the peace in New York Dec. 7 and if an officer does not arrive in that city from New London at that time, Cornell will be discharged. He has been incarcerated now several weeks. Cornell was arrested on complaint of his first wife and when he was residing with his second wife at Staten Island, N. Y. Conell and his second wife were married in New London about six years ago. He has two children as the result of the second union.

Sarah and Elinor Buckingham of Noank and Anthony Lynch of Groton, patients at Lawrence-Memorial Associated hospital, were discharged today.

The United States custom house in this city is lighted every night and it is understood that a watchman is kept on duty there because liquor that has been seized is kept in storage. Quantities of liquor have been shipped away from this city, but it is claimed that there is still so much of it here that a watchman is kept on guard.

Merchants are understood to be considering the curtailing of credits to patrons of their stores because of the difficulty they are having in the collection of debts. They say that collections are unusually slow and they are making inquiries to determine the cause of that situation.

SENT TO STATE HOSPITAL FOR OBSERVATION PERIOD

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Nov. 24.—Charles Vlaim, 15 Smith street, was taken in charge by the police tonight when Henry S. Dorney, commissioner of charities, requested the police to bring Vlaum to police headquarters that he might be examined to determine his sanity. At headquarters, Drs. George P. Cheney and Isadore Hendel adjudged Vlaum insane and he was committed to Norwich State hospital for observation. He was taken to the hospital in charge of two officers.

Among guests at Lyme last week end was Leonard Davis, a landscape artist, of international note, who recently returned from Canada where he painted several scenes of the Canadian ranch of the prince of Wales at the request of the prince.

MARKET WAS IRREGULAR

NEW YORK, Nov. 24.—(AP)—Heavy pre-holiday readjustment of speculative accounts imparted considerable irregularity to today's stock market, which had pointed upward during the greater part of the session of a substantially enlarged volume of trading. While the threatened break with Mexico was the source of some uneasiness, and directly responsible for the heaviness of shares of companies possessing large property interests in that country, professional traders were inclined to pay more attention to the domestic business and credit situation.

With money in plentiful supply and excellent prospects for record-breaking holiday business in many lines, pools were encouraged to bid up stocks holding promise of special developments before the end of the year. Hopes were entertained in some quarters of a cut in the New York Federal Reserve rediscount rate, but they failed to materialize.

Baldwin was again one of the market leaders, touching a new high record for the year at 158 3-4, and then easing to 158, where it was up 3 7-8 points net on the day. Good buying also took place in some of the other equipments particularly Westinghouse Air Brake and Pullman. U. S. Steel common received good support, closing fractionally higher at 147 3-4. The weekly steel trade reviews, while reporting little change in the rate of mill operations, emphasized the heavy buying of rails and other railroad equipment.

Selling on the Mexican news converged largely on such issues as American Smelting and the Pan-American shares, which declined 1 to 3 points. The prospect of valuable bus franchises being granted to the local transit lines was given as the basis for the upward move in those issues under the leadership of Brooklyn-Manhattan Transit which crossed 70 to a new peak. Commercial Solvents B, which advanced 11 points yesterday, lost 9 1-2 today. Electric Refrigeration, which had been under pressure earlier in the week, rallied 6 points.

About a score of issues attained new peak prices for the year, the list including the three Rock Island issues, American Sugar Refining, Texas Gulf Sulphur, Universal Pipe, Liggett and Myers B and United Fruit. New York Canners common and preferred, Curtis Candy common and preferred, Hayes Wheel and Motor Wheel broke into new low ground.

Buying of the rails centered largely in the anthracite carriers, which are reporting unusually good February earnings. Chesapeake and Ohio was heavy in further reaction of speculative disappointment over the failure of the directors to declare an extra dividend.

Call money held steady at 4 1-2 per cent. Time money and commercial paper rates were unchanged.

Foreign exchanges held steady in quiet trading. Demand sterling ruled around $4.84 1-2 and French francs just above 3 1-2 cents.

A rally of a cent or more a bushel in wheat prices, based on reports of Argentine crop damage, featured the commodity markets. Cotton prices advanced slightly on reports of unfavorable harvesting weather. Raw sugar was unchanged and coffee prices were firm.

FAIR, COLDER TODAY; CLOUDY TOMORROW

Norwich Bulletin

NORWICH, CONN., THURSDAY, NOV. 25, 1926

FULL ASSOCIATED PRESS DISPATCHES

The Bulletin.

Norwich, Thursday, Nov. 25, 1926

THE WEATHER

Conditions

The disturbance that was central north of Lake Superior Tuesday night has moved rapidly eastward to the Gulf of Saint Lawrence, attended by light rains or snows in the lake region, northern New York and northern New England. High pressure prevails from Hudson Bay southward to Florida. The temperature has risen in the Atlantic states.

Fair weather will prevail Thursday almost generally east of the Mississippi river, but the eastward advance of the western disturbance will be attended by much cloudiness on Friday and rains are probable by Friday night over virtually the entire Washington forecast district. The temperature will be slightly lower Thursday in the north Atlantic states and it will rise in the Atlantic states on Friday.

Winds

North of Sandy Hook: Fresh northwest and fair weather Thursday.

Sandy Hook to Hatteras: Moderate to fresh northwest and north and fair weather Thursday.

Forecast

For northern and southern New England: Fair and colder Thursday; Friday increasing cloudiness with rising temperature, probably followed by rain.

Observations

The Bulletin's observations show the following changes in temperature and barometric changes Wednesday:

7 a. m.	32	30.10
12 m.	55	29.90
8 p. m.	49	30.00

Highest 55, lowest 26.

Predictions for Wednesday: Increasing cloudiness, warmer, light rain at night.

Wednesday's weather: Cloudy, threatening, not much change in temperature, clearing at night.

K. OF C. GIVES SUCCESSFUL THANKSGIVING EVE DANCE

A crowd of over 500 attended the annual Thanksgiving dance held Wednesday night at the state armory by White Cross Council, No. 12, Knights of Columbus. Sullivan Bros. Singing orchestra of Milford, Mass., furnished a splendid programme and dancing was enjoyed from 8:45 o'clock until one o'clock this (Thursday) morning. The hall and orchestra stand were decorated with K. of C. streamers and suspended from the ceiling at the west end of the hall was a large welcome sign with the K. of C. insignia.

Richard Marks, Jr., was chairman of the general committee and serving on the committee were Leonard Desmond, Albert Zeiglemeyer, Charles Rinella, John Burns, John Jones, Charles McGrath, John Hill and Andrew Caplea. John H. Carney sold tickets and Michael J. Curran collected tickets at the door. Officers Luke Riley and Bernard Keenan contributed their services for the evening.

AUTOMOBILE AND TROLLEY COLLIDE ON MAIN STREET

As Philip Gottesfeld of No. 15 Pearl street was driving his Buick roadster, registration number L-1100, from Market street into Main, near the Western Union telegraph office, the machine collided with a trolley car due in Franklin square at 4:45 o'clock Wednesday afternoon. Mr. Gottesfeld was making the left turn into Main street and the trolley car was coming down the hill. The front end of the machine had just cleared the track when the trolley car bit the machine amidships. The running board and left mudguards were crushed by the impact. Conductor Raymond Leonard was in charge of the trolley car.

"Wet" Drivers Suspended

In the list of 30 automobile operators whose licenses were suspended for one year in the past week for driving while under the influence of liquor were Delphis Brousseau, Willimantic; Frank Chamel, Grosvenordale; Louis Moffitt, Plainfield; Hector Pelletier, Danielson; Dona Thibeault, [illegible], and Andrew Rawacki, Norwich; Joseph Worth, Mylas Standish and Frank Murdy.

Dec. 29—Business meeting.

Song leader—Arthur M. Brown.

Before the close of the meeting President Harris thanked the Ashland Cotton Co. orchestra for the splendid program which they furnished during the luncheon hour.

THANKSGIVING EVE TRAVEL BRINGS HEAVY TIDE OF HOME-COMERS

The Thanksgiving tide of home-comers made a heavy tide of travel into the city Wednesday night, showing its effect in the late arrival of trains as they discharged their passengers at the stations where they were greeted by relatives and taken to homes for family reunions on the great New England holiday, when, as the poet says, "the gray-haired New Englander sees round his board the old broken links of affection restored."

Colleges sent home their young men and young women students, often accompanied by a friend or two from more distant regions, children and grandchildren, with uncles and aunts and cousins, were included in the arriving numbers that will participate in many a happy family gathering. In many cases the family automobile was requisitioned to shorten the railroad travel for the incoming guests by driving to nearby cities to meet the arriving train and finish the journey by machine.

The religious significance of the day is not to be lost sight of in its observance here as there will be services in several of the churches, most of them in the morning and a union service in the evening.

In the entertainment line is a football game at the Academy campus in the afternoon, while the theaters have special programmes that will draw big houses, afternoon and evening.

Norwich will not be without its distinctive Thanksgiving feature in the evening, the burning of barrels strung on poles. Probably the largest collection of barrels will be burned on the Norwich state hospital grounds, where several strings are to be set up at points where they can be plainly seen from the road. The hour of 7:30 has been set as the time to put a match to the strings there and the spectacle will doubtless be witnessed by hundreds who will drive down the Military highway.

Barrel gangs have been at work in the city quietly in the past weeks and are reported to have amassed a good collection to string on the poles that they will be busy erecting on vacant lots during the day. The West Side gang is reported to have been particularly busy, there are to be barrels burned on Fanning meadows in the Falls section of the city, and the Jail Hill gang will have one string or more to set off, while gangs in other sections of the city will have their strings burning as soon as it becomes dark.

SANTA CLAUS TO COME SATURDAY AFTERNOON

Good news for the children of Norwich, and in fact for all the children of eastern Connecticut, is contained in the announcement by the Porteous & Mitchell company, of this city, that they have had a radio message from Santa Claus, sent from his home at the north pole, stating that he is leaving and will soon be on his way to their store and expects to arrive, Saturday, Nov. 27, on schedule time.

According to his message it has been a mild season in his cosy home in the north and for that reason he has been able to work every day and to assemble a greater collection of toys and playthings than ever before. He states that he will make the first part of his journey in his special airplane, because in some sections there is no snow for his sled. Once he enters Connecticut he will leave his airplane and travel in his "Santa Claus Special" so that his little boy and girl friends, along the route, may see him and talk with him. He expects to meet and accupy his special car just north of Moosup.

Route he will travel: Arrive in Moosup on his special car at 1 p. m.; pass through Moosup and arrive at Central Village, the next stage in his journey at 1:15; from there to Plainfield, where he is due at 1:45; Baltic will be the next stop, being due there at 2 o'clock. Occupy at 2:15, Taftville at 2:30, leaving Taftville he will travel over the trolley road, through Greeneville, being due at 2:45. Finally he will arrive at Franklin square at 2:55 and will go from there to the store of the Porteous & Mitchell company, where in their large window his workshop has been erected amidst scenes which will remind Santa of his home at the north pole, the entire arrangement being one which will charm and enchant the younger generation.

Window Has New Features

The Santa Claus window which was designed and arranged by Joseph T. Farrell, the store decorator, has many new and novel features this year and will be a source of delight to the children and of interest to their elders. The management of the Porteous & Mitchell company says: "Bring the kiddies to see Santa Claus arrive Saturday afternoon, or if you have any one of the town through his special car will pass be on hand, with the children, the "Santa Claus Special". This phal journey of Santa Claus is sent that has been planned for the enjoyment of the child memory of which will last other happenings of childhood are forgotten."

BRINGS FORECLOSURE SUIT AGAINST LEBANON MAN

Foreclosure suit of a mortgage for $2,300 on three tracts in Lebanon has been brought against John and Annie Demis of that town by the Federal Land bank of Springfield which also asks for cancellation of shares of stock in the National Farm Loan association.

Party defendants are named as follows: "Windham County National Farm Loan association as endorser of the note, town of Lebanon having a tax lien for $160.88, Jordan Hardware Co., on attachment lien for $300, estate of Edwin A. Loomis on two attachment liens for $300 and $500, W. H. Shields for a mortgage of $415 and John Demis for a mortgage for $415 to Annie Demis.

The papers were served by Deputy Sheriff George H. Hoxie, the suit being returnable in December before the superior court.

Workmen's Compensation

Workmen's compensation agreements have been approved as follows by Commissioner J. J. Donohue:

Robertson Paper Co., Montville, employer, and Michael Lewitz, employe, finger burned by friction, Aug. 10, at rate of $18.07.

Richmond Radiator Co., Norwich, employer, and P. Cleary, employe, contusion to foot, Oct. 30, at rate of $12.18; and J. Netter, employe, contusion and strain to wrist, Nov. 3, at rate of $12.

United States Finishing Co., Norwich, employer, and Harold Hiscox, 13 Oak street, employe, hernia, April 9, at rate of $11.55.

Andrew Bellivant, Jewett City, employer, and Wilfred Gaudeau, employe, rupture, July 14, at rate of $13.50.

On Non-Support Charge

At the Wednesday morning session of the city court, Nicholas Baklage, 29, was ordered to pay his 18 year old wife $10 a week for her support and the support of their two children. He was ordered to appear in court Monday morning but did not appear. Monday night he was taken in charge by the police and his case was continued Tuesday morning until Wednesday morning. An out-of-town man was in court on a charge of begging. He was given a 15-day suspended jail sentence and allowed to go on his promise to leave Norwich.

Rhododendrons Being Shipped

Rhododendrons are being dug in the Pine hill, Exeter, and other back-country districts near Hope Valley, R. I., and are being shipped by box-car loads on the Wood River branch railroad to Wood River Junction, thence east and west on the main line.

A gang of 15 men is at work on the job, endeavoring to ship a box-car load a day to various points in Massachusetts, New York state. One car load last week was sent to Newburyport, Mass.

ROTARY CLUB ENTERTAINS VICTORIOUS ACADEMY TEAM

The Norwich Rotary club was host to the Academy football team at the Wauregan hotel on Wednesday noon. The varsity regulars and the first string substitutes, together with Coach Earle E. Brigham, Manager Frisbie Mitchell and Cheer Leader Clarence Brewer attended the luncheon. The meeting was almost entirely devoted to entertainment of the boys in recognition of their splendid playing which gave them a tie with Windham high of Willimantic for the highest football honors in eastern Connecticut.

President Edwin A. Harris introduced Captain Edward Brewer, Coach Brigham, Manager Mitchell and Cheer Leader Brewer, each of whom spoke on the success of the season especially the fact that the Academy had beaten Bulkeley. Coach Brigham modestly declined to take any credit for the success of the team saying that Courtland Whitney who coached the team during the first month was really the mentor of the team. People who have seen the Academy in action this year know that a large part of the success of the season is due to Mr. Brigham in following out the plays planned by Mr. Whitney. Captain Brewer paid tribute to his men and also to Coach Brigham as did Manager Mitchell.

The introduction of the team members was made by Clarence Brewer who introduced each member with some little inside story relative to the training season. In introducing the members of the team he said that he did not pick out any individual stars as there were no stars, every man doing his part to the best of his ability the substitutes being equal to the regulars Those introduced by the cheer leader were Hussey and Greene, ends; Vlak and Kahn, tackles; Fidell and Golumb, guards; Schwartz, center; Williams, Labenski, Marks and Capt. Brewer, backfield men, and Tirrell, McGlone, Vitiliano, La Croix, Fox, Shea, McCluggage, Moore and Gilbert, subs.

Everett McCluggage of Jewett City, one of the most promising line men of the squad until stricken with appendicitis was present at the meeting and was heartily greeted by members of the team as well as by the Rotarians.

Several members of the football squad rendered several selections in fine voice.

After the the football men had been introduced Rev. William A. Keefe spoke briefly but eloquently on the meaning of Thanksgiving.

Lucius Briggs chairman of the programme committee for December announced the schedule for next month as follows:

Dec. 1—Speaker, Joseph H. Dodson, president of the Audubon society.

Song leader—Frank Aubrey.

On that evening Mr. Dodson will give a lecture on birds under the auspices of the club at the Slater Memorial hall.

Dec. 6—G. W. Carroll, will show pictures of his trip around the world.

Song leader—Flint Brayton.

Dec. 15—Speaker, Engineer from the Anthracite Fuel Service bureau of Philadelphia, on uses and advantages of small sizes of anthracite.

Song leader—Walter Turner.

Dec. 22—Christmas program.

Musical program in charge of William Parks and Henry LaFontaine.

A real Christmas tree, in charge of

MISS CASSIDY CHAIRMAN OF STUDY CLUB COMMITTEE

Rev. George J. Donohue of Pomfret, who addressed the meeting of the Connecticut Council of Catholic Women at the Diocesan bureau in New London Monday night, chose as his subject, the poet, Thomas Augustus Daly.

There were between 75 and 100 at the meeting, which held a short business session before the address of Father Donohue. It was voted to purchase either a moving picture booth or a moving picture camera which does not require a booth in order to present weekly moving pictures for the children. It was also voted to further the study club and education program and for this purpose Miss Patricia Cassidy, formerly of Norwich, a graduate of Smith in the class of 1926, was made head of a committee which includes Miss May Dunham and Mrs. Arthur T. Keefe.

BRINGS FORECLOSURE SUIT OVER MECHANICS LIEN

Foreclosure suit on a mechanics lien for $983.17 has been brought in the superior court by Jacob R. Slosberg (Shetucket Coal & Lumber Co.) of Norwich against John Arson of Lebanon.

The plaintiff claims the amount is a balance due for materials furnished for building a house on the Mason pond road in Lebanon between Aug. 5, 1925 and Dec. 3 of the same year. Party defendants named are George H. Hoxie for an $1,800 mortgage, Mary and Esther Ryan, executors of the will of John H. Ryan, for a mortgage, and Victor Sikorski and Stanley Borsa for a lien for labor.

VERDICT FOR D. T. SHEA WITH $100 DAMAGES

Neither Herman Adaskin of Springfield, Mass., owner of a chain of furniture houses, nor his witnesses nor principal Massachusetts attorney was in the superior court here Wednesday morning when his suit against Daniel T. Shea of this city was called for trial before Judge Allyn L. Brown and the case was eventually disposed of by Judge Brown giving judgment for Mr. Shea for $100 damages and costs of $33.60 on his counter claim.

Adaskin brought the suit on the claim that on May 28, 1925, he had made an agreement to buy from Mr. Shea the furniture business of Shea & Burke at the price of $20,000 and also to lease the store at 37-47 Main street, but that on the date for consummation of the deal, Mr. Shea declined to carry out the agreement. He asked $15,000 damages.

Mr. Shea made a counter-claim for $10,000 damages, admitting that he had executed a bill of sale of the lease and a lease of the store, but claimed that when Adaskin refused to accept the same or pay the sums called for upon demand, as a consequence of which Mr. Shea lost considerable profit from his business for some time.

When the case came up in court, Attorney J. Greenstein, associate counsel for the defendant, was the only one in court to represent that side of the case. He told the court that he had recently received communications from the plaintiff and Massachusetts counsel that they would be here for the trial. The court recessed for an hour, at the close of which Attorney Greenstein informed the judge that the defendant would not appear and trial of the case was taken up.

Mr. Shea testified to entering into negotiations with Adaskin and giving him an option, which was never taken up by the latter. Attorney V. P. A. Quinn testified to a number of times that he had been called upon to draw up legal papers, placing the value of his services at $50.

Judge Brown then ordered judgment entered for Mr. Shea, as already stated.

A contested divorce suit, Delina Warner Bedard vs. Joseph G. Bedard of this city, which was assigned for trial, was postponed indefinitely.

MONTVILLE FARM SELLS FOR $1,102.50 AT AUCTION

By virtue of a judgment entered in the court of common pleas Oct. 11, for $737.17 in favor of County Commissioner George H. Bradford, in his case against William Clifford, and others, Deputy Sheriff Oscar H. Main sold at public auction Monday the so-called Calvin Beebe farm about one mile from Lemingwell's four corners in Montville. It went to Ernest Lathrop of Montville, who was the highest bidder with the figure of $1,102.50.

The farm consists of about 75 acres with barns and farm house, all said to be in fair repair. Last week it was appraised at $2,500.

LEBANON SHERIFF GETS STOLEN HARTFORD CAR

A Hudson coach, which was stolen in Hartford Sunday and is the property of a Hartford automobile company, is in the possession of Deputy Sheriff George H. Hoxie of Lebanon. The machine was run into a ditch on a back road in the Goshen district of Lebanon and abandoned there. The thieves then stole another car and got as far as Pitchville with it before they also abandoned this one.

The Hartford owners have not yet come after their machine, which is at the McCall farm.

$58,843 For Community Chest.

At the Community Chest luncheon in New London Tuesday additional subscriptions totaling $8,575 were reported by the various canvassing bodies, bringing the grand total of the chest to date to $58,843. It was also announced by Chairman Waldo E. Clarke that subscriptions amounting to approximately $10,000 had been contributed but for various reasons those obtaining them had as yet been unable to report them definitely.

GOOD NEWS FOR THE CHILDREN SANTA CLAUS COMING SATURDAY —on the— SANTA CLAUS SPECIAL

Santa Claus is on his way and will arrive in Norwich on Saturday, November 27th. His shops at the Top of the World have been working day and night turning out myriads of toys and presents for the boys and girls. And now he is ready.

As usual, for the last stages of his journey he will make the trip on the "Santa Claus Special." He will enter Connecticut by way of Moosup, being due there at 1 o'clock in the afternoon, due at Central Village at 1:15; Plainfield at 1:30; Jewett City at 1:45; Baltic at 2 o'Clock; Occum at 2:15; Taftville at 2:30, arriving at Franklin Square at 2:55. He invites all his boy and girl friends to meet him as he journeys from his home, at the North Pole, to his workshop in the big window of our store.

HE IS ON HIS WAY AND WILL ARRIVE SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 27th. WATCH FOR THE "SANTA CLAUS SPECIAL"

THE NEW HOUR AND A HALF

STATION-TO-STATION toll telephone rates now start to decrease at 7 o'clock instead of 8:30 in the evening. During the new hour and a half from 7:00 P. M. to 8:30 P. M. a decrease of 25% of the day rate is in effect. A second decrease at 8:30 P. M. makes the rate from 8:30 P. M. to 4:30 A. M. about 50% of the day rate. These discounts apply where the day Station-to-Station rate is 40 cents or more, with a minimum reduced rate of 35 cents.

These two decreases, one at 7 P. M. and the other at 8:30 P. M., give an excellent opportunity for the wide-awake toll user to save money. Toll telephone service carries your voice quickly, naturally, and accurately over the wire.

Whether for business, social, or family conversation, let the telephone bridge the gap.

The House of Plenty

I know a house where Plenty seems to practice magic arts,
Though humble is this home I know, and humble all its hearts.

Within this house a Mother dwells whose Plenty gives the skill
To make a little grow to much that all may have their fill.

I've seen her lay the table, with but two or three to fare,
But bread had not been broken when a legion came to share.

Came Mary with her prattling tribe; came John with children four;
A knock—a word of welcome—Parson Pray was at the door.

Now Parson Pray just couldn't stay—he had not time to eat—
But was there not some soup to tempt a sick man down the street?

"Come, rest a moment, Brother Pray, and have a little bite;
I'm glad you though about the soup—I'll tend to that all right."

By magic came some steaming broth from out a magic pan;
"I saved this broth for such as he—we'll send it to the man."

Came ham from off the pantry shelf, came jam and marmalade;
A cackle at the kitchen door announced eggs freshly laid.

Ere Parson Pray could utter grace, now knocks were at the door;
"Can you spare just a little bread? They've none down at the store."

"For pity's sake! That shows the way some grocery stores are run;
I've biscuits baking in the stove! Just wait—they're nearly done!"

Glad House of Plenty, glorified, you seem somehow to know
Where loaves and fishes can be found—as in the long ago.

You seem to make Thanksgiving Day abide throughout the year,
So bounteous are all your feasts, so mother-blest your cheer!

—William Herschell in Indianapolis News.

The Mending Basket

In and out the needle goes,
Mending all the family clothes—
A button off the man's best shirt,
A rent in Ma's silk underskirt,
The children's stockings out at knee—
Well, life for most of us must be
Just such a mending jamboree.

Relationships are broken, too;
Mended again and bravely worn,
And love is new but once, I ween.
A bright dress, donned with shining mien,
Which marriage makes us wear aboon
Though we grow old and, very soon
And all the seams must be let out.

The friendship which to youth is dear
Fits poorly life's mature year.
Paternal pride beams many a patch.
Children are gloves that do not match.
Life's perfect garments are but few
And, when we cannot have the new,
We mend the old and make it do.

TROUBLE BREWING AMONG G.O.P. POLITICIANS IN MAINE

Gov. Brewster Has Accused Arthur R. Gould, Republican Nominee For U. S. Senator, With Violation of the Law Regulating Expenditures in the Recent Republican Primary—Statement Made in Explanation of Gov. Brewster's Failure to Stump For Gould During the Present Campaign.

AUGUSTA, Me., Nov. 25—(AP)—Ralph O. Brewster, Maine's republican governor, accused Arthur R. Gould, republican nominee for United States senator, with violation of the law regulating expenditures in the recent republican primary, in a letter made public tonight. It was the first time Governor Brewster has issued any statement in connection with charges of excessive expenditures that have been brought against Mrs. Gould. His statement was made in a letter to Daniel F. Field, chairman of the republican state committee, in explanation of his failure to take the platform for Mr. Gould during the present campaign.

"The successful nominee was the beneficiary of the expenditure of very considerable sums in excess of the legal limit," the governor wrote. "These expenditures undoubtedly played an important part in his success. He now states that these were made in his behalf by his friends without his knowledge or consent. Such expenditures without the knowledge or consent of a candidate are expressly forbidden under the provisions of our statutes and a penalty of $500 is imposed for each offense. The nominee accordingly has profited very materially by the wholesale criminal acts of his friends and is exactly in the position of a man who is receiving stolen goods."

Charges that Mr. Gould's expenditures during the recent republican primary were in excess of the legal limit of $1,500 will come up for hearing before the secretary of state here tomorrow. These were filed by Rev. A. F. Leigh of Randolph, prominent in the affairs of the Ku Klux Klan in Maine.

He is opposed for election by Fulton J. Redman, democrat. The special election, to be held next Monday, was made necessary by the death of Senator Bert M. Fernald.

In his letter, in which he said that Mr. Field and other republicans of Maine were entitled to know why he did not campaign for the republican nominee, Governor Brewster continued:

"The determination of the measure of responsibility for what was done between himself and his associates is a matter for their joint consideration. His present plea of ignorance places all the responsibility upon his friends and must lead to their indictment if the officials charged with the enforcement of our statutes are faithful to their trust."

TRIAL OF ALPHONSE F. A. SMITH OPENS IN LONDON

MAIDSTONE, England, Nov. 25.—(AP)—"There is no unwritten law in England." This was the outstanding phrase employed by Rolland Oliver, the crown prosecutor, at the opening of the trial today of Alphonse F. A. Smith, formerly an officer in the Dragoon Guards, charged with murdering his lifelong friend, John T. Derham.

On Aug. 12 last, Smith, his wife, and Derham were together in the Smith villa, "Stella Maris" at Whitstable. There was a quarrel and Smith emerged from the struggle badly bruised. Derham was dead. The defense claims that Smith intended to commit suicide and that Derham, in attempting to prevent him, was accidently shot.

A coroner's jury in September found that there was not sufficient evidence to show who fired the shot or whether it was by accident or design. At the inquest it was disclosed that Smith had on more than one occasion shown evidence of anger at Derham's attentions to Mrs. Smith.

Reiterating that England does not recognize the "unwritten law," the prosecutor went on: "Our law does not accept that a man with either good or bad reason for being jealous of another could act in this way. If it were said that the motive prompting Smith to fire was jealousy, that is no answer in this court."

The court was bestirred by fashionably dressed women, for both Smith and Derham were of the socially elect —Smith a grandson of the late Hugh Ryan, noted Canadian railroad builder. Only ticket holders were admitted. Two elderly women served on the jury.

WALK-OUT, NO STRIKE, OF CANADIAN RAILROAD MEN

MONTREAL, Nov. 25.—(AP)—A "peaceful withdrawal from the railway service" of 15,000 Canadian railway employes unless "satisfactory settlement" of a wage dispute is attained was voted today by a committee representing conductors, trainmen and yardmen. Engineers are not affected.

Strike action would affect virtually all of Canada's steam transportation. The date of the strike was not set. According to union officials it is likely a walkout will not be called immediately pending the outcome of wage arbitration in the United States.

The Canadian railroad men are demanding wages commensurate with those paid for similar work in the United States. Their request involves a six per cent. increase.

WEALTHY WOMAN WAS STRANGLED TO DEATH

SEATTLE, Wash., Nov. 25—(AP)—Mrs. Florence Monks, a widow of this city with an estate valued at $500,000, was strangled to death, investigators announced today after an autopsy. Her body was found last night behind the furnace in her home, which she occupied alone.

Mrs. Monks left a sister, Mrs. Charles Drummond of Flushing, Long Island, N. Y.

The Monks house was ransacked and a bodice worn by the victim was torn at a place where she usually wore a diamond sunburst.

NEW YORK, Nov. 25.—(AP)— Ten Americans, selected by readers of the Jewish Tribune as having done most to cement relations between Jews and Gentiles, were announced today as follows: Nathan Straus, Charles W. Eliot, Theodore Roosevelt, Oscar S. Straus, Roger Williams, Woodrow Wilson, Abraham Lincoln, Louis Marshall, Julius Rosenwald and Rabbi Stephen S. Wise.

The selection was made after a ten weeks canvass.

GIRL BORN YESTERDAY TO MR. AND MRS. IRVING BERLIN

NEW YORK, Nov. 25.—(AP)—A girl was born today to Mr. and Mrs. Irving Berlin. Mother and child, in a private sanitarium in East 72nd street, were reported doing well.

Mrs. Berlin is the daughter of Clarence Mackay, head of the Postal Telegraph company. One of the first to visit her was her mother, Mrs. Joseph A. Blake, who motored from Tarrytown. Mr. Mackay is said to be out of the city. The Berlins were married last Jan. 4.

ARRESTED FOR PUBLISHING "THE WHISPERING GALLERY"

LONDON, Nov. 25.—(AP)—The culmination of the strangest literary hoax in recent years came today with the arrest of Hesketh Pearson, the literary agent who caused the publication of "The Whispering Gallery," a sensational book which dealt with court secrets and noted personages. He is charged with obtaining money to the amount of £228, on false pretenses from the John Lane company, which published the book.

"The Whispering Gallery" made what has been characterized as "scandalous" reference to many dead and living members of royal families and eminent men. It created an enormous stir, but was of short life, for, chiefly owing to its denunciation by the Daily Mail, the book was speedily withdrawn from circulation.

It has not been established whether Pearson actually wrote the book himself, but he induced the Lanes to publish it by falsely representing that it was written by Sir Rennell Rodd, who, he explained, desired the authorship to be kept secret.

Sir Rennell Rodd, noted in the British diplomatic service, promptly disavowed the authorship or any knowledge of Pearson, who thereupon publicly apologized to Sir Rennell. When charged today, Pearson pleaded not guilty. The hearing will begin tomorrow in the Marlborough police court.

MRS. FRANCES S. HALL DUE TO TESTIFY TODAY

SOMERVILLE, N. J., Nov. 25—(AP)—Mrs. Frances Stevens Hall, about to follow her brothers to the witness stand in the Hall-Mills case, came to jail today to have Thanksgiving dinner with them.

Prepared to testify tomorrow or Saturday, she was buoyant and smiling as she reached the jail and issued one of her few statements for publication when she told reporters, "I hope you have a good Thanksgiving dinner."

Mrs. Hall brought several applause cards to Willie Stevens. It was evident that her cheerfulness was caused in part, at least, by many letters she has received from friends telling of their enthusiasm over Willie's ability to take care of himself as a witness.

WIRE WHEEL FROM AUTO SMASHED STORE WINDOWS

GREENWICH, Nov. 25.—(AP)— A wire wheel came off the front of a car which John Anderson of Hatfske Height was driving through the business section of this town today, and wending its merry way for two or three hundred feet down the sidewalk, smashed three store windows before coming to a halt. After breaking a window parallel to the sidewalk in one store, the wheel crashed through another in similar plane in a second store and continuing on, rolled up a step, and was stopped by a side window of the store. Anderson and his wife and little son, who were with him, were uninjured, although their automobile went on for a little way before stopping.

$5,000 BURGLARY LOOT WAS RECOVERED IN NEW HAVEN

NEW HAVEN, Nov. 25.—(AP)—Clothing, jewelry and suitcases valued at over $5,000 were recovered today by police in an investigation following the arrest last evening of three men thought to have been responsible for most of the thefts from students and their guests for the Harvard-Yale game last Saturday. One suitcase recovered was identified as that of a student at the Connecticut college, here for the pre-game ball, and a fur coat worn by one of the prisoners turned out to be the property of a Yale student. The men, Frederick Oberman, George Peckham and Thomas Lord, are held under bond of $2,000 each for trial Wednesday.

MADE A MACHINE GUN ATTACK ON HUNDSACKER

HARRISBURG, Ills., Nov. 25.—(AP)—Assailants who early today attempted to take the life of Virgil Hundsacker by dynamiting his home, tonight made a machine gun attack on Hundsacker and two friends as they were returning to their home here.

Hundsacker, his father-in-law, Albert Robinson, and a friend, Milburn Vinson, were attacked as they were driving on a state road a mile and a half of here. Hundsacker was shot three times, once in the neck, shoulder and arm and Robinson was shot once in the leg. Vinson was not injured. Hundsacker's condition is considered critical.

MARRIAGE ANNULMENT STRONGLY CONDEMNED BY BISHOP MANNING

NEW YORK, Nov. 25.—(AP)—The "whole proceeding" of the annulment by the Catholic church of the marriage of the Duke of Marlborough and the former Consuelo Vanderbilt, "is a discredit to the Christian church and an injury to religion," said Bishop William T. Manning at the Cathedral of St. John the Divine today.

The bishop's statement took the form of an extended message to the diocese of New York, in which he said, "if marriages are to be declared null and void on pleas so unreal as this, no marriage, and no home, can be regarded as safe."

The bishop criticised both the grounds on which the annulment decision was rendered, and the right of a vatican court to pass upon the validity of "a marriage between members of another communion, solemnized in a Protestant Episcopal church in New York, under the laws of the United States."

Further characterizing the action of the Roman Rota as "an unwarranted intrusion and an impertinence," Bishop Manning turned to the assertions from abroad that the 17-year-old Consuelo was forced into the marriage by her mother, the present Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont, who sailed yesterday for France.

The Vanderbilt-Marlborough wedding was solemnized in St. Thomas' Protestant Episcopal church here in 1895.

"Many who were present at the marriage," said the bishop, "and were associated closely with the Marlboroughs at the time have informed me that they saw no sign whatever that the bride was acting under any compulsion, but quite of the contrary.

"I have the direct testimony of one who heard his statements that it view of the special circumstances attending the marriage, the rector of the church, the Rev. John Wesley Brown, took great care to assure himself that his young parishioner was acting of her own free consent, and that he was entirely satisfied as to this.

"If there had been forced consent in any sense which constituted duress, relief from this should have been sought, and the forced consent repudiated, at the first practical moment.

"It was not until long after she had been divorced and remarried that she presented this plea to the courts of the Church of Rome.

"The plea of duress made under such circumstances as these, after a quarter of a century of married life, and the birth of two children, would not be entertained by any civil court and the decree of the vatican court based on this plea is one which earnest and devout Roman Catholics themselves should, and I am sure many do, greatly regret.

"This whole proceeding is a discredit to the Christian church and an injury to religion. It has done more than any event in years to weaken the sanctity of marriage.

"At this time when so many influences are at work which threaten to destroy Christian marriage, the outlook is serious indeed if the Roman Catholic church is to take such a position as this decree represents.

"If couples who have lived years in wedlock can procure annulments merely by discovering that undue pressure in some form was used at the time of their marriage, divorce will become unnecessary. In the light of this annulment and the others that are now rumored, based on trivial and quetile grounds, what becomes of the claim of the Roman church that it stands for indissoluble marriage?"

BISHOP DUNN REPLIES TO BISHOP MANNING

NEW YORK, Nov. 25.—(AP)—Bishop John J. Dunn, head of the chancery office of the Roman Catholic archdiocese of New York, declared tonight that "the Catholic church has always protested and will protest against tyranny and selling of women in marriage."

Bishop Dunn's statement was made in reply to one by Bishop Manning of the Protestant Episcopal church criticising the Catholic church for its annulment of the Vanderbilt-Marlborough marriage.

"Whatever doubt one might have had," said Bishop Dunn, "with regard to the compelling force of the evidence submitted in the rota is all dispelled in the amasing and shocking exposure contained in the sworn evidence given by those closest to Consuelo Vanderbilt. It did seem that the days of making women captives and holding them captives for marriage had passed.

"Bishop Manning has stressed very vehemently the claims of the civil law as well as of the ecclesiastical law from the fact that the marriage took place in the United States and was performed according to the rite of the Protestant Episcopal church. He overlooks the higher and the more essential law; namely, the natural law, the law written into the very nature of things by God Himself, which neither civil nor ecclesiastical law can change.

"If at the moment of the making of the contract either party is neither free to give, or is prevented from freely giving their essential consent then there is no power in this world that can possibly supply or later heal the fundamental and essential defect in the contract. The only course is for a renewal of the ceremony, or a full communication to each other of mutual consent.

"The Catholic church in this particular instance is simply defending the sanctity of marriage in its very essentials when it applies to the Marlborough marriage what it has applied, from the dawn of Christianity in similar instances, namely, the principle what God has joined together, let no man put asunder, but that at the moment of the union it be God and not mammon that made the union."

Rev. Clifford Parsons, editor of America, speaking over radio station WRNY tonight, also took issue with Bishop Manning.

"As to the question of the authenticity of the facts," he said, "it must be remembered that the church court listened to sworn evidence, and when Bishop Manning states that the decision is contradicted by known facts he is accusing not the Catholic church but his own church member of perjury."

Gay Thanksgiving in the National Capital

Fair Weather Contributed to the Traditional Celebration of the Day.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 25—(AP)—Washington, blessed today with exceptionally fine weather, made the most of this to celebrate Thanksgiving day in traditional fashion, the presidential household setting the example in laying aside customary activities and devoting the morning to religious observance and the rest of the day to quiet appreciation of the holiday. Suitable attention, however, was given a fine 24-pound turkey at the white house table.

President Coolidge, as a matter of fact, did not forget work entirely, since Secretary Mellon was seen leaving the white house in the morning, and in the late afternoon the executive put in some further work on his annual message to congress.

Accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Frank W. Stearns, of Boston, white house guests, President and Mrs. Coolidge attended a morning Thanksgiving service.

With only Mr. and Mrs. Stearns as guests, Governor Baker's feathered gift from Missouri was the center of attraction at the white house upon the return from church, four other turkeys, three from Mount Pleasant, Ohio, and one from Ipswich, Mass., took care of the white house household.

A notable feature of Washington's Thanksgiving day was the annual "pan-American mass" celebrated at St. Patrick's Roman Catholic church. Attended by most of the Latin-American diplomatic here, Bishop William Joseph Hafey, of Raleigh, N. C., declared the Catholic church to be the standard bearer of orderly government against bolshevism all over the world.

AMERICANS CELEBRATED THANKSGIVING IN ROME

ROME, Nov. 25—(AP)—About two hundred Americans and a large number of Italians gathered at the American Ecclesiastical college today to dine on turkey and other Thanksgiving fare. The honor guests were Monsignor Burke, rector of the college, and Cardinal Sincero.

This was the largest of the many Thanksgiving dinners given by the people of the American colony.

HOW THANKSGIVING WAS CELEBRATED IN LONDON

LONDON, Nov. 25—(AP)—British fog and Yankee ditties added novelty to the American society's Thanksgiving dinner. There was another novelty, but one which etiquette prevented the diners from discussing, that was the fact that the pumpkin pie cost a shilling a slice, owing to the scarcity of pumpkins, which are sold here by the ounce.

The fog was the densest of the year, but it didn't prevent about 500 Americans from groping their way to the Savoy for the annual family reunion inaugurated by the Pilgrim fathers.

But fog is no respecter of Thanksgiving day this far from Plymouth, Mass., and such thick layers penetrated the banquet hall that, from the long table where Ambassador Houghton presided some of the diners on the other side of the room appeared almost to fade away in the mist.

The guest of honor was Lord Chief Justice Sir Gordon Hewart, between the courses the diners sang old American songs, and afterward dancing began which was expected to continue until four in the morning.

FRENCH AND AMERICANS CELEBRATED IN PARIS

PARIS, Nov. 25—(AP)—For the first time in years, Thanksgiving shared a page in the calendar with St. Catherine today, giving both Frenchmen and Americans in Paris the opportunity for a joyous holiday.

The American colony observed the day in the traditional manner, dining sumptuously, with turkey and all the "fixings," and making speeches recalling the first Thanksgiving day.

For the French it was the one day in the year in which every maiden who admits to 25 or more years has the right to deck herself in the mode of other times, parade, sing, block traffic to her heart's content and plant a kiss on the cheek of any passing swain who may please her eye.

During the two-hour lunch period the boulevards were brightened by bands of parading midinettes with their St. Catharine's bonnets, which looked more old-fashioned than ever above tight-fitting gowns exposing the legs to the knees.

Most of the shops let their unmarried feminine employes call it a day after three o'clock, from which hour until late tonight the boulevards and dance halls were much gayer than usual.

NINE PERSONS RESCUED FROM A PLEASURE CRAFT AFIRE

CORPUS CHRISTI, Texas, Nov. 25.—(AP)—Nine persons aboard the cruiser Helena were rescued uninjured tonight when the pleasure craft was set afire by a series of explosions two miles off shore in Corpus Christi bay.

Gangsters Warlike on Thanksgiving Day

Wrecked House by Dynamite in Harrisburg, Ill.—Had Battle in Chicago Street.

HARRISBURG, Ills., Nov. 25—(AP)—The scene in the Shelton-Birger gang warfare was shifted to Harrisburg again early today when the home of Virgil Hundsacker, one block from the home of Charley Birger, gang leader, was badly damaged by a dynamite explosion and the store front of Sam Ripperdam was riddled by bullets fired by five unidentified men.

Ripperdam was wounded slightly in the head when struck by buckshot.

The first attack was on the Ripperdam store, which is about a mile and a half northwest of the public square on a detour road to Marion, county seat of Williamson county.

Ripperdam detected five men attempting to enter the store presumably for robbery, and opened fire. The volley was returned and the doors and windows were shot to pieces.

About an hour later the whole town was rocked by the explosion at the Hundsacker home, which is in the western section. All the windows were broken but none of the occupants was injured. Hundsacker has never before figured in the factional bootleggers strife.

Birger told newspapermen the explosion almost knocked him out of bed. One theory is that the dynamite was intended for his house.

The seventh automobile within a week was stolen here last night. Birger, who has set himself up as a "protector" of his home town against outside gunmen, recovered one of the stolen cars at West Frankfort yesterday and returned it to its owner.

All the coal mines in this vicinity were closed today because of the Thanksgiving holiday and everything was quiet.

TWO GANGSTERS WOUNDED IN WARFARE IN CHICAGO

CHICAGO, Ill., Nov. 25—(AP)—The rat-a-tat-tat of a gangster machine gun and shotguns broke the Thanksgiving quiet of the South Side tonight. Two notorious gangsters and a bystander were wounded in the renewal of the war of extermination between rival bands of bootleggers and gangsters.

The victims of tonight's outbreak were Thomas and Charles O'Donnell, bootlegging gangster brothers of Edward "Spike" O'Donnell, who has engaged in the beer racket here. The bystander who was wounded was Charles Barrett.

The battle was as spectacular as that staged in State street on the North Side a few weeks ago, when several gangsters were shot by rivals hidden in an apartment building and armed with a machine gun.

The O'Donnell brothers were cornered by several thugs riding in an automobile from which bristled the muzzles of a machine gun and several shot guns.

Charles O'Donnell had left the home of Miss Margaret Burns in South Ashland avenue and his brother, Tom, at the same moment came out a cigar store across the street when the automobile pulled up a few feet distant.

One man leaped from the automobile with a shot gun, and running across the street pointed it at Charles O'Donnell and fired. As if the first shot were a signal, the occupants of the automobile blazed away with shotguns and the machine gun, raking the street in the vicinity of the O'Donnell's with more than 100 shots while pedestrians scurried for cover.

Charles O'Donnel fell at the first shot and his brother Tom was dropped in the fusillade, while one slug struck Barrett, a bystander. An automobile owned by the O'Donnells, parked nearby, was raked with bullets, but it was unoccupied.

Charles O'Donnell, shot through the back, was found in a hospital by the police. His condition is serious. Thomas was shot in the arm and his wound is not serious. He was taken to a hospital where he refused to give any information to the police, claiming he did not know his assilants.

Barrett was struck in the right shoulder and said he knew nothing about the shooting.

Tom O'Donnell said that he just happened by and did not know Charles was calling on Miss Burns. He said his brother, "Spike" was at a football game.

The police immediately started rounding up rival gang leaders and hoodlums. They were looking particularly for a man known only as "Cogger" who had a fight with Charles O'Donnell last Saturday night near where today's shooting occurred and who had made threats against him.

The O'Donnell gang was one of the first beer running bands on the South Side. Originally there were five brothers, Edward "Spike," the leader; Tom and Charles who were shot today, and Steve and Walter. John, another brother, was not involved in the organization, so far as known. Walter O'Donnell was killed in 1925 along with a companion, Harry Hassmiller, when the two invaded a roadhouse in the territory of Johnny Torrio, an arch enemy, and tried to shoot up the place.

William P. Trainis alias William H. Tucker of Barre, Vt., was arrested by customs patrolmen at Northumberland, N. H., when his car was found to contain a large quantity of assorted liquors.

AT LEAST 13 PERSONS WERE KILLED BY TORNADO THAT SWEPT NORTH ARKANSAS

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Nov. 25—(AP)—Thirteen persons are known to be dead and three injured, one seriously, in the path of a tornado which swept North Arkansas this afternoon. The twister travelled from Heber Springs, in Cleburne County, through Opelo in Conway county to Bellville in Yell county. Three persons also are miss at Opelo, according to reports compiled tonight by the Arkansas Gazette.

Nine of the dead are at Heber Springs, Ark., and that the town was badly damaged, fire breaking out in several instances. Beside the three persons reported missing at Opelo, four persons are known to be dead there and seven or eight buildings demolished, including a school house.

The dead at Opelo are:

Mr. and Mrs. Drake Stafford and child.

A Mrs. Jones.

Governor Terral and Adjutant General Wayne conferred after news of the disaster as to the advisability of rushing national guard troops, tents and other supplies to the stricken counties. The Pulaski county Red Cross organization also was in conference.

Reports drifting in over a crippled wire system were believed incomplete.

An entire family named Morris was reported wiped out at Heber Springs.

Pine Bluff telephone operators reported a child was missing after the tornado picked up the house of Lloyd Brand five miles south of Sheridan and that several other members of the Brand family were injured.

DESPERADO "BUM" ROGERS CAPTURED ABED IN THE BRONX

Twenty-two Armed Men Found the Notorious Criminal and Escaped Convict Asleep in a Tenement House—Declared He Had Not Been Out of Manhattan or the Bronx Since He Escaped Last December—Had Been Positively Identified as Leader of Gang Which Stole $100,000 Payroll Last July.

NEW YORK, Nov. 25—(AP)—Five minutes before the tinkle of an alarm clock might have sent him out of reach of the arm of the law, John J. "Bum" Rogers, notorious criminal and escaped convict, was captured today in his bed in a Bronx tenement house.

Retiring last night as a free but widely hunted man, wanted since his escape shortly before Christmas last year, the ex-convict awoke on Thanksgiving day to face an army of detectives.

Twenty-two men, heavily armed, swooped in on the apartment, on the fourth floor of a building in Third avenue Guns, pistols and blackjacks confronted the dazed and seedy fugitive, whose appearance long ago earned him his "monicker."

As he rose to a sitting posture, a blackjack "placed" him in position for the manacles and a search which has been pursued intensively for the criminal in New York, New Jersey and elsewhere was concluded.

Questioned at police headquarters, Rogers, alias John J. O'Brien, and Hughes disclaimed having participated in any of the robberies of recent months in which his name has become a recurrent symbol.

He said he had not been outside Manhattan and the Bronx since his escape last December, and search of the apartment in the tenement failed to reveal any money or stolen goods.

The only objects in the pockets of the man who was believed to have participated in numerous robberies and the sensational $100,000 holdup of a mail truck in Elizabeth, N. J., last month, were a penny and a button.

His clothes were ill kept and a ragged moustache, grown apparently for disguise, added to his characteristic "down and out" appearance.

His arrest in his sleep today puts Rogers back in jail for the first time since his startling escape, December 14 last. A guard taking him to Sing Sing to serve thirty-six years for various robberies, was clubbed by a pal of Rogers as the train entered the station at 125th street, New York, and the two fled.

During the eleven months of freedom, the name of "Bum" Rogers was linked with nearly every robbery of magnitude and daring in the metropolitan area.

The capture today came through the trailing of the movements of his friends and family. When detectives found his "home," all available police were requisitioned, and Third avenue before the sleeper's alarm went off at its usual hour of 7 this morning, reassembled an armed camp.

Rogers has had a long criminal career, which began more than twenty years ago when he was committed for thirty-two months to a Protectory. From houses of refuge he progressed to jails, from petty larceny in 1918 to assault and robbery charges. He drew sentence after sentence until on Lincoln's birthday, 1917, for assault and robbery, he got 14 years in Sing Sing.

He was paroled three years later by Governor Smith, but was "up" again frequently afterward, and captured more general public notice by escaping with two others from Blackwell's Island in the East river in 1925. One of his companions was "James (Kid) Cunliffe," who was shot in Detroit recently, and was believed to have figured in the mail robbery under Rogers' direction.

Rogers was said to have been positively identified as the leader of a gang of six which stole a $100,000 payroll last July and his name was next mentioned in the robbery of Merck, Chemical company at Rahway, N. J.

James Pacificio, 27 years old, and Mrs. Helen Gershewitz, 23 years old, who occupied the apartment in which Rogers was arrested, were taken in custody and questioned.

"BUM" ROGERS WAS NOT IN ELIZABETH MAIL ROBBERY

SOMERVILLE, N. J., Nov. 25—(AP)—State police tonight announced that John "Bum" Rogers, notorious criminal, recaptured in New York today was not connected by them with the Elizabeth mail robbery on October 14, nor with the slaying of Frank E. Kenney and his son, Robert, near New Brunswick, on October 4.

Corporal Matthew J. Daly, who worked on both investigations, said Rogers was at first suspected of having participated in the Kearney killings, because two witnesses out of eight had identified pictures of Rogers as the man who was with James "Peter" Cunniffe, that night Cunniffe's companion was later identified as Willie "Ice Wagon" Connolly, who was shot to death in Detroit.

Halwax police, also denied that Rogers had ever been connected with the Merck chemical robbery.

NAVAL AVIATORS WERE NOT DISCOURAGED BY FAILURES

WASHINGTON, Nov. 25.—(AP)—The shade of John Rodgers, smiled encouragement today to his former mates as they rested and contemplated their failure to write a new chapter to the annals of aeronautics.

The feet of the valiant commander, who had 15 months before led an expedition across the Pacific which brought him and his crew down a record distance of 7,341 miles from the starting point to drift nine days before a submarine found them off the island of Kauai, remains the greatest non-stop performance for navy fliers in PN seaplanes.

Two PN-10 seaplanes, improved in design and construction over those which Rodgers and his companions flew, were down today. They took off at twilight Tuesday on a non-stop venture, intended to take them 2,060 miles from Hampton Roads, Virginia, to Colon, Canal Zone.

That of Lieutenant Sommander H. T. Bartlett, the PN-10 No. 2, was taking inventory today of her flight at Siguana Bay, Isle of Pines, preparatory to resuming the voyage. Bartlett, went down at Nueva Gerona, Isle of Pines, at 6.30 a. m. yesterday, their oil supply exhausted.

He reported today that repairs could be made in time to take off at 6 a. m. tomorrow for the final 769 mile hop to Colon and requested a destroyer to stand guard along the route, if none is available he will undertake the flight with the cruiser Raleigh trailing him at 25 knots.

The companion craft, PN-10 No. 1, Lieutenant Byron J. Connell, commanding, was plowing along today under tow of the light cruiser Cincinnati, 13 miles south of the point where she was picked up last night by the Cincinnati, headed for Guantanamo Bay at a speed of eight knots.

Lieutenant Connell reported that all members of the crew were well. He said the plane would need a new starboard engine and asked that equipment be sent him at Guantanamo to install the engine. A connecting rod in this motor ad broken after the crew had struggled against a feverish oil pressure, forcing the ship down 245 miles south of the Isle of Pines.

With only meagre details in their possession, aeronautic officials were at loss today to explain why the No. 1 ceased to communicate with her guard ships, and why the No. 2 ran out of lubricating oil. The bureau of aeronautics was inclined to assign the failure of the PN-10's to insufficiency of seaplane motor power to meet the requirements imposed by the staunchness and weights of hydro-aero construction.

Rear Admiral William A. Moffett, chief of the naval bureau of aeronautics, met the least discouraged by the results, said today that the flight showed the navy had yet to solve certain problems in engine building to increase the range of her heavy planes.

"We'll keep trying," he said.

A YOUTHFUL BANDIT WAS EASILY SATISFIED

NEW HAVEN, Nov. 25.—(AP)—A youthful bandit who held up Harry Bellin, proprietor of a grocery store, with a revolver and demanded his money, was easily satisfied. Given entree to the cash register, he accepted the few dollars in change he found there, and the word of the proprietor that he had no bills, and went his way. He has not yet been found.

OPTIMISTIC NOTE IN THANKSGIVING SERMON

NEW HAVEN, Nov. 25.—(AP)—Although "respect for law, and faith in the integrity of those who administer it, have never sunk so low among us, nor can it sing much lower and leave us any security in government," and although "violations of the vows of love cannot long increase and leave those foundations of the home on which the nation rests," Rev. Franklin J. Kennedy, pastor of the First Methodist church here, struck an optimistic note in his sermon at the Thanksgiving community service in Woolsey hall at Yale university today.

"Underneath the surface, agencies of redemption are at work, unprecedented agencies, new forces, and powers bright with promise that we shall learn the lesson over which the ages have faltered, the lesson of how to nurture the soul amid an abundance of corn," he said. The home-making of the younger generation and the place of women in modern life came in for commendation.

NO CHANGE IN DANBURY TRANSPORTATION SITUATION

DANBURY, Nov. 25.—(AP)—The transportation situation here shows no change today, with the operating employes of the Danbury Power and Transp. ation company, who went on strike Tuesday night, apparently awaiting developments and the company waiting for permission from the public utilities commission to put into operation the eight new buses it has purchased.

Formal application has been made to the commission, it is understood, and members of that body have been here to look over the ground, but no action has been taken. Meanwhile service between Danbury and Bethel is maintained by a taxicab company, which secured special permission to operate some larger buses on the route.

BLOODY FIGHT BETWEEN NEIGHBORS IN NEW HAVEN

NEW HAVEN, Nov. 25.—(AP)—Covered with blood but only slightly injured, two neighbors were arrested tonight in the latest outcropping of a family feud. When the children of Albert La France invaded the lawn of Americano Popolizo, they were told to go home and a little girl ran to tell her father he had been beaten. La France went over to expostulate with Popolizo and a fight ensued. The police, unable to decide who was at fault, took both to jail.

COUNT LUDWIG SALEM HAS ARRIVED AS AN IMMIGRANT

NEW YORK, Nov. 25.—(AP)— Count Ludwig Salm-Hoogstraeten, husband of the former Millicent Rogers, arrived on the Homeric today as an immigrant under the German quota, to bring suit for separation against his wife.

The suit has been postponed several times pending his arrival and hearing has been set for this week.

The count said he plans to establish a permanent residence in the United States and is "considering becoming an American citizen."

VENICE, Italy, Nov. 25.—(AP)—Six workers were killed and 14 injured yesterday when a cornice of a house at the famous glass factory at Murano collapsed.

WILLIMANTIC

Office, 864 Main St. Telephone 1191-5

MIKE MORLEY, FORMER, BOXER, MARRIES WILLIMANTIC GIRL

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Nov. 25—Miss Mary Rose Cloutier, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Cloutier of 73 Spring street was married to Michael Morley, son of Mr and Mrs. Joseph Morley of Hartford at a pretty wedding solemnized in St Mary's church at eight o'clock Thursday morning. Rev. H. C. Heloc officiated at the ceremony and was celebrant of the nuptial high mass.

The attendants were Miss Leona Cloutier, sister of the bride, as maid of honor and Adam Morley, of Hartford, brother of the groom, as best man.

The bride was charmingly gowned in white chiffon velvet, bouffon style. Her veil was caught up with pearls and she carried a shower bouquet of roses and lillies of the valley.

Her maid of honor was attired in a fresh colored gown and she carried a bouquet of pink roses. She wore a hat to match. A wedding breakfast was served at the home of the bride's parents for members of the contracting families and close friends to the number of thirty. Later in the day Mr. and Mrs. Morley left on an unannounced honeymoon journey. Upon their return they will occupy a newly furnished apartment at 14 Standish street, Hartford. For traveling the bride wore a frock of jungle green crepe trimmed with brocaded velvet and a coat of suedine with beaver trimmings. Mrs. Morley has been employed at the Rosedale Velvet company here. The groom is a former pugilist and for the past few years has been a member of the Hartford police department. The bride is a popular member of the younger set in this city and within the past few months has been guest of honor at a series of pre-nuptial functions.

Even the healthiest men sometimes have aches

TORMENTED BY ACUTE NEURITIS

Crippling aches quickly relieved by simple home remedy

Freed from the crippling pain of neuritis after having tried various treatments without getting relief, a well-known business man of Cincinnati, Ohio, writes:

"Following influenza I was seized with a violent attack of neuritis in the right arm and shoulder. I got no relief until I tried Sloan's Liniment. The affected arm and shoulder were shortly restored to a healthy condition and all pain and symptoms disappeared."

Sloan's gives real relief because it doesn't just deaden the pain. It gets at the cause.

Just put it on gently. At once you feel the increased flow of healing, pain-destroying blood right in the part that hurts. Quickly and surely, it relieves swelling and inflammation, gives out stiffness, kills pain. Get a bottle. All druggists—35 cents.

DANIELSON

THANKSGIVING BOUNTY AT INSTITUTIONS THURSDAY

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Nov. 25.—Thanksgiving feasts were provided for the 16 members of the household at Killingly town farm on Thursday—12 men and 4 women—and it was made as bountiful a repast as is the rule at the institution, which is under the management of Supt. Oliver Bassett, with Mrs. Bassett as matron.

A chicken dinner with all the vegetables and other good things was served at the farm, the majority of the chickens that entered into the feast coming from the products of the farm land.

Over at the county jail in Brooklyn Jailer Tripp saw to it that the 46 prisoners held there over the holiday had a good dinner. Fresh pork and various vegetables and desserts entered into the making of as substantial a dinner as anyone need have. The thoughtfulness of the town farm and the jail management found appreciation in the gratitude of the inmates for all that was done for them.

ADMIRAL CHAS. F. POND CALIFORNIA'S NOTED HIKER

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Nov. 25.—Charles F. Pond, a native of Brooklyn, for many years a naval officer and now retired and a resident of Berkeley, Calif., is thus written up in the Berkeley Daily Gazette.

The city's "walking admiral" Rear Admiral Charles Freemont Pond, who has just celebrated his 76th birthday has returned from another hiking expedition which this time took him up a 12,000-foot mountain peak, after a 150-mile jaunt over snow passes in the high Sierras.

"A mears nothing," he smiles, as he recalls other recent and longer trips he has taken. Meanwhile his friends marvel at his stamina, as they have been marveling since 1918 when the "Walking Admiral" or at that time more properly Rear Admiral Charles Freemont Pond, was retired.

Retirement was just a bit of navy routine to Admiral Pond, and he declined to stay put. His friends will testify that he has covered considerable territory on foot, as many miles, possibly, as would favorably compare with the distance he covered aboard battleships.

Admiral Pond, who served under Sampson in Cuba and spent 46 years of his life as a naval officer, tramped back into Berkeley recently after a walking trip in the Kern and King river canyons in the most precipitious region of the high Sierras. A year or so ago the veteran naval officer chalked up 300 miles when he walked from Lake Tahoe to Yosemite and continued through the surrounding country.

Returning this time, Admiral Pond had no complaint to register. The burros carrying the hikers' pack experienced great difficulty crossing the snowy passes.

"After this my pack goes on my back. I'll be hiker and burro, too and will make better time," he claimed.

With Fremont Morse, Admiral Pond was the first to make a survey of the coast of Alaska in the inaugural survey of 1832. They were aboard the U. S. Coast and Geodetic Survey steamer Hassler and had many unusual experiences, one of which was the climb up Tired Mountain in Alaska, the story of which Admiral Pond related to his dinner guests at his birthday party, Tuesday night at Cloyne court.

Admiral Pond was born in Brooklyn, Windham county, Conn., in 1856. He was graduated from the U. S. Naval academy in 1876. Served during the Spanish American war and then made many government survey trips. He superintended the landing of the trans-Atlantic cable at Midway Islands in 1902. In 1915 he was commander-in-chief of the Pacific Reserve fleet and previous to that was on duty at Mare Island. He was retired in 1918 after an unusually active career.

He is a member of the Bohemian, Sierra and Press clubs of San Francisco and still makes long jaunts each summer with the Sierra club.

In that cold and gray period that one experiences at 5.30 a. m. this period of the year a holiday sojourner and his family were having their troubles down at the junction of Main and Water streets Thanksgiving morning. They were bound for Waterbury for a holiday dinner and their old and dilapidated car had stalled.

A Danielson man who happened along paused and gazed in wonder at the outfit. On one running board of the machine a cook stove was roped on, beside it a crate full of live fowl. The other running board was burdened with a parlor stove and another crate of chickens. A stove pipe protruded through an opening in the rear of the car where a window once was. Bags of vegetables found place on the running boards, a feather bed was tied on the rear of the machine near the spare tire and other bedding rested between the hood and front fenders. There were chairs and some other furniture in the rear of the car, where also was the man's spouse and his three children. An old overcoat was stuffed in a break between the cowl and the windshield to keep the cold out. Add to this combination a car that had just about dropped dead on the trip and you have a fairly accurate picture of how to spend a holiday. Yet the man said "I'se goin, to make Waterbury for that chicken dinner or bust!"

Besmirching a period given over to pleasure, crooks got in a few licks here Thanksgiving eve. Miss Lillian Turcotte, who came here from Occum to attend a dance at the state armory, had a black sealskin coat that was new two weeks ago stolen. Another crook, presumably, got away with a balloon tire from a car left parked by the owner while he went about enjoying the sights and fancies of the evening.

About 200 people were present at the sunrise service held Thuanksgiving morning at the Methodist church, in connection with the Rees meetings. The service began at 5.30 o'clock, the congregation singing Praise God From Whom All Blessings Flow." The address by Dr. Rees was most inspiring and helpful. Dr. and Mrs. Rees are to be here only a few days longer. This (Friday) afternoon Dr. Rees will speak to youg ladies on "A Grandmother's Talk to Girls." This (Friday) evening he speaks to Sunday schools. There are to be union services all day Sunday at the M. E. church, morning service at 10.30, union church school at 12 m., mass meeting for men at 3 p. m., union service at 7 p. m. The singing led by the choir and orchestra and directed by Mrs. Rees.

The air of Sunday pervaded Danielson Thanksgiving day. It was much like the old-time Thanksgivings, with hundreds going to church at some time during the day, with family reunions and holiday feasts and the pleasant social hours for gatherings of families and friends. For those who wanted something a bit different there were football games here and elsewhere in the morning, theatre offerings in the afternoon and evening and dances for those with energy enough at the day's end to be interested in such things.

Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Kennedy were guests of relatives in Hartford on Thanksgiving.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Head and members of their family of Winsted were holiday guests of Michael Head and family on Academy street.

F. E. Bitgood was at Springfield on Thanksgiving day, visiting with his son, Paul, a student at an institution in that city.

From Owosso, Mich., where they have been spending a few days with relatives, word comes from Town Clerk and Mrs. Frank T. Preston that a blanket of snow covers the territory where they are.

John M. Dowe, Richard D. Banigan and Herbert H. Pepler, local Brown men, were at Providence Thanksgiving day to cheer the Brown team in its annual football encounter with Colgate.

Vaudeville and pictures at the theatre, Thanksgiving day, furnished diversion for hundreds of Danielson people.

Attorney George Thayer, world traveler, of Hartford, his son, Charles T. Thayer, of Putnam, and members of the family were visitors here Thanksgiving evening with Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Witter of Cottage street.

Numbers of cases of measles are reported as prevalent among the children of Danielson and other parts of the town of Killingly.

A red fox was brought in Thanksgiving day by Deputy Game Warden Gurdon R. Withey, one of the veteran fox hunters of the state.

Members of Rose of Lima council, K. of C., have a meeting scheduled for this (Friday) evening.

Of the hundreds of residents in this town who must pay personal tax before December 15, few have given attention to the matter as yet.

There was a large attendance at the Thanksgiving mass at St. James' church, Thursday morning.

Gordon J. Gale was in Providence on the holiday.

Miss Florence Loiselle, a student at Marlboro, Mass., is spending the holiday season with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred Loiselle.

Miss Alice Smith has returned to her home here, having been a patient at the Day Kimball hospital in Putnam for several weeks.

Joseph LaBelle and Charles Franklin were members of a shing party that recently took several hundred pounds of fish in an expedition to Charleston Beach, R. I.

With Mr. and Mrs. Clinton Pellett for the holiday season is their daughter, Miss Marian Pellett, student at Atlantic Union college, Lancaster, Mass.

A male quartet of St. Alban's parish here is to sing on Sunday at a service at Warehouse Point, where Rev. Albert Japson, formerly of St. Alban's is rector.

A mission for English-speaking people of St. James' parish is to open at the church Sunday.

Preparations are complete for the installation as pastor next Tuesday of Rev. Harding W. Gaylord of the Westfield Congregational church.

Paul E. Young of Worcester academy is spending the Thanksgiving recess at his home in Goodyear.

Mr. and Mrs. A. V. Woodworth were at Providence Thanksgiving, to attend the Brown-Colgate football game.

From Oneco comes the veiled insinuation that lives of local officers are threatened because of their desire to enforce the liquor laws. The county would like to know all about that—right out loud. The matter is too serious to be lightly treated.

The Union Baptist church at East Killingly is temporarily without a pastor, but Sunday services are being conducted regularly.

At Wauregan a temporary bridge over the Quinebaug river continues in use. The new bridge is nearing completion, however, and will be ready for traffic before long.

OLD MYSTIC

The Old Mystic Social circle held its meeting in the Methodist parish house Monday evening. Twenty-one members were present and several guests. A clam chowder was served and a pleasing program was given. An orchestra composed of Mr. and Mrs. Rowland Avery, violins, Elisha Davis, banjo, Mrs. Edna Steadman, pianist and Leslie Haley, drum, furnished music. The following program was given:

Opening selection, orchestra; song, Miss Helen Allyn; reading, Amos Gallup; selection, orchestra; reading, Clifford Holmes; recitation, Mrs. Flora Avery; sketch, The Toonerville Trio; closing selection, orchestra.

Several have Thanksgiving guests; Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Desley have a family gathering.

Mr. and Mrs. Perry H. Eldredge have their three daughters and families, Mr. and Mrs. Lee Coles and two sons of Norwich, Mr. and Mrs. Adelbert Carter and son of Wethersfield, Mr. and Mrs. J. Hamilton Smith and four children of New Haven.

Mrs. Joseph Austin attended the whist given by Mystic grange Tuesday afternoon and was awarded first prize.

Mrs. Floyd Main with her daughter of Moosup is visiting her father, Rev. L. P. MacLennen.

Miss Emma Williams a teacher in Nathan Hale school, New London is spending the holidays with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Prentice Williams.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Burdick have been making improvements in their home.

The United Workers met Monday and tied a quilt.

The Ladies' Aid society of the Baptist church omitted their meeting this week.

Urban Whitford and Clifford Holmes are building an addition to Roebuck's store.

Putnam, Nov. 25.—The Quinnatisset grange elected the following officers for the coming year: Master, Alexander Maitland; overseer, Hewey Robbins; lecturer, Mrs. John Bogardus; steward, Louis Smith; assistant steward, Robert Johnson; chaplin, Mrs. Grace Amidon; treasurer, John J. Bernklow; secretary, Mrs. Robert Johnson; gate keeper, John Sherry; Ceres, Maxine Elliott; Ponona, Mrs. Doris Babbitt; Flora, Mrs. Lulu Reynolds; lady assistant steward, Miss Edna Hall.

It was voted to make Alonzo Stevens who is 87 years of age, an honorary member. The next meeting will be the past masters' and the past lectures' night and is to be in charge of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Barton.

The Colonial quilt which the members of the auxiliary of the American Legion post at Grosvenordale has just completed is attracting much attention. It is a duplicate of the one made for Mrs. Herbert Hoover by the Neighborhood house at Washington, D. C., and which she gave to her son in 1925 as a wedding gift.

Putnam is to see a minstrel show of the old time type, put on by local people and directed by a committee of practical experienced people.

It will be sponsored by the Elizabeth Porter Putnam chapter, D. A. R., and the Parent-Teach association and it will be put on at the Bradley theatre in February.

It has been a long time since there has been a minstrel show in Putnam but it is a form of entertainment that if properly handled never fails to prove enjoyable to those who witness it, and if composed by local talent, to those who take part in it. A worth while minstrel show of this type always provides a "kick" for those on each side of the procenium arch. There will be a first part with the semi-circle of "black faces" with an interlocutor and end men or end women, probably both. The remark of the former when the curtain rises will be "gentlemen and ladies be seated."

The project has taken definite form as the date has been practically set and the following committee named ought to insure an enjoyable, profitable evening: Ralph C. Jenkins, William E. Wheaton, Jacob Alpert, L. Edwin Hill and Sydney Marland. The latter is from Danielson who has had recent experience in organizing an entertainment of this kind and the affair will be largely under his direction. The above plans were decided upon at a meeting attended by about 15 representatives of the two societies.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Rawley and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Rawley spent Thanksgiving with Mr. and Mrs. William Klebert, at Webster and went to a theatre at Worcester in the evening.

The Congregational, Methodist and Baptist churches joined in a union Thanksgiving service on Wednesday evening at 7:30 o'clock at the First Baptist church. There was a large attendance and Rev. Frank Fuller of this city preached the sermon. His text was "Oh that men would praise the Lord for his goodness" and his talk was very applicable to the occasion.

Thanksgiving service was held at St. Philip's Episcopal church on Thursday morning.

Mrs. Cora Davis, aged 58, died at her home in East Thompson on Wednesday. She was the wife of Rev. George E. Davis, pastor of the Methodist church at East Thompson and has lived in this section but a few months. She is survived by three sons, two of whom live at home. The body will be taken to Tarrytown, N. Y., for burial.

Rev. Walter Lanphear has taken charge of the new community Congregational church in Eastford, which is now the only church there. He was actively engaged in civic work during the war and was a frequent visitor to Putnam, making many friends here who welcome the fact that he is now located so near that there will be many opportunities to renew old friendships.

H. H. Ellis, superintendent of the state trade school in Putnam was in Bridgeport this week where he attended the dedication of the new trade school at that place and which is the largest in the state. They teach 24 different trades there. The Putnam trade school now stands third in the state.

Amherst college has announced the 1926 gridiron title holders and there are 19 members of the team who have been awarded their letters. Among those getting the letters is Chandler Morse, son of Attorney Ernest C. and Mrs. Morse of this city.

Summer Memories

A shore dinner you must know sometime

SPRUCEWOLD LODGE, overlooking Boothbay Harbor, is the largest log cabin hotel in the world. Every outlook is over green forests. The sea, with its many islands and bays and coves, appears in nearly every direction.

The dining room here seats 400 people. It is furnished in rustic hickory. Under the trusses are old ships' knees, salvaged from wrecked ships. The electric bulbs are suspended from the spokes of old ships' wheels. Moose heads are over the fireplace. Mounted wild animals decorate the walls. The candlesticks on the tables are in the form of pine cones. Mr. Parker Nickerson owns this unique hotel.

Thousands of people come here in summer to enjoy a far-famed shore dinner prepared under Martin James. It is as matchless as the sunsets from this high observation point. Visitors never forget the lobster and clam dishes, the doughnuts and the coffee.

The coffee is La Touraine—the coffee now served in the finest of New York tea rooms. No other blend is worthy to end such a dinner.

You can serve that same coffee all the year around in your home. It will bring to your table supreme delights. Then you will know that nowhere in America—whatever the other enticements—is there coffee better than yours.

Interesting facts about La Touraine (Extra) Coffee

It is the largest-selling coffee in New England, the birthplace of fine coffees in America. In this home of exacting coffee critics, it is considered the supreme result of 237 years of coffee development.

It is the coffee served in many dining places famous for their coffees. In all Statler Hotels, for instance. In the magnificent Shoreland of Chicago. In countless country homes which study fine hospitality.

The blend combines the four finest coffees that grow. Each comes from a different country, each is the pride of a nation. Each derives its excellent flavor from one of the rarest soils of the earth.

Three of the coffees combined in this blend cost 50% more than ordinary coffee, and 15% more than Seo Paulo, the prize coffee of Brazil. One is so rare that only 30,000 bags are grown yearly.

The formula for this blend is a secret, carefully preserved. Coffee experts spent twenty years in perfecting it. No other blend has been made to resemble it. Those who find here their ideal flavor can find it nowhere else.

Mr. E. J. Sudet, the noted coffee expert, personally tests, tastes and selects all coffees used in this blend. His duty is to maintain, without regard to cost, this premier coffee flavor. He pays any price necessary to combine in La Touraine (Extra) the maximum delights.

La Touraine (Extra) is sold direct to retail grocers. This to save middlemen's profits. It is sold in double sealed cartons, not in cans. These and other economies—about 11 cents per pound—pay for the extra quality. Thus users get this matchless coffee without a fancy price.

UNITED STATES AND MEXICO

The situation which has arisen between this country and Mexico is not a new one. It is simply the bringing to a head again of the controversy which it had been supposed was settled back in 1923 when this country was satisfied regarding the representations made by Mexico concerning the enforcement of its land and petroleum laws. At that time the United States was given to understand that there would be no retroactive effect of the new laws, and because of this indicated intention, and virtually a promise, recognition of the Mexican government followed. That ended a period of strained relations, a relief that was of decided benefit to Mexico and meant a change that gave promise of lasting advantages in many ways to the neighbor to the south.

But what Mexico promised then it now desires to evade. Instead of respecting the property rights of the Americans and other foreigners who bought property under previous laws, it seeks to make such holders abide by new laws, which would deprive them of the right to appeal to this country for protection and force them to give up possession of a certain part of their holdings and to own no land within a certain distance of the seacoast and the boundaries.

As to these provisions there would not be objection on the part of Americans or foreigners if the laws applied to acquisitions from the time the laws became effective. That is where the trouble hinges for Mexico expects them to apply to all land irrespective of when it was obtained. The situation is made the more aggravating because Mexico was ready to give assurance three years ago that there would be no retroactive effect of the law's enforcement and now, despite its negotiations, it plans to turn its back on the promise.

There is no desire for a rupture of relations but Mexico is being firmly told what is expected of it and that enforcement of the land and petroleum laws can mean nothing else but another severance. This country has shown how a break can be prevented and it rests with Mexico to determine its course.

WASHINGTON MONUMENT BARRIERS

Because a few persons have taken their lives by leaping from the Washington monument there is a demand, and a proper one, for the construction of safeguards that will prevent anything of the kind in the future.

Two persons, within a few days of each other, climbed through a window and dropped to the ground below. As was to be expected, and was intended, both were killed, and the second one came within inches of causing the death of a guard by striking him as he fell. From all indications the second suicide was prompted, as to method, by the first. In spite of the numbers in the monument much of the time it was possible to elude detection while planning the leaps. Recognition was given to the need of barring the windows, or in some way preventing a person from crawling through them, immediately the first death became known. Now that the second case has followed probably something will be done without delay, but it is hardly to be supposed that even had the windows been guarded that the loss of life would have been prevented for those bent upon taking their lives would have found some other place or used some other method had the monument been so guarded as to have denied them a chance to jump.

Nevertheless the Washington monument was not erected for the purpose of aiding, abetting or accommodating those contemplating suicide. These two are not the only deaths which have occurred there and it is desired that there be no more if it can be prevented.

Without a doubt the second suicide this month is going to result in the establishment of adequate barriers that will prevent anyone from leaping or falling, and while this is being done in regard to the windows it is a proper time for giving consideration to the need of gratings on the inside of the shaft for the same protective purpose. For the latter an appropriation has already been sought but not granted as yet. It is unfortunate that the loss of two lives were necessary before something was done but that is too often the case with many measures of protection. Tragedy is one of the greatest prompters of safety.

POISON GAS

When the American Legion at national convention reversed itself in regard to the use of poison gas in war and opposed the acceptance by this country of the Geneva treaty, it didn't intend to let it drop there. In keeping with intentions it has now placed in the hands of the president a copy of the action taken and an expression of its views. The purpose is to influence government action in keeping with its vote.

The claim is made that gas is too efficient a weapon to drop, that history shows that no nation will respect an agreement not to use gas if their nationality is at stake, that enemies are certain to use gas anyway and that there should not be ratification because none of those who signed it have announced ratification and not all of the big nations have signed it.

It should not be supposed that any nation would be bound by the agreement if the others did not sign and ratify it. All must approve it to have it become effective for certainly part of the nations are not going to be expected to tie their hands while the hands of the others as far as poison gas is concerned remain free.

But the use of gas in the last war gives no idea of what it would mean in the next. With all nations refraining from developing it as a war weapon they would be on an equal footing, but if each was vieing with the other to produce something more horrible and far reaching in its effect there's no telling what might feature the next war. Competition would get to the point where there would be a desire for a war to try it out, and then with gasses which no mask would stop and with no restraint upon their use the non-combatants would be subjected to their deadliness.

We know enough about war if desire peace and we know enough about the effect of gas in war to desire its elimination as a weapon. This desire is nothing new but it is the more strongly urged by the fact that poison gas has been already developed to a point where it frightens one to think of what ravages could be committed by it. It is a situation that cries out for a mutual ban, not encouragement; to make it many, many times worse.

WATERWAY DEVELOPMENT

Two important waterway projects are being urged by the people of the middle west and those about the lake region. There is a desire for a development of the Mississippi river and there is a demand for an outlet to the sea from the lakes that transportation facilities may be bettered.

Both are large propositions and there is unquestionably merit in each one, so much so that realization in some form will inevitably come.

Secretary Hoover recently gave endorsement to the Mississippi river system and backed a plan for the expenditure of $150,000,000. He also expressed himself in favor of making provisions for the outlet for the lake ports and those communities depending thereon. His idea was however for the construction of a nine foot channel across New York state to the Hudson river. He favored the keeping of this work within American territory because of the opposition manifested on the part of Canada to the plan of developing the St. Lawrence waterway. A further bit of gratification for the Mississippi project has come from the letter of President Coolidge to the organization supporting the latter plan in which he expressed his approval and desire to see the work advance as rapidly as resources would permit and his statement to the effect that the budget had been increased by $10 000,000 to support this work.

Waterway development has been going on with good results and it is inevitable that they must get the attention that is due them within the bounds of reason. As for the outlet for the lake region there is not only the question of money but the route to be decided.

MR. FORD'S NEW TEST

Finding something for idle hands to do has long since been recognized as a highly desirable thing in keeping persons out of mischief. This applies quite as well to the young as it does to their elders, and it would seem that Henry Ford had seen the desirability of putting it into practice through the orders he has given for the immediate employment of 5,000 boys in his plants in order to get and keep them interested in the worthwhile activity and to keep them away from crime and in the moral pathway.

In reference to this departure Mr. Ford says: "Accurate work has a morality all its own. We want to teach these boys accurate work and pay them well for it. Then we believe that the immorality of crime will not have to be preached to them. For crime will then show up for what it is—a very hard and footless way to get money."

This is certain to be a test that will attract much attention. It is in fact in keeping with ideas which many others have held about giving encouragement to those who have other than educational inclinations. After they have been given a good education it has been repeatedly demonstrated that it is a waste of time to endeavor to keep certain young people in school. Likewise it is contended that there should be no federal requirements whereby persons must remain in school until they are 18. The idea that no work can be performed up to that age creates a wrong impression among many. For these reasons the experiment which Mr. Ford is starting will serve to test out old time views without indulging in what is commonly known as child labor.

EDITORIAL NOTES

It is still possible for the day after to be a day of regrets.

Some people have greater trouble dodging colds than they do the automobiles.

How the former kaiser must envy Mussolini in being able to have his own way!

The man on the corner says: Even the day itself was a real cause for Thanksgiving.

The dry forces must know that no imported medicinal whiskey can bear the label "Made in America".

How many times will it be necessary to suggest it to have every day become a day of thanksgiving?

In order to get the advertising that goes with the refusal of a Nobel prize it is necessary, of course, to first get the prize.

Those who delay much longer in getting their snow shoveling paraphernalia in readiness for use are making a big chance.

BRIBING THE BABY

"You won't have any trouble finding the place, although it's way off the main road," complained Mr. Land, who was inviting his young business friend to his country home over the week-end. "I told Mrs. Land you were coming on ahead, so somebody'll be there to meet you with the car."

"You're having quite a crowd, Mr. Land?" asked Jim Cort.

"Just the wife's folks and some cousins about your age, Jim. We're only three in our family, you know. The wife, myself and the baby. Just wait till you see the baby, Jim!"

"Boy?"

"No. Daddy's girl, I call her. Clever? Say, that kid—But wait a minute," rummaging in his pockets. "Must have a picture of her somewhere. That's funny. I was sure I had a snapshot of Ruthie. Guess not, though. Well, four hours from now you'll be on real good terms with her. I'm sure of that. Everybody takes to my Ruthie. If that new contract didn't keep me here the rest of the day I'd go out with you. But I'll be there by evening, so go ahead."

As he left Mr. Land's office Jim Cort found himself wistfully hoping that the folks would like him. Being a stranger in a city like Chicago was no joke.

He paused before a candy shop where delicious candied fruit enticed. Just the thing! He could send flowers to his hostess later, but candy would make a hit with them all.

Suddenly Jim Cort frowned. What about Ruthie Land? Images of former visits to homes where there were babies rose up to disturb him. You just couldn't predict how a baby would act! If it took to you right away its fond mamma would expect you to hold it. Dandle it on your knee, or some such fearfully impossible thing like that! And if it were the kind of a baby that didn't take to strangers right away—the kind that stared at you for one long, awful minute and then burst into tears—

Of course, its mother invariably said: "Now, that's funny. Baby goes to everybody right away, as a rule," eying you meanwhile with a puzzled frown, as if she were sure that something was wrong with you and only an innocent baby could sense it! And then, to relieve the tension, the young one's father always added: "The kid just doesn't like your face, old man."

Jim Cort took out his handkerchief, and wiped his forehead. Then he gritted his teeth. This Ruthie Land wasn't going to spoil the first hour of his visit! He'd bribe her. She was a girl, and girls liked dolls.

So Jim Cort boarded the train with a big square box that held five pounds of luscious candied fruit and a long oblong box that he was very careful to hold a certain way. The saleslady had obligingly marked the cover "this side up." Jim Cort was not taking any chances on having an appealing cry for "ma-ma" echo through the train.

No one came up to Jim as he stepped from the train. "Suppose they've had a little trouble with the car," he consoled himself.

An older man and two women were evidently expecting some one to meet them, too. And on the opposite end of the long bench where Jim Cort sat there was a pretty girl, casting impatient glances at her wrist watch.

"Shame nobody came to meet her," muttered Jim, as her brown eyes met his blue ones for a moment. "I'd park here all day to meet a girl like that. Wonder what Land's cousins look like."

Again their glances met, and Jim was amazed to see the girl rise and come toward him.

"Are you—you're Mr. James Cort, aren't you?" she asked, smiling. "I—wasn't sure. I'm sorry I kept you waiting—"

"I'm not," retorted Jim gayly. "It gives me a chance to prove that the fairies are still on the job. You see," smiling at her look of surprise, "I was hoping you'd be one of the Land cousins—"

"Cousins? I'm Ruth Land—Mr. Land's daughter. But, come on. The folks'll be waiting."

Jim Cort smiled to himself all the way along the road. "Of course, a man, would call his only child 'the baby,' especially if she were a girl," he chuckled, carefully holding the oblong box "this side up."—Chicago News.

Make the Most of Books

By James Hosmer Penniman, Litt. D

A Prophecy and a History

"Many a noble poem," says Henry Pancoast; "early acquired by a pure effort is the memory and at first but dimly understood, has gradually worked its way into the hidden depths of a child's conscious life, revealing its full power and beauty only by slow decrees, and elevating, quickening, and enlarging this spirit in secrecy and in silence."

Poetry as the truest expression of the life and morals of an age is at once a prophecy and a history. A prophecy as indicating that to which the nation would aspire—history as a record of the fact of past aspiration. Concrete individual fact has little significance to poetry except as the manifestation of an idea or of a universal truth.—The poet is the embodiment of his age and his era and a full understanding of his poetry gives us an insight into the very heart of them.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

Will Amherst college, departing from the tradition of selecting a minister or an educator as president go to Wall Street for a successor to President Olds, who has submitted his resignation? The question is raised by the widespread mention of Dwight W. Morrow as a suitable selection. Mr. Morrow is a New York lawyer and membe of the banking firm of J. P. Morgan & Company. He was graduated from Amherst in 1895, in the same class with President Coolidge, and is now one of the college trustees. Mr. Morrow was brought up in an educational atmosphere, his father being for many years superintendent of schools in Allegheny City, and he has constantly exhibited a keen interest in educational affairs. In addition to his connection with Amherst he is a trustee of the Union Theological seminary and the Russell Sage foundation and a regent of the Smithsonian Institution.

TRAFFIC

By the Albert Russel Erskine Bureau for Street Traffic Research University of California, Los Angeles

The street traffic problem has become so threatening throughout the country that it warrants the immediate and serious consideration of public officials. The larger cities have already reached the point where they must act with decision to avert the increasing number of deaths and growing cost of congestion. Smaller cities will be wise to take advantage of the troubles that have developed and take decisive steps to prevent difficulties before it is too late.

The casual and haphazard manner in which traffic is regulated at the present time must give way to scientific engineering practice. The same type of technique that has developed enduring pavements, designed pure water supply, and made possible the sanitary disposal of sewage, must be applied to the traffic problem. So long as the rules for the use of the streets can be dictated by inexperienced laymen, so long will accidents and congestion continue.

No city is too small to begin the development of a sound engineering traffic practice. In the larger cities provision should be made immediately for the employment of a full time traffic engineer provided with a technical staff. This would be an unnecessary expense in the smaller communities. There the traffic engineering duties can be assigned to some engineer of one of the existing city departments. Opportunity should be given to this man to become acquainted with modern traffic practice as it is developing in American cities.

Each city should have a traffic commission of prominent public officials or citizens or both to give a continuing consideration to traffic problems and the investigations and recommendation of the traffic engineer.

The Albert Russel Erskine bureau for Street Traffic research in Harvard university was endowed by the Studebaker corporation of America for the purpose of making a continuous nation wide study of modern traffic control. The standards and principles developed by this bureau are available without cost to any public official. The advice and services of the director are available to any American city that is interested in dealing with some special local problem or that desires to bring about an entire reorganization of its traffic control system. The director of the Erskine bureau in Harvard university is the author of the Los Angeles system of traffic control. The bureau has been responsible for the direction of the Metropolitan Street Traffic survey of Chicago and the Traffic survey of San Francisco.

CHILD TRAINING

THE PSYCHOLOGY OF THE SWITCH

Ann Roe Anderson

"I don't want to go to ride," announced five-year-old Mary when her mother, Mrs. Brown, suggested a drive Sunday afternoon.

The little girl had been playing contentedly with her dolls, but she was now hurried into the automobile and when she resisted given a shake and told to keep quiet.

As I was "company" I tried to divert Mary's attention, but I was drawn into conversation with some of the grown people. Mary wiggled about for a time and then began to ask questions which it seemed to me should have been answered, but which were entirely ignored by her mother.

Suddenly Mrs. Brown exclaimed, "Mary, sit still and keep still!"

For a short time the child was quiet, but curiosity got the best of her and again she asked a question.

"Bill, stop the car!" snapped Mrs. Brown.

Mary cowered against me, the animation fading from her face. Her mother was out of the car almost before Mr. Brown had slowed down, and walking to a bush beside the road she broke off a switch. Returning she exclaimed, "Now, Mary, just let me hear another word out of you and see what you get!"

The child was soon asleep, and I learned that many of her naps were taken under circumstances such as this. Several times she aroused with a start only to sink back into a restless sleep.

"Mary wiggles as much in her sleep," Mrs. Brown laughed, "as she does when she is awake. I don't know what is the trouble with her. I think I'll have to take her to a specialist."

I wondered if Mrs. Brown had never heard of the effect one's last waking thoughts have on the nervous system and so I directed the conversation to psychology, but Mrs Brown was not interested and was soon telling me of her astuteness at bridge.

We who have gone to sleep with a heartache know that the switch which Mrs. Brown brought to the automobile meant intimidation, depression and troubled dreams for Mary, who always wakes irritable, languid and unrested, while the thoughtless mother wonders why the child is "so cross."

Stories That Recall Others

A New Thought

Six year old Dorothy, on a recent motor trip, made the following exclamation as she passed a large cemetery:

"Oh, daddy, just look at the people that beat us dead."

He Wanted to Sign It

Several years ago a woman who had voted in a municipal election for the first time in another state always got a good laugh at her own expense when she related to her friends how she entered the booth, marked her ballot with the greatest care, signed it with her own name and handed it to the ballot box tender and went on her way, confident that she had performed her full duty in the exercise of the franchise. Then woman suffrage was young and her procedure was considered the result of inexperience. However, that there are still people who think that to make a ballot available they must sign it is shown by the following incident:

"Uncle John, a veteran voter, had always required help to mark his ticket. This time he obtained a ballot, marched straight to the booth, shut the door and proceeded to vote without a word about help. The clerks were astonished but said nothing. Voting was brisk and they needed his booth. Finally one of the clerks called out, "About through, Uncle John?"

"Yeah," said Uncle John, cheerfully, "all except signing. Where do I sign the darn thing?"

As a matter of fact your neighbors think just as disagreeable things about you as you think about them.

Cold Gone! Head and Nose Clear

First dose of "Pape's Cold Compound" relieves all grippe misery

Don't stay stuffed-up! Quit blowing and snuffling! A dose of "Pape's Cold Compound" taken every two hours until three doses are taken will end grippe misery and break up a severe cold either in the head, chest, body or limbs.

It promptly opens clogged-up nostrils and air passages; stops nasty discharge or nose running; relieves sick headache, dullness, feverishness, sore throat, sneezing, soreness and stiffness.

"Pape's Cold Compound" is the quickest, surest relief known and costs only thirty-five cents at drug stores. It acts without assistance, tastes nice, and causes no inconvenience. Don't accept a substitute.

Acids in Stomach Cause Indigestion

Create Gas, Sourness and Pain! How To Treat.

Medical authorities state that nearly nine-tenths of the cases of stomach trouble, indigestion, sourness, burning, gas, bloating, nausea, etc., are due to an excess of hydrochloric acid in the stomach and not as some believe to a lack of digestive juices. The delicate stomach lining is irritated, digestion is delayed and food sours, causing the disagreeable symptoms which every stomach sufferer knows so well.

Artificial digestants are not needed in such cases and may do real harm. Try laying aside all digestive aids and instead get from any druggist a few ounces of Bisurated Magnesia and take a teaspoonful in a quarter glass of water right after eating. This sweetens the stomach, prevents the formation of excess acid and there is no sourness, gas or pain. Bisurated Magnesia (in powder or tablet form—never liquid or milk) is harmless to the stomach, inexpensive to take and is the most efficient form of magnesia for stomach purposes. It is used by thousands of people who enjoy their meals with no more fear of indigestion.

INCIDENTS IN SOCIETY

EAR FOUND DELICATE FATIGUE BAROMETER

Nobody has proposed an 8-hour day or a 44-hour week for weary ears—so far. Nevertheless, ears do suffer from fatigue, and when they are tired they don't work so efficiently, according to experiments being conducted at the University of Wisconsin by Drs. G. A. Goldsmith, L. S. Lieuman, L. Sammons and E. W. Emmerman.

Using as their apparatus a watch mounted on a moving carriage, they confirmed a belief that keenness of hearing is less at night and at the end of the week.

Mental work always causes a decrease in keenness of hearing, the scientists find. Severe exercise has the same effect. Moderate exercise may sharpen hearing, but this depends upon the amount of exercise and the condition of the subject.

The ears are a rather delicate barometer of physical fitness, the tests indicate. Diminished power of hearing may give warning of approaching bodily or mental fatigue some hours before the individual is aware of any change in his condition.

CIVIL AVIATION GETS STRONG BRITISH AID

Great Britain appears determined to give civil and commercial aviation at least a fair chance. The latest step in this direction is the acquisition of Hendon airdrome which the government bought for £650,000, in order to centralize and control in efficient manner every branch of aviation in Britain not primarily military.

Of course Hendon is to have a military importance also. Indeed, it will become the headquarters of two squadrons of the royal air force, as well as two auxiliary squadrons scheduled as part of the London air defense force. Hendon was originally a country club for wealthy amateurs in aviation.

SURGEON ADDS $1,000 TO INCOME STATEMENT

According to a story that is current in medical circles, says the Intransigeant, a surgeon declared his income to the French revenue authorities at 67,000 francs (approximately $2,400.) A few weeks later he sent a bill for 20,000 francs (770) to a patient on whom he had performed an operation. Two days later he received from his tax collector the following:

"I am surprised to find that you performed only three operations last year. Considering the fee you received from my cousin, whose life you saved and for which I thank you, do you not think you ought to put a figure in front of the amount mentioned in your income-tax declaration?" The surgeon took the hint and raised his declaration from 67,000 to 167,000 francs (6,428.)

Oh! What A Relief

Stomach Sufferers Cannot Help But Recommend Pepsinio Seltzer.

People who have used Pepsinio Seltzer claim that it is the most wonderful remedy for relief of Gas, Acid conditions, Indigestion and Nausea that they have ever used and simply cannot help but recommend it to their friends. If you have pains around your heart, in your side or in your back, you may think you have heart trouble, Appendicitis or Kidney trouble but it's often gas that causes distress, or if you have Nervous Indigestion from strain of responsibility, nervous or temperamental nature. OBITUARY

Charles L. Stark

Following an illness of about six months, Charles L. Stark, for over half a century a valued and highly esteemed employe of The Reid and Hughes company, died Wednesday evening about 9:45 o'clock at his home, No. 201 Maple street. Mr. Stark was born in Colchester, October 9, 1851, and was the son of the late George and Laura Stark. In New London, October 9, 1884, he was united in marriage with Ella Elizabeth Sadler. Mr. Stark was at one time a deacon of the First Baptist church. He was a member of the Central Baptist church and for some time was treasurer of the Men's Bible class.

Nearly 51 years ago Mr. Stark entered the employ of The Boston Store. It was on Feb. 8, 1876 that he began to work at the store as a clerk in the linen department. At the time of his death he was a director of the company, having had supervisory duties in the store for the last three or four years since giving up the active direction of the linen department of which he was the head for about 30 years.

When he started his employment in the store, a half century ago, the location was the same as the Main street side of the store today and the linen counter where Mr. Stark went to work as a clerk was at the end of the store about where the time clock now is. Before entering the Norwich store, Mr. Stark had had experience in the dry goods line in Providence and he rapidly won friends among the Norwich customers for his courtesy and his interest in trying to meet their needs. At the time he entered the store, the firm was Simpson, Campbell and Watson, later becoming James Simpson and Co., and in 1879, Reid and Hughes.

In the course of time Mr. Stark became buyer for his department, becoming known as an expert judge of fine linen and his acquaintance extended to all of the most prominent families in the city as they became customers of his department. During his long connection with The Boston Store, Mr. Stark saw scores of department heads and hundreds of clerks enter and pass along through the establishment, along with the changes in ownership and title of the firm and corporation.

He was well known to the numerous patrons of the store and had many friends who are deeply grieved to learn of his death.

Mr. Stark is survived by his wife and a daughter, Miss Marion Stark.

Mrs. Albert Kelsey

Thursday morning at 5:30 o'clock Mrs. Minnie Kelsey, widow of Albert Kelsey, died at her home, No. 8 Maple street. She was born in England July 10, 1862, and was the daughter of the late Thomas and Hannah Adamson. She had been in ill health for the past year. Mrs. Kelsey was a member of Trinity M. E. church.

Surviving her are two daughters, Mrs. Florence Murphy of this city and Mrs. Thomas C. Barry of New York. There are also two grandchildren, Grace and Florence Murphy, a sister, Mrs. Charles J. Beckwith of New London, and a brother, William Adamson of Montville.

WEDDINGS.

Baino—Poruznick.

Thursday morning at 11 o'clock Joseph Baino of New London and Miss Sophie Poruznick of No. 244 West Thames street, were united in marriage in this city by Judge John H. Barnes, J. P. The marriage ceremony was performed at Judge Barnes' office. The best man was Enrico Carnoli and the bridesmaids were Misses Viola Butler and Helen Poruznick.

The groom was born in Italy and is the son of Alexander and Angelina Beline. He is employed as a mill hand in New London. His bride is the daughter of Benjamin and Sophie Poruznick and was born in Pittsburgh, Penn.

Thanksgiving Eve Party

A social gathering was held Wednesday evening at the home of Evelyn Florman of Montville. A total of 40 young people attended. Sandwiches, cake, ice cream and demi-tasse were served by the hostess. All those who attended hope for such another time again in the near future.

A congregation that filled the body of the house attended the union Thanksgiving service Thursday evening at 7:30, held at Trinity Methodist Episcopal church under the auspices of the Norwich Ministers' association, with the pastor of the church, Rev. J. Harlow Graham, conducting the service.

The service was carried out with the pastors of the different churches participating as follows: Scripture salutation, Rev. G. F. Bailey; invocation, Rev. E. G. Crowdis; responsive lesson, Rev. Dixon A. Brown; prayer, Rev. Alexander H. Abbott; Scripture lesson, Rev. C. H. Ricketts; governor's

REV. DAVID A. PITT, D. D.

Thanksgiving proclamation; Rev. M. E. Gerber; announcements, Rev. J. Eldred Brown, president of the Ministers' association; offertory prayer, Rev. A. N. Foster; benediction, Rev. J. B. Aldrich. An anthem, "Prayer of Thanksgiving," from Netherlands, was rendered by the choir under the leadership of Mrs. W. M. Buckingham.

The Overflowing Cup

The Thanksgiving sermon was by Rev. Dr. David A. Pitt, whose theme was "The Overflowing Cup," from the text Psalm 23: 5, My cup runneth over. He spoke as follows:

To no other page in all the Bible do men turn more frequently than to the one containing the 23rd psalm, the best loved of all the psalms. No wonder Beecher spoke of it as the nightingale of the entire collection. It has been singing its song of "calm serenity and perfect faith" down through the centuries and it will continue to do so until the end of time.

The psalmist conveys his message of serenity and trust through two pictures of God, God as shepherd and God as host. In the first part he conceives of himself as a sheep in God's care. If David was the author, this picture has peculiar significence for he was a shepherd before he was either a poet or a king. He thinks of the sheep's needs: food, drink, rest, restoration, guidance, protection and companionship. Then he declares that all those needs are met by God for the individual just as they are met by the shepherd for his sheep.

In the second picture the psalmist sees himself as a guest at God's table. The table is laden with every needed thing. The head is anointed with oil, symbol of joy. His enemies are glaring at him but cannot come near him. His cup runneth over.

As he thinks of the future, it is without fear or anxiety. Surely God's twin angels, goodness and mercy, only goodness and mercy, shall follow me all the days of my life; and I will dwell in the house of the Lord forever.

The fifth verse seems a good summary of the psalm. My cup runneth over. It indicates that God has provided enough and to spare for His people. "God's cup is always an overflowing cup. With Him the calf is always the fatted calf; the robe is always the best robe; the joy is unspeakable; the peace passeth understanding; the grace is so abundant that the recipient has all-sufficiency for all things, and abounds in every good work."

The proper approach, the right standpoint is important, whether you are viewing a picture, a mountain or a great truth.

Now if the best approach to Palestine is by way of the Sinaitic peninsula, the way the Hebrews approached the promised land, the most surgestive way to approach our Thanksgiving text is by way of the blessings experienced by the psalmist. Certainly the contrast between the Sinaitic peninsula and the land flowing with milk and honey is not greater than the contrast between the blessings experienced by the psalmist and the blessings that are or may be ours.

Consider His rude home, His simple fare, His plain clothing. His limited advantages compared with the boundless blessings that are ours.

In matters spiritual the contrast is even greater. In that olden time God spoke unto the fathers in the prophets but since then He hath spoken unto us in His Son. Contrast the psalmist's knowledge of God with that fullness of revelation made in Jesus Christ. Now we know that God is like Jesus, that he that hath seen Him hath seen the Father. Now we are sure of God's attitude toward the returning, penitent prodigal since Jesus gave us the story of the forgiving Father. When the psalmist looked into the future it was bounded by this present life. It was a long and happy old age in this present world. When Jesus came He brought life and immortality to light through the gospel. He came to bring us the assurance of fullness of life both here and hereafter.

Surely all will agree that as we look at our text in the light of the psalmist's life and outlook we have much more reason to declare, My cup runneth over.

Should any significance be attached to the fact that the cup not only is full but overflowing? I think we are true to the rest of the Bible if we see special significance in this. I wonder if we would not be true to the whole sweep of revelation if we said that the cup is for ourselves, the overflow is for others. They tell us that it is a sign of bad manners to drink out of your saucer. I am sure it is a sign of equally bad religion. Yet most people are doing it.

One of the chief controversies between God and His people in the Old Testament has to do with the overflow. The Hebrews felt that God had blessed them and filled their cup to overflowing just for themselves and God was seeking to show them that He intended the overflow for others. That thought goes back even to the call of Abram, "I will bless thee and be thou a blessing." "In these shall all the families of the earth be blest."

The controversy in the Old Testament between God and His people over the overflow reaches its climax in the book of Jonah. One of the recent interpreters of Jonah speaks of it as a cartoon on nationalism. O, the pity of it that so many have been more interested in the big fish in Jonah, than in the [illegible] of God

Three Essential Elements

Two, then, of the essential elements of a true thanksgiving are an appreciation of our blessings both temporal and spiritual and a willingness to share the overflow with others. The third essential element is not specially mentioned in the text, but it is at present at the beginning and end of the psalm from which our text is taken, viz., a child-like trust in God for the future. Surely goodness and mercy shall follow me all the days of my life; and I will dwell in the house of the Lord forever.

Our age is suffering a great deal more from fear of imaginary danger than from anything we have already been called upon to bear. Physicians tell us that worry is the disease of the age. They also tell us that while they are making marked progress in combating tuberculosis and typhoid fever, etc., they are rather losing ground in the matter of worry. But what real gain have we made by protecting the body from the ravages of typhoid and yellow fever and tuberculosis only to fall victim to the more terrible diseases of the mind and end our days in a sanitarium or worse. What does all our boasted civilization amount to, if it leaves us anxious, fearful, and irritable with no time to look at the stars, or listen to great music or play with little children? "Better is a handful, with quietness, than two handfuls with labor and striving after wind."

Our psalmist was conscious that in the past and present his cup overflowed. His climax however, was reached in the calm serenity with which he viewed the future. Indeed his opening sentence implies what the closing sentence explicitly states. The Lord is my shepherd. For him, an oriental, that meant the one who went before the sheep to guide, to protect, to provide. Any enemy which would attack the sheep must attack him first. So the psalmist saw God not only in his yesterdays but in his tomorrows. He was confident that the God who had blessed him all his life long would go before to guide, to protect, to provide, even unto the end.

There are some giving thanks today for the year that is past who will begin tomorrow by worrying about the year ahead. This would be their best Thanksgiving thus far if they closed the day by associating God with their tomorrows as well as with their yesterdays. It would bring to them victory over fear and worry.

That is what the Master is seeking to do for us in the sixth chapter of Matthew. He points out the uselessness of anxious thought. He reminds us that it does no good. Modern medicine goes still further and informs us that it does a great deal of harm. It is this that starts the vicious circle and throws the whole machinery of life out of gear. After pointing out the uselessness of worry, Jesus proposes His cure for care. It is thus: Your Father knows, your Father cares, your Father provides for His creatures, how much more for you His children. Therefore, keep God central in your thought and in your plans. Seek ye first His kingdom and His righteousness, and all these (necessary) things, shall be given in addition.

Let us then close this glorious Thanksgiving day with hearty appreciation of the fact that ours is an overflowing cup. Let us resolve to share the overflow with those less fortunate than ourselves. And let us not only look back unto gratitude but forward with serenity and confidence, remembering the Master's promise, Lo I am with you all the days, even unto the consummation of the age.

BARREL BURNING LIT UP THE THANKSGIVING SKIES

The annual spectacular Thanksgiving barrel burning took place at the Norwich state hospital grounds early Thursday evening. The huge pole of barrels with barrels and boxes piled around it was touched off at 7:30 o'clock. The highway was crowded with automobile parties and hundreds of persons around the grounds watched the flames for over an hour as they shot high in the air. The lower part of the pile was still burning at 11 o'clock and during the early part of the evening the reflection in the sky could be seen from the higher sections of the city and surrounding towns and villages.

The boys of the city in general touched off their annual fires as soon as darkness settled. The West Side "gangs" had barrel fires in several locations. There were two of three poles in the fields off Maple street, one on High street, and there were also barrel fires on Asylum street, Ward street, South Thames street, Division street, near the city cemetery, on Hinckley Hill, at Fanning meadow and at the Falls. At the Fanning meadow the boys burned a pole of 88 barrels.

Baltic Hunters Had Good Day

Two Baltic hunters, Charlie Busch and Harry Sargent, had a good day of sport recently when they brought in six grouse, three pheasant and five rabbits, shot over Sargent's dog, which is claimed to be one of the best pheasant dogs in the state. Several weeks ago, with this dog, four sportsmen brought in 20 woodcock and three grouse from an afternoon's sport.

Cakes for Hospital Dinner

For the Thanksgiving dinner at the Backus hospital fourteen cakes were contributed by the women of St. Mary's Memorial church.

MOOSUP COUPLE CELEBRATE GOLDEN WEDDING DAY

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Robitaille of Moosup celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary Thanksgiving day. The actual anniversary occurs today (Friday) but it was decided to celebrate it Thursday. Both Mr. and Mrs. Robitaille are enjoying perfect health and Mrs. Robitaille cooked the dinner for the half hundred guests present at the celebration. Miss Melina Robitaille, a granddaughter, presented the couple a purse of gold during the day.

Mr. and Mrs. Robitaille were both born in Canada but came to this country when young, she when nine years old, and he when fourteen. They were married in Putnam, November 26, 1876. After living there about two years they moved to Oxford, Buffam, Webster, Mass., Mechanicsville, Central Village and Moosup. Mr. Robitaille, with the exception of a short time in Webster, has been a weaver practically all his life.

Mrs. Robitaille was born September 19, 1857 in Canada, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Dauphinais. Her mother died soon after coming to this country. Mr. Dauphinais died in Spencer, Mass., twenty-two years ago.

Samuel Robitaille was born in St. Thomas, Canada, September 19, 1850 son of Mr. and Mrs. Clement Robitaille. The father died in Central about twenty years ago.

Several children and grandchildren are living: Joseph of Moosup; Mose, who with his wife and two daughters lives near Westerly, R. I.; Theodore and two daughters of Moosup; Leander of Moosup; Charles of Moosup; Diana (Mrs John Alpin) and son of Moosup. A daughter, Louise (Mrs. Albert Gagne) died in Moosup twelve years ago; her daughter Melina lives with her grandparents at present. Two boys and a girl are living with the father in Putnam.

Mrs. Robitaille has four brothers, Jerry R. of Moosup, John R. of Stafford Springs Calic of Mechanicsville and Leander of Newton, Mass. There are two sisters, Mrs. John Gevry of Nasonville, R. I., and Mrs. Albert Theriaque of Danielson.

ALCORN NOT TO TEST SCHOOL VACCINATION LAW

The law requiring school children to be vaccinated will not be tested out in the supreme court as Hugh M. Alcorn, state's attorney, suggested it might. Mr. Alcorn announced this week that he would not appeal the decision of Judge Banks of the September criminal term of the superior court finding John Mallett and Everett Emmons not guilty of sending their children to school. They had sent their children to school but the school authorities would not admit them because the children were not vaccinated.

The decision of the state's attorney virtually throws the matter back to the legislature for a revision of the statute compelling vaccination, if the law is to be enforced. When Judge Banks gave his decision, he observed that the statute requiring vaccination carried no penalty, except, by construction, that it denied parents the privilege of sending their children to school. Mr. Alcorn then observed he had always felt the matter was one for further action by the legislature and under the present law not a subject for criminal prosecution.

Counsel who represented Emmons and Mallett, said that as far as he was concerned the matter was closed with the decision in his clients' favor. He suggested that it was probable that the next legislature would be approached on the subject, but added that he knew of no movement to that end now. In reply to a question, Mr. Alcorn said he did not intend to go before the legislature.

FUNERAL

Mrs. Anthony Wisneske

Funeral services for Mrs. Anthony Wisneske, were held at 8 o'clock on Thursday morning at her home in Franklin with a large attendance of relatives and friends from Mount Carmel, Penn., and other places. This service was followed by solemn mass of requiem, at 9 o'clock at St. Joseph's church in this city. Rev. William A. Topor, celebrant, who also conducted the service at the house. Rev. Adelard A. Jalbert of Baltic was deacon, Rev. William T. O'Brien of Baltic sub deacon and Rev. S. A. Ickk of Norwich, master of ceremonies. There was a wealth of beautiful floral remembrances. Burial was in the family lot in St. Joseph's cemetery, where the committal service was read by Father Topor, Shea and Burke were in charge of the funeral arrangements.

Mild Winter Temperature

From temperature at the freezing mark early Thursday morning, the mercury rose to 46 in the afternoon. However, the sun was warm and there was no wind stirring, so that Thanksgiving of 1926 proved a day which was another cause for giving heartfelt thanks. Just before midnight the waning November moon appeared. The night, too, being mild and pleasant.

How to Gain 5 Pounds in 30 Days

If You Don't Do It, Get Your Money Back

Ask Lee & Osgood Co. or any druggist for a box of McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets. They cost but little, are sugar coated and as pleasant to take as candy.

It's the new pleasant way to take nasty Cod Liver Oil and will not upset the most delicate stomach.

Skinny men and women take them to speedily put on plenty of good healthy solid flesh and for this purpose they are so extremely good that thin men and women often take on 5 pounds or more in 30 days. As a matter of fact, your druggist is authorized to return your money if you don't take on 5 pounds in 30 days.

One thin woman gained 15 pounds in six weeks.

Insist on McCoy's, the original and genuine Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets—60 tablets—60 cents.

NATIONAL PROGRAMME FOR W. C. T. U. TO OBSERVE

Mrs. Ella A. Boole, president of the National W. C. T. U. has announced a partial program of activities determined upon by the national officers of the organization. Features of the year's program are: A day of prayer, January 6, at which time all local unions are called upon "to assemble for the purpose of earnest prayer for God's blessing on the temperance cause, upon our leaders that they may be given wisdom in meeting the strategy of our opponents, and that those charged with the responsibility for making law and enforcing it, may be given courage and wisdom to the end that our great country may receive full benefit from prohibition as provided for in the eighteenth amendment."

As a part of its nation-wide program, January 16 will be celebrated as Victory day. Union meetings in churches or mass meetings will be held and the suggested theme of these meetings is: "Yes, it is the law—and it's a good law." A National W. C. T. U. conference will be held in Washington, D. C., January 2, 26, 27 with the object of demonstrating to congress and to the nation the quality, leadership and earnest purpose of the dry movement.

NEW HAVEN TO BE MECCA OF LEAGUE ENTHUSIASTS

George J. Bassett, former president of the New Haven chamber of commerce, announces enthusiastic response from all over the state to the invitations to attend the annual meeting of the Connecticut branch of the League of Nations Non-Partisan association, which will be held on December 2 at the Hotel Taft, New Haven. Mr. Bassett is president of the Connecticut branch of the association, with whose work he has been affiliated for a number of years.

Among those who are assisting Mr. Bassett in the preparations for the meeting are Arthur E. Story, Norwich; Mrs. Earl F. Adams, Flood H. Reed, North Stonington; and President Marshall, Connecticut College for Women, New London.

The meeting will be followed by a dinner at the Hotel Taft, at which the principal speaker will be Dr. Ernest Jaeckh, president of the Institute of Political Science at Berlin, Germany.

The meeting will start at 4:30 in the afternoon and at 6:45 p. m. dinner will be served.

ACADEMY CLOSES SEASON WITH SCORELESS TIE AGAINST ALUMNI

The word "Finis" was written on the books for the 1926 season at the campus Thursday afternoon when the N. F. A. battled through four scoreless quarters with a strong alumni eleven. The game was bitterly fought throughout and produced above the ordinary football although the Alumni were playing together for the first time.

Neither team became dangerous to a marked degree throughout the game as the ball was inside the 20-yard marker but once during the entire contest. This came in the last period when Williams of the school missed a field goal from the 12-yard line.

The Alumni showed unexpected strength, playing together quite well, considering their lack of practice. The Academy gained very little through their line at time and time again the ex-stars broke through and smeared the runner before he had a chance to make much headway. However, their offense was rather ragged which offset their good defensive play.

The feature play of the game came in the closing moments when Jack Hinrichs gave one of the best exhibitions of broken field running as he dashed over 50 yards, shaking off and side-stepping many would-be-tacklers in his spectacular gallop.

The teams had lined up after Williams had missed a field goal try and on the second scrimmage from the 16-yard line Hinrichs with his loping trot suddenly shot through tackle and eluded the majority of the team before he was brought down by the safety man well into Academy territory. Capt. Ed. Brewer of the school eleven also furnished a thriller, this in the second period when, from a scrimmage on his own 35-yard line he found an opening through guard and had passed all but Norm Courbois, who, playing as safety, stopped him past mid-field.

Capt. Brewer in his last game on the grid-iron for the Red and White of the N. F. A. showed up well by his stellar play, both offensively and defensively. The two ends, Johnny Greene and Hussey also played great games, Greene's catch of a 35-yard forward pass in the final period, and Hussey's receiving of a 25-yard pass in the first quarter were among the feature plays. Pete Labenski also performed well in his kicking and passing role along with his nice defensive play.

Jack Hinrichs, Chase and Pheno Tombari at end, Paul McNamara at tackle and Marty Gilman at guard were the luminaries for the Alumni.

The first period was taken up for the most part with a kicking duel between Labenski and Hinrichs. The play was in the Alumni territory the majority of the time in this quarter. A 35-yard forward pass, Hussey to Labenski, and the failure of Williams on an attempted field goal from the Alumni 25-yard line were about the only events of importance in this quarter.

Again, in the second period a punting duel took up much of the time but in this quarter the play was more in the school team's territory. A 25-yard run by Capt. Ed. Brewer, a 15-yard forward pass, Villano to Mish and 10 and 12-yard runs by Courbois and Hinrichs, of the Alumni were the feature of this quarter.

The third quarter was a repetition of the two preceding quarters as the punting duel between Labenski and Hinrichs continued as both teams found the opposition's defense of the stonewall variety. To start the final period the Alumni got a break when Labenski, standing on the Alumni 40-yard line, was hurried with a kick and booted it offside and over the bleachers into the road. The ex-stars took advantage of this and staged a short show of offensive power but Labenski turned the tables when he stopped them by intercepting a forward pass on the Academy 30-yard line.

After an exchange of kicks, Greene intercepted a pass for the regulars at mid-field. A 15-yard penalty on the Alumni, together with a 35-yard forward pass, Labenski to Greene, brought the ball to the Alumni 12-yard line. But here, the Alumni defense stiffened and after three downs had gained practically nothing. Williams essayed to score by means of a field goal but failed and then after one play Hinrichs pulled off his spectacular run which brought the ball past mid-field where the game ended soon after with the Alumni in possession of the ball but with little indication of a score. The summary:

ACADEMY ELEVEN BANQUETS AT GARDNER LAKE COTTAGE

The 1926 Academy football squad, leaving behind them a record, the like of which has not been equalled in some few years by a team from the local institution, broke training at a banquet given in their honor on Thursday evening, following their last game of the season with the Alumni team. The scene of festivities was E. W. Whittle's cottage at Gardner's Lake, where a sumptuous feast, made possible from funds of the Athletic association of the school, had been expertly provided by Mr. Whittle and assistants.

Jim Moore, end on the team this season, ably officiated in the role of toastmaster and kept things running smoothly from start to finish. All members present were called on for speeches and each responded nobly. Each player told of the highly successful season, especially made so by the memorable victory over Bulkeley, ancient rivals, and each seemed to place the credit for whatever was done towards bringing about the success on another teammate.

A good old New England dinner, consisting of turkey with all the fixin's" such as mashed potatoes, dressing, cranberry, squash, ice cream, coffee or tea, cake, bread and pie.

The tables were attractively decorated and favors were also to be had. The whole atmosphere at the little old fashioned house at the Lake was one of joyousness and was a fitting end to the greatest of the great of football season at the Academy in many, many years.

Immediately following the dinner, the lettermen held a meeting after which the unanimous election of Jack Marks was announced.

The trip to and from the Lake was made in private cars loaned by local citizens interested in the welfare of the team.

JACK MARKS ELECTED CAPTAIN OF N. F. A. ELEVEN

"Jack" Marks, stellar performer on the 1926 Academy squad, was unanimously elected captain of the 1927 eleven at a meeting of the letter men held Thursday evening following the Alumni game.

Marks, who is a lower middler, or second year student, has distinguished himself along athletic lines in his short stay at the school since he entered a year ago last September. He already has three letters to his credit having acquired his "N" in football and baseball last season. He was a substitute end and backfield man last season on the eleven and performed in the outfield on the baseball team. Jack started at end this season but during the course of the season, was shifted to the backfield. He has shown up very well at both positions and undoubtedly he will be fullback next year.

TAFTVILLE CELTICS WIN FIRST GAME FROM CHENEY

On Thanksgiving afternoon the Taftville Celtics opened their 1926-27 season with a close victory over the Cheney Bros. team of South Manchester, nosing the visitors out in the last two minutes of play by a scant 2 points, the final score being 28 to 26. Walt Coady with his basket from the middle of the floor just as the last half of the game was drawing to a close was the individual hero of the fray for it was this shot that sent the colors of his team to the masthead. Normandin featured with his fast floor work dropping the ball through the hoop nine times during the game, four times from the floor and five times from the foul line.

Owing to so many attractions the crowd was rather small. In the preliminary game the Nordics tasted defeat at the hands of the Baltic team 27 to 15. The summary:

DANIELSON TOWNERS DOWN CHENEY TEAM IN OPENER

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Nov. 25.—The fast Danielson Town team opened its basketball season in Town hall tonight before a large and enthusiastic crowd of fans and had little trouble in defeating the all-star team representing the Cheney Bros. mills in South Manchester, the final score being 47 to 27. The first halfways very even but during the last period the local boys opened up and shot basket after basket with apparent ease. Both teams however gave a fine exhibition of basketball. It would be hard to pick any individual star on the local team as every man played a clean and brainy brand of ball. Pentland of the visitors was the outstanding star for them caging seven baskets, some being from difficult angles. Public opinion is that Danielson is going to have one of the fastest teams that has ever represented the town. The summary:

KILLINGLY HAS THREE HURT; MAY DISCONTINUE FOOTBALL

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Nov. 25.—Going down to an overwhelming 47 to 0 defeat before Putnam high school in the annual Thanksgiving day football game here, the brave little squad of Killingly high school probably played the last game of football for their school that will be played for severalt years to come. Three of the Killingly players were injured and had to be taken from the field. Dick Barrett, backfield man, was kicked in the head and put hors de combat in a lively scrimmage. Jimmy Adams, another backfield man, was knocked out and had to be taken to a physician's office for treatment, while Clifford Withey also suffered an injury that left him breathless, though he recovered after a warm shower at the high school building. There was uncertainty Thanksgiving afternoon as to whether or not Adams had suffered an internal injury.
